The Altus Bulldogs are back!

BY BRAY DAVIS

For the Altus Times

The Altus Bulldogs under head coach Dusty Davis are once again back in the Flexbone, a meticulous, run- heavy offense built to wear down an opponent.

Coach Davis is in his first full year at the helm of the Bulldogs after taking over mid-season in 2021.

The Flexbone offense is led by Garrett Gribble, a sophomore quarterback who uses his special combination of pure athleticism and a keen ability to read the defense.

Gribble is backed by a strong core of fullbacks, including senior Tucker Taft and senior Erick Kirby. Filling out the backfield is a speedy and agile rotation of slot backs, including senior Keythen Kellison.

On the outside the receivers are all physical to ensure good downfield blocking, but athletic enough to catch a pass thrown their way.

Last, and arguably the most crucial, are the boys in the trenches, the O-line.

The line is anchored by junior Grey Winsett and sophomore Ajay Hughes.

The offense as a whole is an unselfish and tenacious group who will be fun to watch on Friday nights.

The defense is also taking a major turn for the better, largely due to the hire of Defensive Coordinator Craig Collins.

Collins is originally from Fort Smith, AR, and has spent the past couple years coaching in Missouri.

His knowledge and energy have created a defense full of aggressive players who know how to get after it.

Up front, the D-line is filled with a good combination of size and quickness to stuff the run and get into the backfield.

Brodie Rodgers is a key player on the line.

Right behind them is the group of mean, hard hitting linebackers led by junior Aiden Pucci and sophomore Kelby Bates.

The defensive backs are athletes with a great balance of speed and coverage, led by senior Cole Kuhn and sophomore Colton Gillispie.

Expect to see some major improvements this year from the Bulldogs as they look to keep growing off of their productive off season.
