Growing path hosts second annual night out

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

The Eldridge-Long Grove trail will now grow in both directions.

An Iowa regional transit planning committee has authorized $345,000 to extend the trail north through Long Grove along North First Street, from Cadda Road through Pine street.

The money will be available in late 2022, giving Long Grove three years to save for its $96,000 share of the trail extension.

Long Grove Mayor Mike Limberg applauded Long Grove's participation in extending trails throughout Scott County.

"This is a great addition to Long Grove now and in the future. Our kids will have a safe path off the main road to bike or walk to school. It will be fully ADA accessible, so everyone can use it," he said.

"The beauty of this is the burden won't be placed on homeowners. There will be no special assessments," he added.

Combined with Eldridge's two-mile southward trail extension, this new money will create a continuous 6.5-mile pedestrian and cycling trail linking both communities.

Mayor Limberg said the Iowa Department of Transportation Iowa Transportation Alternative Program funds will come after Oct. 1, 2022, the start of that federal fiscal year.

The money is part of discretionary funding the Iowa DOT allows a special Bi-State Regional Commission panel to allocate for trail projects in Muscatine and Scott counties.

Bi-State Regional Commission planner Tara Cullison said Long Grove submitted the only application for the $345,000 reserved for trail funding for those counties in that fiscal year.

"Funds are pretty minimal in our region, so we put a call out for proposals every three years," Cullison said. "Long Grove responded."

Water and Sanitary District preps lagoons for sewer treatment upgrade

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

Park View's water and sewer operators cruised the community's sewage lagoon, hoping a hot day on that turbid water might reduce the anticipated $810,000 cost to scoop out the waste.

Rick Baughman guided the short, plastic boat with an electric trolling motor while Brent Earley threw scoops of white-powdered microbes he hopes will naturally gobble up the waste.

The Park View Water and Sanitary District is preparing for an estimated $5.53 million sewer treatment upgrade required to meet tougher state surface-water standards.

On July 17 district trustees authorized a $70,060 payment to Strand Engineering, which has a $310,000 contract to design a new system.

Sewage treatment will still take place in the Park View lagoons just west of Scott Park Road and south of 277th Street.

One of the three lagoons will be drained, and part of the prep work requires soil borings to make sure the remaining lagoon banks are stable. Once design work is done, contractors will empty a lagoon and dispose of the waste.

That's why Earley and Baughman

NIGHT OUT: Trail unites North Scott towns

Limberg said the money will cover part of an estimated $480,000 project to extend a separate trail on the east side of First Street, to Pine Street, just a block shy of the town's north side ball fields, where a new, accessible playground will be built this fall.

"So we'll see greater usage of our park and the trail," Limberg said.

Cullison said she expects Long Grove can seek more grant funding in 2023 to cover the difference.

The grant program requires local taxpayers to cover 20 percent, or $96,000 of the total project cost. Limberg said Long Grove council members will budget that from existing city revenues without any special assessments or tax increases.

Cullison said the state funding is assured as long as Congress or the Iowa legislature make no changes to the grant programs.

Eldridge extension

Engineering work on Eldridge's First Street trail is under way. Shiv3 Hattery has a $124,500 design contract that aims for bidding by September and construction beginning late this year.

With luck and good weather, council members say the trail may open by late summer 2020.

Shuttle buses available Tuesday for rides to trail

First Street will be closed 6-8 p.m., Tuesday, Aug. 6 from the pickle ball courts at Sheridan Meadows Park to Sapphire Street in Long Grove for the second annual Night Out. Buses will pick up participants from North Scott High School in Eldridge and Prairie Park ball diamonds in Long Grove and take them to areas along the bike path.

to cost about $1.45 million, according to estimates presented to the council last year. The cost will be covered by grants and property tax increment financing from Eldridge's urban renewal area, which includes the trail.

Donors bring second robot to junior high

Deere employees' matching grants help fund technology

Look for another robot rolling through North Scott Junior High thanks to contributions from Deere & Co.'s employees support program and the North Scott Community Enhancement Project.

Volunteer work raised the money to buy an iPad to be attached to remotely controlled wheels that allow students at home to accompany their classmates to lessons and other events.

The iPad camera allows a student at home to see and hear what classmates experience in class. And the iPad displays the student's face, so he or she remains included in class activities.

Junior high teacher Jodie Brotherton borrowed the Double robot from the Mississippi Bend Area Education Agency last school year and was eager for the district to have its own.

