Huntingdon Man Dies in Bicycle Accident

HUNTINGDON — A 47-year-old Huntingdon man died Wednesday, April 27 in an accident involving the bicycle he was riding and a semi-truck.

According to a report by Walter Smothers, director of Public Safety at Huntingdon, the accident occurred at 7:30 a.m. at the intersection of Highway 22 and Veterans Drive.

At approximately 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 27, Huntingdon Police Department was notified by the 911 call center that there was a traffic accident involving a bicycle and a semi-truck at the intersection of Highway 22 south and Veterans Drive. Commission to Set Garbage Rate, Grant Employee Bonuses

HUNTINGDON (May 2) — A new rate for the collection of solid waste and appointments are on the May 9 agenda of the Carroll County Commission.

Beginning July 1, the solid waste collection fees are expected to increase to $25 monthly from the current rate of $18, if commissioners approve the rate during the May 9 meeting. If approved, the county hopes to hold the rate steady for five years.

Last fall, after Red River Waste Solutions, the county's solid waste disposal company in rural areas, filed for bankruptcy, the county agreed for Republic Services, with a base in McKenzie, to return as the solid waste collection and disposal company for the once weekly, curbside residential collection in rural areas of the county.

Red River was in its second of a five-year contract when it suddenly ceased

Interviews Begin For Electric Department Manager

HUNTINGDON (April 28) — Nine persons applied for the position of general manager of the Carroll County Electric Department. That the information from Terry Howell, chairman of the Board of Directors. Two are employees of the Carroll County Electric Department and seven are not.

Danny Brawner, general manager of Carroll County Electric, is retiring on June 2. Brawner announced his plans to the Board of Directors on March 24.

Howell said some of the candidate wish their names to not be disclosed unless they are selected for the position of manager. One is from East Tennessee and one is from Missouri.

All the names of the applicants are public record since they are seeking the position of general manager of a public entity.

The Board tentatively agreed to interview candidates in one-hour intervals, beginning Tuesday, May 3, 9 a.m. in the Board Room at CCED.

Carroll County 1000-Acre Lake to Change Owners

HUNTINGDON (April 26) — The $10 annual wheel tax on each motorized vehicle registered in Carroll County should end on December 31. That's if the Carroll County 1000-Acre Lake is purchased by the State of Tennessee, said Carroll County Mayor Joseph Butler.

Carroll County Watershed Authority, a governmental entity with its members appointed by the Governor, has not voted to sell the lake nor have they even discussed selling the lake in any open meeting. During the April 26 meeting of the six-member board, the sale seemed all but fait accomplish as members of the board answered questions from the audience about the future of the lake.

The Tennessee General Assembly voted (SB2402) to purchase the lake

Ford to Support Agriculture, STEM Education in West Tennessee

MEMPHIS — At the 2022 Memphis International Auto Show, Ford Motor Company and the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture announced a historic agreement that will propel economic development, education, and conservation throughout the mid-south.

The two signed a stream mitigation and restoration agreement to restore the stream waters flowing through the University's Lone Oaks Farm. UT Extension is developing Lone Oaks, a 1,200-acre facility, into a world-class 4-H and STEM (science, technology, education and math) Education Center in Middleton. Lone Oaks is located just 45 minutes east of Memphis and in close proximity to Ford's BlueOval City. Both properties are under development, and earlier this month UT Extension celebrated laying the top beam of the first of many overnight camping facilities at the 4-H Center. Education programs at Lone Oaks already serve about 5,000 K-12 students each year, but the new facility will allow the program to continue growing and offer overnight STEM programs and camps. Knowing the workforce needs in STEM fields are growing across the region, the timing couldn't be better.

"Every year, UTIA provides valuable life skills as well as STEM education opportunities to nearly 112,000 students across Tennessee," said UT President Randy Boyd. "Ford's investment in Lone Oaks will ensure our 4-H programs will be able to expand STEM education to Tennessee students for years to come."

Linda C. Martin, UTIA interim senior vice chancellor and senior vice president, says Tennessee has 7,216 4-H clubs, which is the most of any state in the nation. "The ability to offer overnight educational programs and daily STEM activities at Lone Oaks in West Tennessee is a tremendous enhancement to the region's educational opportunities," she adds.

