Vietnam hero earns his forever monument

Larry Gronewald said goodbye surrounded by friends, family and a stack of empty Schlitz beer cans at a party sending the 21-year-old off to war.

Old snapshots show guests sitting on folding chairs amidst card tables loaded with chips and dip. No jeans and T-shirts in this group. Even young people in the mid 1960s wore collared shirts and pressed pants for casual gatherings.

His sister, Linda Holdorf, remembers a fun party. Family members were sad he was leaving. But most young men headed to war in 1967. And her brother, Larry, was willing to serve. The war claimed Gronewald just a few months later.

Fifty years later, his service is revered among Donahue residents who remember. On Sunday, a stone monument will be unveiled in Donahue to inspire those yet to hear his story.

Gronewald is one of 853 Iowa soldiers killed in Vietnam. His death in 1968 is among 16,592 American war-related casualties, the deadliest year of active combat between 1956 and 1972.

Memories to ashes: Andersons let firefighters take Princeton homestead

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

The Andersons watched intently, more interested than unnerved by Princeton firefighters' systemic burn of their family home Saturday.

Paul Anderson and sister Amy Andersen said they're done mourning the old place.

"It's kind of sad. But honestly it was really kind of sad the way it was anyway," said Amy Andersen, of North Liberty. The family vacated the farmhouse long ago. Another sister still lives on the property, and her home will be burned soon, too, as they prepare the 400-acre site for a corporate campus development. The family moved to the home in 1970. Paul Anderson was grown and gone in a couple of years, so most of his time there was as a visitor. He watched the fire consume the roof he helped his father shingle, the chimney they'd topped and pitched, and a kitchen addition that burned faster and blacker than the old wood in the main house.

Amy backed away as heat intensified and flames spread through upstairs bedrooms. "We actually moved our rooms around a lot. So I lived in every room at a different point in time," she said. "Mom and Dad even moved rooms."

Prosecutor mulls McCubbin charges

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

Scott County Attorney Mike Walton is wrapping up his review of the audit implicating Long Grove and Park View's former public works director.

He told The NSP he expects a decision on criminal prosecution soon.

"I am nearly done with my review of the report. I have a meeting scheduled with the Auditor's office to clarify some matters. I will make a decision how to proceed in the near future," Walton said.

The audit found former Long Grove Public Workers supervisor Joel McCubbin submitted expense receipts from the same trips to both Long Grove and Park View for reimbursement. It also documents hours McCubbin spent in area casinos while on Long Grove's clock.

The audit was released in August while Walton was in the middle of an out-of-town murder trial. It examined nearly three years' worth of salary and expense information provided by Long Grove and the Park View Water and Sanitary District. McCubbin served both for about 30 years until Long Grove city clerk Rose Boddicker reported concerns to the council, the district board and, ultimately, the auditor's office.

McCubbin was paid $156,840 by the two governments in his last year of service. Long Grove covered $75,504 in salary and $988.28 in phone reimbursements. Park View paid $71,348.15 in sal-

Rehearsal for Murder

LP presents classic whodunit this weekend

By Scott Campbell

NSP Editor

If you're a fan of murder mysteries, North Scott's Lancer Productions is dialing up a classic whodunit with its fall production of "Rehearsal for Murder."

And, it's the perfect vehicle to showcase the high school's newly refurbished auditorium.

The show will be presented Thursday and Saturday at 7 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m. General admission tickets are $12, and $10 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be purchased at the door or online at: tix.nshslp.com

The play features a smaller than normal cast, with a minimal set, which director Stacie Kintigh said is perfect for the debut of the new theater.

"Initially, we were looking for a show that would have a smaller set, because we didn't anticipate being back in the theater until the beginning of October," said Kintigh. "We didn't want anything too elaborate.

"This is a show that I actually did when I was in high school, and I always thought it was a really good mystery, where all the pieces are there to figure it out, but it's got a couple of really serious twists in it.

"It really makes your jaw hit the floor because there are some things that happen at the end that it's like, 'Oh my gosh, I can't believe that just happened.' The suspects are all in the room, and you just have to figure out who did it. It's the old whodunit kind of thing."

The play features Alex Dennison (Cooper Harrison), who is a playwright engaged to actress Monica Welles (Emma Hughes). On the opening night of her new Broadway play, she kills herself over some bad reviews.

Thoroughly distraught, Alex can't believe she'd commit suicide and begins to suspect she was actually murdered. Under the pretext of having them read for his new play, Alex invites all of the suspicious parties to an empty theater and locks them in until the truth comes out.

"I want to encourage people to come and see this show," said Kintigh. "This is not your normal 'comedy dramady' thing that I direct. There is some humor, but this story is really driven, and it's really cool to watch it unfold."

Kintigh said the students are excited about presenting the murder mystery, and that rehearsals, which began on Sept. 17, are going well.

"We have some novice actors, and some veterans," she said. "I think it's gone well. It's been really neat to see the upperclassmen encouraging the freshmen that we have in the show.

"I do have to give a little shout-out to Eliot Morrow, who stepped in to take over a part a week ago, and he's doing an outstanding job for a freshman. I'm really proud of him."

Kintigh is also proud of the new theater, and is looking forward to showing it off to the whole community.

"This is really a fabulous show, and a great vehicle to feature the theater because the setting of the show is a theater," she said. "That's a really cool thing, and to come in and see all of the curtains drawn out, and all that's there is a single light on the stage. That's pretty cool.

"We want the audience to feel like they're in an actual theater, and that they're part of the experience."

A unique twist at the end of show centers around the fact there won't be a curtain call. Instead, cast members will greet the audience in the lobby, while sipping on coffee and cocoa.

"We do have something fun planned," said Kintigh. "All the actors will go to our beautiful new lobby, and they will be there having coffee at Nora's, which is a thing from the show.

"We're asking our patrons and our guests to relax and have a cup of hot cocoa or coffee and a Danish (baked by LP alum Susan Burda) with them. It's a creative way to use the new lobby."

And, it's just the beginning.

"We love the new theater," she said.

"The lighting and the sound are such an amazing improvement. Josh (Tipsword) and Emmett (Boedecker) are over and over again overwhelmed by what they can do, and Tom (Goodall) is enjoying some of the new aspects as well.

"I think we are all just really excited to be home, and really excited to see what we can do with this space. This whole season is going to be a great way to feature the theater."

Kintigh said that great things are happening on stage, and also behind the curtain. With "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" and "Seussical" also slated for production this school year, all the ingredients are in place for a successful year in the theater.

"I am very blessed by the people I surround myself with," said Kintigh. "They are some of the best human beings in our community, and I stand by that 100 percent.

"They are great people, and we all, as a team, live with the mantra that we are educators first, and we are there for the kids first and foremost. We are teaching them to serve the community through the arts, and now we have this beautiful venue to do it in. It's amazing."

NEIL ARMSTRONG ELEMENTARY CELEBRATES STUDENT INVOLVEMENT!

Neil Armstrong has been off to an AMAZING start this year and we are just getting started!

On September 27th Neil Armstrong had their annual Walk-A-Thon. This year Neil Armstrong brought the event to Lancer Stadium. It was a GREAT morning filled with music, laughter and fun. The PTO sponsored the event that brought many families out to walk/run laps with their children that morning. The event ended with Popsicle's for everyone that were donated by North Scott Foods.

The third grade class at Neil Armstrong partnered with David Linnenbrink from North Scott High School to teach a STEM activity. The lesson focused on potential energy in batteries. Then the class used math and science skills to time and drive remote control cars from a set distance. The students then graphed their results from the activity. It was a fun activity that incorporated many different skills. We are looking to continue various STEM activities in all grade levels throughout the year!

House District 92: Paustian vs. Simpson

Iowa House District 92 Rep. Ross Paustian, R-Walcott, and Democrat challenger Jean Simpson participated in The NSP's Sept. 26 legislative forum at the Scott County Library. Here are their answers to questions presented by NSP assistant editor Mark Ridolfi, and submitted by forum participants and NSP readers.

Q: Why run now?

PAUSTIAN: I'm finishing my third term. We got a lot done the last two years, and I'd like to continue that. I want to make sure we stay in the majority so we can keep our positive message moving forward for the state of Iowa. I want to do more tax reform and continue our priorities like K through 12 education funding.

SIMPSON: I'm a lifelong Iowan. I come from a family of teachers. I'm also a retired school social worker. I became very concerned about some of the things that were happening in education. Also the mental health piece. Also the privatized Medicaid all started coming in on all sides of my job.

I wanted to bring a different choice to people of my district on how we spend money and manage things.

Q: Rep. Paustian, you supported income tax cuts. How will you know they're working?

PAUSTIAN: This is a generational tax reform bill that we passed. It took quite an effort to get it all put together. One of our priorities when we did pass it was to minimize the effect on our state budget.

When the money comes back to the taxpayer, that's what it's all about. Our system was so outdated, so complex. We simplified it and made it easier to understand. I'm looking forward to doing more this year.

One thing for farmers is the depreciation we need to fully couple with the federal government and try to get that done. That was quite a battle we had trying to get that in, but we couldn't get it in because it was too much of an effect on the budget.

Question to Simpson: What are your thoughts on the income tax cuts?

SIMPSON: One of the questions I always ask when someone says I want to cut your taxes is, 'So how much will that cost me? What services will be cut? Will property taxes go up? Will we have less police services? Fewer teachers?'

As I was reading the state budget overview I saw there are 300-some exemptions and credits. Those are going to businesses. I want to make sure our tax dollars are going first to everyday Iowans.

I believe in investing in education. When I was growing up, we were No. 1 in education. I believe the state with the strongest brainpower and best workforce will sustain through hard times.

I don't want to take away all those tax credits because I'm sure some are good. And some are really benefiting us. I want to see if they are really benefitting us. Take for instance the $20 million to Apple Corp. They didn't ask for it. They didn't need it. I think it might have been better to go to Iowa programs.

Question from North Scott FFA student Karin Wilson: I hope to attend college and pursue an agriculture career in Iowa. What will you do to keep me in Iowa?

PAUSTIAN: Good question. What we need to do as far as agriculture, we need to promote agriculture and reduce regulations to make it easier for young people to get into agriculture. Now we've got a lot of regulatory things. A lot of young farmers get started in livestock. Our livestock regulations are adequate. Some people want to add more regulations. I don't think we need to pull back, but we don't need any new ones.

SIMPSON: It used to be back in the day when I was growing up, the university tuition split was 70 percent they paid and 30 percent we paid. And a lot of the university funds were taken away. Also, so many students are coming out with student debt they can't afford.

A first time farmer program? I'd definitely support that. And making sure we're doing everything we can to support local farmers starting up new businesses.

I think young people are the lifeblood of our state, so I want to make sure you have every opportunity to learn the craft from people who know.

Also, sustainability. I think young people have really got it and think about that in their farming. So you can have the kind of farm you want to have. It's nice to see a woman going after that.

Q: What are you hearing about Medicaid? Assess Iowa's contracted management of Medicaid?

PAUSTIAN: No, we're not completely happy with it. That's why we passed legislation this year for more accountability to the managed care organizations. We've worked on that. We want to make the system sustainable moving forward. Gov. Branstad had to do something. Costs were going sky high, out of control.

I had a report I read yesterday if we hadn't done anything, it would have been a lot higher. I think it will probably stay the way it is.

