Commissioners convene Monday, April 8, at 7 p.m. at the Carroll County Office Complex.

The resolution was on the February agenda, however, commissioners delayed for one month to investigate the viability and service record of Red River. Republic Services, the current provider, has had the contract for approximately 25 years and

MCKENZIE (March 31) — For some McKenzie residents Sunday started without running water in their homes after a six-inch water main broke. Water Superintendent Billy Wood said he was notified of the problem at approximately 2 a.m. Once the problem was located, the water service on that line was terminated and Anderson Construction Company's trackhoe was

Gleason Senior Earns Full Scholarship to Bethel

GLEASON (April 1) — Edward Wayne Castleman, Jr., a senior at Gleason High School is the 2019 Hendrix Scholar and has earned a full-ride, four-year scholarship to Bethel University in McKenzie.

Established in 1988, the Hendrix Scholarship Competition was the brainchild of late Nashville businessman Willard R. Hendrix, who dreamed of connecting qualified and dedicated faculty with outstanding and deserving students. As the grandson of former Bethel University President W.W. Hendrix, the younger Hendrix also wanted to pay tribute to his grandfather, an outstanding educator who reopened the school on a new McKenzie campus after the Civil War. Willard Hendrix established the trust just two months before his death in August 1988. Worthy students have competed for – and benefited from – the prestigious award ever since.

The competition was a two-day event in which students' academic abilities will be tested with a written exam, an acaademic exam, and an interview. Butler said the award is not based on popularity, but rather scholastic ability and an interview.

Bethel President Walter Butler made the presentation in the Dudley Sanders Memorial Gym at Gleason School on Monday as middle and high school students looked on. Butler said students from many states competed for the award. The last Gleason recipient was Amy Lawrence, the librarian at Gleason School. It is valued at over $100,000, said the president.

Castleman said he is honored to receive the scholarship and to be able to experience college as a student-resident. He said of the university, he enjoyed meeting the faculty, who were very easy to communicate with. He said he also knows several students at the local university. He plans to earn his bachelor's degree and advance to a Ph.D. and teach.

Castleman was honored by Bethel and by his family, who attended the announcement.

McKENZIE (March 30) — As part of McKenzie's sesquicentennial celebration, McKenzie Banking Company hosted a free movie Saturday afternoon at the Park Theatre. Prior to showing the film Now You See Me 2, MBC Community President Keith Priestley honored Carroll County first responders, several of whom were in attendance.

Priestley recognized the "diverse coalition of trained individuals," including McKenzie Fire Department, Carroll County Fire Department, Baptist Ambulance Service/EMS, McKenzie Police Department, Tennessee Highway Patrol, Carroll County Sheriff's Department, Carroll County Rescue Squad, emergency dispatchers and other personnel.

He described them as "passionate about their role in life safety and community preparedness" and said that they "make it their business to take action when disaster strikes."

Priestley said that first responders have dangerous jobs, noting that 100 firefighters die in the line of duty each year as fire departments respond to fires every 24 seconds in the U.S. He added that in this nation, emergency medical services take care of 22 million patients per year.

He continued, "We owe a debt of gratitude to our brave first responders who selflessly put themselves in harm's way to help others."

Priestley concluded by asking all first responders present to come forward and be recognized. Each was presented with a Yeti tumbler courtesy of MBC, a McKenzie 150 lapel pin courtesy of The Banner and movie tickets courtesy of the Park Theatre.

asked commissioners to research Red River, the low bidder, for its service record.

If the resolution is approved, rural residents' monthly invoice for solid waste collection will replace at the current monthly rate of $18 for the next five years.

In other resolutions, the county is being asked to sell .038 acres for $900 to the Tennessee Department of Transportation to facilitate the new section of State Route 76 (US 79) which will bypass both Atwood and Trezevant and reconnect to the existing route north of Trezevant at Cutlip Lane.

Recommended appointments include Rita Jones and Billy

Smith to the Board of Zoning Appeals and Carroll County Regional Planning Commission.

A resolution requests approval to apply for a 100 percent USDA grant to fund a pilot program for adult education. Mayor Joseph Butler said the funding would be in the $30,000 to $35,000 range to purchase equipment. If approved the first pilot program would possibly be in the Bruceton area.

Vista. Officers of the Carroll County Sheriff's Department and first responders found James Dale Kelly, 19, lying on the lawn at the side of the driveway with a single shot. Deputies and first responders performed CPR without success, said the sheriff.

