FFA celebrates 60th with young women in more leadership roles

By Mark Ridolfi NSP Assistant Editor

FFA welcomed women into their ranks in 1969. Today, FFA membership and North Scott student leadership is mostly female, with fewer farm-raised students and more city kids sharing a resurging respect for the club some denigrated as "farm kids." "There's more of a respect for agriculture," said North Scott FFA historian Abbi Lafrenz. "There still is the farm kid stereotype. But so many kids in ag class don't live on a farm. With all this new equipment, so much technology, so many jobs you didn't know about in ag, I really feel there are opportunities for lots of kids, not just farm kids."

The chapter celebrates its 60th anniversary with an open house in the high school ag classrooms at 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 30, with a brief program at 7 p.m. Sixty years of memorabilia will be on display researched by Lafrenz. Alumni are encouraged to bring their own photos and mementos.

School board picks Keppy as new chairman

Maxwell pledges to stay on board even if he wins supervisor race

By Mark Ridolfi NSP Assistant Editor

Glen Keppy will chair the North Scott School Board, a unanimous choice Monday by board members seeking a successor to John Maxwell.

Keppy has a wealth of agriculture industry leadership experience he hopes to put to work for the school board, where he's been a board member for four years.

He told The NSP he approaches board leadership as an alumni, parent and grandparent to North Scott students.

"I graduated from North Scott. I raised three sons and a daughter who graduated. And I've got six grandchildren in the district," he said.

Keppy said district residents can expect him to pursue established goals, including a regional FFA center, a new bus garage and "furthering discussions" on a partnership with Eldridge and the Scott County Y for a fitness center in Eldridge.

"I'm looking forward to community involvement. I really see this board as pulling the rope, not pushing the district," he said.

Keppy has been very active in local and statewide Republican politics, and served as a Farm Services Agency associate administrator under President George W. Bush. He also was chairman of the National Pork Board's Foreign Trade Commission.

Park View eyes $5.25 million sewer options

Discussion set for Oct. 17 meeting

By Mark Ridolfi NSP Assistant Editor

Park View faces at least $5.25 million in sewer treatment plant upgrades, the cheapest of three proposals being considered by Park View Water and Sanitary District trustees.

Trustees on Sept. 19 reviewed options from Strand Associates, the Madison, Wis., engineering firm hired for $24,000 to help the district meet tougher treatment requirements imposed by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources.

Park View Water and Sanitary District operator

Brent Earley expects trustees will review options at their Oct. 17 meeting, and decide at the November meeting.

Trustees earlier approved a $1.3 million water treatment upgrade that will begin early next year. The board has said Park View residents should expect more rate increases to pay for the improvements.

The new sewer treatment study estimates 2,718 people rely on the Park View sewer plant. Engineers calculated space in and near the district for about 150 more residential lots that could bring the population to 3,045 by 2040.

They also calculated about 7,000 gallons per day from a new Scott County Park campground under construction.

The district now uses three lagoon to store and treat sewage.

Strand presented three options, including an $8.29 million option to replace lagoon treatment with a new, 12,000-square-foot treatment building. But trustees are focusing on the two cheaper options that repurpose the district's three sewage lagoons.

The first option retains the first two lagoons for aeration, then adds a submerged attached growth reactor to the third lagoon. The reactor uses bacteria to break down sewage in a covered rock bed. Strand estimated that cost at $4.44 million.

A second option at $4.5 million would abandon the first cell and use the other two to mix and aerate waste-

FFA 60TH: Ag group teaches career and college readiness

Polaroid photos among the archives. She counts out loud the number of students following in parents' footsteps. Caelan Long's dad, Clint. Coryn Wilson's dad, Matt. Colin DeCap's mom, Stephanie (Henzen) DeCap. There are others. But most of today's FFA members are launching their own traditions.

Just like in the 1960s, FFA advisor Jacob Hunter still gets harvest-help calls from farmers.

"He's still got farmers who will call and say, 'Send me three boys,'" Lafrenz said. "But 60 percent of our chapter is girls."

The girls and the boys know how to do much more than haul a grain bin or groom livestock.

Hunter presents agriculture courses and FFA events that emphasize data-driven research, scientific methods, marketing, government services, parliamentary procedure and public speaking.

He says more students are drawn by FFA's array of opportunities than in his day, in 2002 at DeWitt Central.

"Back then, more emphasis was on college readiness, not college and career readiness. In FFA today, they go hand in hand," Hunter said.

Hunter hails from a farm family, but is a first generation FFA member.

"In eighth or ninth grade, I wanted to take an ag class," he said. But in the era of college readiness, teaching farm skills to a farm kid seemed redundant. "Back in '02 and '03, that wasn't seen as a positive investment of time," Hunter recalled.

"But FFA clicked for me. It was my sport," said Hunter, who went on to Iowa State University, then worked in Des Moines for the World Food Prize before accepting the call to North Scott.

"We are working with an entirely different demographic than just 10 years ago. Ten years ago, we were still show driven and most students came from ag families," he said.

Today, students have way more extracurricular opportunities filling their days.

Hunter's mission is showing students the breadth of opportunities in addition to fieldwork.

Abbi Lafrenz is convinced.

She experienced no pressure at home to follow in her dad's FFA footsteps. "It was an elective that looked interesting to me; it wasn't a big push," she said.

The impact has been "amazing," she said.

"It was crazy to learn how to talk in front of people," she said. FFA activities include public speaking. "Now, it's weird to think as a freshman I was afraid to talk in front of a group of 30 people."

This year, for new student orientation, Abbi addressed a group of 90.

"I never thought I'd be able to handle all the things I do now. If you would have told me freshman year, I never would have believed it."

Hunter is making believers out of many junior high and high school students working above their own expectations.

He had a conference opportunity this summer that would take him away during the FFA chapter's lucrative sweet corn sale.

"The students took on the sweet corn sales. They managed two weeks of sales on their own and made $1,500," he said. "They came up with their own standard operating procedures and wrote them down so next year's students will know what to do."

Self-sufficiency is among the traits that FFA has always emphasized. And FFA students always have cultivated field skills that assured future employment. Now, Hunter said the FFA of the future will retain those skills and add a bunch more.

"We'll see less focus on tasks and more on robotics and computer engineering. Drone technology. Precision agriculture. They will learn to harvest that data in computers."

He sees huge opportunities in science, or the "ologies," including entomology, biotechnology and conservation-minded studies.

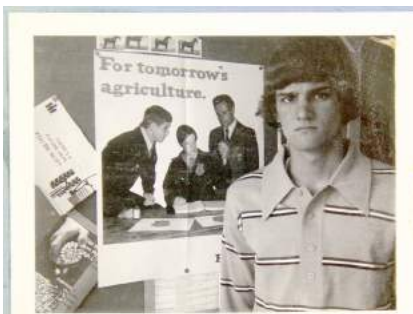

"There are tons of jobs in entomology, but how do you make bugs interesting to high school students?" Hunter asked.

He expects more interest in goats, chickens, rabbits and smaller animals as livestock, "with less expensive feed inputs." That can draw city kids with no access to or interest in cattle and hogs.

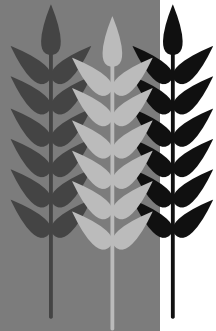

He also sees an emphasis on genetics to get more out of fewer acres. "Let's face it. We're going to have less land. I don't foresee big plants like Kraft coming down to make more farmland available," he said.

But some things will never change. "We'll still raise pigs. I don't foresee myself foregoing bacon, ever."

Splash alert! Grants help fuel summer fun

Water park expected to open next summer

By Phil Roberts
NSP Staff Writer

The years-old plan to build a splash pad in Walcott is becoming a reality, thanks to some recent grants to assist in the construction.

The Walcott Parks & Recreation Board received two grants totaling $48,000 from Scott County Regional Authority and another grant for $15,000 from the Roy J. Carver Charitable Trust.

That's in addition to contributions from Walcott-area individuals and organizations.

A splash pad is a recreation area for water play. It has little or no standing water, eliminating the need for life-guards.

Walcott's splash pad, to be located across from Wescott Park on city-owned green space just east of the community's batting cage and tennis courts on West Otis Street, is scheduled to open in the summer of 2019.

In the meantime, reconstruction of West Otis Street between Main Street and Rowe Lane is currently underway. That project includes sanitary sewer replacement, a new storm sewer, water main replacement and concrete pavement of the street plus parking areas for the park and the splash pad.

Funds from the city's road use tax and local option sales tax are paying for the reconstruction project, much of which will be finished by this coming Nov. 30.

Centennial Contractors is the general contractor for the splash pad, and construction on it started in May of this year. The tentative cost of the project is $138,729. Some parts of the work are being delayed, though, so the splash pad can connect to the new water main. Splash pad equipment will be installed next spring.

Walcott's new splash pad will be built on this city-owned lot, located across from Wescott Park.

"The contract with Centennial Contractors did not include a shelter or benches and tables," notes Lisa Rickertsen, Walcott's city clerk. "The Burt Family and Hearts and Hands Foundation are planning to build the shelter, and we are hoping to receive donations for benches and tables."

The 8-foot ADA-compliant tables and 6-foot benches will include memorial plaques. A new brochure, listing the items needed, what they will cost and how to donate toward them, is available at Walcott City Hall. Donations are tax deductible.

The idea for a splash pad for Walcott first came up in 2012 when the city, in partnership with what was then called the Walcott Vision Committee (now the non-profit Hearts and Hands Foundation) contracted with the Iowa Downtown Resource Center of the Iowa Economic Development Authority to conduct a Downtown Assessment Visit in Walcott on July 24 and 25 of 2012.

The Iowa Economic Development Authority's two-day assessment visit involved participation in a community familiarization and downtown walking tour, interviews with more than 70 people representing public and private sectors in the community.

The assessment team asked those interviewed to identify the challenges and/or their desires for change for Walcott.

In the area of recreation, those interviewed, including students, said the community needed a splash pad or pool and a skate park.

The Walcott City Council then held a special meeting with the Vision Committee on April 10, 2013, to discuss community development projects and goals.

A splash pad/skate park made the council's top-10 priority list, with the consensus being that a splash pad would cover a broader age range.

The next step forward for the splash pad came at a council meeting in September of 2013 when council members, following a recommendation from the Walcott Parks & Recreation Board, decided to purchase of two lots across from Wescott Park and pursue plans for a splash pad on them.

