A computer check revealed an outstanding warrant in Gibson County. As he was placed under arrest, a small bag of a crystal-like substance, identified as meth, was located in the driver's seat. He was arrested for possession of schedule II controlled substance and transported to Carroll County Jail.

Failure to Appear — Charles D. Dunning, 37,

Forrest Circle and Athena Stafford, 31, Forrest Circle, McKenzie were both cited into court on July 1. Stafford had active summons to court for failure to appear and Dunning had summons for failure to appear and violation of probation.

Public Intoxication — Christopher Dakota Terry, 22, Elm Street, McKenzie, was charged with public intoxication on July 4.

Carroll County Teen Health Council Students Attend TTI

MARTIN — Students from Carroll County joined close to 400 youth leaders from across the state at the Tennessee Teen Institute (TTI) on the University of Tennessee at Martin campus June 13-17. The Tennessee Teen Institute is a five-day youth leadership and prevention camp sponsored by the Jackson Area Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency (JACO).

The Tennessee Teen Institute was established in 1986. The program addresses teen issues such as bullying, violence, suicide, teen pregnancy, distracted driving, teen health and substance abuse prevention through a five-day, peer-led prevention camp. The camp is designed to provide teen participants with the skills and education necessary to develop and implement alcohol and drug abuse prevention programs

At TTI, students have the opportunity to grow and learn as individuals while enhancing their leadership abilities. Because TTI is peer-led, teens are given a unique opportunity to have a "voice" in addressing issues important to them.

TTI participants leave motivated not only to make healthy decisions in their own lives, but also committed to work so that others are making healthy decisions in their communities as well.

without a permit must have no felony convictions or pending charges. Individuals convicted of two DUI offenses within the last ten years or one in the last five years, as well as federal prohibitions which include illegal aliens and fugitives from justice are also not eligible.

The bill also increases the penalty for theft of a firearm to a Class E felony and provides a sentencing enhancement for theft of a firearm in a car. It increases the minimum sentence for theft of a firearm from 30 days to 180 days and increases the sentences for unlawful possession of a firearm by violent felons and felony drug offenders, possession of a handgun by a felon, and unlawfully providing a handgun to a juvenile or allowing a juvenile to possess a handgun.

The Firearm Information Privacy Protection Act was also passed, protecting citizens' anonymity related to firearm ownership. It creates a Class E felony for any public personnel who intentionally discloses information about an owner of a firearm for the purpose of compiling a federal firearms registry or confiscation of firearms.

Senate Bill 1334 protects gun owners by preventing a state or local entity from creating a registry to keep record of who possesses firearms in Tennessee.

Senate Bill 551 incentivizes the safe storage of firearms and exempts sales taxes on gun safety devices and safes for one year.

MCKENZIE (July 3) — The children's activity at the McKenzie Farmers' Market on Saturday, July 3 was to make homemade ice cream.

Children were given a sealed bag of cream, which was placed inside a bag of ice. Salt was added to the ice to lower the freezing/melting point of the ice. The children then shook the bag to create a consistent mixture of cream.

New Legislation Affects Tennessee Schools

Tennessee legislation passed over 80 new laws that went into effect July 1, some of which protecting Tennessee educators and students and altering curriculum.

Senate Bill 1367, the Tennessee Accommodations for All Children Act, requires public schools to provide a reasonable accommodation to student who sends a written request that they are unwilling or unable to use multi-occupancy restrooms or changing facilities designated to a student's sex.

Senate passed Bill 1338 ensures that the lowest-paid teachers within Tennessee receive raises, requiring the State Board of Education to increase the minimum salary on the state salary by the same percentage as any increase in funds made to the instructional component of the Basic Education Program.

To help address teacher shortages, the Senate passed a law providing aid to teachers who are moving to Tennessee to receive an appropriate teaching license. This helps qualified teachers enter classrooms quicker.

Legislation also passed Senate Bill 1191, requiring state institutions to disclose gifts received from and contracts initiated with a foreign source worth more than $10,000. This prohibits the establishment of Confucius Institutes.