The incident occurred at 7065 Buena Vista Road in Buena Vista in the driveway. Kelly was believed to have been in a car with a friend when the incident occurred. Kelly resided at 280 King Loop Road, just about one-fourth mile from the incident.

Shortly after the incident, the Carroll County Sheriff's Department and Tennessee Bureau of Investigation posted a photo of the suspect vehicle driven from the scene.

Authorities have not released a motive for the shooting at this time.

A 9 mm handgun was found in a field near the former Buena Vista school on Sunday afternoon. Sheriff Dickson said TWRA Officer Scott Mansfield and his canine companion located the weapon in a middle of a field in less than 45 minutes of searching.

Leavitt has had some minor scraps with the law, resulting in some weekend incarcerations at the local jail, said the sheriff.

Dickson thanked the TBI, TWRA, first responders, EMS personnel, deputies with the Carroll County Sheriff's Department, and the citizens for their help.

Kelly previously attended McKenzie schools. He was the son of Henry Kelly and stepmom, Michelle Conquest Kelly, of McKenzie. The couple is seeking donations for funeral expenses. An online Facebook page was established to collect funds.

water. Mr. Wood said Christian Care, formerly Oak Manor, was without water along with several nearby houses for much of the day. Those were on a branch water line. Once the water was terminated to make the repairs, most of the affected area experienced the restoration of water pressure because of the nature of a "loop system" in which water was sourced from another main. If any one section of the water distribution main fails or needs repair, that section can be isolated without disrupting all users on the network.

Employees of McKenzie Water Department repaired the broken main after Anderson Construction excavated down about 30 feet and found the line. It took much of the day to make the repairs and re-bury the supply line. Videos of the early morning water leak and the repairs are on The Banner's Facebook page.

McTyre School was McKenzie's first educational institution, coming to McKenzie from Caledonia in 1867 before there was a public school and before Bethel College moved from McLemoresville in 1872.

McTyre School

McKenzie's First Educational Institution

After last week's edition on Bethel University, I felt it only right to build further on the educational institutions of McKenzie. So this week it's the story of McTyre School.

The story of McTyre School dates back to 1858 in the Caledonia Community of Henry County. Started by Edwin H. Randal, it began as a boarding school and later chartered in 1860 as Caledonia College. The first and only graduates were G.W. Nowlin, J.R. Wilkins, Mattie Miller and Adelia Wall.

The onset of the Civil War closed the doors to Caledonia College. The building burned before the war ended and relocated to McKenzie in 1867. The new facility was known as the McKenzie Male and Female Institute.

The move to McKenzie left the school with limited funds forcing the school to open on the ground floor of the Masonic Building which had it roots in Caledonia. By 1871, Captain H.C. Irby purchased land on present-day McTyre Street. Two buildings were constructed and chartered as McKenzie College. It became McKenzie's first educational facility beating out the relocation of Bethel College from McLemoresville in 1872.

Irby resigned in 1874, and the property was purchased by Dr. A.P. Waterfield with Professor Randal taking over as president of the school. It was during this time, two interesting stories attached themselves to McKenzie College.

The first story is about a Scotsman known as Dr. Mundie. Hired to teach chemistry and Greek, Dr. Mundie claimed noble birth and to be the last surviving member of the distinguished family. Falling ill and near death, Mundie made out his will leaving the college 400,000 English pounds. The Scotsman failed to sign the will before his death, and Professor Randal could never locate the family.

Another story is that of painter and wanderer Ernest Schwarzwald. Arriving in McKenzie in the late 1870s, Schwarzwald lived above the Cannon Drug Store and was hired by Dr. Waterfield to paint the school. After being stabbed by a drunk and near death, from the recommendation of Waterfield, Schwarzwald left his money to the Methodist Church.

The church paid for his burial expense and remaining debts. He was buried in Mt. Olivet Cemetery with a modest headstone with the area enclosed by an iron fence. At the time of his death in 1878, Schwarzwald's estate was valued at $4,000 (equivalent to $101,000 in today's terms).

With the influx of capital, the Methodist Church looked to purchase the school and property from Waterfield. Believing the price was too high for the property, the church purchased a different lot further from town and constructed their own campus through the Schwarzwald Fund.

On April 10, 1882 McKenzie College changed its name to McTyre Institute in honor of Holland Nimmons McTyre, an American Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Bishop McTyre was responsible for co-founding of Vanderbilt University in 1873.