The Clean Water Act of 1972 requires that any impact on streams and wetlands from development projects, such as buildings and roads, be offset by restoring and permanently protecting an equivalent amount of habitat elsewhere. The size of the BlueOval City project required Ford to invest in a significant stream restoration project, and the UT Institute of Agriculture was prepared to meet this need through a restoration project at Lone Oaks Farm. This unique agreement allows Ford to meet its regulatory requirements while also benefiting the entire region through funding STEM education and 4-H Youth Development at Lone Oaks. The agreement totals $16.5 million, which covers the construction cost of restoring some 20,000 feet of streams on the Lone Oaks property while also providing long-term financial sustainability for Lone Oaks' educational programs. The residual funds from the project will be invested by the UT Foundation to support education programs at Lone Oaks Farm in perpetuity.

"At Ford, our goal is to create a positive impact on people and the planet. We're proud to enter into this innovative partnership with the University of Tennessee that will help restore and protect the streams and wetlands at the Lone Oaks Farm and create educational opportunities that will inspire and benefit future generations," said Bob Holycross, vice president of sustainability, environment and safety engineering at Ford. "This is just one way we can fulfill our purpose to help build a better world."

The project involves many other partners, including The Tennessee Wildlife Federation and the West Tennessee River Basin Authority (WTRBA). The Tennessee Wildlife Federation is a nonprofit that advances conservation in Tennessee through advocacy, education and on-the-ground conservation projects, including stream and wetland restoration. WTRBA, an independent unit of the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation, is charged with managing rivers, streams, lakes and other water issues in West Tennessee. WTRBA is responsible for the design, engineering, construction and monitoring for the stream restoration.

"In addition to restoring the stream, this partnership will create additional opportunities for our UT Extension professionals to develop STEM programs with an emphasis on workforce skills and preparation for higher education. As the needs of employers in the region and state change, we are tailoring our educational programs to match those needs," says UT Extension Dean Ashley Stokes.

"The vision for Lone Oaks Farm includes introducing young people to agriculture and conservation through STEM education programs. We are extremely excited to partner with Ford and support both their sustainability goals and the University's and community's education goals," says Ben West, director of strategic partnerships with UTIA. "This investment will provide quality, hands-on education programs for students throughout the region for decades to come."

County Coroner Ricky Stafford arrived on the scene to assist in the investigation. The victim was identified as Keith H Gazley, a 47-year-old male subject that is believed to have been residing in Huntingdon. Statements were taken from a witness as well as video footage from a dashcam in a vehicle that was behind the semi-truck.

Preliminary findings of the department are that there were no faulting actions on the part of the semi-truck driver. Further information will be available at a later date.

Mr. Keith Henry Gazley died at Baptist Hospital-Carroll County.

Funeral services will be announced by Memorial Funeral Home in Maryville, Tennessee.

Gazley's family needs financial support and has started a GoFundMe account. His wife is on disability and will continue to raise their children, ages 14 and 4.

for $11 million, an amount equal to the outstanding debt on the lake. The legislation was laying of Governor Bill Lee's desk at the time of the Watershed Authority meeting. The Governor had recommended the state purchase the lake and had placed the $11 million in his budget.

Natalie Porter, chairman, fielded the questions from the audience and could not answer specifics about how the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency would manage the lake nor about regulations on the lake. Other members of the board also did not offer any responses.

Walter Reister, a lake front resident, encouraged board members to meet with TWRA prior to the transition of ownership, which could occur possibly as early as July.

TWRA-developed lakes generally do not allow private boat docks. The agency is assuming a lake with multiple private boat docks. The construction of seven new docks were approved during the March and April meetings of the Watershed Authority.

Questions were also asked about the future operations of the food concession area, marina, and fuel station.

operations in the county. As trash piled in roadside containers, the county issued an emergency contract with Republic Services to collect the waste. After months of trying to catch up, Republic Services is prepared to enter into a five-year contract.

In other business, the county will vote to give bonuses to county employees in the amount of $2,000 for full-time and $1,000 for part-time.

The estimated $430,000 will come from federal American Rescue Plan (ARP) funds. The families of three county employees, who died from COVID, will receive the funds.

A one-time donation of $60,000 to the Carroll County Rescue Squad is also on the agenda. The funds are needed to help build a new bay on their Chickasaw Drive, Huntingdon headquarters to house a truck too large for the current structure. The funds will come from ARP.