SIMPSON: When I go door knocking, the saddest stories I hear are about private Medicaid. I had one little girl — the mother said she'd been on epilepsy medication her whole life. When the MCOs came in, they refused it.

There was another person who needed a wheelchair. They refused. These were things that people had gotten and they needed.

I read about some of these companies. One had $23 million in fines because they didn't function well in their past states. Yet we let them come in and deal with our most vulnerable Iowans.

... But the thing that hurts me most, you go help people out. We take care of each other. When we brought in companies that we knew had a very bad record of taking care of patients and providers — one of them left with $14 million in unpaid bills? That's enough to close down an agency.

I feel very strongly I would get in there and I would go back to the old way. I'd get rid of MCOs.

Before 1974, it was illegal to make profit on health care. They've had 40 years to show us privatized medicine would bring us cheaper costs and better outcomes. And we have 20 other countries with better outcomes than we do and they're also spending less.

When people are in their most vulnerable moments ... that is not the time you want to worry about whether you'll have health care.

Question from North Scott FFA student Leslie Bell: The North Scott school district faced its own challenges regarding school safety. As a legislator, how would you provide a safer learning environment to schools in your district?

PAUSTIAN: We passed several bills this year to address school safety. We freed up some money for schools to beef up their safety systems. In the house, we passed an extension of the SAVE fund and allowed schools to spend some of that money for safety equipment. Unfortunately it didn't get through the senate so we'll have to work on that next year.

We also are providing for mental health services for school children to try to get to these kids and help them in their school years.

SIMPSON: This is a little personal. My granddaughters were in the room next to where the little boy brought out the gun and they heard the kids scream ... I have talked to countless parents and grandparents, and they literally worry every day when they send their family members to school. Is this the day we're going to get that news?

I was so grateful no one was hurt. But what surprised me is how much this impacted us and nothing happened. People did all the right stuff, and thank goodness. I think we need to have more things on the table.

You can't do the bloom if you don't have the Maslow (referring to social psychologist Abraham Maslow's hierarchy of human needs). With Maslow, you have to feel safe to learn.

I think there are many other things we can do to make our schools safer.

Background checks for those having guns. I agree with more mental health care. Work with our kids and tell them how to report. That needs to be a discussion. I think each school is going to have different needs.

Question: A legislature can allow faculty and staff to bring firearms into school. Would you pursue that?

SIMPSON: I personally don't want to carry a gun. For teachers, I think that's a very big responsibility, so that's not something I would support.

PAUSTIAN: Absolutely. I would support on a voluntary basis ... that staff could carry a weapon. If someone is trained and has all the permits and they want to carry a weapon, I have no problem with that.

Davenport schools wanted funding to get some safety personnel in the school. But they're not arming them. So what good does that do if a guy, a student, or someone outside the school comes in with a gun and you're not armed? So I would support it on a voluntary basis.

HOUSE DISTRICT 92 : Paustian vs. Simpson

PAUSTIAN: You can't make that prediction now until you see what the revenue estimate is. In the last 28 years, the only time there was a cut to K-through-12 was twice: Once when Culver was governor and once when Vilsack was governor. House Republicans have made K-through-12 funding a priority. ... We have a limited amount of dollars. We're not the federal government. We can't print money ... So when someone says you should have spent more here, I say, that's fine. Tell me where we're going to cut over here. I understand the schools want more. If we have the opportunity, we will try to get them more in the future.

Question to Paustian: When is it going to be schools' turn?

PAUSTIAN: It's always their turn. We've always made that a priority. However, the tax burden in our state is too high. We will stimulate growth by cutting taxes, and there will be plenty of revenue for education and all our other priorities.

Question to Simpson: How well is Iowa funding K-through-12 education? Are the 1-percent increases approved by the legislature the last two years enough?

SIMPSON: You look at all the exemptions, tax cuts and all the other things happening, and it comes to $12 billion. The budget for our state is only $7 billion. That's a lot of tax credits going away. I'd really look over the money we are giving away ... and I would definitely fully fund education. I think the leadership needs to come back and look at which kids aren't making it. What else do the schools need to serve every child from daycare until that child is in a job? For me, fully funding education is one of my biggest issues. One percent doesn't even cover inflation.

As a school social worker, we've seen poverty has gone up. Mental health issues have gone up. Learning disabilities have gone up. There have been all kinds of needs, and the schools are doing more and more and the funds are going down and down.

Question to Simpson: The legislature limited bargaining rights for some, but not all public employee unions. Going forward, would collective bargaining be something you'd put back on table ?

SIMPSON: Yes. I'd absolutely restore collective bargaining.

Question to Paustian: Are the changes to collective bargaining working? Would you extend them to law enforcement?

PAUSTIAN: As far as law enforcement, that was a compromise between the house and senate. To get the bill passed, we exempted law enforcement, and I'm fine with that. And I'm fine what we did with collective bargaining that needed to be rebalanced. It was leaning too much to the union side, and the taxpayer didn't really have a seat at the table ... So I think the bill was a good bill. It was a long time coming.

People said we just sprung it on them. No, it wasn't. In my first year, 2011, we passed the same bill in the house and sent it to the senate, which was all Democrats. So it shouldn't be a surprise. As long as we're in the majority, we're not going back.

Q: What changes if any do you support for the Iowa Public Employees Retirement System?

PAUSTIAN: That is some political group that's getting people ginned up about it. We were very clear in this last session as house Republicans, we were absolutely not going to do anything with people's retirement who are in the system now. We're going to keep that promise.

Q: Can you envision a different system going forward?

PAUSTIAN: It might be long after I'm out of the legislature that they'll look at it. But right now, the system is sound. Returns on IPERS are good. Gosh, maybe we give Donald Trump credit for that, for the stock market being so good. I'd like to see some Democrats give him some credit for that, but we'll wait and see.

Question to Simpson: Jean, will you be the first to give President Trump credit for the stock market?

SIMPSON: I don't know about that. But this is the thing I'm kind of upset about. I feel they keep fixing things that aren't broken. IPERS has a wonderful credit rating. I don't know what world we're in where we can start two different systems.

Q: The legislature passed a fetal heartbeat bill that outlaws most abortions. Do you anticipate further abortion legislation?

PAUSTIAN: I supported the bill. I'm pro-life. Pretty simple. There's always going to be people who are pro-choice and pro-life. I'm pro-life, and that's where we're at.

SIMPSON: I'm pro-life and I'm pro-choice. I'm pro-life because I think children need to get medical care. I believe we in pro-life don't just make life come, we also take care of the children.

Healthcare decisions should be made between the doctor and the woman.

Q: Assess Iowa's water quality legislation. How effective is it? What more needs to be done?

PAUSTIAN: We've done a lot of projects over the last 50 years. Water quality is a big deal for us and our farming operation, and a big deal for farmers across the state. We had two different bills, house and senate versions. We couldn't come to an agreement a year ago. This session, it was our first priority and was the first bill the governor signed. It was a good session and good bill, and hopefully something we can build on in the future. That would be another place if we have any extra revenue, we could put some more money to.

Question to Paustian: The state program relies on cost sharing, so farmers must have good income. Will they?

PAUSTIAN: I think the farmers are going to be fine. Everybody is critical of the president for what he's done. But we had a $500 billion trade deficit. Something had to be done. No one in the past had the guts to do anything. We'll be fine.

Question to Simpson: Assess Iowa's water quality legislation. How effective is it? What more needs to be done?

SIMPSON: Right now, it sounds like it's voluntary, and there's really not enough money to solve the problem. I'm going to be honest, I'm not an expert on that. I've read some and it's not adequate, I know that right now. Whether it takes more money, or a different approach, I'm not sure exactly which way to go.

Q: Give these voters your best pitch.

SIMPSON: I care about kids. That's the best investment that we have. I think whether it's mental health, health care, education ... I want this to be the best state to grow, come and stay in.

I want us to cultivate good jobs and have a culture that young people want to come and want to stay in this state. ... I want to see more local business supported ...I want investment to stay in Iowa and grow business here and have this be an exciting place where my grandchildren say, 'I gotta live in Iowa because that's the best place to be.' And everybody else's grandkids say the same thing.

PAUSTIAN: Thank you. I enjoyed this tonight. ... Iowa is the best state in the country according to U.S. News and World Report. We're the best place for middle class families, according to CNBC. Third best-managed state in the country, USA Today. Fourth best state in K-through-12 funding increases ... That's from the Des Moines Register.

We're getting the job done ... I want to get back there to keep the momentum going and keep Iowa the best state in the country.

The petition would need 100 signatures, or 15 percent of the total votes cast when Pawloski won in November 2017.

Storm water detention

Council members discussed long-term maintenance costs for the three storm water detention options offered for more residential development on the city's south side.

Mayor Limberg previously said he expects further council work sessions and another public forum before council chooses one of three options to handle storm water for 109 acres covering Winfield Estates existing and future homes.

Council members tentatively agreed to take over any detention area three years after completion.

LONG GROVE: Council considers vacancy Nov. 13

ary, $8,700 for a vehicle allowance and $300 cell phone allowance.

The Long Grove Council and Park View District Board members are awaiting the prosecutor's decision. Members of both groups told The NSP they are interested in civil lawsuit options to seek refunds from McCubbin.

On Oct. 23, Long Grove council members acted to seek refunds of IPERS contributions the audit found improper.

The refunds are for Iowa Public Employee Retirement System contributions from the $1,000 monthly stipend the city council included in compensation packages for full-time employees. The audit determined the compensation was not subject to Iowa Public Employee Retirement System deductions.

Refunds would total $8,514 to the city and $5,600 shared among the city's current full-time employees and former employees, city clerk Rose Boddicker said. The former employees are McCubbin and former clerk Jackie Wilcox.

Council members voted Oct. 23 to cease the payments to IPERS.

The audit found Long Grove paid unsupported IPERS and federal Social Security and Medicare payments totaling $42,414.56. That includes $17,935.75 in IPERS and federal withholdings for McCubbin's improperly paid administrative leave and stipend compensation, as well as pay for work hours the audit determined he had spent in casinos.

Council vacancy

Long Grove Council members will appoint a new council member at the Nov. 13 meeting unless residents seek a special election. The city heard from two residents interested in completing the term of Al Pawloski, who resigned without explanation last month. City residents Nikki Sailor, a member of the Long Grove Planning and Zoning Committee, and Brandon Cronise, who ran for council last year, both confirmed interest in the appointment.

Iowa law allows residents to petition for a special election within 14 days of

House District 97: Mommsen vs. McClimon

Rep. Norlin Mommsen, R-DeWitt and Democrat challenger Tim McClimon participated in The NSP's Sept. 26 forum at the Scott County Library.

Mommsen is a grain and livestock farmer seeking his third term. He serves as chairman of the House Ag and Natural Resources Appropriations Committee and is a member of the House Agriculture Committee, Education Committee, Natural Resources Committee and House Appropriations Committee.

McClimon retired as a state probation officer and remains active in his community.

The pair took questions presented by NSP assistant editor Mark Ridolfi, submitted by readers and voters present at the forum.

Q: Why run now?

MC CLIMON: I retired after working 38 years for the Department of Corrections. Two years ago they tried to get me to run for this office and I'd just retired, but I wanted to relax for a while. And I did.

Then my son got a job in Fort Dodge schools in September 2016. He called me and asked about insurance. He signed up for union because he knew I was in AFSCME 38 yearsn and his grandpa, my dadn was in UAW at John Deere for 22 years.