PARK VIEW: Engineers say Long Grove hook up would be too expensive

water. Treatment would be in a 48-by-112-foot reactor, a concrete structure filled with plastic modules that hold the bacteria.

The lagoons would be covered with a liner designed to keep wastewater warm enough through winter months for bacteria to continue working.

Both options would cost about $61,000 a year to operate.

All options include about $810,000 to dredge, dry and dispose of about 1,400 dry tons of waste that covers one to two feet of the bottom of the lagoons. Those costs also include ultraviolet disinfection equipment required for both options, and upgrades to the Kaasa Heights lift station, that pumps sewage to the lagoons.

Park View trustees are not considering another option: Hooking up to Long Grove, a far more expensive option that requires $6.6 million of piping as well as future expansion of the Long Grove sewer treatment plant.

"Based on preliminary evaluation and general discussions with the City of Long Grove, regionalization with Long Grove does not appear to be a cost-effective, or feasible alternative and therefore is not evaluated further," Strand engineers wrote.

Valley View advances

Trustees allowed a two-year maintenance bond on Valley View Farms water and sewer infrastructure, but will require four-year bonds for developers wishing to hook up.

Valley View developer Jim Hass told trustees he hadn't anticipated the maintenance bond, an insurance policy should the water and sewer pipes fail in the new subdivision of about 30 lots covering 29 acres at the northwest corner of 270th Street and Scott Park Road

"My understanding is the last addition came in with no maintenance bond," Hass said in reference to Dexter Acres on Park View's east side.

Trustee Myron Scheibe said the district had no policy, then suggested Valley View be allowed the two-year maintenance bond. The other two trustees agreed.

"Going forward, all in the future will have to have four-year bonds," Scheibe said.

He also urged Hass to petition the county to include the new subdivision within the water district. Scheibe said the Scott County Board must approve changes in taxing district boundaries.

Once inside the district, the Valley View homeowners will pay a rate that is now 54 cents per thousand dollars of assessed value. That rate hasn't changed since 2010.

Scheibe said the boundary changes should happen before lot sales begin.

Shut off changes

Trustees approved a new temporary shut-off policy that will waive quarterly minimum sewer charge until water is restored.

The district will continue to charge $25 to restore water service.

"It's something we've always done here, but never had in writing," District water and sewer operator Earley told the trustees.

He said reducing the costs for temporary shut offs, "is a peace-of-mind thing for customers," who won't have to worry about leaks while away.

Apartment metering

Trustees revised billing for an apartment building owners whose washing machines have not been individually metered.

Earley said an eight-unit building owned by V J. Puri, of Puri Family Estates LLC, has been billed at a mix of commercial and residential sewer and water rates. Trustees have been review-

Board fires McCubbin

Park View Water and Sanitary District trustees found cause to formally fire Joel McCubbin, the district's longtime public works manager who had been on unpaid suspension since Aug. 29, 2017.

The firing follows the Sept. 11 release of an audit implicating McCubbin for gambling at area casinos during weekdays he was obligated to Long Grove and Park View. It also found he had received reimbursement for the same expenses from both employers.

Trustees voted Sept. 19 for the termination, then sent a letter dated Sept. 20. "The Trustees have determined there is cause for termination of your employment and moved to do so at the Sept. 19 meeting," they wrote. "The date of termination will be retroactive to Aug. 29, 2017, and is consistent with what was conveyed in the letter by Mr. DeLange of the same date."

Park View Water and Sanitary District attorney Harold DeLange notified McCubbin on Aug. 29, 2017 that he was suspended without pay, "until such time as the audit is available."

McCubbin served as public works director for the district and the city of Long Grove for more than 30 years. Long Grove officials alerted Park View trustees, and later the state auditor, with concerns about McCubbin's performance.

That audit has been shared with county and state prosecutors.

Trustees on Sept. 19 approved the firing with little discussion. Trustee chairman Joe McKeown said DeLange advised them to wait a few weeks before contacting County Attorney Mike Walton about possible criminal or civil action.

ing commercial accounts and finding several that do not accurately reflect actual usage.

Earley calculated a new quarterly sewer and water bill of $1,077.36, compared to previous bills of $894.69.

Puri Family Estates owns 33 units on Manor Drive just south of 270th Street. The firm bought them in 2010 for $1.275 million.

Float quote

Trustees voted to spend $2,125 on a water pressure regulator, switch and auto dialer that can send a warning before pressure drops to dangerously low levels.

On Sept. 7, Earley issued a boil order after he discovered a water tower valve chain kinked, leaving a valve open that dropped system pressure and forced an advisory boil order. Earley likened it to the chain on a toilet tank flap. The replacement includes a system that sends a cell phone alert to operators who can respond before a boil order is needed.

SCHOOLS: District confirms slight drop in state funding this school year

Keppy was sworn in at Monday's meeting at North Scott Junior High School. Keppy said he, "is very supportive of the action" taken by Superintendent Joe Stutting following the gun threat at the junior high.

"There is no clear-cut answer or solution for this. There are things to do on many different fronts," he said.

He added that metal detectors are "on my list of options" the district will consider. "But that's more like a county courthouse or airport security option. You want to consider the latest technology, but people always find ways around it."

Maxwell said he decided not to seek the chairmanship. He is running for Scott County Supervisor and said that if elected, he would continue serving the school board and would seek reelection next year.

At Thursday's NSP county supervisor candidate forum, Maxwell told the audience that board vice chairman Molly Bergfeld would succeed him as president. At Monday's board meeting, Maxwell apologized for "making a mistake."

"I misspoke, and I've apologized to Molly," Maxwell told The NSP.

Bergfeld on Monday said she had been interested, but her responsibilities at Deere & Co. have increased since she informally discussed the chairmanship "at least a month ago."

"I think I can spend my time contributing to the board in other ways," she said.

Keppy said he was approached by other board members "a couple of days ago" about the chairmanship. On Monday, he was the only nominee and approved unanimously.

For vice chairman, board members voted 3-2 for Tracy Lindaman over Mark Pratt. Both are serving their first terms. Donn Wilmott nominated Pratt. Maxwell nominated Lindaman.

State aid drops slightly

The board's September meeting traditionally includes annual financial summaries, which board members unanimously accepted.

Treasurer's report: District treasurer Steve Fahrenkrug reported total district assets at $25.6 million, down 5.7 percent from last year's $27.16 million. Fahrenkrug reported interest earnings of $371,986.05, up about $228,258.69 from last year. He credited interest rates, "which almost doubled," over the past year.

Certified annual report: District finance director Jill Von Roedel reported total property taxes collected at $13,515,356.35. That's 2.8 percent higher than last year.

Total state aid appropriated through the legislature is $22,565,623.42, or $25,426 less than the previous year. That is a drop of 0.11 percent.

Instructional expenses, which are mostly teacher salaries, totaled $22,540,000.53, or 1 percent higher than last year. School administration services increased 3.2 percent to $2,104,114.79.

Van Roedel said flat or reduced legislative funding will put pressure for more property tax revenue in the coming year.

Equity report: District equity officer Kelly Rohlf showed 4.09 percent African American and 3.58 percent Hispanic students among the district's 3,324 enrolled students, almost unchanged from last year.

Armstrong is the most diverse school with 80 percent white enrollment. Glenn Elementary was the least, with 92 percent white enrollment.

Rohlf also included data on teachers for the first time. The district has 49 men and 201 women as teachers. It showed one African American teacher and no Hispanic teachers among the 251 on payroll. "That's not a lot of diversity," he told the board.

Meeting dates

The board continued scheduling meetings at 6:30 p.m., the first and third Mondays of each month. In June, July and December, the board meets only the third Monday. The board meets at district schools, beginning at Armstrong Elementary Oct. 22, starting with a work session at 5:30 p.m.

Remaining school meetings beginning at 6:30 p.m. will be on Nov. 26 at Shepard, Jan. 28 at White, Feb. 25 at Glenn, March 25 at Grissom and April 22 at the high school.

Committee assignments

The board named members of committees, an area new chairman Keppy emphasized.

"The strength of an organization is in its committees. I'm going to rely on them. Committee work is going to be very important. I want time and thought about what you're going to serve on," he told the board.

Facility committee board members are Joni Dittmer, Tracy Lindaman and Mark Pratt. Finance committee members are John Maxwell, Mark Pratt and Donn Wilmott. Iowa Association of School Board lobbying committee members are Donn Wilmott and Glen Keppy. Their job is to take "the district's approved legislative agenda" to the general assembly, according to board documents.

Employee wage and benefit negotiations are handled by the district's Interest Based Problem Solving Team, composed of board members Donn Wilmott, Molly Bergfeld, Glen Keppy and John Maxwell.

The board continued using Blackhawk Bank and Trust, Milan, Ill., First Central State Bank, DeWitt, First Trust and Savings, Wheatland, and U.S. Bank, Minneapolis.

Eldridge Approves Water Bond Issue

A large turn out of voters was had in the water bond issue in Eldridge, Monday. A total of 326 persons voted on the $200,000 bond for improving the water system. The issue was approved by 304 of the votes cast, with 20 dissenting and two spoiled. The turn out has been considered a large one, larger than the number of votes cast in the recent general elections by one ballot.

Lutherans To Install Pastor

ELDRIDGE--The Service of Installation for Pastor Peterson will be held at the 10:00 a.m. Service on Sunday, September 29. Dr. Raynold J. Lingwall, President of the Iowa Synod, will be present to preach the sermon and conduct the installation. The 8:30 service and the Sunday Church School Classes will be held as usual.

After the service of Installation, a potluck congregational dinner will be served in the Fellowship Hall as a welcoming reception for the new pastor and his family. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish and their own table service for the event. The beverage will be furnished.

School Board Elects Officers

Robert Copley Jr. was unanimously elected president of the North Scott Community School District meeting September 16. He has been vice president for the past two years. Copley was nominated by Ned Mohr who has been president for two years. Fred Jansen, Long Grove, was elected vice president. Both Glen P. Suiter, Princeton and Mrs. Walter Heuer, Princeton declined nomination.

The official tallies for the September 9 election showed an increase of nearly 100 votes from the unofficial tallies. Copley's vote changed from 557 to 678 and Mohr's count was raised to 669 from 567.

Several items of business which had been tabled at a previous meeting were again tabled for action at a future meeting.

Business which was discussed was the condemnation of Butler No. 1 school and replacement of a steel stack on the junior-senior high building.