Proclamations are expected to be presented to the McKenzie High School girls state champion basketball team and to Savannah Davis of McKenzie for being named Miss Basketball — Class 1A by the TSSAA.

Appointments of Barry Mac Murphy, Dr. Jay Phipps and Darrell Ridgely are proposed to the County Audit Committee.

Mayor Joseph Butler will give an update on the debt retirement of two of three of the county's long-term debts. The county voted to retire the debt on the Emergency Operations Center and the Courthouse renovation leaving only the debt of the new jail.

completion date is May 31, 2025.

The project involves widening and realignment of the existing roadway for approximately 12.6 miles. Due to the size of the project, the proposed improvements have been divided into three smaller sections.

TDOT recently sought bids to demolish houses on the right-of-way of the new highway. Those included certain structures on Oasis Road, Milan; and Jax Road, Barker Road, Church Street, and Norris Robinson Loop - all in Atwood.

A second section from east of State Route 77 to West of Cutlip Lane. That section is a candidate for letting on January 10, 2024 or possibly earlier if stimulus money is available. That section will bypass Trezevant.

The third phase — from west of Cutlip Lane in Trezevant to west of Sydnor Rd./Winston Rd. in McKenzie — the right of way purchase phase is expected to begin in the fall of 2022.

The completed project will create a four- or five-lane highway from McKenzie to Milan.

HUNKER DOWN WITH KES
0 Beautiful For Spacious Skies....

I tell you near 'bout every week that McK- enzie, Tennessee, is the best place on earth to “be from.” Without a doubt. Without hesitation. And without reservation. Of course, I don’t do it with very good sentence struc- ture. Or proper English.

Please don’t blame Bar- bara Clark or Polly Rucker for my grammatical short- comings. Those wonderful English teachers poured a fountain of knowledge into me “once upon a time”.....

And I’ve told you a hun- dred times how Miss Clark turned me on to Charles Dickens, Edgar Allan Poe, Emily Dickinson and that highwayman who “came riding-riding-riding....up to the old inn door.”

But I also learned from Col. James T. “Bird Dog” Reed, Mr. Graden Feath- erstone and Mr. Jack Cantrell. They’d “hold forth” on a wide array of subjects whether I’d run across them up at the City Café, in the cozy office at Bill Argo’s Gulf Station or standing up on the town square watching Mr. Char- lie McIver win another game of checkers.

They never let syntax, dangling participles or not ending a sentence with a preposition get in the way of a good story. I remem- ber riding to a baseball game with Bird Dog one time when he got to tell- ing a story about every person who lived in every house between McKenzie and Greenfield. Listen, he knew’em all! And he had a funny story about each one.....

But I digress. I was say- ing that McKenzie is the absolute best town ever. And the absolute best time to be in McKenzie is early May. The weather is so per- fect it will make you take notice.....and appreciate anew this particular place and time.

January and February were just too cold. March would blow you away. April would always sur- prise—and annoy—with one last chilly blast. But May would come! It was always refreshingly mild without any hint of what was behind and no over- tures of the oppressive heat that was to come.

We didn’t celebrate May Day. And I can promise you, me and Buddy, Yogi and Ricky never one time in our whole lives danced around a Maypole. But there was something so special about that month in our little hometown that the memories, the sights, the sounds, the smell, the joy of “being”, still rever- berate down through the ages.....

We’d start walking to town that first Saturday morning in May and there was a spring in our step. The air was so fresh, clear, clean, crisp, light.....you’d breathe in a big ole mouth- ful and it would practically lift you off the ground!

I believe the sun was a little higher in the sky. Clouds would cast their faint shadow over you as you bounced along. The wind tickled your face as it gently meandered down Stonewall Street.

Food taste better on days like this. Your older broth- er wasn’t such a nuisance. Homework was forgotten. Cares cast aside. Silly mis- understandings, or long time grudges, faded like the morning dew.

Yogi would remark as we passed the Presbyteri- an Church, “On a day like this, Barbara Jean doesn’t even look so bad....if she turns sideways and the sun shines just right off her forehead.”

We were seven, eight, ten years old....but we didn’t miss the sheer per- fection of the moment. “It’s pretty nice out here” was the succinct opinion voiced by all.

It was so blatantly true, and yet, so majestically understated, as only chil- dren can do.