Deere employee and North Scott school board member Molly Bergfeld used Deere's Dollars for Doers program to raise money. The company pays employees for community volunteer work and allows them to earmark those earnings for specific projects.

Deere employee Kim Ranson used the Deere Foundation's matching gift program to raise more money for the iPad.

April Rus pitched in funds raised by the North Scott Community Enhancement Project.

"Deere and many other companies have programs to contribute to North Scott, or other programs," Bergfeld said. "This is a great way for employers to support our community."

Deere provided $3.6 million last year to employee-picked charities through the Dollars for Doers and Matching Gifts program, Bergfeld said.

Retired pros share advice for new, growing businesses

SCORE volunteers offer logistics, financing and other advice

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

Jerry Johnson treads lightly. Week after week, he meets with people aspiring to start their own businesses. Johnson and the other 35 mentors at the Quad-Cities Service Corps of Retired Executives counsel women and men with hopes of growing their own businesses.

Johnson's job? Nurturing pipe dreams into entrepreneurial vision.

"We have people who come in tired of doing what they're doing and want something different. They think starting and running business is the right path for them. Sometimes you play a devil's advocate. You want to let them know reality, but you don't want to kill their dreams."

Johnson is chairman of the Quad-Cities chapter, one of 300 across the nation providing free guidance and inspiration to first-time and experienced business owners.

Sometimes, they provide tough advice. "We've opened eyes that it may not be the path for them. But I consider it a success because they haven't invested time and money yet."

Sometimes, they anchor entrepreneurial vision to a development plan.

"We want them to answer specific questions. What is their market? What supplies do they need? How will they reach customers? We get them thinking about competition," he said.

Most clients are working full-time jobs and are launching businesses to supplement, or replace their income.

"The majority coming in are mid-career or later. They're looking for something different. Typically they're ready for a change. Some may have good ideas; some don't.

"We see a lot of people coming in wanting to get into food service industry, and a lot trying to do online retail," he said.

All are possible. But those are tough.

SCORE mentors guide clients through hurdles. All of the mentors have retired from pertinent careers and can offer advice in all aspects.

"We have people from banking, accounting, engineering, manufacturing, marketing, social media, some retail, real estate. We try to hit just about every segment," Johnson said. "If we don't have them locally, we can reach out to our network nationally."

SCORE has hundreds of U.S. chapters. Four of the 13 Iowa chapters are in the QC region. Illinois has 77 chapters.

Johnson's chapter served about 400 clients last year.

"We begin with an hour sit down face-to-face and get a feel for who they are and what they're wanting to accomplish. Then we lay the groundwork for how we can help them."

The agency provides workbooks that guide clients through the process.

"About half of our clients have one meeting and that's it. The other half go to a handful of meetings, or several years of ongoing consultations."

Clients included non-profit founders hoping to apply business principles to their charitable work.

SCORE helps Eldridge business

Scott County Animal Hospital partner Dr. Ann Sampson is relying on SCORE mentors to expand her business. The Eldridge vet is focusing her business on small animals and giving up the larger livestock and horse work.

"We may have been able to do it without them, but not as smoothly. We would have floundered trying to find people along the way. We're veterinarians. We've not had a lot of business classes," she said.

She found SCORE seminars "very helpful."

"I learned the importance, first of all, of having a plan in place. It's necessary to have a vision and get feedback from our clients on additional services and what they would like to see for their pets. We also learned the importance of ongoing staff training and getting input from staff."

Johnson would like to see more existing businesses seek SCORE help.

"It's difficult for owners to come forward with any issues or problems they have. But with our skill set in the chapter, we're ready, willing and able to help out."

He said client information remains confidential.

Dr. Ann Sampson relied on SCORE advice to grow Scott County Animal Hospital in Eldridge.

"We're free and confidential. Basically our mission is to foster the growth of small businesses through mentoring and education. We do a lot of workshops."

Johnson, a retired Deere executive who helped launch factories in the former Soviet Union nations, said he's enjoyed his three years as a SCORE mentor.

"It's a delight to step them through formulating an idea, setting a realistic time line, getting financing," Johnson said.

THANK YOU!!

The 38th Annual Walcott Day Pie Contest was held on July 20. Our bakers entered 37 peach pies, which were auctioned off for $10,455! The pie contest started in 1982 and has raised over $201,000. The Grand Champion this year was Mary Golinghorst. The highest selling pie was baked by Donna Claussen. Her pie was bought by Ruby Claussen and Family In Memory of Leroy Claussen for $350. They then resold it to the Walcott Community Club for $400. They also resold it to Slaby's Bar & Grill for $475. The total came to $1,225, which makes it the highest selling pie in contest history! This contest could not take place without the dedication and generosity of both our bakers and buyers. We are deeply appreciative of what you do for the Walcott community. A special thank you to judges Jen Westfal and Jill Lafrenz, auctioneer Matt Riggan, and assistant Peggy Dietz.