Notification was received from the Scott County Zoning and Building Department that the abandoned country school has been condemned as requested. The building will probably be turned over to the Long Grove volunteer fire department for burning as a practice session.

The steel stack on the junior-senior high building in Eldridge is badly rusted and there is danger of its falling. Replacement was authorized at a cost of $790.

The board discussed briefly future building plans but no decisions were reached.

"We Do Care" Theme Of Lion's Flag Sale

"We Do Care" will be the theme of the flag sale project carried by the Eldridge Lion's Club. The drive which will be conducted September 29 through October 5 will attempt to stimulate renewal of faith in our country.

According to Jim Tank, chairman of the sale committee, the club has a goal of having a flag flying on every home by the November general election. They will conduct a door-to-door campaign to take orders with delivery scheduled before November

5. The town will be canvassed by two man teams.

In addition to Tank, the committee which is organizing the flag sale consists of Gene Green, Fred Hamann, Dennis Schwitter and Bill Teubel.

Eldridge residents will be offered a choice of three kits.

One kit will be complete for use in the yard, another to hang on a window. These kits will cost $6. The third kits offers a cotton flag in a zipper pouch for $4. Each kit will include a color fast 3 x 5 foot flag, aluminum jointed poles with a gold spread eagle top ornament and a flag etiquette booklet.

Anyone outside of Eldridge who would like to purchase a flag to display in their home, can order one at the bank before October 5.

Thresher's Meal set for Sept. 30

In years past, when farmers harvested their fields, threshing crews would travel from farm to farm helping to bring in the crops. The family would provide hearty dinners to keep the workers going, while the crews would enjoy the break from the hard labor.

As a way of honoring that tradition, the Scott County Historical Society will host its 21st Annual Thresher's Meal on Sunday Sept. 30, at Our Savior Presbyterian Church, 22530 240th Ave., (1/4 mile north of Argo Corners). The church is handicapped accessible.

This year's menu includes chicken and noodles and roast pork loin, mashed potatoes and gravy, cheesy potatoes, green bean medley, sweet corn nibbles, cole slaw, applesauce, and pickles.

Also included in the meal will be bread and biscuits as well as delicious homemade desserts made by members. For those who eat at the church, drinks of lemonade, iced tea, and coffee will be available.

The meal will be served from 4-7 p.m. Carryout orders are welcome. Call in your order after 3:30 p.m. that day at 563-289-4959 or 563-676-6762.

Meal donations are $8 for adults, $4 for children 6 through 12, and for children under 5, the meal is free. Family maximum is $25.00.

All proceeds from the meal will go to help preserve the Society's home, Historic Summit Church, on Utica Ridge Road, Davenport.

For more information, call 563-343-3450 or email historicsummitchurch@gmail.com.

Slopertown closed through Friday

Equipment failure is the reason for another delay on reopening Slopertown Road.

Davenport Public Works Communications and Preparedness Director Robbin Dunn said, a "contractor's water blaster broke over the weekend," which delayed lane striping through Thursday.

"Pending any additional issues, the road should full re-open on Friday," Dunn said. Work had been scheduled to wrap up Sept. 14, but was delayed by rainfall. Contractors for Davenport are widening Division and Slopertown, and adding turn lanes for the new Sterilite plant.

DONAHUE

Community works hard to play

By Synclaire Lunardi
NSP Intern

A cheery yellow and blue playground now greets those entering Donahue following a collaborative effort with the Donahue Sportsmen's Club, the city of Donahue and a homegrown company wanting to give back to its community.

"It'll be shared by the Sportsmen's and the city both," said Sportsmen's president Kevin Marple. "It really was for more nicer, newer, updated playground equipment in the town itself. It's got some handicap-accessible stuff on it, so we're just trying to really upgrade that part that's so important to have."

The playground equipment was brought to the city by Zogg & Associates, 27610 90th Ave., Donahue. The firm specializes in home and bathroom accessibility renovations, as well as playgrounds.

"We're here locally. We live out by Donahue. We have a family-owned business, and so we just wanted to do something for the community. That's how we run the business, helping the community in any way we can," said Marci Zogg.

Their interest came at the right time for Donahue.

Volunteers pitched in to assemble Donahue's playground.

"We had some old playground equipment that wasn't really very safe anymore," said Mayor Ken Schoenthaler. "We were approached by Zogg & Associates, and they offered us a package that we just couldn't pass up. It's an outstanding playground. Zogg brought the stuff in, bored the holes, and set the posts and then we had volunteers from the community who came in and put the pieces together. It was quite a project. It was challenging, but we actually did pretty well."

Marci Zogg said community collaboration is their firm's specialty.

"A lot of times, communities will want to have a volunteer build, and they usually get volunteers and things like that. And my husband, his business is installing commercial playgrounds and he's certified and been through the classes and things like that, so when he can offer his expertise, he does."

Many volunteers came together to complete the project. "Some days we'd have three or four people, and some days we'd have 10 people, but it seemed like at the appropriate times we would had the appropriate number of people to come help," Mayor Schoenthaler said.

"It was done in cooperation with the city itself. They bought the equipment and then the mayor contacted me and asked if we could get volunteer help lined up to help assemble it," said Marple.

"So when the equipment showed up, we'd contacted a few local contractors in the area and had them volunteer. We had Peterson Plumbing come out with a couple of their guys that live in the Donahue area that helped."

This playground stands as a testament to the community's ability to come together and make something happen.

"If you want to be more involved in your community and have a bit more rural lifestyle, Donahue is a great place to live," Schoenthaler said.

"It's a place where you can be really part of what goes on in the area, and it gives you the opportunity to get involved with a lot of projects like this one. I hope it stays this way for a long time to come."

BOOKMOBILE UPDATE

It was a great summer in the bookmobile. Patrons enjoyed participating in the Summer Reading program "Libraries Rock". One lucky winner from each branch won their own "Bookmobile Party" at their home. Bookmobile BINGO was also a big hit with our patrons.

The bookmobile participated in Eldridge Days with an appearance in the parade and an afternoon of "Touch

A Truck, great fun was had by all. Walcott Days attendees also saw the bookmobile in their parade.

On August 15, the first "ROCK OUR TEACHERS WORLD" campaign was held. Lots and lots of supplies were donated for our North Scott elementary teacher's classrooms. We appreciate their efforts and the generosity of the community in making this event such a success.

Just like our students, the bookmobile will be going back to school starting in September. It is our privilege to visit the North Scott elementary schools, North Scott Jr. High and the Walcott elementary school.

Coming this Fall, watch for the Bookmobile in your neighborhood (the schedule is available online or in the library), come visit the "Haunted Bookmobile" in October at the Eldridge library and mark your calendar to stop by and see us during Hometown Holidays.

Adult outreach services are available through the bookmobile. Call to see if you or someone you know qualifies for this specialized home service. 563.285.4794 ext 2237

MEET KERRI!

My name is Kerri Weipert and I am the Literacy Outreach Service Coordinator here at the Scott County Library. I have the privilege of sharing Story Time with the younger group here at the library on Tuesday Mornings. We sing some songs as well and do some actions. I also lead Baby's Morning Out, a story time for infants 0-18 months. Every other Wednesday, we read board books, sing songs, and play—it's a great opportunity to meet other new parents!

I also have the opportunity to share Story time with in home daycare as well as preschool throughout the North Scott Community. I made activity bags that I bring with me to the in home daycares. They include books as well as an activity for the children to borrow and play with. Each activity bag has a different theme and content with books. My Favorite activity bag is: Sharing & Kindness, which includes the book, The Rainbow Fish By: Marcus Pfister. This is one of my favorite books; it is about learning to be kind and sharing. I also like the: Sports Activity bag which includes the book, Goodnight Baseball By: Michael Dahl. This book is about going to a baseball game, the things you will see and the memories being made.

Upcoming Dates

Baby's Morning Out: Wednesdays, 9 a.m. on October 3, 17 & 31 November 14, & December 5

Story Time at the Park: Mondays, 10 a.m. October 8 & 22

On Tuesday & Friday mornings at 10 a.m., I share stories, sing songs, and make crafts with the younger group (babies and toddlers). I'm looking forward to our annual Halloween Parade story time on Tuesday October 23 and 26 – Listen to a spooky story, wear your costume, and trick or treat through the library.

THE PROBLEM

I never see it on the shelf

When new books come out, there can be dozens of holds already. Make sure you're near the top of the list.

DURANT NEWS

What great fun The Durant branch had with the Summer Reading Program! We had dogs to read to, zoo animals to touch, weekly movies and popcorn, games, a piano playing afternoon, a marching band through the library, too.

Fall is now upon us and schedules are full of football, soccer, school. The Bookmobile continues to stop after school twice a month. We also have Lego Wednesdays, Durant Book Club, Portable Projects group. We also have a monthly story hour that includes a story, a project and a treat. Kids like to try the Kid Zone scavenger hunt, to get something weekly from the prize bucket.

Stop in and pick up the event calendar, or check out Scottcountylibrary.org for event schedules.

- 1 Visit the library website to fill out the online form or pick up a paper form at any of our branches.
- 2 Select from more than 90 authors (as many as you want). If you want large print, most authors are available in that format.
- 3 Wait for a notification that your hold has come in. You can pick up your holds at any Rivershare library.

Did you know that all branches of the Scott County Library System have Friends groups? If you're interested in joining a group that supports the programs and activities of your local branch, stop in for more information! We are lucky to have such great Friends!

FAQ

What if I don't see an author I like?
We take suggestions for new authors to add. Just write it on your form.

Why do all my holds come in at once?
We randomize the holds list for each author with each new title, so you always have the chance to be the first! Publishing goes in waves, so if you have a lot of authors selected and they all publish a book in June, you could be getting too much to read. Just send some back and we can replace the holds so you can read it another time.

What if I am away for an extended period of time?
Contact staff at any SCLS branch. We can suspend the holds so they won't be active in the system until after you're back. If you can't make it to pick up a hold, just call. We'll send it on and get you back on the list.

Can I get my favorite series from one author but not the rest of his work?
Unfortunately, we have so many people on the BSC, you'll have to get every new title from each author you select. However, you don't have to check them all out. We can always send them on to the next person.

What if I want a different format?
Our budget doesn't currently support having a BSC for every format. We do publish a monthly blog though, so you can keep track of your favorite authors and look for the audiobooks or ebooks from that list.