Spring, for us, had truly sprung. Grass was turn- ing green. Leaves were suddenly appearing on ev- ery tree along the street. Baseball fields and clover patches were shaping up for the game. School would be out and the swimming pool would be open in just a couple of weeks. And I’m sure there were some dogwoods and a daffodil or two waving at us.

Talk about a freshness, a newness, an awakening of what is good and right about life, living, friend- ships, family.....you could taste it all on that first Saturday morning in May.

I was God blessed to share in so many of them.

We didn’t know a funny story about everybody in every house along Stone- wall like I’m sure Bird Dog did. But we loved them anyway. They were a part of our world. If they were out and about on this per- fect day, they got a big wave from us.

You talk about living large! We might have been young, but we understood “special” when it was chirping all around us. Early May in McKenzie is like no place else on earth. Hope truly springs forth in every direction. I’ve seen it with my own little eyes. Felt it deep within my heart.

Surely no one fortunate enough to be living in the 38201 zip code is taking it for granted this week.....

Isham G. Harris
The Rest of the Story

With the onset of the Civil War and Tennes- see’s se- cession, a group of pro- Union leaders in East Ten- nessee, which had rejected secession, petitioned Har- ris to allow the region to break away from the state and remain with the Union. Harris rejected this and sent troops under Felix K. Zollicoffer into East Ten- nessee. In the gubernato- rial election later that year, William H. Polk, brother of former President James K. Polk, ran against Harris on a pro-Union ticket but was defeated 75,300 to 43,495.

The Union Army invaded Tennessee in November 1861 and had gained control of Nashville by February of the following year. Har- ris and the state legislature moved to Memphis, but af- ter that city fell, Harris joined the staff of General Albert Sidney Johnston. At the Battle of Shiloh on April 6, Harris found Johnston slumping in his saddle and asked if he was wounded, to which John- ston replied “Yes, and I fear seriously.” Harris and other staff officers moved the general to a small ravine and attempted to ren- der aid, but Johnston died within a few minutes. Har- ris and the others secretly moved his body to Shiloh Church so as not to dampen the morale of Confederate troops

Harris spent the remain- der of the war as an aide- de-camp on the staffs of various Confederate gener- als, among them Joseph E. Johnston, Braxton Bragg, John B. Hood, and P. G. T. Beauregard. Andrew John- son was appointed military governor by President Lin- coln in March 1862, though Harris was still recognized as governor by the Con- federacy. In 1863, Tennes- see’s Confederates elected Robert L. Caruthers as a successor to Harris, but Caruthers never took of- fice. Harris was still issu- ing edicts as governor as late as November 1864.

After the war, the United States Congress passed a joint resolution allowing the governor of Tennessee to offer a reward for the apprehension of Harris because he was “guilty of treason, perjury and theft.” Brownlow, who had become governor, issued a warrant for the arrest of Harris and placed a $5,000 bounty on him. Brownlow taunted Harris in the warrant, stating, “His eyes are deep and penetrating—a perfect index to a heart of a trait- or—with the scowl and frown of a demon resting upon his brow. His study of mischief and the prac- tice of crime have brought upon him premature bald- ness and a gray beard.” He further noted that Harris “chews tobacco rapidly and is inordinately fond of li- quors.”

Harris fled to Mexico, where he and several other ex-Confederates attempted to rally with Emperor Max- imilian. After Maximilian’s fall in 1867, however, Har- ris was again forced to flee, this time to England. Later that year, after learning Brownlow would rescind the warrant, Harris re- turned to Tennessee. Pass- ing through Nashville, he called on Brownlow, who is said to have greeted him with the statement, “While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return.” Afterward, he returned to Memphis to practice law.

By 1877, the Tennessee state legislature, which was once again controlled by Democrats, elected Har- ris to one of the state’s U.S. Senate seats. One of his earliest assignments, in the 46th Congress (1879–81), was the District of Colum- bia Committee. Subsequent assignments included the Committee on Epidemic Diseases in the 49th Con- gress through the 52nd Congress (1885–93) and the Committee on Private Land Claims in the 54th Con- gress (1895–97).