McTyre initially granted degrees, but in 1879, the school became a preparatory school. Under the leadership of A. Grier Peoples, the name changed to the McTyre School in 1899. McTyre School curriculum followed the custom of the time, focusing on classics, English, math and history, aimed at the Vanderbilt entrance exams.

When Vanderbilt was established, there were few schools in Tennessee designed to prepare students for college. Only three preparatory schools were established before 1873. Montgomery Bell Academy (Nashville) and the McTyre School (McKenzie) were founded in 1867, followed by the Webb School (Culleoka/Bell Buckle) in 1870. These three schools set the standard for preparatory schools in the State of Tennessee.

Other principals of the school included Dr. Edwin B. Chappell (1879-1883), Granville Goodloe (1883-1886), Raleigh Williams (1883-1887), Joshua H. Harrison (1886-1898), Reverend Clough A. Waterfield (1898-1899), R. Grier Peoples (1899-1902), and James A. Robins (1899-1931).

By the arrival of James Robins, the McTyre Institute was going by the McTyre School and was accredited by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools. Serving as a four year preparatory school for colleges. Its students were allowed to enter any of the college and universities of the Southern Association. At the conclusion of Professor Harrison's tenure, the McTyre School housed 75 teenage boarding students (male and female) developing them academically and spiritually.

James Robins held the longest tenure at McTyre with 32 years of service. In his own words Robins stated he regarded education, "not as a pouring in process, but rather as a drawing out, training, and developing of the highest impulses that come to boys and girls during a period when their standards and ideals are becoming fixed."

One of the key principles of the McTyre School during Robins' time came from author John Phillips, "Goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble, yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous, and both united form the noblest character and lay the surest foundation of usefulness to mankind."

The school was operated as if the facility, staff, students were all part of "Mr. Jim and Mrs. Jim" Robin's family. Informal morning chapel talks and Sunday afternoon walks through the woods were key for Robins to develop life philosophies for his teenage students. As the Great Depression took hold in 1929, McTyre School was greatly effected by the economic crisis. Limited funds prevented families from sending their children to the preparatory school. The end of 1931 academic year saw the closure of the once great school.

In 1936, Professor J.L. Seets and McKenzie Mayor Glen A. King worked to purchase the 30 acres and five buildings of the abandoned McTyre School. The once great school for white students became the great school for African-Americans, Webb School.

Much of the research of this edition comes from McKenzie's History (1869-1969), the papers of Mrs. Parnell, Vanderbilt University and the Gordon Browning Museum and Genealogical Library.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES

Riddle Me This, Batman!

I was driving through a small town in Georgia listening to a Kingston Trio tape and wondering why folk singers never had a fiddle in the band when a house number caught my eye. The town had one traffic light. It was strategically placed on the single main crossroads with a small diner on one corner and a convenience store opposite it. There was a McDonalds on out the highway; and a Burger King. I didn't see a Krispy Kreme or Walmart.

The number up on the porch was 207885. Folks, we weren't in Metropolis!

I slowed to get a good look at the house next door but the mailbox was too small for a six digit address! I grew up in a town this size. We had addresses like 110 Main. And 244 Walnut Avenue. If you lived on a ten mile long dirt road, Rural Route 4 was still as high as you could go!

As the Kingston trio swung into "Tom Dooly" I turned down a side street and circled back around to get a better look. It was not unlike a thousand other diminutive southern places I had visited. It had the obligatory "small engine repair" sign in one yard; a 1957 Chevrolet for sale in another; and an old movie theater just off the intersection that looked like it hadn't been used in years. I guessed the population to be in the two to three thousand range.

This stuff keeps me up at night! How could any town without a Western Auto or a Dairy Queen need a 207885 address? Can you have more house numbers than you do people? Had I crossed over into the Twilight Zone? And I'm telling you, there weren't that many stores, shops, buildings, out houses or homes in the whole county to warrant such a number! They didn't have a single condominium. There wasn't a street you couldn't see all the way to the end of.

And that is not the only bizarre phenomenon that keeps me pondering late into the night.....

No one has ever satisfactorily explained why the wheels on the stagecoach in those old western movies always rolled backwards. You've seen this I'm sure. The salty stage driver would thunder into town, rein up in front of the Wells Fargo office and breathlessly proclaim he'd been "held up" by Black Bart and his dastardly gang.