I have a card from another library, why can't I join?
This is a labor intensive service that is for SCLS taxpayers. Some other area libraries offer the service, so please ask your home library.

How do I add or remove authors from my list?
If you fill out the form online there's an option to add or remove authors.

Youth invited to speak at January 2019 TEDxYouth event

The first ever TEDxYouth event will be held at the Putnam Museum in Davenport on Jan. 16, 2019. The event theme will be "Change Makers" and will be focused on having youth presenters, between the ages of 15-24. The call for speakers began Aug. 22 and is open to Quad-Cities area high school and regional college students.

Talks are required to be well-formatted, visually inspiring, and act as a launching point both for the speaker's idea and themselves. Speaker applications are due Sept. 29, and can be remitted online at <http://www.tedx-davenport.com/speak-at-tedx> and require the submission of a three-minute video describing your proposed presentation. Questions? Call (319) 321-7396.

Launched in 2009, TEDx is a program of locally organized events that bring the community together to share a TED-like experience. Some of the best talks from TEDx events have gone on to be featured on TED.com and garnered millions of views from audiences across the globe.

TEDxYouth is unlike any conference or networking event. Attendees will engage with other open-minded idea-seekers in a half-day exploration of powerful ideas and unique experiences designed to inspire, inform, and challenge.

"TEDxYouth is focused on providing our community's youth a platform to share new ideas, to highlight our young 'change makers' who have the potential for pushing boundaries and transforming our region," said Andrea Olson, TEDxYouth director.

LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

Things are actually better than we think

What a week it was – again. Sometimes it feels like the world is coming apart at the seams. Consider the week just past.

Impressions
by Bill Tubbs

• Ames and the Iowa State University community were shook up on Monday, Sept. 17 when the body of Celia Barquin Arozamena was found dead at Coldwater Links Golf Course in Ames. Arozamena, from Spain, was the Big Twelve champion golfer who would graduate next year with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering.

The accused killer, 22-year-old Collin Richards, is not from Mexico or any other country. He is a native Iowan, from the small towns of Coon Rapids and Jefferson who was here legally. Thus I saw no press releases from our governor or president blaming our immigration laws, as they did in the Mollie Tibbetts killing a month earlier in Brooklyn, Iowa.

Richards was arrested and charged with first degree murder. He had told a friend that he had "an urge to rape and kill a woman." Why, oh why, didn't the friend tell authorities?

Iowa State had planned to honor Arozamena as Female Athlete of the Year at Saturday's football game. The honor, tragically, was observed posthumously with fans wearing yellow in her memory. I even saw a picture of the Texas Tech stadium on Facebook lighted up in honor of Iowa State – a great show of support from another Big Twelve university.

• Two days later, on Wednesday, Sept. 19, Anthony Tong, 43, an employee at a Madison, Wis., software company, went to his office with a pistol and extra ammunition and began firing on his colleagues, seriously injuring several, before he was fatally shot by police.

We became aware of this right away because the school and pre-school which our grandchildren attend in Middleton, Wis., were on shut down. A scary situation not unlike what happened at North Scott Junior High on Aug. 31, except that here, thankfully, nobody was hurt.

• The next day, Thursday, Sept. 20, a mass shooting broke out in Maryland at a Rite Aid distribution center, about 35 miles northeast of Baltimore. CBS News reported that police said a 26-year-old woman armed with a handgun opened fire on coworkers. Three were killed and three others wounded. The woman then shot herself and later died.

What in the world is going on?

Overall, the world is safer

It seems counterintuitive to say this, but worldwide things are better, according to Steven Pinker, a Harvard psychology professor and author of "Enlightenment Now: The Case for Reason, Science, Humanism and Progress."

Pinker was interviewed last month on "Real Time with Bill Maher." When asked by the host what's the good news, Pinker named the following:

1. Life expectancy. It was 31 through most of human history and is now 71 worldwide and 80 in the more developed parts of the world.

2. Education. Through most of history, the vast majority were illiterate. Now 95 percent under age 25 can read and write.

3. Wealth and poverty. Two hundred years ago, 90 percent of the world lived in extreme poverty. Now it's 10 percent, and was reduced by half in the last 25 years. Every day, 137,000 escape extreme poverty. That's more than 1 billion in the last two decades.

4. Peace. The rate of death in war worldwide is one fourth of what it was in the 1980s and one seventh of what it was in the 1960s and 1970s during Vietnam; to say nothing of what it was in the 1950s or during WWII and Korea.

5. Safety. We are 95 percent less likely to be killed in a car accident or plane crash or to be mowed down on the sidewalk, or to die in an industrial accident, or even to be struck by a bolt of lightning. Overall, we are 99 percent safer than a century ago.

6. Democracy. The world has never been more democratic than it has been in this decade.

But, Pinker said, just because things have improved, doesn't mean they're acceptable. They used to be worse.

The progress is even more remarkable when we consider that the planet is supporting four times as many people now (7.7 billion) as 100 years ago, in 1918 (1.8 billion) and almost double in 1974 (4 billion).

Agriculture secretaries

Five former U.S. Secretaries of Agriculture appeared in a panel for the 2018 World Food Prize and were interviewed for Iowa Public TV in a program that aired Sept. 16. Among their observations:

- Adult obesity in the U.S. was 39.8 percent in 2016 compared with 30.5 percent in 2000 and 15 percent in 1980.
- Feeding programs (WIC, SNAP) are 70 percent of the USDA budget.
- WalMart sells 23-24 percent of the groceries in U.S.

Good things to celebrate

Here in this issue of your hometown paper there's lots to read and most of it is good news:

- Dedication of the refurbished North Scott Fine Arts Auditorium (Section C). This is truly a gem, and, as principal Shane Knoche rightly observes, the auditorium touches the life of every student, and members of the community at large, as well.
- 60th anniversary of North Scott FFA. Congratulations!
- Activities at the Scott County Library (pages 11-14A);
- Our first attempt at a Fall Garage Sale promotion (page 17A). Next year we'll announce the date earlier so you have more time to plan!
- The renewal of the football rivalry with Central DeWitt last Friday after 34 years showed the advantage of North Scott building its program in the MAC. The Central football team played hard and will do well going forward, but the Sabers' marching band made a huge positive impression by playing the North Scott Fight Song in front of the visitors' bleachers. North Scott students applauded the band. A great show of good sportsmanship by both schools!

This scammer wasn't very bright

My wife has a smartphone, but I have resisted getting one for myself. I still have my trusty flip phone. Purchased in the early 2000s and old enough now to grow whiskers, it still does what I want it to do – make and take calls. It will do other things, too, like texting, but I'm not into that.

Everyday People

by Phil Roberts

In addition to keeping my old flip phone, I have resisted the urge to give up our landline telephone. We have multiple phones located around the house, and they are convenient. If we were to drop the landline, I'd have to carry my cell phone around all the time, and it's bulky.

So my flip phone stays in its charger most of the time, and I check it once or twice a day for messages.

By the way, I understand landlines, just like record players and vinyl LPs, are making a bit of a comeback right now. That's because people want a way to make phone calls if, for instance, their cell phone service goes out during a storm.

There is a downside, though, to having a landline: Many of the calls one receives on it are from people, businesses or organizations you don't know and/or to whom you don't want to talk. That's despite being on the Do Not Call Registry.

I receive a few junk call messages on my cell, too, but not many. If they are from an unrecognizable number, I merely delete them.

We have caller ID on our landline and we only answer calls from people we know. The rest go to an answering machine. Most of the pests – commonly known as robocallers -- seldom leave a message. Messages they do leave are easily deleted.

There have been times when the landline phone rings when I'm not near a caller ID, so I'll answer it.

But the calls are usually from "Rachel at Cardholder Services" or someone wanting to install a walk-in shower (which we already have), extend our car warranty, get us to donate to some cause or question us about our political beliefs.

Today I made the mistake of answering the landline phone, and a man with a thick foreign accent told me he was from the "computer department" and there was a problem with my computer. I recognized this right away as a scam.

I don't think the scammer was very smart because I said to him, "Hold on while I transfer this call to the police." He replied, "OK. Yeah."

I then hung up. For all I know, he is still holding on.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

This doesn't pass the smell test

Editor:

Re: "Audit erodes decades of trust," (news story, Sept. 19):

Joel McCubbin got the job done. In my experiences on the job site, Joel was one of those somewhat rare guys who always responded quickly and solved problems. He responded timely for inspections, water meter requests, info on sewer laterals, and more. He understood the urgency of the situation and helped out.

In my case, several times. On one job, I was faced with a difficult and daunting underground water service leak on a home in Park View. He located the probable leak location, saving me much time and expense, and headaches for the homeowner.

I was the plumber and/or the general contractor on several jobs in Park View and some in Long Grove and had many encounters with Joel. Delays and headaches are part of the game in my job, but never because of Joel. He had solutions when problems presented, good advice when needed, timely inspections (every time), and quick response to calls.

Sometimes I had to meet him on one of his work locations to pick up a water meter or a plumbing fitting I needed. He even lent me a tool I needed more than once. He is one of those guys who make your day better, not worse.

I don't know a lot about the matter that's headlining the newspaper, but have my doubts about the veracity and/or motives behind it. I remain a bit shocked and somewhat offended by the apparent zeal and not-so-subtle meanness in the portrayal of Joel. It doesn't pass the smell test to me.

I can't help but wonder if the players involved are really concerned about the people of Long Grove, or are presenting themselves as saviors of the people, demurely getting their TV and newspaper coverage.

To me, the process reeks of vindictiveness. Maybe the players in this drama should dial it back a bit, and take a cue from the prevailing character of the people of Long Grove, and show a little kindness and compassion.

The coy, the cute, the clever antics don't play well around here. We see right through it.

RECORDER CANDIDATES SPAR

Candidate forums kicked off with full house at Scott County Library

A sword couldn't cut this tension. Scott County Recorder Rita Vargas and her top deputy, Mindy Ortiz Carpenter, sat inches from each other, delivering civil answers through clenched teeth that emphasized their mutual dislike.

On the Record
by Mark Ridolfi

Our North Scott Press 2018 candidate forums kicked off Sept. 20 with a full house at the Scott County Library to hear spirited discussions among candidates running for recorder, treasurer and supervisor. We reconvene 6:30 p.m. today to interview candidates running for state house Districts 92 and 97, and Senate District 49.

But our first one this year was a doozy.

All candidates spoke candidly about their backgrounds and aspirations. Stay tuned to The NSP. We'll share their thoughts in upcoming coverage.