The Senate also passed laws to help Tennessee students in the classroom. Of those laws are Senate Bill 7002, a bill created to ensure third grade students are reading on grade-level before being promoted to fourth grade, and Senate Bill 1304, the Textbook Transparency Act. This bill requires all textbooks to be publicly accessible and online as long as they are actively used in the classroom.

Senate Bill 627 protects students from a threat of mass violence. It creates a Class A misdemeanor offense for communicating a threat to commit an act of violence on school property or at a school related event and a Class B misdemeanor is a person with knowledge fails to report it.

The Student's Right to Know Act and Senate Bill 458 help students while preparing for college. The Student's Right to Know Act requires the Tennessee Higher Education Commission to publish a web-based dashboard for high school students considering their college and career options.

Senate Bill 458 makes homeschooled students eligible for the HOPE Scholarship if they complete six hours of dual enrollment and maintain at least a 3.0 GPA in those courses.

Senate Bill 623 bans the teaching of critical race theory and establishes parameters for the education of certain concepts related to race and sex.

New Tennessee Laws Benefit First Responders, Veterans

In the laws enacted July 1, legislation provides protection and benefits for Tennessee's first responders and veterans.

Senate Bill 778 provides an annual $600 payment for volunteer firefighters after completing at least 30 hours of training.

Senate Bill 129, the Spencer Bristol Act, increases police officers' protections by strengthening penalties for criminals who evade arrest. If evading arrest results in serious bodily injury of a law enforcement officer, the penalty is a Class C felony, punishable by three to fifteen years in prison. If the offense results in the death of a law enforcement officer, the sentence is increased to a Class A felony, punishable by 15 to 30 years in prison.

Senate Bill 841 ensures someone convicted of murdering a first responder with targeted intent for the job they do will be charged and punished as a terrorist for their crime. Punishment can be life without parole or the death penalty.

Senate Bill 440 provides a reward for information leading to the arrest of any individual responsible for shooting a law enforcement officer in the line of duty. It provides a $10,000 reward to the individual providing information if the law enforcement officer is injured, and a $20,000 reward if the officer is killed.

Senate Bill 404 allows retired law enforcement officers to provide private security services without completing the firearms training required for private protective services licensing.

The new laws also protect veterans and active service members. Senate Bill 754 offers reemployment protections to Tennessee National Guard members upon completion of a service in a State Active Duty. It protects National Guard members from discrimination in the workplace based on their military service.

Senate Bill 755 introduces the STRONG Act, which expands eligibility for tuition reimbursement for members of the Tennessee National Guard. It provides eligible service members with tuition reimbursement for up to 120 hours for a bachelor's degree, 40 hours for a master's degree and 24 hours for a vocational or technical program. It also provides reimbursement for up to 30 additional hours for any service member enrolled in ROTC or other officer-producing programs while pursuing a bachelor's or master's degree.

Senate Bill 1183 allows a state employee, who is a veteran with a service-connected disability of 30% or more, to receive 36 hours of sick leave each year to attend appointments related to that disability.

Next on the board's agenda was an explanation of ESSER, the Elementary, Secondary School Emergency Relief fund. ESSER 1.0 was introduced in March 2020 with the CARE Act in response to COVID-19. ESSER 3.0 is part of the American Rescue Plan and offers $22 million to the West Carroll School District, 20% of which has to be spent to address loss of learning.

The school board discussed bids for marquee signs and non-porous lockers, paid by ESSER 3.0 funds. Plans regarding ESSER 3.0 have to be approved by the end of August.

Patrick Lindsey introduced marquee sign bids to the board. David Hilliard made a motion to approve the bid from GSC Signs and Awnings in McKenzie and Jeremy Jackson seconded the motion, followed by a unanimous vote from the board.

Director Caldwell announced the opening of non-porous locker bids. The lockers in the boys and girls basketball, baseball and softball locker rooms will be replaced using ESSER 3.0 funds. The board voted in favor of using Longhorn lockers, the same style of lockers used in the football locker room.