Thank you,

SLUDGE: Lagoon treatment should reduce sewer project costs

hope the microbes get a head start.

Earley said the compound makes more oxygen accessible deep in the 1-2-foot layer of waste at the bottom of the lagoons.

He hoped that efficient microbe action might cut the excavation bill by as much as half.

Wearing long sleeves, work coveralls, rubber boots and a broad-brimmed yellow hat, Earley hit the lagoon by 9 a.m. when temperatures were still in the mid 80s. He lugged four, 50-pound buckets of the white powder aboard the boat, then threw scoopfuls for the widest distribution possible.

Park View is paying for the prep work with a $295,000 low-interest loan from Iowa's State Revolving Fund, a special loan account funded through the legislature's water quality initiative.

That loan and a bigger loan to cover the entire project will be paid back by sewer and water rate increases already approved by district trustees.

Trustees awarded Strand Associates engineering of Madison, Wis., a $310,000 contract to design an estimated $5.53 million sewer treatment system.

Earley expects the plan will be ready for review by the Iowa Department of Natural Resources by September, with bidding to begin in November.

He expects trustees to review bids and award bids in January and work to begin in spring.

The work is similar to upgrades across Iowa required when the DNR toughened treatment standards.

Trustees also are working on an estimated $1.3 million plan to upgrade two treatment sites, expand underground storage and add a ground level storage near the water tower.

Fair for a century

1919 fund drive draws 832 investors for first fair

By Phil Roberts
NSP Staff Writer

It took a whole lot of perseverance and community support on the part of hundreds of people, organizations and businesses to establish Davenport's Mississippi Valley Fairgrounds, now celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The fairgrounds at 2815 W. Locust St. is home to the Great Mississippi Valley Fair and was once the site of the Davenport Mile Track, built for horse racing in the 1890s.

The story of what would someday be the Mississippi Valley Fairgrounds began in 1919, when a proposal called for establishment of a fair association.

According to a 1994 booklet published by the Mississippi Valley Fairgrounds for its 75th anniversary, "a drive for stockholders in 1919 and again in early 1920 resulted in 832 individuals and commercial firms subscribing for stock of the corporation."

There are, however, no records to indicate the exact amount of money the drive took in.

A March 28, 1919, article in the Davenport Democrat and Leader said that county supervisors passed a resolution stating that a fair, to be known as the Mississippi Valley Fair, would be beneficial.

The article said when $80,000 of the $160,000 price had been paid, the Davenport Mile Track grounds would be purchased.

The newspaper article said "showy buildings" would be erected and financial plans were well developed and underway. It said the idea was to make the fair a strong drawing card.

"It will provide features that are missed and cannot be provided at the town institutes," the paper said. It noted that practically every county league and a number of civic organizations interested in the movement had started selling stock shares at $300 each to be protected by title to one of 540 lots contained in the Mile Track site.

"These lots being sold are merely being placed as a guarantee to ensure and protect the value of every share of stock sold."

The June 17, 1919, edition of the paper told readers in an advertisement that the Mississippi Valley Fair Association would soon be incorporated, $70,000 in stock had been subscribed already, and the old Davenport Mile Track property had been secured for the site.

"Are you a booster for your county? Then you should be a stockholder in this organization," said the ad. "It will bring city and county folks in closer touch with one another to the advantage of both." The ad had a listing of organizations that endorsed the idea and a huge list of "present stockholders."

An ad in the Aug. 12, 1919, edition of the Davenport Democrat and Leader said a meeting of the Mississippi Valley Fair Association would take place the next day in the gold room of the Blackhawk Hotel to elect officers and direct the necessary legal proceedings for the purpose of incorporating the association.

An article in the Sept. 9, 1919, issue of the paper said a meeting of the holding company for the Mississippi Valley Fair Association would be taking place the next day at the Commercial Club to close the deal on the purchase of the property. "The option now held expires," the article said. "There seems no doubt that the property will be bought before the expiration and the transaction assured that the county would have an annual fair."

The first fair took place in 1920.

"In 1925 another drive," the fair booklet says, "resulted in the receipt of 425 more subscriptions for stock. Thus a total of 1,257 individuals and firms subscribed for stock, bringing to life the Mississippi Valley Fair and Exposition."