But the recorder candidates went further. Voters at the forum saw an elected official in her 15th year in office versus her top deputy with 39 years as a Recorder's clerk.

The two simply do not get along. Carpenter dished about backlogs and delays she blames on Vargas' management.

Vargas said she pushed cross training so clerks could cover each other.

Carpenter said Vargas misses too many days of work and needs to do more.

Vargas said she's carrying her weight and said scheduling is tough when veteran employees rack up so much vacation time.

"We have several people who take off one day a week all summer long, and that throws a monkey wrench into the works," Vargas said.

Carpenter elaborated. "When she says 'someone' takes one day a week of vacation, that would be me. In summers I take Thursdays. That's a NaNa Day," Carpenter said, and she uses it to visit her grandchildren in Eldridge. "After 39 years, I'm entitled to a vacation day."

I'll share the breadth of their discussion in upcoming NSP candidate coverage. But the exchange shows how important it is for voters to see, meet and question candidates personally.

More than 60 filled the Scott County Library First Amendment room last Thursday, and I expect that many or more at tonight's legislative forum. Surveys can be very helpful. But forums show how candidates think and speak; two skills essential to elected service.

Afterward, NSP publisher Bill Tubbs posed candidates for photos. Vargas and Carpenter stood almost touching shoulders, holding firm smiles while Bill snapped the shot.

Today, they're side by side at work, probably wondering who voters will select Nov. 6.

Dark money debuts

Saturday turned out too darned sunny to spend inside watching a documentary called, "Dark Money."

But some 70 people joined me at the Figge Museum's Deere Theater for a preview and discussion of a film coming to IPTV at 9 p.m. on Oct. 1 (next Monday).

The film follows Montana newspaper reporter John S. Adams as he tries to track down the secret organizations trying to influence Montana's statehouse races.

Different state. Same dilemma in Iowa.

Many of those nasty political mailers you recycle from your mailbox originate with these legal, but secret campaigns.

Secret money covered just over 40 percent of all special interest group campaign spending in 2010, according to research by the Center for Responsive Politics.

The U.S. Supreme Court's Citizens United ruling allowed secret corporate donations that support issue campaigns, not candidates.

But Adams tracked down discarded documents that showed a Montana statehouse candidate didn't just collude with the secret donor group. He consulted directly with them, ordered their most extensive campaign package and handed over his own mailing lists.

There's so much to learn in the film, especially how it connects the secret campaigns to specific Montana legislative issues pretty similar to some in Iowa.

But this film was completed too early.

Two weeks before its release, our U.S. Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling that will force a secret money operation, Crossroads GPS, to disclose the secret donors who have funded its campaign tactics across the country, including in Iowa.

Hopefully, this new ruling removes the Citizens United veil of secrecy that I believe is an assault on American values of openness and fair play.

Spend your money freely to influence politics. But have the courage of your convictions and own up to it, instead of covering behind secret organizations.

These secret money campaign tactics don't just attack candidates and issues. I believe they attack our nation. These secret donors are campaign terrorists willing to blow up American politics to further their own financial interests.

These secret donors don't want you pondering your ballot alternatives. Those gloomy, phony mailers and social media memes are aimed to make you so frustrated you condemn the entire system, sit out the election and let a handful of others make the decisions for you.

Our NSP candidate forums, on the other hand, show how eager voters are to get first-hand information. It also affirms my beliefs in candidates willing to face voters and let it all hang out, just like Vargas and Carpenter.

In House District 97, we can do better

Editor:

Fellow residents of Iowa House District 97: As a long-time Clinton County resident, I have concerns about the direction our government is heading. Time has come to stop all the partisan conflict and return to the basics of common sense legislation that actually addresses the many problems facing our 21st century society. It is my firm belief that we can, and must do better.

Better means fighting for a livable wage, because a worker-friendly economy is a business-friendly economy. Better means getting our budget priorities back in order at the state level. Better means protecting our public service organizations and their right to collectively bargain with their employers. Better means supporting our public education system to develop the most precious natural resource we have - our kids. Better means protecting our elderly and disabled and their right to quality health care. Better means supporting our service members and their families with ALL the resources they need to thrive in civilian life. Better means continuing to expand the development of renewable resources in our state like wind and solar power to decrease our reliance on non-renewable resources.

I believe better isn't impossible, and that is why I am supporting Tim McClimon for Iowa House Representative for District 97. Tim has a lifetime of experience serving our community in a variety of capacities, and he believes Iowa is worth fighting for. Your vote will help him fight for you, too, and I sincerely encourage you to learn more about his positive message of change.

Tim McClimon is not a candidate relying upon finger pointing and oppositional rhetoric. He is focused on solutions, not problems. That is the kind of leadership we need to bring us back together as a community, as a state, and as a nation. Tim McClimon will represent our voices with honor and humility, and I hope you will all help me give him a chance to prove this.

'Making of Noel' debuts on IPTV

Go behind the scenes of a new musical that follows a young girl who is on a journey to find her mother when Iowa Public Television debuts "The Making of NOËL the Musical" on Monday, Oct. 1 at 8 p.m.

Written by the author of the world renowned "Artemis Fowl" series, Eoin Colfer, and composed by Ireland's pre-eminent composer Liam Bates, "NOËL" has all the makings of an instant Christmas classic. In IPTV's new special, the show's creators discuss how they

On a journey to find her, Noël meets a motley crew of homeless characters who want to help, and in doing so they rediscover their belief in the magic of Christmas, and in themselves.

Monarchs are here

Eldridge resident Jim Turley says the last time Monarchs flocked into his yard was while he sat on the front steps listening to reports about 9/11 on public radio. "There were hundreds of them then," he said. "They're back today, but only a couple dozen." Turley, who also draws cartoons for The NSP, captured the moment.

North Scott ranked 13th in 4A; gets ready for late-season run

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

It's official. The Lancers belong. Just two days after cracking the Class 4A state rankings for the first time this season, North Scott backed up its No. 13 debut with a strong effort at Saturday's Dubuque Invitational.

No, the Lancers didn't win the tournament, but playing without the services of senior Emma Morgan, who sustained a concussion in practice on Thursday, the Lancers did split a pair of matches with No. 12 Iowa City Liberty and gave No. 4 Independence all it could handle before falling 21-18, 21-17 in Pool play.

North Scott finished third in its pool after defeating Dubuque Senior and Liberty and losing to Class 5A Iowa City West and Independence.

The Lancers' 2-2 record dropped them into the Silver Bracket, where they cruised past ADM-Adel (25-18, 25-22) before suffering a 21-25, 25-22, 15-9 loss to Liberty.

"I felt we were really close to having it be a really good weekend for us," said Lancer coach Allie Miguel. "Our pool was stacked, and if we would have beaten Iowa City West, we would've gotten second."

The Lancers had defeated the Women of Troy in the first week of the season, but West turned the tables this time around with a 14-21, 21-18, 15-9 win.

"When we played West, we had just beaten Liberty, and it was the only game all day that we had to go back-to-back," said Miguel. "I think we just ran out of juice a little bit."

Miguel wasn't doing much complaining, and she liked the way her team played despite having to leave Morgan at home.

NS senior finishes 10th; team now sets sights on Tuesday's district meet

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

It should come as no surprise that Mother Nature, much as she has all season, once again reared her dark side on Friday, and as a result North Scott's golf team didn't get the finish it wanted in the Mississippi Athletic Conference tournament.

Thanks to gusting winds and a 30-degree temperature drop from the previous day, the Lancers struggled on their opening 18 holes at Kewanee Dunes, and never fully recovered as they brought home a fifth-place finish from the two-day event.

Pleasant Valley captured the team title, edging Bettendorf by just two strokes (630-632), with Davenport Central taking third (697). Muscatine (702) and the Lancers (703) rounded out the top five.

"We're definitely disappointed with our finish," said first-year Lancer coach Collin Ellis. "We didn't play the way we thought we were capable of as a team. A fifth-place finish is respectable, but anytime you fall short of your goals, it's disappointing."

"We had expectations of a top-three finish," said senior Reece Sommers, who finished 10th in the individual standings, "so we're kind of disappointed with where we ended up."

The Lancers found themselves in a big divot after Friday's opening round, where they stood in seventh place after firing a collective 357 — 41 strokes behind Bettendorf, the first-day leader.

"Friday's conditions were certainly challenging," said Ellis "but they were the same for everyone. We didn't do a great job managing the conditions and keeping big numbers off our scorecards."

"When you play in those conditions, you have to play the course differently. I think we had a tough time adjusting, and unfortunately we hit some balls out of bounds and into hazards that caused us to lose some strokes on the field."

FOOTBALL

North Scott takes care of business

Tippet's boys open 3A action with 35-7 victory over Central DeWitt

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

Welcome to the world of Class 3A football.

After years of competing with the big boys of Class 4A, North Scott made quite a statement in its first official foray into Class 3A district play Friday night. With a No. 8 state ranking firmly attached to their chin strips, the Lancers made the short trek north to renew an old rivalry with a familiar acquaintance, and it was strictly a business trip as they rolled to a 35-7 snoozer-of-a-win over Central DeWitt.

Yes, both teams came into the game with impressive 3-1 records, but it was evident early on that the Sabers' pre-district schedule hadn't done enough to prepare them for the likes of the Lancers.

With only 29 varsity players in uniform, the home team had trouble handling the bigger and deeper Lancers, and when the smoke from the concession stand grills finally cleared on a cool and crisp end of summer night, it was North Scott that started district play with an all-important victory.

But it was far from pretty.

On a night where neither team gave their fans much to cheer about, and it seemed like everybody was just going through the motions, the Lancers were able to win by bringing something less than their "A" game.

"We got the job done, but that's about it," said Lancer coach Kevin Tippet. "We certainly didn't have a lot of energy, and I have no idea why. I stopped trying to figure out 16- and 17-year-old men a long time ago."

To be certain, there wasn't a lot of emotion in the post-game huddle, even though the Lancers had just picked up a big win in the Highway 61 rivalry, or as they prefer to call it, "The Battle of the Wapsi."

"It was a dull game, for sure," said

Jacob Porth finds a hole behind the blocking of Gordy Field (77), Jackson Stoefen (55), Brady Ernst (78) and Dylan Spiers (66).

Lancer senior defensive lineman Gabe Stricker. "We came in here thinking it was going to be a shutout, but they had some big boys on the line tonight, and it was a much bigger line than we thought it was going to be.