The board approved adding an early childhood 3-5 year-old position at West Carroll Primary School. The position had previously been approved in December 2019.

Director Caldwell introduced an assistant principal position and an additional classroom teacher position to be funded by ESSER 3.0's loss of learning clause. The two positions are grant-based, and funding may deplete in 2024 if there is no ESSER 4.0. David Hilliard made a motion to approve the new positions, and Jeremy Jackson seconded. The board voted unanimously in approval of the positions.

Janet Winchester announced a food service budget amendment, and the board approved the motion.

Carolyn Wrinkle Fite
Microbiologist, Leprosy Expert

Carolyn Keiper Wrinkle Fite was the oldest of the two children born to Amos (1902–1995) and Elsie Keiper Wrinkle (1903–1990). Born on June 9, 1924, she was five years older than her brother Bailey Moore (1929–2015). Her father owned Wrinkle-Moore Hardware and Furniture which later became Wrinkle Hardware.

Growing up, Carolyn was on the basketball team and was an avid swimmer. After graduating from high school in 1942, she attended the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. She enrolled at Ohio State, where she obtained a master's degree in microbiology.

"I had a fellowship to Ohio State," she recalled in a 2005 interview. My University of Tennessee professor pushed me to do that, and insisted that I go on to Ohio State."

She became a trailblazer for women in that era. "I sure didn't want to be in home economics or a secretary." She used to laugh saying she, "couldn't type or spell and together that made a hell of a mess."

Each step Carolyn took introduced her into a widening population, "It was as much difference from high school to UT as it was from UT to Ohio State - that was when Ohio State had 30,000 enrolled and the University of Tennessee was huge going from McKenzie High School. It was one loop to another route change. The number of students enrolled was bigger than this whole town many times over."

For three years, she began working in Knoxville and Chattanooga with TVA as a chemist and microbiologist. From there she took a position with the United States Department of Public Health working for the CDC in Atlanta. Carolyn studied diseases by inoculating various animals and later performing autopsies to determine if they had become infected. The work took her to stations in Arizona, Michigan, Indiana and West Virginia.

It was on a trip to Washington, D.C. she met her future husband, Dr. George Liddle Fite, chief pathologist of the laboratory at Carville, Louisiana, a leper colony. George was a Harvard-educated physician and had taught at John Hopkins and Northwestern universities. In 1941, he transferred to Washington National Institutes of Health as a researcher in leprosy before moving to Carville in 1948.

Before joining George in studying the leprosy bacterium (Mycobacterium leprae), Carolyn had developed an impressive resume having been published in the Journal of Bacteriology and co-authoring multiple articles for other publications.

She co-authored three with George, "Action of organic anhydrides on mycobacteria", "Inoculations of M. leprae in reptiles" and "Immune reaction of the guinea-pig to M. leprae".

Carolyn recalled she inoculated "snakes, turtles and a little bit of everything" with the leprosy-causing bacterium.

"Everyone wanted to know if they could grow the (leprosy) organism," she explained, the subjects of her statement referring to the professions with whom she worked and others throughout the areas of the world dealing with leprosy. "They wanted to know how to grow it and how it was transmitted; after all, they had never grown it."

Working side by side in the laboratory, Carolyn and George developed an attraction for one another. In 1962 they married, two years after they met. Two years later in 1964, George retired from Carville at age 60.

The Fites moved to Chicago, where for ten years George was an editor for the Journal of American Medical Association. Carolyn began playing golf and bridge when she wasn't volunteering at Wesley Hospital. She claimed to be a kept woman at that point.

From Chicago, they moved to Bethesda, Maryland. While there, George developed Alzheimer's Disease. They moved their home to Tennessee.

"We came back because Daddy was sick and he was sick and I couldn't very well commute," she said. Not long after moving to McKenzie, George moved into Oak Manor nursing home. Carolyn lived in the old home place on Highway 79 so she could walk across the street to visit her husband.