He got the job, and in January, he called me after the collective bargaining bill went through. He asked me, 'What am I going to do, Dad? I don't have any protection. They could fire me next week, and I couldn't do anything about it.' I told him to hang in there and we'll see what happens.

This is a kid who wanted to teach so bad with underprivileged youth, he did his student teaching in East Des Moines at a junior high that had about a 75-percent minority population. Then he went to an Indian reservation in Arizona to work with the native Americans. So Fort Dodge was right up his alley teaching the kind of people he wanted to teach.

When he called me that night, I figured it was time I stop complaining about the way things are being run.

How many other young kids that year might not have done what my son did? Maybe they bailed on the collective bargaining-type jobs or left the state altogether to teach somewhere else.

So it just made me mad. Out in Des Moines they talk about we've got to keep our youngest and brightest adults in the state ... Then to do something like that? That drives them out. Then other things happened in Des Moines I didn't care for; Medicaid, that sort of thing. That's when I decided to run about six months ago.

MOMMSEN: Unfinished business. When I went out there, agriculture is my background. Ever since I got out of high school, water quality was an issue I got involved in early ... And we passed a water quality bill. I'm also on the soil and water conservation board in Clinton County, so I have a very good perspective of how things can go.

My main thing is to make Iowa a better place for my grandchildren ... When they talk about their grandpa being in the legislature, I want the first thing they say is, 'He made Iowa a better place.'

Q: On tax cuts, Rep. Mommsen, you supported them. How will you know they're working?

MOMMSEN: First off, I know it's working already. What bothered me the most is you were going to get an increase in your state taxes as a result of reductions to your federal taxes.

... Also this last session, we passed a bill to charge sales tax on internet sales, which will help our hometown businesses, which already get charged sales tax.

You add those two things together and that's the first section of this tax reduction. It amounts to about $300 to the average family.

One of the most significant things that's not talked about enough is that the personal exemption was raised. The amount of money you have to make before you even start paying taxes. It helps people at lowest levels and gives them the greatest benefits first.

MCCLIMON: I apparently don't make the right amount of money because I can't find out where I made that much on the income tax reduction. I'm glad they made it so you have to make more money before you start paying tax, because that helps the young people in the workforce.

I don't want to get into the whole thing about big companies getting the tax breaks, but I think we need to really look at that so we can start evening the playing field for everybody. Sometimes it seems the higher income people get a bigger break than the rest of us.

Question to McClimon: Would you vote to rescind the income tax cuts?

A: No, not necessarily. Obviously Norlin understands it a lot better than I do. I'd certainly want to learn more about it before I can make any statement.

Q: How well is Iowa funding K through 12 education? Are the 1-percent increases approved by the legislature the last two years enough?

MOMMSEN: First off, our budget is very defined on how much we can spend. We can only spend 99 percent of the revenue. Right now, K-12 education is receiving 45 percent of that funding. Add in the colleges and that brings it up to 55 percent.

Medicaid right now is amounting to almost 20 percent of general fund budget. So add them ... and we're at 75 percent. And we've not talked about our court systems, we've not talked about DNR.

But K-12 has always been the priority. That's why we always set it in the first 30 days, so school boards know where they're at. Last year we did. And we've always tried to.

Last year, we loosened up and gave school boards more control over the categorical accounts. There as $146 million locked in categoricals, which isn't part of the supplemental aid. Once school boards met requirements for the categorical accounts, they could use that money elsewhere. In many conversations with school boards, that's a bigger deal than the 1 percent. So you need to include that, too.

Q: Should schools expect another 1 percent next year?

MOMMSEN: From what I've seen from the revenue, I believe this coming year it should be higher.

MCCLIMON: You talk to public educators, they're all going to tell you it's been underfunded for quite a while. As you continue to underfund it, it gets worse and worse because you put off buying books or hiring teachers.

I substitute teach, and I see conditions at some of the smaller schools where I work. They're using old, old books that don't even have accurate maps. So funding just needs to increase.

I know it takes a big part of the budget. However, when you start giving money to people who don't need it – Apple comes to mind.

I've got a good friend... He develops housing in Des Moines. He says, "This is crazy. I have all these tax credits. I don't owe any money. At the end of the year, they're writing me a check for a hundred thousand dollars just because.'

When you start looking at those things ... and start wiping out the money we're giving to people and companies who haven't really earned it, you'll have more than the 1 percent to give to schools.

Keep track of the money we have already, and we should be able to fund schools better. I think 3 percent is minimal.

Q: The legislature limited bargaining rights for some, but not all public employee unions. To McClimon: If elected, how would you like the legislature to proceed?

MCCLIMON: You know where I stand. ... When we get it back, hopefully we get it back, they could tweak some things that make some people uncomfortable. But you have to be able to negotiate, collectively bargain your wages, insurance, other benefits like family leave.

I know people where I used to work. Once they lost collective bargaining, all of a sudden, they put in for Christmas vacations. These are probation officers. You don't sign appointments during the holiday week. One guy, told him you couldn't go on vacation because you didn't get this paperwork done. That kind of stuff they never would have done when they had the union.

That's just one small thing. But over the full spectrum, you can't guarantee you're going to be treated fairly like you would before.

Question to Mommsen: You voted for the two tier system that kept collective bargaining for law enforcement employees, but eliminated it for others. Are you comfortable with that? How would you like to see the legislature go forward?

MOMMSEN: I was one who wanted it all the same. Given the opportunity I would vote that way. I think everybody should have been treated the same across the board.

I think collective bargaining has been good with the school board members and supervisors I've spoken with. They talk about how good the communication now is between themselves and the union and their employees.

I'd think any good school board member or supervisor, they want good employees. They will do everything possible to have good employees. It's not to their benefit to chase good people away.

I do know in the last contract Pleasant Valley teachers got a 2.5-percent increase; DeWitt in the last two contracts, got a 2.3 and 2.4-percent increase. I don't know how many people have gotten almost a 5-percent increase in pay in the last two years. I think it's been good, and I think it will be good.

Q: What are you hearing about Medicaid? Assess Iowa's contracted management of Medicaid?

MOMMSEN: First you've got to understand why it's important the governor did it. In 1990, Medicaid amounted to 7 percent of the budget. In 2005 it was 9 percent. In 2015, it was 19 percent. That's how fast the costs were escalating.

We talked about needing more money for education, but Medicaid took a bigger cut out of the general fund, and that could have gone for education. But it didn't. That's why I think it's important the governor went the direction he did.

There have been problems. The past year in the legislature, the house passed the same bill three times, and the senate rejected it twice, but finally passed it. It made the managed care organizations more accountable to the people.

One thing I think people missed on this privatization is, they're given the opportunity to check with the other provider. Whenever someone comes to me says they have a problem and they need help, the first question I ask is have you checked the other provider? No one has unless it's been suggested.

Question to Mommsen. Are you comfortable with this being a governor's decision, not a legislative decision?

MOMMSEN: Yes.

Question to McClimon: What are you hearing about Medicaid? Assess Iowa's contracted management of Medicaid?

MCCLIMON: They don't like the way it's going. One of the women who works with me has some health issues, and since it's gone to MCO, she had a difficult time getting her medication. She has to fight constantly and make phone calls trying to get things figured out.

I read the Des Moines Register and every month or two there's another instance ... a kid who broke his neck in high school. Last two years, he's had to appeal decisions these MCOs are making because they're cutting back on his CNA care. ...

He appeals it, and he wins. But why in the world would they make him go through that? So if they get that straightened out, that would be OK

My sister in law ... works with these MCOs. She says this Medicaid program Iowa has really could work if they do it right ... I'm not saying you need to get in there in January and get it turned around. But it needs to be fixed and reasonable people can sit down with the governor...

Question to McClimon: So you're looking at solutions beyond returning to a state-run program?

A: Absolutely. Maybe if it's done right, it can work better. It's not going to come out of the governor's office, saying this is the way it's going to be. There's got to be a lot of people involved.

Question from North Scott FFA student Karin Wilson: The North Scott school district faced its own challenges regarding school safety. As a legislator, how would you provide a safer learning environment to schools in your district?

MCCLIMON: I know in DeWitt they were a little lackadaisical on some of the safety features in the doors. Kids could leave for lunch and go to a back door, hit a buzzer and it's kind of automatic they let them in. That kind of stuff could be tightened up at North Scott, too. Do you have resource officers? That can help.

I don't think you need to give teachers guns. I know a lot of DeWitt teachers and Calamus Wheatland teachers, and I don't know anyone who wants to have a gun in the school.

And mental health isn't covered near enough in the schools.

Q: Those are responses at the district level. Is there anything legislators might do at state-house level?

MCCLIMON: You know what? Sometimes you've got to keep your noses out of people's business. I don't know that anyone sitting in Des Moines knows what they need in North Scott, Camanche, DeWitt, or wherever.

The State Patrol, I'm sure, has some sort of safety officer who could come out to teach, a resource for them, but not necessarily money or tell them what to do right now.

MOMMSEN: This is a problem that's concerned me for years. It was 10 years ago when that first school shooting incident happened. And there's been nothing done. I've been to the DeWitt school and am able to get in there and walk around and no one ever has challenged me. That's been a concern of mine for years. We continue to build schools around here, and that's never been taken into account because of all the entry spaces to get in and out.

In the last legislature, we passed several bills that when you think about them, are a little bit mind-boggling: We had to pass a bill to require a district to have a security plan. What have they been doing for 10 years, would be my question to them.

Another area ... operation sharing between mainly your school districts. We included mental health officers with that sharing, so the smaller districts could share a counselor.

Another area we tried to pass in the House, and I believe it will be passed next session, is extending the 1-cent sales tax for school infrastructure. That amounts to about $1,000 per student per school.

... Another area that's a direct benefit for security is loosening up control of the categorical accounts. There are at-risk and dropout funds and all your categorical accounts that you can't pay as salary. We loosened that up so that you could hire a security officer with these at-risk funds.

Q: Give these voters your best pitch.

MOMMSEN: Thank you and The NSP, and thanks for coming. This is what makes our system work. ... I have some unfinished business. But I do have a record that I'd like to read.

I increased water quality cost-share programs in working partnership with our local Soil and Water Conservation districts. This was not in the governor's budget before. This is what my committee put in there as a priority.

Last year we increased funding for our state parks. In 2020 is our 100th anniversary of the establishment of state parks in Iowa. There was nobody thinking about making that special. That came from my committee and my members. That was not in the governors' budget. It wasn't in the budget the DNR presented to the governor.

In the ag budget two years ago, we de-

HERO: Gronewold held ground, 'under intense fire'

just a month after North Vietnam's Tet Offensive unleashed 80,000 Chinese-trained troops on unsuspecting South Vietnamese and American soldiers.

"When a large enemy force launched a full scale attack in an attempt to over-run the scout position manned by 19 friendly soldiers, Private Gronewald left his disabled vehicle and, with complete disregard for his own safety, fearlessly stood his ground and acted as a member of a 90mm recoilless rifle team that fired six canister rounds directly into the charging enemy battalion."

The 90mm rifles still used today deliver a foot-long missile, and this one did its job.

"The initial volley of rounds killed an estimated 40 enemy troops. The bravery of this team was a major factor in overcoming the initial enemy advantage and allowing the remainder of the scout section to establish a defensive position. Private Gronewald left his position only after all available 90mm rounds had been fired."