During his first term in the Senate, Harris became the leader of Tennessee’s Bourbon Democrats, a wing of the Democratic Party that generally supported laissez-faire capitalism and the gold standard. As such, Harris spent his early Sen- ate career advocating strict constructionism and lim- ited government, states’ rights, and low tariffs. In 1884, he was interview- ed by President-elect Grover Cleveland for a cabinet position. In 1887, he gave an impassioned speech in favor of the repeal of the Tenure of Office Act. In 1890, Harris denounced the Lodge Bill, which would have protected voting rights for African-Amer- icans in the South, argu- ing that it violated states’ rights.

Though a Bourbon Dem- ocrat, Harris, representing an agrarian state, was also a “Silver Democrat,” be- lieving pro-silver policies protected farmers. He sup- ported the Bland–Allison Act of 1878, which au- thorized the federal govern- ment to purchase silver to prevent deflation in crop prices. He also supported the act’s replacement, the Sherman Silver Purchase Act of 1890. In 1893, Presi- dent Cleveland, concerned that the Sherman Act was depleting the U.S. gold sup- ply, sought its repeal. When the vote came up in the Senate in October, Harris, as president pro tempore, launched a filibuster in hopes of preventing the act’s repeal, but was unsuc- cessful. Disgruntled over the repeal of the Sherman Act, Harris campaigned for an unsuccessful presi- dential candidate and gold standard opponent William Jennings Bryan in 1896.

Harris died in office on July 8, 1897. His funeral was held in the Senate cham- ber of the United States Cap- itol. Congressman Walter P. Brownlow, a nephew of Harris’ old rival Parson Brownlow, was among those who delivered a memorial address in his honor. He is interred at Elmwood Cem- etery in Memphis.

McKenzie Garden Club News

The April meeting of the McKenzie Garden Club was April 22 at the home of Chester and Victoria Ard, with President Myra Sasser presiding. The Devotional was given by Victoria, who spoke on the importance of recognizing and appreciating the tiny blessings in our lives. The big blessings are wonderful, but it's the tiny ones - phone calls from our children, hugs from loved ones, cool breezes, first tomatoes on the vines, funny family stories - that really get us through the rough times in our lives.
 Following the Devotional, twelve members answered the Roll Call, and member Donna Hodge introduced her guest Judy Davis.
 Minutes from the March meeting were read and approved, as was the Treasurer's Report. Committee reports were also given. Old Business was discussed; the decision to extend the meeting times from eight to twelve months was tabled until May.

 Zia Locke was introduced as the guest speaker for the meeting. She presented a lively and informative discussion on gardening by the Zodiac signs, and planting by the phases of the moon. Zia explained that she was taught many of these practices by her grandmother, who was born in 1892, and who readily shared her knowledge. Examples included not only which signs were considered fruitful and best to plant in, but which were barren and a good time to pull up weeds. Zia spoke on which phases of the moon were better for planting above-ground crops, and which were better for planting root crops; and how Zodiac signs were used to determine the best times for various surgeries and other medical procedures. At the conclusion of her program, Zia graciously joined in the members' discussions, answered questions, and shared additional stories of growing up under the tutelage of her grandmother.

 Before the Collect was read to conclude the meeting, the members having April birthdays were recognized. Following the reading of the Collect, the members were delighted to learn that Judy Davis had decided to join the McKenzie Garden Club.

SUDOKU WEEK 18

Level: Intermediate

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Carroll County Sheriff's Reports

Trespassing, Animal Cruelty — Shauna Maria Foster, 44, of 82 Highway 79 Lane, Atwood, was charged with aggravated criminal trespassing and cruelty to an animal following an April 27 incident at an Atwood residence.

According to the report by Deputy Jason Walker, an Atwood woman called the Sheriff's Department saying that Foster was in her house uninvited and would not leave. She said she and Foster got into a verbal argument, putting her and her four-year-old son in fear for their safety.

The woman told Walker that when she finally got Foster out of her house, Foster picked up a small dog and threw it off the porch. She said that after she shut the door, Foster started hitting the door, causing about $20 in damage to the door hanger.

License Violation — Marie N. Morgan, 23, of 390 Bobbitt Road, Bruce-ton, was cited for driving on a suspended license on April 25.

Deputy Christopher Adams reported he was direct-ing and diverting traffic into the right hand lane at Highway 22 and Rochelle Road when he observed a truck driven by Morgan. Adams had prior knowl-edge that Morgan's license was suspended, and a com-puter check confirmed this.