Since the fair is a nonprofit corporation, the booklet says the subscriptions were a donation, something many of those subscribing may not have realized.

Also in 1925 an issue of $81,000 in bonds was extended for 10 years, reducing the interest rate to 6 percent.

"This was the indebtedness that led to the downfall of the Mississippi Valley Fair and Exposition in days to come," the fair booklet notes.

The corporation became financially troubled about the time of World War II, following the Great Depression, and lost the fair property to creditors.

Because of World War II, no fairs took place from 1942 to 1944. In 1945, though, a small group headed by Neff Wells, past president of the Davenport Chamber of Commerce, began a community effort to deal with the financial problems.

Following negotiations, creditors agreed that a payment of $45,000 would return title of the property back to the association.

According to the fair booklet, "Once again the community rallied the fair cause, and this ($45,000) fund was fully subscribed by public-spirited citizens and commercial firms. In the legal procedures involved, however, a corporate entity organized for profit (the Mississippi Valley Amusement Co.), outbid the association and took title, intent on converting the fairgrounds into an amusement park."

Wells and his associates, though, were determined to revive the association.

In 1946, thanks to the cooperation of the Mississippi Valley Amusement Co., which owned the property, a three-year lease was negotiated.

The fair corporation was granted access to the grounds one week before the fair to make necessary preparations, the week of the fair and a third week after the fair to clean up the area and move the corporate office to the Schmidt Building in downtown Davenport.

It was also provided, the fair booklet says, if the association met certain conditions, including a minimum rent payment based on a percentage of gross revenues, a three-year extension would be granted. In 1949 that extension was granted.

"Never did the group give up on plans for the association to reacquire the fairgrounds and, after several years of negotiations, an option was granted to Mississippi Valley Fair Inc. to purchase the property for $160,000."

The original grounds, consisting of 80 acres, had been reduced to 69 acres because a drive-in theater constructed on the property had been sold.

Fast forward to the fall of 1954, when a public luncheon meeting was held at the Davenport American Legion's Snug Harbor on the banks of the Mississippi to announce an issue of $160,000, 4-percent first-mortgage bonds. The bonds, due in 1964, with a mandatory sinking fund of $8,000 per year, had been sold to 362 firms and individuals. A sinking fund is formed by periodically setting aside money for the gradual repayment of a debt.

The Oct. 9, 1954, the Daily Times said consummation of the deal was under way for the purchase of the property from Mississippi Valley Amusement Park Inc. for $160,000.

"A new nonprofit corporation to be known as Mississippi Valley Fair Inc. has been organized to operate the fairgrounds and the annual Mississippi Valley Fair."

The money for the purchase of the property, the article noted, had been raised by pledges from public-spirited residents of Davenport and Scott County. Included in the transaction were all buildings and other property and equipment.

At a meeting at Hotel Blackhawk, where the deal was reached, it was reported that 373 people and firms subscribed the necessary funds to purchase the fairgrounds. They included 263 rural pledges and 110 from Davenport and Bettendorf for a total of $101,350.

Under the program, the fair booklet said, the 4 percent bonds sold by the new corporation to mature in 10 years would be sold first to those who subscribed in the campaign on a first-close mortgage basis.

"The campaign to 'save the fair' was launched immediately upon the close of 1954 exposition," according to the newspaper.

Community cooperation had made it possible for the fair association to reacquire the fair property, taking title as Mississippi Valley Fair Inc., a non-profit corporation.

According to the fairgrounds booklet, the new fair association took title as a corporation so as not to become involved with any commitments of the old association with which the new group had no connection.

"Members of the fair association were determined that the group should bear its own burdens — pay its own way.

"The sinking fund for the $160,000 bond issue would retire 50 percent of the issue by maturity, and the thought at the time was that if the association could do that it would be no problem in refinancing the $80,000 balance that would be due in December 1964. As events turned out, the $160,000 indebtedness was retired by maturity in that year."

And the fairgrounds replacement appraisal value in 1965? $1,041,240!

Track preceded fairgrounds

By Phil Roberts

NSP Staff Writer

The first stock car race in Iowa is believed to have taken place in Davenport on what used to be a one-mile track.

The track actually was located outside of Davenport at what is now the Mississippi Valley Fairgrounds. The track, which ran from the northwest corner of the property to the southeast corner, was built originally for horse racing in the 1890s. People from Davenport traveled to the track's rural location by train.

Though no follow-up articles can be found to verify it took place, the track in 1900 is thought to have hosted Iowa's first stock car race, an exhibition race between two automobiles, which were a new invention and a rarity at the time.