But his work wasn't done.

"Under intense fire from the huge enemy force, he then helped cover the withdrawal of the scout section into a ditch running parallel to Highway One, before he was mortally wounded. Had it not been for his unwavering professionalism, the scout section would have sustained many more casualties, and evacuation of the wounded would have been impossible."

Highway One in Trang Bang is the same place where many Americans saw the photo taken four years later of a naked South Vietnamese child fleeing a napalm attack.

Gronewald was among Americans who responded to protect her and others in that first Tet Offensive wave.

Many of the family members reuniting for Sunday's observance never knew Larry.

"Larry had nine nieces, no nephews," Linda Holdorf said. "All but one who lives in Atlanta will be involved one way or another."

Just three of those nieces had been born before Larry died. Holdorf said that one, Darcy, has memories of Larry on leave, in uniform at their grandmother's Donahue home. She also remembers packing care boxes with Larry's mom to send to Vietnam.

On Sunday, Darcy Oetzmann Miller will deliver the welcome and introductions.

Niece Michelle Holdorf Laughlin will emcee. Her sister, niece Melanie Holdorf Eaton, will sing the national anthem.

Niece Carla Gronewald Wall will give a closing prayer.

Others will raise and lower the flag.

Retired Army Lt. Col. Steve Garington will speak. He's an Honor Flight organizer and retired Glenn Elementary teacher well known in the community.

The 3 p.m. Sunday ceremony will be at Donahue's Sportsmen's Park. The Donahue Sportsmen's Club held a Labor Day 2017 gun raffle that raised nearly $4,000 for a monument.

"Ken Schoenthaler graciously found a spot in Donahue, just north of the ball park by the new playground and gazebo. There's a rock wall. We've cleaned that all up. The town put in new flag pole," Linda Holdorf said.

The monument is a rock finished by Hansen Monument, DeWitt, featuring an etching of Larry's image, alongside reproductions of his Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart.

According to his Silver Star proclamation: "Private Gronewald's personal bravery, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division and the United States Army."

Another guest will be Larry's Army buddy, Paul Birschbach.

"They were two farm boys, one from Iowa, one from Wisconsin. That's how they met," Linda Holdorf said.

The young men met in basic training and flew to Davenport together, and Larry's family drove Birschbach to his Wisconsin home.

The soldiers deployed separately to Vietnam, but Birschbach stayed in touch, even after the funeral.

"In those 50-some years, we have been close friends with the Birschbachs. We're there for their weddings, anniversaries and funerals, and same with them. They come down here."

"We watched all six of his kids grow up. His youngest son is named Larry."

veloped a foreign animal disease department. Four years ago, we had avian influenza when the state lost hundreds of thousands of birds. Since then, we set up a system in the state.

Another thing from my committee, we created a partnership with the commodity groups. The cattle groups, poultry groups and others are partners in a process to create a system to help protect our food. None of that was in the governor's budget, or even the Department of Agriculture.

... In the Clinton area, Ashford University was held by a private company and they closed it. There's a fantastic facility there ... So I've been working with a group. There's now a Chinese company bringing students in. At Clinton High is the first group of students who are basically open enrolling at Clinton. The goal is to expand this program and utilize this facility.

Another area I've been very active in, we passed a bill to allow students living on Arsenal Island to come to Iowa for an education. That is significant because if there's ever another base realignment program, one of the top scores they get is for educational opportunities for kids who live on the base.

We worked with (Arsenal Garrison Commander) Col. Kenneth Tauke because that was one of the things he asked for. The legislative leadership got very tired of us hounding them to get that through, but that's very significant here to keep the Arsenal open for economic development.

MCCLIMON: Well, I don't have all the accolades that Norlin does, but there are a couple things that spring to mind for me.

In 2017, the big three universities were cut $20 million. In 2018 they were cut $10 million, that mid-session cut. The junior colleges were cut $500,000.

We're talking about education, and you start cutting like that, it just makes it hard. Kids are increasing their debt when they get out of school. Average debt out of those universities is $29,000.

They did a good thing with this Future Ready Iowa, trying to get a vocational education. But shortly after they passed it, they did that community college cut. We've got to make sure we're consistent with our message. If we're going to train these kids, we've got to have a place to train them.

We need to do something to keep Clinton and Scott County people here.

Our budget deficit is higher than it used to be. Medicaid is a mess. We've just got a lot of things to fix.

... Democrats and Republicans ... don't seem to be able to meet in the middle anymore. I'd like to try to work on both sides of the aisle to get more ideas and better decisions made.

R&B featured at North Scott’s Fall Jazz Concert

Lancer musicians will share the stage with 10 of Soul

The newly renovated North Scott High School Fine Arts Auditorium will be filled with the sounds of R&B and soul music this Friday, Nov. 2, at the annual Fall Jazz Concert.

10 of Soul will be the featured band, sharing the stage with NSHS Jazz 1 and Jazz 2 for this event, which begins at 6:45 p.m.

10 of Soul is a high-energy horn band that brings a dynamic range of classic tunes to the stage, from the likes of Earth, Wind and Fire, Kool and the Gang, Tower of Power, Stevie Wonder, Aretha Franklin and more. The members of the group have made it their sole (or soul) mission to keep the dance floor packed and entertain their audiences to the fullest.

Founded in 2012 by North Scott band director Mike McMann, 10 of Soul has headlined many events, including the Iowa and Quad Cities Soul Festivals, Bix Streetfest, Cedar Rapids’ Jazz Under the Stars, CR Market After Dar, Dubuque and All That Jazz, Beaverdale Fall Fest, River House concert series and many more.

They also have shared the stage with Lalah Hathaway, Here Come the Mummies, the Travoltas and many other national touring acts. During “indoor” months, they can be seen at the Rhythm City and Riverside casinos, as well as RIBCO, Rascals, the Redstone Room at RME, and various wedding and corporate functions.

Individual members of 10 of Soul have performed with Aretha Franklin, Ray Charles, The Temptations, The Four Tops, Gloria Gaynor, The Drifters, Martha Reeves, Don Rickles and more.

One of the group’s favorite endeavors is working with students in area high schools. They have presented concerts or assemblies at Clinton High School, Mercer County High School and North Scott Junior and Senior High Schools.

“10 of Soul loves going out into schools and exposing the students and communities to this great music, and also showing the kids that it is possible to keep music going in their lives, no matter what their career choice may be,” said McMann.

“We love working with kids — they are our future!” added 10 of Soul vocalist Nina Little.

Doors open at 6:15, with Jazz 2 beginning at 6:45. Jazz 1 will take the stage at 7:15, and 10 of Soul will play at around 7:45. The high school jazz musicians will be “sitting in” with their soulful guests throughout the event and joining them at the end of the night for one big finale.

“The students have been working hard, and we are really excited to play in our new auditorium,” McMann said.

Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for students (K-12) and $5 for senior citizens.

Flu season is here! Get your shots; watch for symptoms

The Iowa Department of Public Health (IDPH) reminds Iowans that getting a flu vaccine every year is the best way to protect themselves from the flu and its potentially serious complications.

Flu season typically begins in late October or November, and since the vaccine takes about two weeks for antibodies to develop in the body, getting the vaccine now will offer protection when the season begins.

IDPH and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommend everyone over 6 months of age get the flu vaccine. Studies have shown that even if you do catch the flu after being vaccinated, illness is less severe, and serious complications are less likely to occur.

Influenza, or the flu, is a respiratory illness caused by viruses. It comes on suddenly and symptoms may include fever, headache, tiredness, cough, sore throat, nasal congestion and body aches. Illness typically lasts two to seven days, and often puts healthy people in bed for days. It is important that in addition to getting vaccinated, Iowans remember the Three Cs:

- Cover your coughs and sneezes
- Contain germs by staying home when ill
- Clean your hands with soap and water

There are also medications called antivirals that are sometimes appropriate for treating or preventing the flu and Iowans can talk with their healthcare providers about these as needed. During the 2017-2018 season, there were 272 flu-related deaths in Iowa.

Because influenza is not a reportable disease in Iowa, doctors are not required to notify IDPH each time a case is diagnosed; however, IDPH conducts influenza surveillance that helps identify what strains of flu are circulating, how widespread illness is, and in what regions illness is occurring.

Saturday night accident knocks out power in Eldridge

A car accident on Scott Park Road Saturday plunged most of Eldridge into darkness for nearly an hour.
Eldridge Utility lineman Jacob Rowe said he was on the scene as MidAmerican Energy crews repaired the outage, which lasted 8:06 to 8:59 p.m.
Eldridge relies on MidAmerican to supply power lines to the city-operated utility serving most of Eldridge. Alliant Energy serves Eldridge residents east of U.S. 61.

Medicare signups under way through Dec. 7

There is only one time of year when individuals in Eldridge with a Medicare Advantage or Medicare Part D (prescription drug) plan are able to adjust or change their plan, and that time is now.

The 2019 Medicare Annual Election Period runs Oct. 15 through Dec. 7.

"There are many factors to consider when reviewing Medicare Advantage or Medicare Part D plans during the AEP," said Carolyn Dannatt of Mississippi Valley Associates in Davenport. "Factors that impact plan needs include changes to an individual's medical conditions, medication needs, or financial situation."

Carriers can adjust formularies, out-of-pocket costs, in-network providers and other factors year-to-year.

"This process can be complex," said Dannatt. "That's why it's essential to consult a professional. It's important to remember that every person has a unique situation when it comes to which Medicare plan is right for them."

WHAT WILL INFORM YOUR VOTE?

Mid-terms: Civility is the most important issue

What are the issues that will inform your vote in next Tuesday's mid-term election ... if you haven't already voted, as many have?

Impressions
by Bill Tubbs

As I write, the rhythm of our week has been disrupted because the power outage in Eldridge caused by a car crash in Mount Joy Saturday night, which we saw on our way home from the Chordbusters' concert at Bettendorf High School, corrupted my computer operating system. The idea that service to most of the people in a city of 6,400 can be so easily disrupted deserves the attention of city leaders.

We had initially hoped our concert would have been at the new North Scott auditorium. Imagine what a disaster that would have been with the electrical power off for 45 minutes! Or if this had happened on Friday night when the Lancers were hosting Waverly in the football playoffs. If we can afford a second entry point for service, we should by all means do it!

As a result of that outage, I am temporarily (I hope) without contacts, email files, print presets and more, but we spent our Sunday restoring backups, and while the above is inconvenient, at least I am able to write.

Instead of us making endorsements or telling you who you should vote for, I would like to ask you to consider which issues inform your votes. Is it party affiliation, pure and simple? Or do issues matter? I hope they do, because no party has all the good ideas and candidates.

I will be voting for members of both parties at both the local and state levels, but will not be voting for any candidate whose actions – or silence – enable the unpresidential behavior of the current occupant of the White House.

The president himself recently boasted that the mid-terms will be a referendum about HIM. Fair enough. So let's make his behavior the issue, because the self-serving incivility coming from this White House, in the long run, matters more than the economy, tax cuts, regulation, immigration, judges, tariffs, guns, or anything else.

In other words, how many insults – and how many people hurt as a result of those insults – are we willing to put up with? If you disagree with what I just said, go ahead and vote your own interests. In good conscience, however, I cannot. The world is watching, and the stature of the U.S. is in doubt.