"It's nice to get that first district win, especially on the road, but it wasn't one of our better efforts."

Tippet would certainly agree with that assessment.

"I'm disappointed," he said, matter-of-factly. "I don't think we played very well. We won a game, but I know we're capable of playing better. Every game is tough, but I'm disappointed in our controllable mistakes."

Yes, the Lancers continued to shoot themselves in the foot, as penalties continued to rear their collective ugly heads. Tippet minced no words in addressing the issue with his players, and said he was disappointed in their lack of discipline.

"Everybody, including our coaches, we need to look at ourselves in the mirror and make sure we're ready to go," he said later. "You know, ultimately, penalties come down to having proper technique and making sure you're doing your jobs."

"We have to be disciplined enough to do our jobs, and right now we're not. We have to make fewer mistakes. We will look at the film and go to work Saturday morning, and we'll get better."

The Lancers didn't play poorly, but they certainly didn't dominate the way that people expected. The pistol offense was sporadic all night, and to be truthful, it was the defense that carried the game for the second straight week.

They Sabers did have the Lancers on their heels briefly, as they marched 42 yards on their first six plays, but the drive finally stalled, and they were never really able to get back into gear.

Unfortunately, North Scott's offense wasn't firing on all cylinders either.

It seemed to be a sign of things to come when the Lancers were flagged for back-to-back holding penalties on their first drive, and all told, the North Scott offense was flagged for three more holding penalties and an offside the rest of the way.

"From the beginning of the season, our offense has produced alright, but we know we can do better," said senior offensive lineman Gordy Field. "This week we did well, but the one thing we really shot ourselves in the foot with was the penalties."

"Those penalties killed us, and being an offensive lineman, we have to get off the ball and be more physical. Coach Tippet always says the more physical team will win, and that will be us."

"As we progress, and get better in practice, you'll see us get those penalties out of there and our offense will be a real threat."

Even with all the mistakes, the Lancers were still the dominant team, and the Sabers were an over-matched bunch.

North Scott found the scoreboard on its second possession after a methodical 11-play, 68-yard march that culminated with junior Quentin Allison's five-yard scoring burst with 15 seconds left in the first quarter.

The Lancers were back in business 13 seconds later when senior Kade Sandknop recovered a Saber fumble on the first play of Central DeWitt's next drive.

Four plays later, on fourth-and-four, Lancer quarterback Nile McLaughlin and fellow senior Carson Rollinger hooked up on one of their patented catch-and-runs that turned into a 24-yard score on the first play of the second quarter.

North Scott made it 21-0 with 18 seconds left in the half on senior Jacob Porth's three-yard scamper that put the wraps on a nine-play, 69-yard drive that was highlighted by a pair of McLaughlin-to-Andrew Lundvall tosses that covered 16 and 28 yards.

If the game wasn't already out of reach by intermission, it definitely was on ice after the second-half kickoff, when the Lancers marched 52 yards in 12 plays, with McLaughlin making it 28-0 with a one-yard run.

In fact, midway through the third quarter there were probably more Lancer fans than Saber boosters still in the crowd.

Central DeWitt finally gave its fans something to cheer about when senior star Ethan Necker found pay dirt with 8:15 left in the game, but four minutes later Rollinger delivered the coup de grace with a 27-yard interception return for the final score.

The Lancer defense was stellar and forced the lone two turnovers of the game. Central DeWitt finished with just 85 yards of offense in the opening two quarters, and ended the game with 197.

Necker, who came into the game with 979 yards rushing in just four games — averaging 10.4 yards per carry — was a non-factor in this one. His longest carry, 16 yards, came on his first touch of the game, and the Lancers totally shut him down by limiting him to just 78 yards in 22 totes.

Yes, go ahead and do the math. That's an average of just 3.5 yards per trip.

"We were definitely keying on the fullback (Necker) tonight," said Stricker, who finished with four solo tackles. "It was our goal to keep him to negative yards. Obviously, that didn't happen, but we kept him below 100, and that felt really great."

"I think the defensive line showed up and came in ready to play. We just have to keep getting better as the games go on."

Actually, the entire Lancer defense played well. Senior Collin Lewis led the

On Deck

North Scott will travel to Iowa City Liberty on Friday for the second half of a rare back-to-back road swing.

The Lightning, in their first year of fielding a varsity football team, are off to a 2-3 start and have been outscored by a combined 138-92 margin. Their wins have come against Class 4A Waterloo East (0-5) and Class 2A Mid-Prairie (1-4).

The varsity clash will be preceded by a freshman game, as Liberty does not have a sophomore team.

way with seven solo stops, while Sandknop finished with five.

As for the Lancer offense, it never really got rolling. North Scott finished with 329 yards, with McLaughlin accounting for 238 through the air with an impressive 15-of-21 night.

Rollinger latched onto six tosses for 115 yards, while junior Jake Mattheadess had three catches for 38 yards. Porth led the limited running attack with 39 yards in just six carries, while Allison tacked on 33 yards in 14 trips.

Offensively, we haven't hit our stride, and we have a lot more left to do," said Field. "We can play better. The key going forward is having good weeks of practice and just making sure the entire team as a whole is the more physical team."

"Now we have to worry about the next one," added Stricker. "Next week we have to get better. I'm confident we can do that."

Lancer senior McKeegon Burrage single-handedly stops Zach Hinkle.

Scott's takeaway

These two teams hadn't met on the gridiron since 1984, and North Scott came into the contest holding a slim 10-9 advantage in the once hot rivalry. The 28-point margin of victory in No. 11 was the second largest thumping the Lancers had delivered in the series, and truth be told, many thought this one would be much worse.

This game had a very strange vibe. There was little buzz in the stands and even less emotion on the sidelines. It was somewhat evident in the pre-game huddle, as the Lancers just didn't seem to have their usual edge.

I expected this game to be a blowout, with a running clock. It wasn't. North Scott is better than what they showed on Friday night, and it was almost as if they played down to Central DeWitt's level.

It will be interesting to see if the pistol will be locked and loaded for Friday night's clash with Iowa City Liberty, another team, on paper at least, that isn't in North Scott's league.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

Lancers finally crack state rankings

NS girls battle adversity and take fourth at Solon

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

A four-peat wasn't in the cards for North Scott's girls' cross country team at the Solon Invitational on Monday (Sept. 17), but there's no reason to panic. The Lancer Express is still on track.

On the same day that they finally cracked the Class 4A state rankings — debuting at No. 15 — the Lancers brought home a fourth-place finish from a star-studded meet that they'd won three straight years.

With junior Zoe Warm going down with an injury, and senior Sommer Clydesdale struggling through an uncharacteristic 41st-place finish, the Lancers came up just short in a hotly contested team race.

Just eight points separated the top four teams, and 12 points was the difference between first and sixth.

Bettendorf, which was lurking just outside the Class 4A top 15, captured the team title with 90 points, followed by No. 4 (Class 2A) Williamsburg (93), previously state-ranked Iowa City Liberty (97) and the Lancers (98).

No. 5 (Class 3A) Solon finished fifth, with No. 1 (Class 2A) Mid-Prairie coming home sixth.

Iowa City Liberty placed three girls in the top four, while the Lancers had two top-10 runners in senior Chloe Engelkes (fifth) and junior Abbi Lafrenz (eighth). Rounding out the Lancer lineup were senior Katie Jackovich (20th) and juniors Presley Case (26th) and Emily Kundel (39th).

"Going in, I was confident that we had a shot at defending our title, but I also knew that there would be several quality teams gunning for the top spot as well," said Lancer coach Amy Knoche. "We ended up fourth on this particular day, but I'm not too worried about it.

"Under different circumstances, and on a different day, I'm sure things would shake out differently."

Warm, who is usually North Scott's fifth runner, dropped out near the midway point of the race after injuring her hip.

"She's a pretty tough kid, so it must hurt pretty bad for her to have to stop during a competition," said Knoche. "It's an injury from last year that is starting to show up again.

While Warm went down, Engelkes and Lafrenz appeared to be in fine shape.

"Chloe just keeps battling at the top," said Knoche. "It was almost 90 degrees at race time, and Abbi, who usually prefers to run in cooler weather, looked strong the entire race. We challenged her before the race to go out and prove that she can run in any type of weather, and she delivered.

"Katie also ran an exceptionally good race, and it's nice to see her start to bounce back and physically feel good while racing again."

On another positive note, sophomore Grace Sindt finished third in the junior varsity race, and her time would have been fast enough to make her North Scott's fourth runner in the varsity competition, which would have been more than enough to give the Lancers the team title.

North Scott was scheduled to be in action last night (Tuesday) at the Iowa City West Invitational, and Saturday they will be on the road to Waverly for the Wartburg Invitational.

GOLF: North Scott will travel to The Meadows for district meet

Sommers led the first-day charge with an 82, followed by seniors Peyton Watkins (91), Mitchell Temperly (92) and Keaton Murphy (92).

"You don't get a lot of practice playing in 20 to 30 mph winds," said Sommers. "I think that kind of put us in a bad position, and we had to play defense the rest of the way.

"Saturday's conditions were actually a lot better. There was still some wind, and it was cold, but you could actually control your ball flight and not worry much about it."

After firing a collective 357 on Friday, the Lancers improved by 11 strokes on Saturday, and they were able to pass Davenport Assumption, Clinton and Davenport North for their fifth-place finish. They were just six strokes out of third.

Sommers continued his solid play and turned in an 83, followed by Watkins (85), Temperly (87) and senior Owen Long (91). Murphy and fellow senior Carson Youngquist finished with matching 92s.

"Reece had a solid tournament, and I was really happy that he earned second-team all-conference honors," said Ellis. "He did a nice job keeping the ball in front of him and hitting the ball consistently.

"I think both Mitchell and Keaton could have played better, and they know that. Sometimes that's just the way golf is. You can be just a touch off, and it makes it extremely hard to score."

Murphy, who is playing golf for the first time, said Friday's conditions were brutal.

"I think I could've done a lot better, but it is what it is," said Murphy, who played football as a freshman and sophomore, and didn't participate in anything last fall. "Friday's conditions were tough with the strong winds, and it was a struggle clubbing down and hitting into the wind."

Ellis was also impressed with the play of Watkins and Long.

"Peyton has come on late in the year and has really been consistent for us," said Ellis. "He proved that this weekend, as he shot 91 in the wind and 85 on Saturday. It was also great to see Owen Long bounce back after a tough first day and shave nine strokes off his total.