It can be verified, however, that a race was held at the same mile track a year later. A story in the July 13, 1901, Davenport Daily Republican says, "The first automobile that Davenport race goers ever witnessed was one of the features of yesterday, and it proved a very interesting diversion. William Stewart of Geneseo (Illinois) won two out of three heats, the fastest made being 2:27. There were four machines in the race ..."

The first Iowa race on a track among professional race drivers in cars actually built for racing took place at the Davenport Mile Track in either 1904 or 1906 — it's been reported both ways — and was won by Pete Petersen.

The 10-lap event featured just three cars and was not much of a race. One car ran out of water. Another had engine trouble. Petersen completed the 10-mile race alone, averaging 33 mph.

Races on the mile track were held weekend afternoons up until World War I.

Operation Horses and Heroes returns to Blue Grass Aug. 2-4

Operation Horses and Heroes is returning to Caledonia Acres, 12450 Coonhunters Road, Blue Grass, Aug. 2-4. Operation Horses and Heroes was last at Caledonia Acres in August 2018.

Operation Horses and Heroes is an Equine Assisted Psychotherapy (EAP) program for veterans and their families that incorporates horses for mental and behavioral health therapy and personal growth. Why horses? While they are large and sometimes intimidating creatures, they are inherently honest and offer a pure non-judgmental relationship. Their feedback is immediate and accurate.

The program includes a variety of activities, ranging from simple horse care and grooming to powerful therapy sessions with the horses. There are many opportunities for personal growth and learning while proving ample time to bond with others who have shared similar experiences in their military careers.

Operation Horses and Heroes was founded in 2014 and is in its seventh year. Founder and president of the operation, Jerry Paulsen, will be leading the program at Caledonia Acres.

Phil Roberts, of Walcott, is among 16 people in the second class of inductees into the Iowa Hall of Fame and Racing Museum, a non-profit organization in Otho, Iowa, started to provide a permanent facility to showcase Iowa racing memorabilia and Iowa Hall of Fame inductees.

The 2019 induction ceremony is Nov. 2 in Webster City.

Roberts is being inducted in the PRO-MOTER-OFFICIAL-MEDIA MEMBER-EVENT/SERIES SPONSOR category along with two others, Bill Haglund and Nona Warden.

Roberts, 70, and Haglund both sit on the Iowa Hall of Fame and Racing Museum board of directors.

"This is a huge honor," said Roberts. "I am very grateful."

Other than spending 1997 with a group trying to establish a large Quad Cities speedway, Roberts has worked in media full time the past three decades and has won awards for both his newspaper and broadcast writing and reporting.

Roberts, who lives in Walcott with Sherry, his wife of nearly 50 years, has been with The NSP and Advocate since February of 1998. His involvement in racing over the years has been in addition to his full-time employment.

Roberts:

- Produced and voiced a motor racing news program, "Around the Track," on area radio stations from 1973-1990.

- Announced weekly races and special events, mainly in Iowa and Illinois, from 1974-2014.

- Wrote "The IMCA Modified Story," a self-published racing booklet in 1982.

- Served, with his wife's help, as publicist and media relations representative for NASCAR's All-Star Series, a traveling Late Model stock car series, from 1990-2001.

- Served as publicist and media relations representative for World Dirt Racing League, a traveling Late Model stock car series, from 2002-2008.

- Wrote freelance articles and columns on racing for local and national magazines and trade papers for many years.

Roberts has been recognized for his support of racing with these awards: A Quad Cities Racing Connection Oscar, the Tod Brinkman Memorial Award and the Speedway Fire-Rescue President's Award. In 2016 he was inducted into the Quad City Raceway Hall of Fame.

ALL-CONFERENCE BASEBALL

Drezek, Matthaideess and Moseley land first-team berths

For the second straight year North Scott junior Grayson Drezek has earned first-team all-Mississippi Athletic Conference honors, and this year he's joined by fellow junior Jake Matthaideess and senior Chase Moseley.

Drezek was honored as a pitcher after posting a 6-3 overall record with 77 strikeouts in just over 57 innings of work.

Both Moseley and Matthaideess were second-team selections a year ago. Matthaideess was chosen as a utility player after going 4-2 on the mound, with 72 Ks, and batting .309 while playing right field. He had two home runs and a team-high 22 RBIs.

Moseley was honored as one of four outfielders on the first team. He led the Lancers in hitting with a .395 average and a team-high .674 slugging percentage. He also led the team in stolen bases (13), doubles (7) and triples (4), and tied for the team lead in home runs, with three.