Listen, I've seen that stagecoach make a hard turn up by the Long Branch Saloon a thousand times and scamper through the very center of town—with the wheels rolling in the opposite direction all the way.

Everyone has seen "Stagecoach", the 1939 classic where John Wayne is trying to get to Lordsburg on that dusty trail down through the middle of Monument Valley. The wheels never turn forward one time in that whole picture show! Remember the part where the Indians are chasing them. The stage is rolling ninety miles an

I've heard the "optical illusion" explanation for six and a half decades. Thankfully, I'm not cultured enough to understand "perceptual rivalry". And I don't think wheels-rolling-backwards has anything to do with trick photography, too much popcorn and NECCO Wafers in a dark room or "three dimensional visualizations". I do believe what I see with my own eyes.....even if it can not be explained!

The latest claim to make me overwrought with ponder is the age defying facial cream. I recently saw this advertised on TV. I didn't catch the company's name but they guaranteed a few applications would make any person who took the treatment look five years younger. I can't remember if you had to apply the cream for seven days or seven weeks before the youngster in you leaped forward.....

I figured it was worth a try. I'm tired of looking at my old self in the mirror. And boy howdy, I wanted to get Cathy started on this stuff as quickly as possible.

I'm assuming it works. I haven't pondered on that for a second. And I'm already thinking if I can back Cathy up five years.....and then give her another dose.....you talk about the possibilities.....

But here's the thought that has kept me up "howling at the moon" for the past week. If a five year old follows the directions.....will they look like Winston Churchill when the cream baths take effect?

Respectfully,
Kes

Do the Good You Can

"Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due, when it is in your power to act."
—Proverbs 3:27 NIV

4-2-19

Human beings know how to help each other. We rise to the occasion after natural disasters, for instance, and demonstrate that we are at our best when our fellow humans need us most. But why can't we do this all the time? What keeps us from reaching out and helping others in the mundane give and take of our everyday lives? Or why do we sometimes fail to rise to the occasion in certain crises, such as helping refugees from war-torn regions. The fact that we sometimes help and other times look away or just plain refuse to help is perhaps an indictment of our moral sentiments, the feelings of empathy and sympathy which move us to help. Sometimes our heartstrings are pulled and we rise to the occasion and other times we fail to do so. Social Psychology offers some clues to this puzzle. It turns out that what is referred to as bystander apathy (not helping when you see someone in need) can be overcome by 1) noticing that someone needs help; 2) interpreting the situation as one where you could be helpful; 3) taking responsibility for helping; 4) developing a plan (or deciding what should be done); and 5) implementing the plan. It's not terribly complicated. Most of us could be doing more to help our sisters and brothers in need. — Christopher Simon

Morning Glory Garden Club Plants Tree on Arbor Day

McKENZIE (March 19) — On Tuesday, members of the Morning Glory Garden Club met at the downtown Veterans Park to plant a white dogwood tree. For the third year, the club has planted a tree on Arbor Day to honor those who have served our country. The club chaplain, Judy Winters, read a moving poem, which she had written for the occasion, followed by a prayer. The club expressed pride in the park, which is the center for many city activities a is beautifully maintained by Parks Director Mike Beasley and his staff. The club thanked them for their assistance with the planting. Photo by Joel Washburn/The Banner

McKenzie Garden Club March Meeting

The McKenzie Garden Club met for its March meeting at McKenzie Cumberland Presbyterian Church, with members celebrating the 92nd anniversary of the organization with a lovely add-a-dish luncheon.

Following the luncheon, new President Myra Sasser welcomed all the members to a new year of gardening and fellowship and introduced new member Carolyn Moore. The devotional was given by Marsha French, who spoke on friendship. Marsha shared with the group scriptures on loving one another, weeping with those who weep and rejoicing with those who rejoice and living peacefully with all men.

Roll call was answered by the club members. Due to the absence of the secretary, minutes from the previous meeting were not read. New treasurer Donna Ward gave the financial report and also thanked the past Treasurer Cynthia Summers for the meticulous records she'd kept.

Under new business, funds to cover the cost of the new yearbooks were requested.

Sunshine Committee Chair Gladys Patterson reported on cards she'd sent and requested members call her when cards are needed to be sent. Several members then requested cards to be sent. Civic and Conservation Committee member Donna Hodge notified the group Triangle Park is in need of a work day and mulch needs to be spread. The members will be notified of the day selected.