"It's a rare thing that we were able to play six seniors on Saturday, and I think that was pretty special for the guys."

Gearing up for districts

The season is winding down, and now the Lancers have their eyes on next Tuesday's all-important Class 4A district meet. They will definitely have their work cut out for them in Dubuque, as just the top three teams will advance to the state tournament on Friday, Oct. 5, along with the top two individuals from non-qualifying teams.

Teams who will take to The Meadows course will include: Bettendorf, Cedar Falls, Clinton, Davenport Central, Davenport North, Dubuque Hempstead, Dubuque Senior, Western Dubuque, Dubuque Wahlert, Waterloo East, Waterloo West and Cedar Rapids Xavier.

On paper, Cedar Falls is the favorite, with their 295.83 average for 18 holes, followed by Xavier (311.67), Wahlert (319.50) Hempstead (331.0) and Bettendorf (331.86).

North Scott's 347.88 average ranks eighth in the 14-team field.

"We need to put it all together to have a shot at districts," said Ellis. "We've had a tough time getting all six guys to click on the same day, and that's what our goal is in this final week.

"Of course, our goal has to be to advance through. We'll need to bring our absolute best to have a shot, but golf is unpredictable and anything can happen."

Sommers thinks the Lancers will have a chance.

"We just need to play to our strengths," he said. "We haven't executed the way that we want to, but I think we're capable of putting up a low number and having a shot to go to state. Overall, I'm feeling pretty confident, but we have to have a good week of practice."

Murphy had similar thoughts. "We have a lot of time to prepare, and we should be good," he said. "Hopefully we can be competitive and get to state."

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

Schrock has Lancers heading in right direction

Senior leads NS boys to third-place finish in Solon

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

North Scott's boys' cross country team is trending upwards.

Even though sophomore Owen West is still listed as questionable for the remainder of the season, the Lancers aren't considering throwing in the towel, and instead brought home a strong third-place finish from the Solon Invitational on Monday (Sept. 17).

With senior Jackson Schrock leading the way, and sophomore Chase Porter elevating his performance to help fill in the gap left by West's injury, the Lancers put 99 points on the board and finished behind a pair of state powerhouses, including No. 2 (Class 3A) Clear Creek-Amana (19) and No. 2 (Class 2A) Tipton (61).

On an even brighter note, North Scott finished ahead of No. 7 (Class 3A) Mount Vernon-Lisbon and No. 13 (Class 2A) Williamsburg.

Schrock led the Lancer effort with a fifth-place individual finish, while Porter came home seventh. Senior Gabe Jensen appears to have found his mojo and finished 22nd, followed by junior Bryce Golden (32nd), sophomores Max Adkisson (33rd) and Will Dowda (35th), as well as freshman Luke Crawford (39th).

"Jackson had another great day at the office," said Lancer coach Amy Knoche, "and he continues to turn in gutsy performances. He stayed with the lead pack for most of the race, but just lost a little contact around two miles.

"Chase ran phenomenal. He has had two races in a row where he continues to close the gap between him and Jackson, and he runs with a lot of intensity and passion."

Knoche was also pleased with Jensen's performance.

"Gabe started to look like himself again, and had his best race of the year," she said. "Bryce was another runner who had a stellar night, and Chase, Gabe and Bryce all set season PRs."

Knoche also said there's nothing new to report on West, typically one of North Scott's top three runners, who injured himself a week earlier at the Lancer Invitational.

"He has one week left in a cast, and then they will do X-rays again to see if it was a break or just a bad sprain," she said. "At this point, with three weeks to the conference meet, I'm sure he is looking at some physical therapy before he can run again."

"It would be tough to come back, but anything is possible."

The Lancers were scheduled to run in Iowa City last night (Tuesday), and Saturday they will compete in the Wartburg Invitational.

"I think we are heading in the right direction," said Knoche. "Both the girls' and boys' teams collectively need to work on racing consistently, as each race we have had a couple people from both genders have off races."

"It happens to everyone, but if we can get everybody to have a great race on the same day, look out for North Scott."

VOLLEYBALL: 'We know what we have to do, and executing that is the goal'

"Emma has proven to be a big part of our offense, so I was a little apprehensive entering the tournament," said Miguel, "but Adriane Latham stepped in and did a really good job."

Latham certainly made the most of her opportunity as she finished the day with 20 kills after connecting on 51 of 62 attacks, and she was also successful on 43 of her 50 serves.

And the Lancers demonstrated a true team effort. Junior Emma Powell led the offense with a whopping 39 kills on a 105-of-118 hitting day, while junior Grace Boffeli rammed home 29 kills. Junior Kendal McNaull and freshman Ella McLaughlin each put 26 attacks on the floor.

Defensively, as has been the case for much of the season, the Lancers got 59 digs from senior Maddie Allison, and another 47 from Powell. Senior Bailee Kroeger had 27 before exiting with a concussion in the second match with Liberty.

"Emma Powell always plays awesome, and she was hitting over blocks all day," said Miguel. "Maddie Allison is just amazing in the back row, and I get more and more impressed each time she goes out on court and dives after balls."

"I also thought that Kendal was solid all weekend, as was Taylor Robertson (65 assists). It was a really great team effort, and I saw some good stuff. It wasn't the number of wins that we wanted, but I think we proved ourselves by playing well against ranked teams."

Importance of playing well

It's crucial that the Lancers continue to play well, especially with the regional pairings set to be released within the next two weeks.

"It's great to finally be ranked and to get some recognition for the girls," said Miguel. "I've told them all season that rankings will help us get a better road to state, and that we need to focus on playing well in tournaments and our overall record."

"In the past we've had a pretty hard post-season path by having to go through Wahlert and Clinton, and if we can keep moving up in the rankings, maybe they will split us up."

Morgan, who delivered 5 kills in the 25-14, 25-16, 25-17 MAC win over Burlington on Tuesday (Sept. 18), said that finally cracking the rankings gave the team a boost of confidence.

"We felt awesome about being ranked, and it gives us a feel for where we're at in the state as we get closer to the regional pairings coming out," she said. "It's important for us to continue to get conference wins and see if we can move up two or three spots."

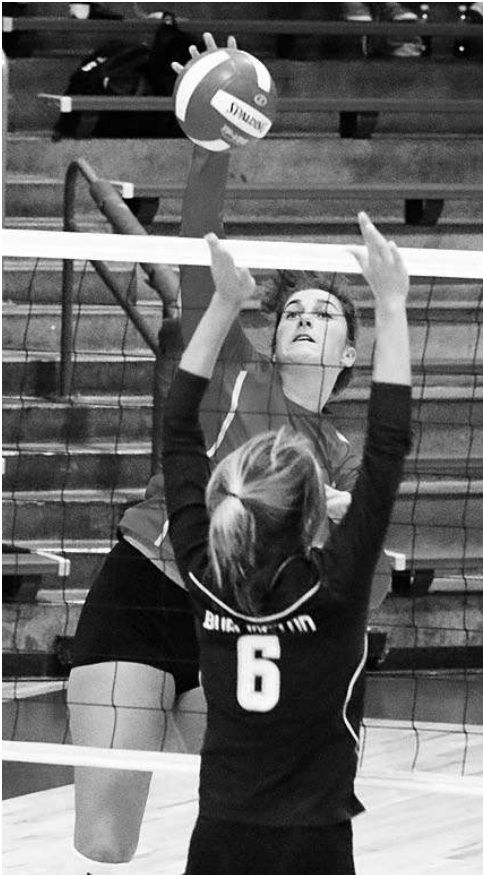

"We have to buckle down," she continued. "We know what we have to do, and executing that is the goal."

Like her coach, Morgan likes where her team is at, and is hoping to get back

With each and every match, freshman Grace Graham continues to prove that she belongs on the Lancer varsity.

in action when the Lancers host Muscatine on Tuesday.

"I got hit in the face with a ball, and I have a potential concussion," she said over the weekend. "I had a really bad one at the end of last season, so to be safe we decided I shouldn't make the trip on Saturday."

"It was really hard not playing, because there were a lot of good teams and I was anxious to see how we played, especially now that we're ranked and Independence was there and ranked higher than us. But I think the team did good."

"So far this season, I think we're doing really well," she continued, "and I think things are really coming together with the new lineup the past couple of weeks. We know who is the strong hitter in every rotation, and where to go, and how to play next to each other."

The Lancers were scheduled to travel to Davenport Central last night (Tuesday) and will host the Muskies next Tuesday.

"Once we get everybody back healthy, we should be rocking and rolling," said Miguel. "We're playing well right now."

Lancers sweep Grayhounds

North Scott had little trouble taking care of business on Tuesday (Sept. 18) as they rolled to the 25-14, 25-16, 25-17 sweep of Burlington.

The victory improved their MAC mark to 3-2.

Junior Emma Powell led the offensive attack with nine kills, while junior Kendal McNaull added eight with freshman Ella McLaughlin finishing with seven. Powell also led the defensive charge with 14 digs.

Scott's takeaway

I expect everybody will be on pins and needles for the next couple of weeks as we all anticipate how the regional pairings will look.

It definitely helped that the Lancers cracked the 4A rankings last week, but the road to state could be especially tough because there are at least seven teams from the east side of the state ranked in the top 15.

Chances are good that if the Lancers are going to snare a coveted state berth, they will most likely have to go through either No. 2 Cedar Rapids Xavier or No. 3 Dubuque Wahlert. Clinton is ranked 11th, with Iowa City Liberty, North Scott, Fort Madison and Clear Creek-Amana rounding out the list of elite teams.

This Lancer team does have plenty of firepower, and they've proven that on any given night they can stand toe-to-toe with the best.

PS Add A "PS" To Help A Neighbor

Project Share is a plan, created by your municipal utility, to assist needy households in paying their wintertime energy bills.

You can help by adding a regular PS contribution to your monthly utility payment, or by making a direct donation to Project Share. These funds will then be distributed to neighbors in need for wintertime energy costs.

Those qualifying for help will be carefully identified by an area social service agency. A local committee will oversee Project Share to guarantee all contributions will be handled equitably and efficiently.

So please, add a PS — Project Share — to your utility payment each month. It's a simple way to share some warmth with those who need it.

REFURBISHED NORTH SCOTT HIGH SCHOOL FINE ARTS AUDITORIUM

Public Open House & Dedication

Thank you for supporting our district!