Senior first baseman Gordy Field was North Scott's lone second-team choice. Field blasted three home runs and his .330 batting average was second on the team.

Lancers who were named honorable mention included senior shortstop Austin Schneider, junior third baseman Layne Hamann and junior outfielder Luke Haedt.

ALL-MAC SOFTBALL

Ryann Cheek, Sam Lee named first-team

The post-season accolades have started to roll in for North Scott's softball team, and sophomore Ryann Cheek and junior Sam Lee garnered first-team selections when the all-Mississippi Athletic Softball teams were announced.

Cheek, who posted 11-5 regular-season credentials inside the circle was a first-team choice for the second straight year.

Lee, who was a second-team selection a year ago, was chosen as an outfielder.

She led the Lancers in hitting with a .367 average, and also led the team in home runs (5) and RBIs (33).

Senior pitcher Ashlynn Shannon and junior centerfielder Brooke Kilburg were second team choices after being named honorable mention last year.

This year, sophomore Taylor Robertson, junior Rachel Anderson and senior Abby Moeller earned honorable mention status.

NSP OPINION: Ours, yours, theirs

RIP, POLIO

A monument to achievement in a different kind of war

Capitol grounds and courthouse squares across the U.S. notoriously feature monuments to wars.

The Iowa State Capitol grounds, for example, has statues commemorating our state's participation in the Civil War and many others.

Impressions
by Bill Tubbs

Seldom, though, do we see monuments to other kinds of achievement that lift the human spirit.

Last Saturday Linda and I witnessed the dedication of a statue celebrating success in a different kind of war – a war against a disease, polio. The location was Unity Point Blank Children's Hospital in Des Moines, and the celebrants were members of Rotary who have dedicated their time, talent and treasure to eradicating a disease which once paralyzed a nation and world, both physically and psychologically.

The year was 1943. While U.S. troops were in combat in North Africa and the Pacific, polio was menacing populations everywhere. In the U.S., resources for anything other than the war were rationed and scarce, but the hospital's founder, Mr. A.H. Blank, in a private meeting with President Franklin Roosevelt – himself a polio survivor – sought and received permission to build a children's hospital in Des Moines. It was the only hospital built in 1943.

Mr. Blank paid for construction of the hospital and paid for polio patients' care from his own pocket. The polio ward of that hospital was filled with 75-100 kids at its opening, and was expanded the next year.

An epidemic and a cure

The polio epidemic peaked in Iowa in 1952 with 3,564 cases and 163 deaths. Nationwide, it was 58,000 cases and 3,000 deaths. It was a scary time for parents, which I recall from my childhood.

Because the polio virus is highly contagious and typically spread through contaminated water, swimming pools were closed. Unlucky children who contracted polio were warehoused in iron lungs. One in 10 died. Survivors had reduced mobility, and later in life suffered a weakening of muscles called post-polio syndrome.

Then Dr. Jonas Salk produced an injectable vaccine from a killed virus in 1953. It was announced as effective and safe in 1955, and our parents breathed a sigh of relief. In 1961, Salk's vaccine was replaced by Dr. Albert Sabin's live-virus vaccine which is given orally, with sugar cubes, and by 1979 polio was gone from the U.S.

But polio was not gone. A thousand kids were contracting it somewhere in the world every day – 350,000 a year – when a trial campaign in the Philippines in 1985 went well and the leadership of Rotary decided to take action. No child anywhere should live a life of paralysis when prevention is possible, they said.

Rotary commissioned this bronze statue at Blank Children's Hospital in Des Moines to tell future generations about the campaign to eradicate polio.

Logistical challenges

But how do you deliver the vaccine, which must be refrigerated, to the remote corners of the earth when there is no electricity?

Technical and logistical support came from the World Health

Sculptor Dr. David Biehl, DVM, with project organizer Rotarian Peggy Geiger from Leon, Iowa.

Organization and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control. Rotary provided the "boots on the ground" with clubs in 35,000 communities in more than 200 countries. Fund raising was provided by members of Rotary ($1.8 billion – that's billion with a "b"), Unicef, governments of the world, and more recently the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

Significantly, members have traveled to the ends of the earth to administer the polio vaccine to 2.5 billion children in 122 countries. I was one small part of a National Immunization Days team in India in 2012 when the vaccine was given to 172 million children under 5!

Think of it. 172 million! The logistics were staggering, but successful. India has not had a case of polio since.