DUI — Patrick Russell Turman, 23, of 2020 Connie Allen Road, McKenzie, was charged with DUI during an April 24 traffic stop on Connie Allen Road.

Deputy Cody Coleman reported he conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle driven by Turman, who pulled into his own drive-way. While speaking with Turman, Coleman detected the odor of alcohol. When Coleman asked Turman to exit his vehicle to per-form field sobriety tests, Turman became aggressive and told the deputy that he was on his property and that he didn't have to what the deputy said. Turman fi-nally exited the vehicle and submitted to the tests, on which he performed poorly. Turman verbally consented to take a blood-alcohol test, but then refused to sign the form. Turman was trans-ported to jail after giving a blood sample at Baptist Memorial Hospital.

Huntingdon Police Reports

Drug Possession — Russell H. Wilkins, 27, of Huntingdon was charged with possession of schedule IV, possession of marijuana, and drug paraphernalia on April 23 in Huntingdon.

According to the report by Sgt. Brad Allen, he responded to an address on Northwood Drive after being contacted by a Drug Task Force agent about a dispute. When Allen arrived at the scene, property owners told Allen that they found their son (Wilkins) in his vehicle in the Walmart parking lot with a spoon in his hand and apparently under the influence of some substance. They said they found a plastic bag containing a green leafy substance and a pill bottle labeled as Xanax containing 15 blue bar-shaped pills. After getting permission to search Wilkins’ vehicle, Allen found a glass pipe, a set of digital scales, empty jars of THC wax, and numerous pieces of burnt aluminum foil.

Traffic Stop Arrest — Lorrie Ann Garner, 46, of Huntingdon was arrested during an April 20 traffic stop.

According to the report by Officer Ethan Parham, he observed a black Chevrolet Tahoe driven by Garner traveling southbound on Highway 22 with a non-working license plate light. Parham activated his blue lights and siren in an attempt to conduct a traffic stop, but the vehicle continued for approximately two miles before pulling over. Parham observed that Garner’s eyes were glassy, her responses were slow, and she smelled of an alcoholic beverage. Garner said she had consumed two drinks about an hour before. Garner performed poorly on field sobriety tests, but she refused to submit to a blood-alcohol test. Garner also refused to sign citations for violation of implied consent and violation of light law. Parham noted that Garner has two prior convictions for DUI. Garner was placed under arrest and transported to Carroll County Jail.

Drug, Tag Violations — Jesse Thomas, 23, of Huntingdon was charged with possession of methamphetamine and improper display of tags during an April 15 traffic stop in Huntingdon.

Officer Joseph Hedge reported that he pulled over a vehicle driven by Thomas on West Main Street because a computer check showed the tag did not belong to the vehicle. After giving permission to search his vehicle, Thomas attempted to hide a bag containing approximately 1.7 grams of a substance that field-tested positive for meth in his gas tank.

Drug, License Violations — Dillion Wayne Smith, 28, of Atwood was charged with simple possession/casual exchange, driving on a suspended license, and improper lane change during an April 17 traffic stop in Huntingdon.

Officer Labe Ezell reported that he pulled over a black Ford pickup truck driven by Smith after observing the vehicle cross over the white shoulder line multiple times and run off the right side of the road, nearly striking a fire hydrant. A computer check showed that Smith’s license was suspended. While patting Smith down for weapons, Ezell discovered a zip-lock bag containing 19 hydrocodone pills without a prescription.

COURTESY BETHEL SID

DYER — After signing a TSSAA Miss Basketball Finalist several days ago, Coach Chris Nelson did it again. Tuesday, the Cats added another star with the signing of a two-time TSSAA Miss Basketball Finalist in Gibson County's Madison Hart.

Madison is the daughter of Andy and Christy Dye of Yorkville, Tennessee and will major in Nursing.

Hart finished her Gibson County career as the program's fourth all-time leading scorer with 2, 220 career points. She averaged 18.6 points and over seven rebounds per game her senior year. Madison shot 66 percent from the field and MCKENZIE (May 1) — McKenzie Lady Rebels and Rebels 2021-22 basketball teams were feted to a banquet and honored for their unprecedented successes. Never in the history of McKenzie athletes have two teams earned state berths in the same year. Including the 2021 McKenzie Rebel football team and golf teams, it was the third and fourth team to earn state berths in the same school year.

McKenzie Lady Rebels are the first female state champions.