I would like to thank the community for supporting the North Scott Community School District. We would not be able to improve our excellent educational facilities if it were not for your support. The auditorium remodel is our most recent project to be completed, and we are very proud of the enhancements it will continue to bring to our educational environment. The auditorium remodel is a project that will impact every family in the school district. We hold concerts from kindergarten through 12th grade in our auditorium. We know this facility will see more of our students, families, and community members than any other facility. We look forward to everyone seeing the improvements in the auditorium. The first thing people will see when they come to the auditorium is the new lobby. The lobby has been designed to show off student artwork, provide a multi-functional space, and offer ample room for our guests to enjoy before the performances and during intermission. We also added larger restrooms for our guests; the long lines of the past will be gone. One of the major changes for the auditorium is the improved handicap accessibility. Not only is the entrance closer to the handicap parking, but the ramp leading into the auditorium has been modified for accessibility. We have added handicap seating on two levels. These changes will greatly improve accessibility for our community. When guests come into the new auditorium they'll not only see the difference, but they'll feel the difference. Our old study hall pods have been remodeled to be a true upper level. The folding doors are gone and the upper seats now match the seats of the lower level. Speakers have also been added to the upper level, improving the audience experience. We have added a sound booth in the center of the auditorium and upgraded the entire system to better control the sound. Our lighting and rigging systems have all been updated. The catwalk system has been upgraded to ensure the safety of our staff and students. The fact is, with the exception of the walls, most of our auditorium is new, and even the walls have new paint. Our auditorium is set to serve our community for another 30-plus years. North Scott is truly a special place because of the tremendous support of the community and the people that work here. I am proud to be the Superintendent of the North Scott Community School District!

Focus on Education
by Joe Stutting

North Scott Auditorium • 2018

'Every student uses the auditorium'

North Scott's auditorium has been a focal point of the district since it was built in 1982. At some point during the year, every student uses the auditorium for various events ranging from concerts and musicals to academic assemblies and scholarship nights.

Principal's Perspective
by Shane Knoche

Over the last 35 years, the auditorium has been visited by other districts looking to build or revise their own. Our auditorium was well designed for its time. However, with the changing needs of our community, it was due for an update. With a financial commitment from Lancer Legacy and the school board, we were able to move forward.

The improvement process started in January 2017 with a committee of representatives from Fine Arts (visual and performing), Theater Technology, Drama, Speech, Administration, Building and Grounds, and booster groups as well as community representatives. This committee visited respected facilities, talked to their respective groups, and started to create a vision for the project which included the following:

- Welcoming entrance that could be used for multiple events;
- Functional flow for ticketing with a weather lobby to protect patrons as well as workers;

- Light lock entrance into auditorium so people entering during the show will not detract from performance;
- Handicap accessible restrooms;
- More restrooms for use during performances;
- Visual arts focus when entering where student work is displayed;
- Digital displays promoting North Scott fine arts programs past and present;
- Provide opportunities, such as live video feed, for patrons to watch performance from concession stand area and main lobby;
- Removing the pod walls to create open layout;
- Comfortable seating;
- Handicap accessible seating and access to stage;
- Improved safety in catwalk;
- Updated rigging system;
- Updated sound and lighting;
- Updated color scheme.

The ultimate goal of the auditorium construction was to not only create an improved experience for the consumer, but also our students.

The mission of the North Scott Community School District is to produce graduates with the capacity to be successful in a changing world by incorporating abundant resources and offering a broad-based curriculum.

The renovation of our auditorium provides many opportunities for North Scott students to partake in various experiences benefiting their education.

We believe every individual should have the opportunity to participate in fine arts in a high quality facility, as it helps to fulfill North Scott's mission statement.

North Scott Auditorium • 2018

A jewel in the crown for North Scott

Awalking tour of the newly refurbished North Scott Fine Arts Auditorium with longtime show producer Tom Goodall and North Scott technical director Josh Tipsword on Sept. 12 gave this writer a preview of what Lancer patrons will see at the Oct. 1 Open House, or whenever they next experience this crown jewel.

Impressions
by Bill Tubbs

"The whole theater is much more state of the art. It was an amazing theater before, and this is even more stunning," said Goodall, who has worked behind the scenes on nearly every event in the auditorium since it opened 36 years ago.

North Scott in the limelight

The original auditorium, which was dedicated on Sunday, May 9, 1982, including a keynote by U.S. Rep. Jim Leach, was the fulfillment of hopes and dreams of many, and thrust North Scott into the limelight as home of the best performing arts theater in the Quad Cities.

A special section of The NSP on May 6, 1982, detailed each step, beginning in 1978, which led to that special day. Everything had to fall into place perfectly – the economy, the outlook, everything – for taxpayers to give thumbs up to the $1.8-million bond issue vote on Oct. 9, 1979. The vote was approved by 65.5 percent, with 661 voting yes and 347 no. The total project, including fixtures, was $2.1 million.

The refurbishment, 36 years later, is $3.7 million, with construction funded by the Local Option Sales Tax, equipment and lighting by the Scott County Regional Authority, and enhancements supported with $200,000 from donors to the Lancer Legacy fund.

Changing lives

But this isn't about dollars and cents. It's about lives changed. Rarely have taxpayers received more bang for their buck than the way that activities in this theater have inspired young people to pursue dreams in the performing arts – or enriched their North Scott experience even if they didn't pursue the arts as a career.

Additionally, this theater has been the home for Countryside Community Theatre, a gathering place for community events, and a magnet which has brought prestige to our community with groups like the Joffrey Ballet, Mel Tillis, the Kiev Symphony, the Miss

The expanded lobby, looking southeast, includes a high ceiling with students' colorful glass art, and the red wall which will display students' visual art projects. The ticket office is at left and the entrance to the theater is at right.

"The whole theater is much more state of the art. It was an amazing theater before, and this is even more stunning,"

Longtime North Scott show producer Tom Goodall

"They've got those at Hancher (University of Iowa)," said Goodall. This will enable performers off stage to time their entrances, and patrons who need to leave the auditorium to keep up with the show in the lobby.

The stage is now fully wheelchair accessible from both sides, and six seats in the main auditorium are dedicated for wheelchairs, with the possibility of four more if seats are removed from the back row.

More seats now

Despite this, overall seating was increased from 806 to 815, and seating in the upper levels is upholstered in three shades of gray, the same as seating throughout. "The seats in the back aren't hard anymore," said Tom, and the audience is more unified.

The main auditorium walls are dark gray with purple and red accents. The aisle carpet is accented in the same

Iowa Pageant, renowned jazz combos and countless others.

Time for a facelift

After 36 years, alas, it was time for a facelift. Here is just some of what visitors will see:

Our tour started in the south hall, where Tom and Josh pointed out the blue lights which will illuminate this space for safe movement during productions. "In the past, I put a table lamp in the hall," said Tom.

Everything is new, Goodall said: the ceiling tiles, the lighting, the carpet back stage, the fresh coats of paint.

A new sound and video system in what was formerly the props room will feed video of on-stage activities (shows) to large-screen monitors on stage right, stage left, the dressing rooms, and a 70-inch screen above the ticket window. Additionally, the screens might promote the next play or recognize award winners or make announcements.

colors. And, four spots which Goodall said were acoustically dead will now be able to hear well.

Rigging for safety

Back stage, the rigging is all new. "We added additional lines and a safety lock that will not let you unlock for any weight over 25 pounds," said Goodall.

The doors, sound system, lights and wiring are new, and the stage curtain, which was not up during our tour, will likewise be brand new.

"We're keeping up with the times," said Tom.

Sound and lighting boards will be new, but when patrons enter the theater from the back (east), they'll notice a sound booth on the main floor. Goodall said sound control, previously in the upstairs crow's nest, was moved there "so we can hear correctly."

Lighting and special effects will still be controlled from above.

Doors at both ends of the entrance ramp will create a light lock for patrons entering and exiting the theater.

Lobby: "Exquisite" glass

"The auditorium is exciting and the lobby is exquisite," said Goodall, as we moved from the main theater to the expanded entry area.

The thought was echoed by Lancer Productions director Stacie Kintigh.

"The lobby is absolutely beautiful," she said. "It will be one of the most gorgeous things we have in Eldridge and a jewel in the crown that is this auditorium. It's beautiful. I love it. Student art displayed in such a prominent way warms my heart."

Visitors will initially be impacted by the dramatic effect of colorful glass spheres created by students which are suspended from the ceiling. These were the inspiration of Michelle Mess' art class, which went to a hot shop in Davenport which creates blown glass.

High school principal Shane Knoche said elementary teachers also went to see how this was done. The spheres will be rotated over time.

"It's a beautiful space," said Goodall.

Students' visual art

Students' visual art and photos will be displayed on a red, arched panel on the south side of the lobby.

"This is a fine arts auditorium, and visual art will be represented here, too," said Knoche. "We want kids' involvement from visual arts in the entryway."

The panel serves another function, too – it shields the entrances to the men's and women's restrooms, both of which are much bigger. In a tip of the hat to equality, there will be 10 stalls in the ladies' room compared with three before. "This will be huge," Knoche said.

The principal added, "We wanted people to see visual art and didn't want people to see entrances to restrooms.

Focus on the art; not the restrooms. It will be neat. It will be a focal wall." Knoche said the back side of the wall will have pictures of students making the glass spheres.

Quotes and archives

An alcove on the north side of the lobby will feature quotes and sayings in vinyl about art, music, acting, and how the fine arts illuminate the human experience, e.g.: "Act well your part; therein all honor lies." – Alexander Pope. The quotes will be spaced around digital touch screens like those in the high school's main entrance.

Tipsword said these screens will focus on the arts, and will include archives containing photos of previous shows by Lancer Productions and Countryside Community Theatre, The North Scott Press/Rotary Club of North Scott Community Fine Arts Award winners, and more.

Nearby, the concession stand, with new cabinets, is in the same place as before, but the counter is not as close to the theater entrance.

Grand entrance

The new, main entrance will be from the northeast. The ticket window will be on the left (east) as patrons enter, so ticket lines will not block access to the theater on their right (west).

Terrazo tile floors and floor-to-ceiling windows create a sense of openness in the lobby. Eventually, seating will be added there, too.

"This makes it look like a grand entrance," said Donahue native and North Scott grad Rick Engler, of Bush Construction.

"The entrance is really inviting. This gives us lots of space. We're really pleased with the way it's coming out," added Goodall.

A crown jewel, indeed. Come and see for yourself on Oct. 1!