We may not think this matters now, but in the long run it should matter to all of us.

Personal insults: The way to get ahead?

Politics has always been rough and tumble. There have been jerks on the Democratic ticket, too, but this president has taken it to a new low – and been rewarded for it.

He won two years ago by fanning prejudice against anyone or anybody in his path: "Lyin' Ted Cruz," "Little Marco Rubio," "Low Energy Jeb Bush," "Ugly Carly Fiorina," Gold Star parents, the handicapped, a Hispanic judge whose ruling he didn't like, Muslims, and so forth. The takeaway from this is that the way to get ahead is to insult others and make it personal.

The fact that Republicans whom he insulted, like Ted Cruz, who is in a contested Texas senate race, are now asking the president's support and acting as if it never happened reveals hypocrisy that is breathtaking.

The insults continued unabated

post-election and have a cumulative effect that coarsens the dialogue and gives others tacit approval to behave the same. The drip, drip, drip has been so steady that almost nothing shocks us anymore. But children are watching, and for that, we should be concerned. Our former congressman, Jim Leach, speaking at a meeting of the League of Women Voters in Davenport last Thursday, rued the fact that those with opposing views are no longer rivals, but enemies.

Words matter. In the last two weeks, we have witnessed reports of three terror attacks:

1) A journalist, Jamal Khashoggi, was killed and his body dismembered at the Saudi consulate in Turkey, and, despite overwhelming evidence that this was ordered by the Saudis, our president is giving the Saudis the benefit of the doubt, citing the possible loss of arms sales to Saudi Arabia. The president has extensive business ties with the Saudis, too.

2) Fourteen leaders who have criticized the president received pipe bombs in the mail designed to kill. The FBI, which has been attacked by the president as unprofessional because of the Russia probe, appears to have expertly solved the case and brought charges against an individual who appears to have been influenced by the president's words. It was one of the largest domestic terror attacks in history.

3) Eleven Jews were gunned down on Saturday during a religious service at their synagogue in Pittsburgh. The killer proclaimed, "All Jews must die!" It was the deadliest attack on Jews in U.S. history. The idea of any group singled out because of religion is repugnant and un-American. We stand in solidarity with our Jewish friends!

These things are not normal.

low taxes and less regulation; and the Iowa State Education Association Party, whose interests are well-funded schools and public services. The races in rural Scott County fit that classic mold: Farmer Ross Paustian versus school social worker Jean Simpson in House District 92, and farm businessman Norlin Mommsen versus probation officer Tim McClimon in District 97. The issue that best illustrates the difference is the severe reduction of collective bargaining rights for teachers and public employees.

The contest in Senate District 49 is more complicated because there is no incumbent. The race was thrown open when Hubbell picked Rita Hart as his running mate. Democrats filled the ticket with experienced Medicaid representative Patti Robinson from Clinton to run against first-timer Chris Cournoyer of LeClaire.

The district, which includes the city of Clinton, has been represented by a Democrat for many years. A victory by Cournoyer, who is president of the Pleasant Valley School Board and a sheriff's posse volunteer, would help Republicans keep control of the state senate. Don't believe the negative TV ads in this race. I know Chris through Rotary and Patti because of her campaign, and both are good people. Residents of Eldridge, Donahue and Long Grove do not vote in this district, but residents of McCausland, Princeton and LeClaire do.

County contests

The five-member Scott County Board of Supervisors is going to miss Diane Holst and Carole Earnhardt, Republicans who have served well and are not seeking re-election. We thank them for their service. Three Republicans and three Democrats are running for the positions, which pay $42,500 with benefits.

In county elections, who you know and trust matters more than party affiliation. With no negativity toward anybody who we have not had the opportunity work with as an elected official, The NSP has found supervisor candidates John Maxwell in his role with the North Scott School Board, and Brinson Kinzer in his role as county supervisor, to be accessible and effective leaders. We see qualities we like in each of the candidates, as well: Ken Croken's vision, Rogers Kirk's steadiness and ministerial qualities, Scott Webster's building experience, and Carla Williams' work with mental health.

The NSP has found county recorder Rita Vargas and county treasurer Bill Fennelly effective leaders, as well. Bill is retiring after a long career of public service as treasurer, county supervisor and Davenport alderman. Thank you for your service, Bill!

The voters will decide if Bill's son, Mike, will succeed his dad as county treasurer in a contest with Jane Duax, the daughter of the late Republican Bob Duax, who was mayor of Davenport and county supervisor. Jane is running as a Democrat.

In all the races, the people will have their say. We thank all the candidates for stepping into the arena. It can't be easy to put yourself through that process, but it's what makes our system work. Please show your appreciation by voting.

OPINION

Something special is brewing at North Scott

There’s something special brewing at North Scott High School, and it appears the Lancer athletic department is creating a culture for champions.

Campbell’s Scoup
by Scott Campbell

While the school’s football team is the only fall sport still in business — the Lancers have advanced to the Elite Eight and will entertain Western Dubuque on Friday — the cross country and volleyball teams both saw their seasons come to disappointing ends in the last two weeks.

Rest assured, winning isn’t everything. In what was somewhat of a shocker, Lancer junior Abbi Lafrenz was North Scott’s lone representative at Saturday’s state cross country meet. For the rest of the team, a season that began with so much hype came to a close 10 days earlier at the district meet at Pleasant Valley.

Yes, the Lancers were expecting to be state meet contenders on both the boys’ and girls’ sides of the ledger, but injuries, unforeseen circumstances and extremely tough competition derailed those plans.

Still, a huge shout out to coach Amy Knoche for being named Mississippi Athletic Conference Coach of the Year, and for bringing nearly 70 runners together for what was a successful season on and off the course.

Knoche has worked hard to develop team unity, and a way of running that breeds success not only on the course, but also later in life. Sure, she wants kids to give their best in each and every race, and yes, the competitor in her wants her teams to compete at state.

More importantly, however, she’s all about helping her runners grow as human beings, and to be productive members of society after they cross their final finish line.

From all indications, the Lancers are getting that message.

“It was a great season,” said senior

Jackson Schrock, the boys’ leader whose dream of running at state went unfulfilled. “Coach Amy really put herself into her work and was a really great coach for all of us.

“She did so many things that helped us get closer as a team, and I learned a lot of stuff about people that I wouldn’t normally have known. I met a lot of great people and had a great time with everyone, and it’s because of Coach Amy.”

Seniors Chloe Engelkes and Sommer Clydesdale, two leaders of the girls’ team, were in total agreement with Schrock.

“It was an awesome season,” said Clydesdale, a three-time state qualifier who battled injuries late in the season. “It was a whole different environment this year, just because we had a new coach, and everything was super cool. The coaches and my teammates were just awesome.”

Engelkes ran at state as a sophomore but was unable to compete a year ago after tearing her ACL in soccer. Coming out as a senior was a last-minute decision, and she ended up being the team’s No. 1 runner most of the season.

“If you’d have told me a year ago that I was going out for cross country again, I probably would’ve laughed,” she said, “but I’m glad I got to experience it again. This team is amazing, and I’m just glad I was able to be a part of it.

“It’s been a fun year. This year was so much better than my sophomore year, and I just felt more connected with my teammates. I think we became really close, and I have to give the coaches credit for that. They were phenomenal.”

While many of the seniors were grateful for Knoche and what she did for them and the team, the coach was just as complimentary when talking about her team’s leaders.

“This group of seniors provided most of our leadership, both by leading by example and vocally,” said Knoche. “Jackson, (Katie Jackovich) and Gabe (Jensen) have been captains for two years, and were joined by fellow seniors Colin Wiersema, Bri Hughes, and Zach Garrard this year.

“Gabe, Zach and Katie have provided most of our vocal leadership while the others are better primed to lead by example. These six kids have been excellent role models and mentors to our six juniors who were new to the leadership team this year.”

Perhaps no one was more instrumental in demonstrating those leadership qualities than Jackovich, who underwent a heart procedure in the middle of the year but never failed to toe the starting line.

“Katie is the heart and soul of our team,” said Knoche. “She is the prime example of what it means to be a true teammate. She is a great role model, mentor, and encourager, and she put in a lot of miles in the summer to prepare for her final season.

“Unfortunately, her heart condition made this a frustrating season for her, but her character consistently showed through as we watched her push through the pain and compete at the varsity level all year.”

Bright future for volleyball

There’s no denying that last week’s epic, down-to-the-wire regional semifinal loss to Clinton was a heartbreaker for North Scott’s volleyball team. Losing the way they did, with the final serve clipping the net and trickling to the floor, was gut-wrenching.

But, to a person, the girls handled the disappointment with class. Afterwards, as I was talking to coach Allie Miguel, the team filed out of the locker room, and I pulled a few away to share their thoughts.

It was my first interview with freshman Ella McLaughlin, and it was cute how she stood in line behind juniors Kendall McNaul and Emma Powell, and gave them both fun-loving pecks on the cheek.

Later, she talked about being a freshman on this experienced team.

“This team was really accepting of me and just took me in,” said Ella. “They were just great to me, and it was a really great environment.”

The camaraderie that I saw between McLaughlin and her teammates just confirmed what I knew after watching this team all season. They are a close-knit group that truly enjoys each other’s company. In addition, they’ve been nothing but polite in their interviews with me, both in person or over the phone.

Miguel put her stamp of confirmation on the topic as well.

“These girls were so much fun to hang out with for two hours a day,” she said, “and I never didn’t want to go to practice. I had some crazy stuff going on in my life, with getting married and moving, that it was a nice release to come out and hang out with these girls.

“They all have such great character, and they are everything you could ask an athlete to be for your program. They are awesome young ladies – and I can’t wait to see what they do in the future. I’m so proud of all of them and so proud to have them in our program.”

Despite the heartbreaking loss that ended the season, the Lancers were pleased with how things turned out.

“It was an amazing season,” said senior Emma Morgan. “We have really great team chemistry, and we all got along super well. It was just really fun in all of our practices and at all of our tournaments.

“Our season is something to be really proud of. It didn’t end the way we wanted it to, which really sucks in itself, but we had a really fun time, and I couldn’t have wished for more than that.”

Senior Maddie Allison agreed.

“I very much enjoyed the season,” she said. “It was a great year, and I won’t forget any second of it.”

Yes, good things are happening at North Scott, and the future looks bright. Not only for the Lancer athletic teams, but our community, and society, in general.

We truly are building leaders of tomorrow.

DOUBLE SHEESH FOR NEGATIVITY

Candidates clean up their ads for The North Scott Press

Autumn’s full color splendor arrived the same time the campaign season is casting a gritty, gray glow from digital screens.

On the Record
by Mark Ridolfi

Attack ads are the grist of lowbrow campaigning, and Iowans are getting their fill.

For every image of Gov. Kim Reynolds cavorting with her adorable grandkids, we see dozens of distorted images of good people falsely portrayed as greedy schemers.

The Iowa Republican party gave Chris Cournoyer more than $200,000 to fill your screens with ads complaining about her opponent’s potential campaign ads.

Sheesh.

These grim, Photoshopped bad guys fill every advertising second of televised news screens and infiltrate our Youtube and other social media screens. Similarly grim attacks show up in the mail and do their dirty work in the few seconds from the mailbox to the recycling bin.

Those junk attack ads neither inspire nor inform. But they work wonderfully to scare uninformed voters away from the polls.