In 1993, George died from pneumonia at the age of 89 and was buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

Although they were married in what could be regarded as late-in-life, the couple built a lifetime of memories. With no children of their own, they focused their free time around playing golf and global travels.

"We just went places; we wanted to go and do," she recalled. "And he was invited to a lot of places, which helps. He was a world authority on leprosy." She and George traveled all over the United States and to Hawaii Alaska. They visited Canada and traveled abroad to England and Scotland several times. As well as Spain, Italy, Germany and various stops in Europe along with Guadalupe and Mexico City.

In October 2017, Carolyn died and was buried next to George at Arlington National Cemetery.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES
What's Fair For The Goose...

Martha Sanborn was one of the first people I met when I moved to Port St. Joe in 1969. I coached her two sons. I had both of them in my history class. Her husband was a bit more country than I was...and that is quite a statement! I appointed her daughter the first bat girl ever in the history of Port St. Joe High School baseball.

I ate most of my meals at their house. I'd go over and watch football games on Saturday afternoon with Mr. Cliff. We'd talk mules and vaccinating heifers and stuff...

They became my family away from home.

The 26th Amendment to the Constitution lowered the voting age from 21 to 18. It was ratified by the required "three fourths of the states" in 1971. It was too late to help me. I had turned 23 six months before it became law.

But I was all set to do my patriotic duty in the fall of that year. It was like carrying on an old family tradition. My parents were big on voting. They felt it a privilege, responsibility, duty and honor all rolled into one.

I was young but I remember them debating the merits of Dwight Eisenhower versus Adlai Stevenson, John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater against Lyndon Johnson. I can't for the life of me remember where they voted in our little town. But I would guess city hall. I don't know if they wrote down a name on a piece of paper, pulled a lever or shaded in a little circle. But I guarantee you, they were there!

They taught us from birth that in our democracy it was of tantamount importance that every citizen participate in the voting process.

Not long after I arrived in Port St. Joe I went to the courthouse to get a Florida driver's license and a Florida tag on my old Buick. While I was there I walked down to the Supervisor of Elections and Miss Cora Sue Robinson signed me up to vote.

I had my card in hand when I purposefully strode into the Centennial Building to cast my first vote ever for a President of the United States. Now, I wasn't overwhelmed by either choice but I had done some research. Weighed, like I had seen my parents do, the relative merits and shortcomings of each candidate. I definitely wanted to pick the right person to lead our nation.

Miss Martha was sitting at a table checking everyone's Voter Registration Card. I had no clue she was a poll worker. And I really didn't know what they were there for anyway. I got in line and waited my turn.

"Hi Miss Martha." I always lit up when I saw her. She was that kind of person.

"Good afternoon Coach," She took my card and looked it over carefully, "do you have your Voter ID?"

"Ma'am?"

"I need something with your picture on it so I can verify you are the person who is voting. Can I see your driver's license?"

My billfold was in the car. "Miss Martha, it's me, Kesley! I ate supper at your house last night!"

"Sorry Coach, I still have to see a picture ID. It is the law."

"You have my registration! This is precinct five. My voter number is on the card. It says Democrat big as life across the top. It's all correct. I don't see why—"

Her beautiful smile stopped me in mid-sentence. "Kes, go out to your old Buick and get your license and come back in."

Miss Martha grew up in Salem, Alabama. Listen, you'd have to know those North Alabama folks to understand what I was up against. Most all of them are immovable objects. Miss Martha's roots were sunk deeeeeeep into that red clay.

The worst part was when I "came back in" as instructed, I had to get in the back of the line, again!

It was the same every time I voted. I have pulled levers. I have pushed buttons. I have shaded in those little circles. I have changed voting places. I have voted early. I have voted for winners. And losers. I have voted for some that worked out great. And some that embarrassed me after I helped "get them in."

There has been one constant over all the years and all the elections I have been privileged to participate in. I had to produce and present a picture ID BEFORE I was allowed to vote.

Every single time!

We live in a world today that screams equality on every hand. On every level. In every situation.