"We were the last team playing," said John Wilkins, coach of the Lady Rebels. The 31-2 Lady Rebels had a deep bench, mainly because the ladies bought into the program, made 1000s of practice shots, and relied on each other, sharing the ball and credit.

Wilkins is in his tenth year as coach in McKenzie. He now coaches both the men and ladies.

Three ladies were all-state in Class 1A: Savannah Davis, Briley Auvenshine and Savannah Davis, who was also state tournament MVP. Davis was also MVP of the District and Region. The girls won the district, region and state tournaments. All District winners were Dani Dyer, Briley Auvenshine, Kylie Reynolds, Mikaela Reynolds, Katie Chesser, and Savannah Davis. All Region was Dani Dyer, Briley Auvenshine, and Savannah Davis.

The team's assistant coach was Ashley Barker Lowe, who Wilkins said 'is like part of the (Wilkins) family. She was a player on the MHS girls team, and babysat for the Wilkins while she was in high school. She was very involved in coaching and leading many efforts.

Award winners were: Katie Chesser — Most Charges, Sixth Man; Mikaela Reynolds — Deflection Leader; Miss Rebel — Savannah Davis; Got to Have Heart — Dani Dyer (the lone senior), who was credited for providing team leadership. Davis was honored with a basketball commemorating her 1000-point career. The 1000-point was earned during the semi-final state game against Gleason.

In her farewell address,

Dyer praised the coaches for setting a high standard and for have a Christ-centered focus. She thanked them for taking time away from their families.

McKenzie Rebels

A football season that extended into the first week of December hindered multi-sport athletes from practicing or playing basketball until football season ended. Wilkins said a season is not about where you start, but where you finish. The slow start was reversed when the team won the district, region, and finished in the top eight in the state tournament.

McKenzie Lady Rebels and Rebels hosted an unprecedented two substate games in the McKenzie gymnasium within days of each others. Both ended in sectional wins and trips to the state tournament.

All-District players were Tate Surber, Marquez Taylor, Bryson Steele, Zayden McCaslin, and Stafford Roditis.

All-Region were Zayden McCaslin and Bryson Steele with Marquez Taylor earning Regional MVP.

Award winners were: Newcomer — Tate Surber; Sharp Shooter — Stafford Roditis; Push the Floor Award — Marquez Taylor; Sixth Man Award — Zach Aird; Got to Have Heart — Zayden McCaslin; and Mr. Rebel — Bryson Steele. Managers were Gracie Henderson, Allie Laser, Carson Burke, Giancarlo Cevallos, and Landry Smith. The team was coached by John Wilkins and assisted by Hunter Herin and Preston Henderson.

Jennifer Ognibene, sponsor of the cheerleaders, praised the cheerleaders for their service during extended football and basketball seasons. They started August 13 and cheered for seven months through football and basketball - sometimes on Fridays for football and through the week for basketball.

Cheerleaders were Captain Taylor Hall, Co-Captain Jessica Moore, Alajah Gilbert, Ava Jones, Parker Lyons, Macey Mayo, Belle O'Brien, Brett Toombs, Kaida Walton, Abbie Young, Reese Gallimore, Emmy McMullin, Lydia Pate, Laila Scott, and Abbi Sumrok.

Jessica Moore was honored to receive the Taylor Buckley Award. Buckley died in a car accident when she was in high school.

The Andy Camp Award was given to Zayden McCaslin and Savannah Davis.

Andy Camp died in a car crash as he was returning to Murray State University. He was a 1981 MHS graduate, scholar, and 'fit in' with anyone, said his brother, Brad. The award honors school citizenship, attitude, and academics. Camp's parents, John and Karen, were in attendance. Both are retired educators at McKenzie. She was a player on the MHS Rebelettes team and was an all-state basketball player.

The Barbara Boyd Memorial Scholarship was presented by Tim McBride on behalf of the Boyd family. She died two years ago and was one of the McKenzie basketball's biggest supporters. Recipients must exhibit academics, character and leadership. Boyd was a former teacher at MHS and played for the MHS Rebelettes. The two recipients of the $500 scholarship were Dani Dyer and Zayden McCaslin.

McKenzie Mayor Jill Holland said roadside signage is ready to install to denote the MHS Lady Rebels' state championship. Holland's son was on the 2006 baseball championship team.