That’s why you don’t see them in The NSP.

NSP readers don’t buy it.

NSP readers are familiar with many of the candidates through our ongoing coverage of their community leadership. Some readers attended our candidate forums and gave us questions to present to the candidates. Many more spent serious time reading accounts of the forum discussions we shared in print and online.

Those attack ads don’t work so well among informed voters. So campaign ad buyers don’t even try to foist that nonsense in this publication.

Instead, these campaigns chose The NSP to share lots of informative, colorful ads, which I believe more accurately depict this season’s candidates. We’ve seen both parties invest in The NSP to reach Scott County’s most informed voters. And we thank them for it.

Delivering an informed, civic-minded and community-involved audience to these advertisers is among our NSP distinctions. It’s also among the joys of community newspapering.

Every problem would seem insurmountable to those informed primarily by those gritty gray attack ads. But I’m blessed every week to share stories about elected public officials struggling through complex problems the old fashioned way: With lots of research, collaboration and public input.

NSP readers know much more about Cournoyer than her goofy attack ad. They know her as a longtime reserve deputy, school board president and over-the-top science and tech education cheerleader.

But uninformed readers now may know her primarily as the candidate whose sullen ad attacked other ads.

Double sheesh.

But NSP readers know better. I hope their community connection nurtured by our coverage is enough to send them to the polls with more purpose, resolve and optimism. I hope NSP readers understand that few problems are unresolvable.

All solutions require information, and most importantly, a will to succeed.

And that’s not the will of the candidates. It’s the will of voters.

I spent the last couple of months querying candidates about what they might do if elected. And I learned a lot. The No. 1 lesson? Candidates won’t do anything that voters can’t handle.

So next Tuesday, we’ll learn how well Iowans believe privatized Medicaid management is doing the job.

We’ll learn how Scott County residents perceive the transparency of their Board of Supervisors.

We’ll learn how much Iowans value top rankings by U.S. News and World Report and other news media that the governor extols on the campaign trail.

We’ll learn if voters are OK with tax cuts while public school funding lags behind the rate of inflation.

We’ll learn if Iowans welcome the abortion ban enacted by the legislature’s heartbeat bill last session.

We’ll learn if Iowans believe that taxpayer funding for managing farm storm water runoff will clean up Iowa waterways more efficiently than stiffening fines for polluters.

Iowa’s next governor, and its local, state and federal legislators will do whatever Iowans affirm Tuesday.

So be sure to let them know.

2018 Election: Readers have the last word

HEALTHCARE

Current lawmakers not willing to listen

Editor:

In a few days the midterm election will be history. I have spent the last few weeks encouraging people to vote. Regardless of affiliation, everyone is anxious for political ads to end. Some stated they are too discouraged to vote. I replied turn off the TV and pay attention to what politicians did and what they plan to do; ignore their attacks on their opponents.

Healthcare is a critical issue. Gov. Reynolds’ privatization of Medicaid continues to be a disaster. Providers are not being paid, disabled people are losing coverage and taxpayers are not saving money. If the governor refuses to recognize the for-profit Medicaid insurance company’s failures, how can we trust that that she has a plan to fix it?

A week ago no Republican candidates showed up for the healthcare legislative forum at Genesis. In a recent voter’s guide, the Quad-City Times asked all candidates if they supported Iowa’s move to a privately managed Medicaid system. No Republican gave a straight yes or no answer. They declared medical costs were rising too fast, as if that explained how shifting tax dollars to insurance company profits would somehow solve the problem. I’m still waiting to hear how they plan to solve this mess.

President Trump campaigned on replacing the ACA with something better. With full control of Congress, it became painfully clear Republicans are good at opposition, but short on solutions. They know voters love the protections for preexisting conditions in the ACA. Republicans won’t take the honest vote to rip those protections away. Instead, they intend to kill the ACA with a thousand cuts. They passed legislation that will eliminate the requirement to purchase insurance. The change goes into effect after the midterms, in January 2019. Once healthy people drop their insurance, it won’t be long before we all lose our preexisting conditions protections.

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell plans to address the budget crisis accelerated by the Republican tax scam by cutting Medicare and Social Security. Reducing earned benefits and shifting costs is not a formula for success. We need to get medical costs under control, but cost shifting is not the answer. As we see in Iowa, failure to pay providers and denying care to the sick and disabled does not make the costs go away.

We need representatives who are willing to listen to all sides to forge winning solutions to actually control costs. Our current crop of Republican legislators have a proven record of unwillingness to listen.

Do ad designers think we're stupid?

Editor:

Do the designers of all the political campaign ads, fliers and robo calls really think Iowa voters are as unintelligent as these intrusive messages make us out to be? The most important question we, as voters, can ask any candidate is this: if you are elected to represent me, tell me how you would prioritize the concerns of your constituents, against the demands of your caucus and the desires of your own conscience when making up your mind on how to vote for an issue.

Mommsen is educated on the issues

Editor:

I am writing this letter supporting state Rep. Norlin Mommsen. I had the opportunity to meet Norlin several years ago at a conservative function. I am a city girl and was not familiar with agricultural issues. Norlin took the time to explain and educate me on agricultural procedures and economics and how strongly they affected our area, the state of Iowa and our nation.

As the Multiple Sclerosis regional coordinator, I have traveled to our state capitol the last four years to attend the Multiple Sclerosis Action Day, and have been honored that each time Rep. Mommsen has taken the time to meet with our group. He allows us the chance to voice our needs, to discuss pending legislation and how it affects those living with multiple sclerosis and what legislation we feel will help to improve our quality of life and accessibility to services and opportunities in the State of Iowa.

There was one trip to the capitol that was especially significant. One member of our party is paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair. He was unable to enter the legislative chamber due to steps. Norlin had not realized prior to this incident, the inaccessibility of the chamber and was deeply upset. He immediately began brainstorming for a temporary solution and seeking out others that had been representatives longer than he and asking if they were aware of a solution. He was going to get everyone from our party into the chambers! Rep. Mommsen asked enough people and found there was a portable ramp. I was so impressed by his determination and his compassion for others.

Norlin is educated on the issues that are important to Iowans, he is determined to find solutions to problems and he cares about the people in and outside of his district. This is the kind of person we need to represent us in Des Moines.

McClimon will work to find solutions

Editor:

I support Tim McClimon for the Iowa House, because I know he will work for everyone in his district. Tim has dedicated his life to helping people get their lives back on track. When he was a parole officer, he worked with people suffering from mental health and substance abuse issues, and he understands that everyone deserves a second chance.

I’ve known Tim through his support of the DeWitt Referral Center and can say that he knows how to get results. When our food pantry was completely empty, I knew I could count on Tim to help get our shelves stocked. He is a fair and decent person who listens to people and doesn’t judge them. Every day, people come to the Referral Center who are working hard and being responsible, but are still one paycheck away from being homeless. Something has to change.

I believe Tim McClimon understands what people are going through and will work to find solutions to the economic problems facing too many of our neighbors. I am asking you to join me in voting for Tim McClimon.

COUNTY TREASURER

Former supervisor likes Mike Fennelly

Editor:

I am writing in support of Mike Fennelly for Scott County Treasurer. I have known Mike literally since the day he was born. As a youth he was always such a goal-oriented person who used that ambition to form very successful businesses over the last 30 some years as a adult. He learned from family mentors to have a firm sight on a goal and work and work until achieved. A lifelong resident of Scott County of which he is proud to be a citizen.

Mike and his wife of 28 years, Ann, have raised four children, all of whom were outstanding student-athletes at Assumption and went on to be achieving college students. This is a reflection of upbringing of parents and how Mike will approach his duties as treasurer. Plain English: He sees what needs to be done and does it by whatever it takes to learn and achieve that task .

As a former chairman of the Scott County Board, I recognized the qualities needed to be an elected county official and to keep us the best run county of Iowa’s 99. As of the Oct. 25th report, Scott now has an unemployment rate of 2.6 percent, down from 3.4 percent. Continued firm fiscal leadership is needed to maintain this. As an added bonus, no previous treasurer has had the advantage of an expert unpaid "consultant" to aid Mike in taking his new office.

GOVERNOR

You have to pay if you want good services

Editor:

Taxes are the cost of public services. If you want good police and fire protection, you have to pay for it. If you want good public secondary education, you have to pay for it. If you want lower tuition at higher education institutions, you have to pay for it. If you want a well staffed court system to protect your rights, you have to pay for it. If you want mental health treatment facilities, you have to pay for it.

Gov. Kim Reynolds wants to cut all of these services and give the money to higher income taxpayers. Fred Hubbell wants to protect these services. He does not want to raise taxes. He wants to keep and preserve the services we have today. To make Iowa a better state for all Iowans, vote for Fred Hubbell and Rita Hart.

Marlin "Hap" Volz

Hubbell won't defend rights of the unborn

Editor:

I will not vote for Mr. Hubbell or anyone who thinks like him. For him it is not enough to believe and even promote a “woman’s right” to an abortion, he actually has provided a place of business for Planned Parenthood so they can continue their business of killing the unborn.

As I watched several of his campaign ads, I noticed all the lovely children happily running around in them. Lucky for them, their mothers chose to give birth instead of choosing their right to abort.

You talk about health issues and mental health issues. What about the unborn? How about their health? And can you even imagine the pain and anguish a baby feels when being killed and often torn limb to limb while in what should be the safest place for a baby: his or her mother’s womb. I think his ads are a bit deceiving so I have to wonder about the integrity of his campaign promises.

I am saddened by what is happening in our country. Let’s start to work together to make the United States a better place for our kids and grandkids. And, no, I do not believe that would happen by impeaching our current president and/or Justice Kavanaugh.

CONGRESS

I support Dr. Peters

Editor:

I am writing to show my support for Dr. Christopher Peters, and to raise concern regarding the complete lack of action on the part of his opponent ...

Dr. Peters is against the Affordable Care Act, and as a physician will bring a significant amount of insight to the issue. Dr. Peters certainly supports law enforcement and the legitimacy of our nation to control our borders and finally get comprehensive immigration passed. Recently Dr. Peters signed a pledge to support term limits, and he supports all Iowans by being fiscally responsible and supporting tax cuts and reducing spending. He is also a small business owner of a medical practice, so he understands the needs of small business ...

It is time that we send someone to Washington from Iowa District 2 who will actually support the Iowans living in Iowa District 2, not the ideologies of the east and west coast Democrat bosses.

National Election Tuesday

Voters throughout the nation will go to the poll on Tuesday, Nov. 5 to cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice, from president on down through state and county offices. On the local level, residents will vote for their choice among the following candidates running for offices:

State senator--Joseph W. Cassidy, (D) and Harold "Babe" Thordsen, (R). Mr. Cassidy has both his bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Iowa. He was a public school teacher and administrator in Iowa for nineteen years. He was presented outstanding Educator's Award in 1967 by the Iowa State Education Association. As State Senator he was co-author of the bill that tripled state aid to school, allowed $2500 personal property exemption, repealed the tax on household goods, froze property taxes for the elderly, and raised the agricultural land tax credit to $18,000,000. He is running on a platform of completing governmental reorganization at the state level financial help for cities and town, more money for Area Community Colleges and keeping state aid to local districts of any kind.

Harold "Babe" Thordsen, (R) an experienced legislator, was alderman at large for three terms, a businessman with many years of public service.