I'm one hundred per cent for that.

So, if I have had to show my Voter ID...

WILLIE MAE PRINCE FORESTER 1926 — 2021

MCKENZIE — Funeral services for Mrs. Forester were Saturday, July 3, 2021 at Shiloh Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Interment was at the church cemetery.

Willie Mae Forester died peacefully in her sleep on Saturday, June 26, 2021 at the age of 95. She was born on May 19, 1926 in Savannah, Tenn. She was preceded in death by her parents, John Claude Prince and Willie Felix Moore Prince; her siblings John, Marguerite, Cornelia, and Jeemes; her husband, Jesse Clem forester, and her son, John Stephen Forester.

The first in her family to graduate college, Willie Mae attended Bethel College during World War II, where she met the love of her life, Jesse Clem (J.C.) Forester. Willie Mae and J.C. were married on August 11, 1947 at the log cabin on the campus of Bethel College. Willie Mae would later describe their wedding as the happiest day of her life. After college, Willie Mae struck out for Bridgeport, Illinois and taught high school English, while J.C. answered the call to ministry and attended seminary. Over the course of the next twenty years, the young family lived in Cord, Arkansas; Bradford, Tenn.; Marshall, Texas; Only, Texas; and Denton, Texas, before settling permanently in McKenzie in 1964. J.C. and Willie Mae had four energetic boys in six years—John Stephen, Thomas Byron, David Noel and Jesse Mark.

In addition to serving on church committees, teaching Sunday School, being a den mother in Cub Scouts, singing in the choir, writing a column for the denominational magazine, and parenting four boys, Willie Mae found the time to earn her Master's Degree in Education from the University of North Texas in the early 1960s—attending classes on the weekends and completing her schoolwork late at night after her boys went to bed. Willie Mae was a determined trailblazer, though she was far too humble to ever admit it.

Willie Mae – nickname “Smiley Mae” by her students –taught English and Spanish at McKenzie High School until her retirement in 1988. Over the years, Willie Mae was loyally active in her community, especially with the McKenzie Garden Club, the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, and the retired teachers' association. She volunteered with the election commission and McKenzie Hospital, was a counselor at church camp, faithfully attended water aerobics, tutored children after school, and was one of the first women elders at Shiloh Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

After J.C.'s death in 1983,

Willie Mae lived with her son, Steve, in McKenzie and maintained her active lifestyle. The girl who grew up on a farm outside of Savannah, Tennessee, visited Hong Kong, Japan and China, and traveled extensively throughout the United States. She had a beautiful garden, served on a presbytery-wide church committees, and enjoyed hosting her former classmates each year at Bethel's homecoming.

Willie Mae Prince Forester had a smile for each person; she made fussy children light up and grumpy caregivers laugh. She never complained or had a cross word for anyone. While the idea of raising four mischievous boys would strike fear in the hearts of most anyone, Willie Mae bore it with the grace of God and the good humor of a saint. Whenever she remarked on all the scrapes “the Forester boys” got into, she would merely get a twinkle in her eye and laugh at the memories of the boys receiving boxing gloves and BB guns for Christmas.

Willie Mae was a faithful servant of God and lived out the ministry of Christ in everything that she did – from actively serving the church to treating every person with kindness, respect, and love. When her granddaughters joked about how her complexion was that of a much younger woman, they concluded it was because Gram simply did not carry hatred nor resentment toward others.

Willie Mae Prince Forester leaves behind sons Byron (Michelle), David, and Mark (Karen); grandchildren Rachel (Omar), Hayley, Elizabeth and Eleanor; great-grandchildren George Byron and Abigale Mae; and a host of loving extended family members, friends and church family.

Betty Lou Newbill Celebrates 96th Birthday

Betty Lou Newbill celebrated her 96th birthday on June 28. She is a member of Mt. Ararat Baptist Church in Trezevant, Tenn. She would like to thank everyone for the gifts and send love to you all.