In all, more than 16 million people have been saved from paralysis. The virus is in retreat. That's the good news. The bad news is that polio hasn't been licked – yet. Last year, 33 children in Pakistan and Afghanistan were afflicted, and 56 so far in 2019 in those same two countries. Most of the cases are in a border area between the countries where efforts to deliver the vaccines have been met with resistance.

This is a problem, but like others before it when ceasefires were declared to allow the immunization teams to enter a war zone to vaccinate the children, Rotary and its partners are determined to find a way. The governments in this case are backing immunization. It is a matter of time until the next case is the last case. Then we have to wait three years for no new cases before eradication is certified. Then the world will celebrate!

Anti-vacs is deadly

Resistance to vaccines is deadly, says Dr. Steve Stephenson, COO of Blank Children's Hospital. "Unvaccinated children are like dry wood, combustible material," he says, warning that until the wild polio virus is eradicated everywhere, it can return anywhere. Unvaccinated children will not be safe until it is gone.

The doctor said the campaign to eradicate polio is, "one of the most incredible stories in medical history." Which is why we speak. Younger generations, including members of Rotary, have not experienced it.

Ed Futa, then the general secretary of Rotary International, in 2008, said at a committee meeting I was attending, "If we don't tell our story big and bold within five years of the eradication of polio, we will have failed from a public relations standpoint."

Toward that end, Rotarians in District 6000 (65 clubs in the southern half of Iowa) commissioned Dr. David Biehl, a retired veterinarian and

"Polio eradication is one of the most incredible stories in medical history," said Dr. Steve Stephenson, COO of Blank Children's Hospital. NSP Photos sculptor from Elkhorn, Neb., to produce a statue of a volunteer giving the oral polio vaccine – the "drops of life" – to a child, with other children looking on. It is a masterpiece inspired by the sculptor's own grandchildren to represent children of different races.

The inspiring bronze statue in a beautifully landscaped area at Blank Children's Hospital will remind all who go there that once there was a crippling disease called polio – but in the end it was no match for men and women whose vision did not exceed their grasp.

They will see, too, that monuments to humanitarian achievement are as important as those of military conquest.

Could a replica of this statue with the signage that tells the story of polio find a home in Eldridge? Or the Quad Cities? Or any of our public spaces?

Yes, said Dr. Biehl, its creator. That would have value here and everywhere, but at a price. Interested? Contact me, please.

RIP, Polio.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Expect foreign election disinformation

Editor:

A new Senate Intelligence Committee report released Thursday (July 25) found that Russia began targeting the U.S. election system in 2014. Russia targeted election systems in all 50 states.

"Russian government-affiliated cyber actors conducted an unprecedented level of activity against state election infrastructure in the run-up to the 2016 U.S. elections," the report notes. "The Russian government is developing and implementing capabilities to interfere in U.S. elections, including undermining confidence in U.S. democratic institutions and voting processes."

Many more countries have developed similar capabilities, based in part on the Russian playbook. That means American voters are likely to be targeted in the coming campaign season by more foreign disinformation than ever before, say independent researchers.

Russia attacked us. It is attacking us today. Its attacks will intensify in 2020.

Every American, liberal, conservative, Republican and Democrat should strongly demand action assuring the integrity of our elections.

The future of our country is at stake.

OPINION

NORTH SCOTT SOFTBALL

Former Spartan Holly Hoelting bleeding Lancer red

Holly Hoelting was right. She was just a year off.

When the now 24-year-old was hired as North Scott's softball coach a year ago, her enthusiasm and confidence were evident.

"I hope Eldridge is ready for what's about to come this summer," she said in her preseason interview, "because the North Scott Lancers are here."

Well, that 2018 campaign didn't play out as planned, as the Lancers were upset in the regional tournament semifinals, but 2019 was a different story.

Last week, with an incredible and unforgettable three-game run at the Class 4A state tournament, it was Holly-bar-the-door as the Lancers took the state by storm and claimed a runner-up finish.

After a stellar playing career at Pleasant Valley – where she toiled under Lancer legend Lori (Osterberg) Duncan – and Western Illinois University, Hoelting knew that she wanted to be a coach. In fact, following her freshman year at Western, she even returned to coach under Duncan at her alma mater.

Three years as North Scott's junior varsity coach had her primed and ready to take the Lancers' top job when Lea Rains resigned after the 2017 season, but was North Scott ready for Hoelting?

Yes, it was time to hang onto our hats.

North Scott coaches

North Scott has only had a handful of softball coaches in its storied past, with Hall of Famers Dennis Johnson and Duncan having the most success.