State Representative, sub-district 1- Walter Dietz (D) and Alan D. Dugan (R). Mr. Dietz farmed for 30 years and was a claims adjuster for Farm Bureau Insurance Co. for 13 years. He served in state legislature from 1937 to 1943, was chairman of Scott County Board of Supervisors in 1965 and 1966. His platform includes obedience of law, regardless of color or creed; lower the age limit to allow boys and girls 14 and 15 years old to help with hay baling etc., or a girl to carry trays in a drive-in; legalize bingo, and require hold-over elected officials to resign his or her present office if they plan to be a candidate for another office. This would eliminate a special election if that official were successful in being elected.

Mr. Dugan holds a bachelor degree in business administration, is an active businessman, hard worker, Scoutmaster, active in Toastmasters, a Youth Advisor and Sunday School teacher.

State representative, sub-district 2- Robert E. Newton (D), and Dorothy Goettsch (R). Mr. Newton served as an administrative aide to Gov. Herschel C. Loveless. He earned a master's degree and a doctorate in political science from Catholic University of America; served on the civilian staffs of the Comptroller of the Army and the Chief of Transportation in Washington D.C., and on the Community Planning Workshop, Montgomery County, Virginia. He is now a member of the political science department faculty at St. Ambrose College; a member of St.

Mary's parish; Knights of Columbus; the Holy Name Society; Phi Beta Kappa and the National Newman Honor Society, and was designated a Distinguished Military Graduate at the University of Iowa.

Mrs. Goettsch is a lifetime resident of this area and has proved her leadership ability serving the P.T.A., Camp Fire Girls, League of Women Voters and Federation of Republican Women.

CLASS 3A PLAYOFFS

'Take me to the Dome'

Lancers dial up a defensive gem; one step from state semis

North Scott will host Western Dubuque in Elite Eight matchup

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

The stands were empty and North Scott football coach Kevin Tippet was just finishing his post-game talk in the end zone.

As if on cue, the strains of John Denver's "Take Me Home, Country Roads" started blaring through the Lancer Stadium speakers, and after being dismissed by Tippet, the Lancers enthusiastically joined in on the familiar chorus.

Oh, how prophetic, and yes, there was plenty to sing about.

After a convincing 39-9 opening round win over a very good Waverly-Shell Rock team Friday night, North Scott will be staying home for this Friday's Class 3A quarterfinal matchup with Western Dubuque, and they're also hoping that not only did those country roads lead home, but also to the Dome.

For the second straight year — and just the third time in school history — the Lancers are breathing rare air with a trip to the Elite Eight, and there will be plenty on the line when they host a very good Bobcat team.

Never before has a North Scott team advanced to the UNI-Dome and the state semifinals, but now the Holy Grail is in Enjoy this win tonight, because I guarantee with what's happened the last few years with Western Dubuque, they have our number circled. You know they want a piece of us, and I'm OK with that.

Kevin Tippet, North Scott football coach reach and there for the taking.

The Lancers are riding an impressive nine-game winning streak after taking care of business against the Go-Hawks, and after entering the post-season as the No. 5 seed, just a hair behind unbeaten and No. 4 Solon, North Scott is suddenly wearing the favorite's tag to advance to the Final Four.

Western Dubuque saw to that with what was the shot heard 'round the state when they steamrolled the Spartans with a 48-13 first-round walloping, and that upset gave North Scott home-field advantage against the Bobcats.

For the second time in three months, the two schools will face off in a classic "loser-go-home" scenario, and you can bet the Lancers will have a little extra motivation after the Bobcats claimed a 7-4 win in the state baseball tournament quarterfinals.

However, Western Dubuque will also be seeking a little revenge of its own, as this will be the Bobcats' second trip to Eldridge this season, having lost a 7-6 decision back in September.

There is a ton of respect between the two programs, and Tippet is taking nothing for granted as his team approaches the 7 p.m. kick-off.

"I'm not surprised that Western Dubuque defeated Solon," he said. "They are really good. I thought that would be a good game, and I thought they could get them."

"Obviously, we are pretty familiar with them after playing the last three years, and we had a heckuva ball game here earlier this season. Maybe that Solon score was a little more lopsided than I thought it would be, but Coach (Justin) Penner has a real good football team."

The Lancers have never lost to the Bobcats, having claimed 20-17 and 40-21 wins the last two seasons. However, you can throw all those results out the window, as none of those contests came with the seismic activity that will be rumbling through the Lancer Stadium turf come Friday night.

To be certain, this is not the same Bobcat team that felt the sting of that earlier 7-6 loss. Since then, the Bobcats have rolled to victory in five of their last six outings, with the lone setback being a 35-0 whitewashing at the hands of third-ranked Cedar Rapids Xavier.

Since that defeat on Oct. 5, the Bobcats have recorded three straight wins where they've outscored their opponents by a combined 168-43 margin. And

With Zach Campbell in the background, Mason Watts celebrates his pick-six.

Collin Lewis was focused on the end zone as he turned this interception for a 52-yard pick-six.

REGIONAL VOLLEYBALL

Junior Grace Boffeli keeps her eye on the ball before sending it sailing over the net.

Kendall McNaull was dominant at the net, with 12 kills and six blocks.

Clinton serves up a five-set Lancer heartbreaker in classic semifinal

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

One inch. One single, measly, lousy inch.

Quite possibly, that's all that stood between North Scott and a return trip to the regional finals.

In excruciating and heartbreaking fashion, North Scott's season came to a close on Tuesday (Oct. 23) when their spirited and passionate comeback fell short in a 24-26, 25-20, 25-15, 13-25, 15-13 loss to new arch rival Clinton.

The final straw, which sent the River Queen faithful into hysteria and the Lancers into shock, came after Clinton overcame 8-4, 10-7 and 12-10 fifth-set deficits before winning on a serve that clipped the net, and fell harmlessly to the floor as the Lancers could only watch in disbelief.

Emma Powell, who was playing with a sprained ankle, returns a Clinton serve.

Could there be a more agonizing way to end yet another epic battle between two of eastern Iowa's Class 4A powers? Just as easily, the ball could have stayed on Clinton's side of the court, and the two evenly matched teams might still be playing.

Oh, what could've been.

"That last play, losing on a net serve like that, that's tough, but that's how it fell," said Lancer coach Allie Miguel, who watched her team wrap up a 22-12 campaign. "Our girls didn't give up the entire way, and you can't ask for anything more than the effort we gave."

The effort was certainly there, but the wanted and expected end result wasn't. Instead, it was Clinton that advanced to Monday night's regional final at Dubuque Wahlert, while the Lancers were left to contemplate the woulda, coulda, shoulda.

"We had it. We really thought we had it," said junior Kendall McNaull. "We came in prepared, and we were ready. We really fought hard, and the loss really took a toll on us."

"We really thought we had that fifth set, but they snuck up on us and took it from us. They are a good team, and we put up a fight. It almost seems unfair to lose on a serve like that, but it is what it is."

Senior libero Maddie Allison was her usual whirling dynamo in the back row all night, finishing with 23 digs, and many of the spectacular variety. However, on the final serve, she could only watch in disbelief as the ball fell harmlessly in front of her.

"My head just dropped, and I was speechless," she said. "I didn't know what to think. It was over at that point, and there was nothing we could do about it. It just sucked."

Fellow senior Emma Morgan, who played and contributed 10 kills despite a painful knee injury, was on the bench for the final and fateful rotation, and also couldn't believe what she was seeing.

"Right out of her hand it looked low, and in my mind I was praying it stays on the other side of the net," she said. "When it trickled over, it was awful to watch. Serves like that only happen so often, and it was luck at that point."

"Watching that, and knowing it was over, it was just the worst way that point could have gone."

Really, it shouldn't have come down to that. Fans and players deserved to see it end on one of those thrilling points that were plentiful throughout the match, and with an exclamation point kill to seal the deal.

As everyone expected, this one was yet another classic donnybrook between two teams who have taken turns ending each other's seasons.

Two years ago, on the very same Yourd Gymnasium court, it was the River Queens who came out on top with a three-game sweep, and a year ago, with the Lancers having home court advantage, it was North Scott that claimed a five-set win that came down to a 16-14 win in the finale.

Then, the two teams kicked off this season with another five-set doozy, with the River Queens winning the match with a 15-13 victory. Clinton came into the match ranked No. 10 in Class 4A, while the Lancers were No. 12.

Both teams lived up to their hype, and it was another battle for the ages, even if the Lancers weren't at full strength. Morgan didn't play in the regional opener against Burlington, and junior star Emma Powell, the girl who does everything, sprained her ankle in practice on the Thursday before the match.

She could hardly walk on it over the weekend, and didn't practice. But she played.

"My ankle bothered me a little bit," said Powell, who finished with just four kills, but had 19 digs. "I came into the game thinking it was going to hurt, so I knew it was going to be bad, but I didn't think it was going to be as bad as it was."

Powell's injury wasn't an excuse. The Lancers still played like the powerhouse they were.

Freshman phenoms Grace Graham (2) and Ella McLaughlin played key roles in North Scott's 22-12 season, and are big reasons why the future looks bright for the Lancers.

NSP photos by Scott Campbell

With freshman Ella McLaughlin sparking a late-set comeback, North Scott overcame early 9-5, 18-13 and 20-15 deficits to steal set one by a 26-24 margin. Allison gave the Lancers just their second lead with an ace to make it 22-21, and a pair of kills by junior Grace Boffeli, and a slam by Morgan, powered the Lancers down the home stretch.

The Lancers were flying high, but quickly came down to earth. Led by University of Iowa recruit Grace Tubbs, the River Queens found their mojo and stormed to relatively easy wins in the second and third sets.

"We thought we had the whole match after the first set," said Powell. "We came in prepared to beat them, but it just got away from us."

"We were confident after the first set," added Allison. "I think that Clinton realized they needed to step it up, so they played a lot harder in the second set, and we almost played too relaxed. We just didn't have the same energy."

That all changed in the fourth set as the Lancers turned the tide with a dominating 25-13 win. Clinton jumped out to an early 8-3 lead on big kills by Tubbs, but with junior Sam Lee at the serving line the Lancers roared back to take a 10-8 lead and never trailed.

Sam Lee had a big night with 13 digs, 11 assists and two ace serves.

The two teams traded points to make it 11-9 before a McNaull kill upped the count to 12-9, and then she served up a 6-0 run that effectively put the game out of reach. Morgan, McLaughlin and freshman Grace Graham all had kills to aid the Lancer cause during the stretch.

"In that fourth set we were calm and relaxed," said McNaull. "We didn't think so much about pounding the ball, and were more strategically tipping it and playing our game."

"We might have gotten a little complacent in the second and third sets," said Morgan, "and when it came to game four, when we were on the bench, we were saying, 'This is it. We have to go now. We have to get this one.'"

"We came out super strong, and it felt amazing to keep scoring and getting on long runs. We were really feeling good going into Game 5."

Allison said she could feel the confidence building on North Scott's side of the net during the fourth set comeback, and she felt good heading into the fifth and deciding set.

"During the fourth, we felt we had the whole match," she said. "I honestly thought it was going to be a repeat of last year, going into the fifth where we won 16-14. Obviously, that didn't go as I thought. But we really fought hard those last couple of sets."

It certainly wasn't for lack of trying. "When we were down 2-1, I thought we could do it," said McLaughlin, who finished with 12 kills. "We've done great things with this team, and I knew we could get to the fifth set. It was a great feeling getting on a roll, and we just had confidence that we could do it."