Roditis is New Rotary President

McKENZIE (June 29) — Sandi Roditis is the 2021-22 president of McKenzie Rotary Club following the installation banquet on June 29 at the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Matt Lane, president 2020-21 administered the oath of office to Roditis.

Completing the slate of officers are: Kathy Ham, vice president; Joe Neumair, treasurer; Mory Anderson, sergeant-at-arms, and Matt Lane as the immediate past president.

Lane said the 2020-21 Rotary year had its challenges with the COVID-19 pandemic causing disruptions to meeting in person and hosting events. The club offered an option for members to meet in-person or virtually, moved its meetings to Lane's Block City Pizza so members could achieve social distancing. The club's home venue is Lakeside Senior Living Center, which restricted walk-in traffic during the pandemic.

Despite the challenges, the club held its annual live charity auction, contributed to the Demetra Perkins Polio-Plus campaign, purchased micro-engineered mulch for the city parks, held several meetings at different restaurants to support them, and purchased winter jackets for foster children.

He presented two awards. Mory Anderson received the Ed Perkins Humanitarian Award and Ed Dillon received the Oscar Owen Rotarian of the Year Award. Clark Brown was also awarded his seventh Paul Harris Award, which means a minimum of $1,000 for each was contributed to the Rotary Foundation in his honor either by himself or someone else.

Anderson is a retired minister, who moved to McKenzie from Michigan to be close to his daughter and son-in-law Melissa and Keith Herris, and their three children. Ed Dillon is a retired college administrator, who moved to McKenzie from Arizona. Hiss children followed him to McKenzie. Dillon is instrumental each year in raising funds for the club.

Roditis, the new president, is the owner-broker of Nicky Stafford Real Estate. She and husband, Spiros, have two children, Ellie and Stafford, and a bonus son, Marquis Taylor.

The new president commended Lane's leadership during challenging times. She said he was willing to take a chance. He had meals catered in to meetings in an effort to support other restaurants, changed the auction to a Saturday evening event instead of a morning event, and emphasized the commitment to serve the community first. "It was exceptional leadership during COVID-19," said Roditis.

At the conclusion of the banquet, Clark Brown and Jason Martin, members of the Rotary Foundation Committee, presented Lane with his second Paul Harris Award.

The McKenzie Farmers Market started off with a bang July 4 weekend. There were 325 customers and 17 vendors at the farmers market on Saturday. We had an abundance of fresh produce, and some of our vendors are beginning to bring in corn for those customers lucky enough to arrive early.

Gardens are producing so we have all your favorite vegetables including tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers for your home-made pickles, yellow squash, zucchini and more.

You will want to try the delicious fried pies, fruit cobblers, breads, cakes, cookies, hard candies, jams, jellies and relishes in addition to fresh roasted Front Porch coffee.

Several of our vendors have fresh free-range eggs, including the famous-colored eggs by the "Martha Stewart Easter Egg Chickens".

We also have the very best antibiotic and chemical additive free beef which includes ground beef, roasts, T-bones, rib-eyes, and filet mignons.

There's a variety of beautiful hanging plants, herbs and others including the lucky buck-eye plants. You will also want to browse the handmade craft booths which includes beautiful crochet items, all-natural goat milk soaps, macrame plant hangers, hand designed t-shirts, jewelry and more.

Our youth had a great time on Saturday which started with a patriotic flag waving children's parade on Banner Row and then our children cooled off by making their own home-made ice cream at the Farmers Market. Our next children's activity will be July 17 at 10 a.m. when they will make fairy gardens to take home.

Save the date for July 24 when City Mitchell will be teaching a macrame class at 10 a.m. at her booth in the Farmers Market. Be sure to call Cindy at 731-335-5896 to reserve a spot by July 17. There is a small charge to cover the cost of materials.

The McKenzie Farmers Market is open Saturdays from 8 a.m.-12 noon and Tuesdays from 3 p.m.-6 p.m. Some of our seasonal vendors also set up and sell produce throughout the week, so be sure to drive by or check our McKenzie Facebook page for the very latest market news.