Myra then introduced Ms. Thelma Traut, president of the Camden Garden Club, and past president of the former Iris and Day Lily Society in Paris, who gave an informative program on day lilies.

Day lilies originated in eastern Asia and were introduced to the U.S. in the 1920s. The most common lilies were those referred to as "ditch lilies," but growers began to cultivate other colors.

There are now over 80,000 cultivars, but no one has cultivated a blue lily. Day lilies grow in clumps, and the best way to plant them is to create a mound of soil, spread the tubers out over the mound, cover with soil and keep them moist. It is best to divide clumps every three years-lilies can die from lack of space. Tennessee Magazine suggests dividing them in September. Keep the new divisions watered well. Some will stay green over the winter.

Although toxic to cats, lilies are edible for humans and are ingredients in many Asian dishes such as Mushu Pork. Ms. Traut ended her program by showing pictures of some of her lilies, as well as her azaleas and peonies, and answered various questions posed by the club members.

The meeting then closed with the reading of the collect.

Peace of Mind.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

See solution in next week's edition.

Bass Cats Qualifies Three for National Championship

BAINBRIDGE, GA — The Bethel University Bass Cats qualified three teams recently for the FLW National Championship to be held in 2020. The Bass Cats finished in the top five in the FLW Southeastern Regional this past week with Cody Huff and Garrett Enders weighing in at 19 lbs. 11 oz. The pair of Bethel Anglers continued where they left off last season and continue to be ranked as two of the top college bass anglers in the nation. The Wildcats competed against over 175 boats in this tournament with the top ten percent of anglers in the event advancing to the championship.

The next Bethel teams to qualify were those of John Garrett/ Kyle Palmer with 16 lbs. 14 oz.

for 13th place and the 15th place team of KJ Queen/Dax Ewart with 16 lbs. 1 oz. to round out the qualifying teams from Bethel University. All three of these teams will travel to the 2020 FLW National Championship which will be announced at a later date.

Bethel will compete in three more FLW tournaments throughout the year for a chance to qualify even more teams for the 2020 national championship.

The Bass Cats qualified eleven boats/22 Anglers last season for the upcoming 2019 FLW National Championship which will be held on the Potomac River in June of this year. Congratulations to the Wildcats Bass team for a great finish in the FLW Southeastern Regional.

Bethel Senior Bass Angler Sets New Record in Collegiate Fishing

MCKENZIE — Bethel University Senior KJ Queen has become the first angler in the history of collegiate Bass fishing to qualify for both the Bassmasters National Championship and the FLW National Championship during all five years of his college fishing eligibility. Queen has competed in four Bassmasters National Championship fishing tournaments during his college career and as of this past week while fishing his home waters of Lake Norman near Charlotte, North Carolina Queen and partner Dax Ewart qualified for the upcoming 2019 Championship for Bassmasters.

Queen has also fished in the FLW National Championship for three years of his college career and will make his fourth appearance in the FLW Championship in June on the Potomac River near Marbury, Maryland. On February 22nd, KJ fished the Lake Norman tournament and qualified for the 2019 BassMasters National Championship. Earlier this year on Lake Seminole, KJ qualified for the 2020 FLW National Championship. Both Bassmasters and FLW allow collegiate anglers to compete in college tournaments for a total of five years.

In each year since joining Bethel in 2015, KJ has been perfect in his pursuit to qualify for the National Championships.

KJ's has a long history of top finishes. Prior to his college career, he achieved two top three finishes in the World High School Championships. Queen also won the FLW High School National Championship placing him high on the radar to be recruited for the Bethel Wildcats fishing team.

In his first college tournament, KJ fished with his sister, Chelsey, and finished second in a Bassmasters regional.

That was his first chance to compete in a National Championship and he and his sister became the first ever brother-sister qualifier for a national championship berth.

Queen also had a 3rd place finish in the 2017 FLW College National Championship and a top 10 in the 2017 BassMasters National Championship. He is looking forward to again competing for that prestigious title in 2019.

“We congratulate KJ Queen for this monumental achievement and wish him all the best during the last few months of his collegiate bass angling career,” said Coach Garry Mason.

KJ will graduate in May from Bethel and is to make a career in the fishing industry as he and his father have started Queen Tackle Co. offering quality angling products to customers nationwide.

Now, after a 10-year expansion, it is the longest continuously expanding market in U.S. history.