"I really thought we had it in the fifth set. We just couldn't finish, and they came back on us."

A Tubbs kill allowed the River Queens to draw first blood in the decider, but a Boffeli kill, followed by a big Powell block on Tubbs gave the Lancers an early lead.

It was 4-4 when Tubbs rotated out, and North Scott took full advantage as they rolled to an 8-4 lead with McNaull and McLaughlin delivering kills, while Lee served up an ace.

Unfortunately, the River Queens didn't go down without a fight. With Tubbs still on the bench they clawed back to within one at 10-9, but a McLaughlin slam made it 11-9 before it was time for Tubbs to return.

In the end, she was the difference.

North Scott did take a 12-10 lead when the future Hawkeye had a rare misfire, but she bounced right back and sandwiched a pair of kills around one by teammate Bailey Wing to give the Queens a 13-12 lead.

The gym was going crazy, but that didn't bother Boffeli, as she knotted the count to fuel the enthusiasm. A Tubbs kill made it 14-13, and that set the stage for Haley Dash's final and match-sealing serve.

"Game 5 was definitely a heartbreaker," said Morgan, "but it was super fun and super crazy with a ton of adrenaline pumping. At the end, it was just, when Grace Tubbs came back in, it was harder for us to shut her down."

"Losing on a serve like that is an awful way to lose to Clinton, but it was a super close game, and I can't be upset about how that went. Still, it was definitely a tough one to choke down."

McLaughlin and McNaull each had a dozen kills, while Morgan and Boffeli finished with 10. Lee was a real sparkplug, and gained special props from Miguel after collecting 13 digs and 11 assists as well as a pair of aces.

The Lancers will certainly miss Morgan, Allison and fellow senior Bailee Kroeger, who contributed seven digs, two assists and a kill, but the cupboard is far from bare.

"We have lot of firepower coming back next year, and we're going to be really strong," said Powell. "We'll have to get in a groove without having these seniors, because we're going to miss them a lot, but we can get the job done."

"It's hard to look past tonight, but I think we have a good thing we're building at North Scott," said Miguel. "When I look to the future, I think it's pretty bright."

As for McNaull, when she returns for her senior season, she has just one goal. "Beat Clinton," she said. "That's it."

Scott's takeaway

Give Clinton plenty of credit, and props to River Queen Grace Tubbs. She's a force to be reckoned with. However, this group of Lancers deserved better. They were fun to watch on the court and a joy to talk to afterwards. For more of my thoughts check out Campbell's Scoop in Section A.

Despite playing with an injured knee, senior Emma Morgan delivered 10 kills.

The Lancers had plenty of confidence after winning the first set, as evidenced by the reactions of Bailee Kroeger (front) and Emma Powell.

LANCERS: 'They're going to get our best. We're going to do it, and I'm ready'

let's face it, last Friday's shellacking at Solon was a shocker. Tippet doesn't want his team leaving anything to chance Friday night. "Enjoy this win tonight," he told his team after last week's win, "because I guarantee with what's happened the last few years with Western Dubuque, they have our number circled. "You know they want a piece of us, and I'm OK with that. Celebrate tonight, and let's go back to work tomorrow." As for the Bobcats, they have the Lancers in their sights. "It's really hard to beat a team twice," Penner told The Cedar Rapids Gazette after the win over Solon. "I like where our kids' heads are going to be at. That loss stung really badly. We've been down there and are familiar with those guys." Tippet knows the Lancers have their work cut out, and that they need to play better than they did the first time the two teams met. "We gotta be able to run the ball better," he said. "We were very spotty running the football, and we got in our own way. We had five to eight plays of 10 yards or more that were called back, and we have to make sure we aren't getting in our own way offensively." Shortly after the final horn signaled the end of Friday's first-round game, Western Dubuque was already in the collective sights of the Lancers. "It feels really good to win tonight, but we're already on to next week and have to start focusing on that," said senior offensive lineman Brady Ernst. "The O-line didn't play very good last time we played Western Dubuque, but obviously we've gotten a lot better. "They're going to get our best. We're going to do it, and I'm ready." "Western Dubuque is a very good team, but I feel good about our chances," said senior quarterback Nile McLaughlin. "They have a lot to offer, so we'll have to practice just like we did this week so we can get the same result. "We can't have as many penalties this time around, and I'm pretty confident we'll get the job done."

Defense dials up a gem

There's no denying that the Lancers took care of business against Waverly-Shell Rock, as a pair of second-half pick-sixes stunned the Go-Hawks and let the Lancers shift into cruise control. North Scott was making its 11th straight playoff appearance — its first in Class 3A — and left no doubt that it is a team on a mission. After the two teams traded opening-quarter turnovers, the Lancers drew first blood on Andrew Lundvall's 35-yard field goal, but Go-Hawk Dawson Bathke knotted the score midway through the second on a 35-yarder of his own. The Lancers responded with a heavy dose of Quentin Allison, as the junior scatback juiced, jived and powered his way to 47 yards on a nine-play, 70-yard drive that resulted in McLaughlin's three-yard scoring run. Lundvall misfired on the PAT, and North Scott took a 9-3 lead into halftime.

The second half was all North Scott. On the second play of the third quarter, senior Collin Lewis turned the tide with a 52-yard interception return and left everybody chasing him to the house. Then, after the two teams traded punts, fellow senior Mason Watts followed with a pick-six of his own, stepping in front of another Luke Velky pass and racing 50 yards to the end zone. "We've been working on that exact play the whole week," said Lewis, "and I actually have to thank the scout team and Luke Jennings for that interception. "I couldn't stop them all week in practice, and now when it comes to the game, I got it. "It was an awesome feeling. It was an easy catch, but there's always that fear you're going to drop it, because I've touched the ball like twice in the last four years." Watts, who realized a dream a week ago when Tippet let him play quarterback for the final kneel-down snaps in the win over Davenport Assumption, had another fantasy come true. "I almost tripped on my own feet, but hopefully coach now sees that I'm a dual threat," said Watts, who also had 10 unassisted tackles, including a sack. "He saw the speed, but I mean, of course, that's a dream scenario for any defensive player, and it's just nice to get one. "When I caught the ball, it took me a little bit to process. I was like, 'Oh my gosh, I just caught the ball.' Then I just took off. I asked coach at the end of the Jordan does it again!

Freshman Grace Veach also qualifies for state swim meet

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

For the third straight year, North Scott junior Jordan Neymeyer has qualified for the Girls' State Swim meet, and this time she'll have some company. Neymeyer and freshman Grace Veach will both be in action this weekend when the Pleasant Valley swim team takes to the Marshalltown pool. The two North Scott students swim with the Spartans as part of a cooperative agreement between the two schools. Pleasant Valley finished second in last Saturday's regional meet at Clinton, which was won by Bettendorf. Eleven Spartan swimmers qualified in 21 events. There are 32 qualifiers in each event, with preliminaries scheduled for Friday night. The top 16 will then advance to Saturday night's finals. Neymeyer qualified in the 200 individual medley, the 100 breaststroke and is a member of Pleasant Valley's 4x100 free-style team, along with Libby Staver, Lauren Groenenboom and Abby Buechel. Neymeyer is seeded 18th in the breast-stroke and 14th in the individual med-ley after finishing fifth in each race at regionals. The Spartan relay quartet is seeded fourth. Veach will be making her first state meet appearance, and is seeded 17th in the 100 backstroke. She also finished fifth in Clinton. Other Spartan qualifers include Christy Bishop, Grace Schons, Danielle Nauman, Carly Lundry, Taylor Buhr and Alix Dalmasso.

game if he needed a closer again, and he said, 'No way.'" The two picks made it 23-3 midway through the third, and the Lancers finished things off with a 32-yard Lundvall field goal, a beautifully executed 79-yard catch-and-run executed by Allison and McLaughlin, and senior Jacob Porth's 35-yard gallop to seal the deal with 6:29 left in the game. "When Coach called the play, I knew it was going to be there," said Allison, who finished with 54 yards in eight carries. "I caught it and only had a few guys to beat, but there was a key block by Teagen Fletcher. If he had not gotten that block, the play wouldn't have been there." Porth led the Lancer rushing attack with 77 yards in 12 trips, while McLaughlin connected on 9-of-17 passes for 133 yards. Junior Ty Anderson caught three of those tosses for 24 yards, while senior Carson Rollinger was limited to two catches and just 11 yards.

Last time

Western Dubuque is the only Class 3A team that has tested the Lancers, and that 7-6 North Scott victory back in September was every bit as close as the final score indicated. That contest was a defensive dog-fight to the bitter end, and the Lancer D held vaunted quarterback Calvin Harris to just nine completions and 29 yards, while tossing four interceptions. He is averaging 219 yards in the Bobcats' other nine games, and the Lancer D will need to be just as stingy the second time around. Western Dubuque's only score came on its opening possession, and the missed PAT was a game-changer. North Scott had eight penalties for 85 yards, and was outgained on offense by a 202-180 margin.

"Those pick-sixes were huge," said Tippet. "For two and a half quarters, our defense was outscoring our offense, and doing a great job. When you can get bonus points by your defense chipping in with 12, that's big. "Offensively we were spotty. There were times we could run the ball really well, and there were times we sputtered a little bit. Some of that, maybe I over-thought it a little bit on play calls, but you know, I think we have to be more consistent." The Lancers were confident heading into the game, and that confidence was still brimming afterwards. "There was never a doubt in any of our minds," said senior TJ Yates. "Waverly-Shell Rock is a good, solid team, and they had us on our heels at the beginning of the game. But we came out in the second half and finished, and really kicked butt. "Now it's all about Western Dubuque. We've played them. Our offense didn't perform quite as well, and our defense stopped them pretty good. I'm feeling pretty confident heading into next week."

Abbi Lafrenz finishes 84th at state meet in Fort Dodge

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

For the third year in a row, North Scott junior Abbi Lafrenz wrapped up her cross country season at the state meet in Fort Dodge, and on a picture-perfect Saturday she finished 84th in the 125-girl field. She finished 24th as a sophomore, and 83rd a year ago. Her time of 20:34 was just 20 seconds off her 2017 pace.

"I felt alright about the race, and looking back on it I feel pretty good about it," said Lafrenz. "There were probably a few things I could've improved on, but I was happy with my time. Of course, you always wish you could've done better." Lancer coach Amy Knoche said the weather in Fort Dodge provided the best conditions of the season, and said that Lafrenz ran well. "Abbi ran a pretty good race," she said.

"Her time was consistent with what she ran at conference and districts. Anytime you put 125 of the best kids in the state on the line, you know you are going to have a good race. "She had a (starting) box in the middle, and it was hard for her to find room to run at first, but she ran well." Southeast Polk captured the Class 4A team title, edging Johnston by a single point. Valley of West Des Moines finished third. Pleasant Valley, Dubuque Hempstead and Cedar Rapids Prairie, the three teams from North Scott's loaded district, finished sixth, seventh and eighth. Now, Lafrenz will set her sights on what should be a spectacular senior season. "I feel good about this season, and I improved my times from last year to this year," she said. "Now, I'm looking forward to next year, and I think it would be pretty awesome to be able to say I went to state four times. That would be the goal." Knoche is expecting big things. "This race will be a good catalyst into next season," she said.