Johnson was the architect of the program, having led the Lancers to 10 state tournaments, two championships and a pair of runner-up finishes.

Lancer Coach Holly Hoelting.

In her two years at the helm, when Johnson stepped away to focus on his athletic director duties, Duncan's teams finished first and second. When Johnson later returned to the third-base coaching box, he led the Lancers to a third-place finish in 2010.

He retired following the 2014 season, and turned the reins over to Rains, another Lancer of Hall of Famer. When her three-year run was done, Lancer activities director Jason Schroeder went "outside the family," so to speak, and gave Hoelting her first head coaching job.

Last week's foray in Fort Dodge capped a pretty incredible two-year run that has seen Hoelting's team amass a combined 53-29 record, after the Lancers had gone 38-45 the previous two seasons.

The feisty Johnson's adventures in the third-base coaching box were nothing short of entertaining, with his trademark gesture being turning his hat sideways if he didn't like what he saw. When he passed away two years ago, it was only fitting that sod from the third-base coaching box was planted on his grave.

Johnson was animated. Hoelting is Johnson on steroids.

Her loosey-goosey, shoot-from-the-hip, say-what's-on-your-mind coaching style is nothing short of contagious. Her enthusiasm is off the charts. Her positive energy surges through her team.

Making the third-base coaching box her own personal playground, she never stands still. Her mind is always working, and she's not afraid to make the tough calls.

All the right moves

Like a riverboat gambler, she doesn't shy away from going all-in. A former pitcher, Hoelting juggled the talents of three strong pitchers to perfection all season, and was on top of her game in Fort Dodge.

She made all the right moves and pushed all the right buttons, always with a smile on her face and words of encouragement for her players.

"It's really fun playing for her," said senior Ashlynn Shannon, one of North Scott's pitchers. "She always makes it fun and interesting. She's always showing us how much we can have fun during the games and encourages us to play as a team."

"She has so much energy, and just keeps us hyped up and excited," added senior Abby Moeller.

Standing on the field with the rest of the media, more than one commented what a treat it was to watch her in action, and they all talked about her positive attitude. There's no doubt we are fortunate to have her camped out in the Lancer dugout.

When she and I first talked over a year ago, she commented that she still bled Pleasant Valley blue, but that she'd come to love the Lancer community.

Bleeding Lancer scarlet

Now, after a thrilling state tournament run, the question begged to be asked. Are there any drops of scarlet and silver blood coursing through her veins?

"Oh, my gosh, Scott, I have Lancer blood," she said following the state championship game. "There's been a transfusion. You know, I'm all about biology. Blood is red, right? I think I bleed red."

"Well, obviously a couple of cuts may still be blue, but these girls have stolen my heart, and just the support we've had in the community the last week has been incredible. I'm so proud to be a Lancer. I'm so proud of the girls. I'm so proud of the coaching staff that I have."

That coaching staff consists of three former Lancer players, and one has to wonder how much longer that blue blood is going to be part of Hoelting's DNA.

For now, she's just glad to be part of Lancer nation. This summer she purchased a condo in Eldridge, and next month she'll start her first teaching job at Northeast High School in Goose Lake, a mere 30-mile drive.

Now, if we could just find her a teaching opening at North Scott, all would be right with the world.

"I just think I couldn't have asked for a better community to be a part of, and the fact this is only my second year," she said. "I can't even imagine what it would be like if I was here as long as Denny was, but that would be nice. This is a beautiful community to be part of."

It's even better with Hoelting residing in our midst.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

There are no winners in a race war

Editor:

Donald Trump is a sick man who has already led this nation into the sewer by encouraging hatred between the races in order to win a political election.

In our 250-plus years of history, what began with the genocide of Native Americans, then the enslaving of Africans, the degradation of Asians, the disgraceful mistreatment and mis-characterization of Central and South Americans, and the hostility towards people not affiliated with Protestant religions (Catholics, Jews and Muslims) has now come to a head through the overt and callous hate speech produced by the president of this country. He wants a race war.

Demographic statistics do not lie. The United States will be a majority non-white nation in a very short time. Make no mistake – this is a power grab of the most desperate sort. Do we want an apartheid-based nation?

Race baiting is dangerous. I am white. I want a nation that is the absolute opposite of everything that this man is stirring up. He has opened a very nasty Pandora's box.

I can only hope that someday people will understand that we must co-exist.

Winning a race war is not an option. There are NO winners-all. Everyone loses.

Volunteers for Scott County Watersheds

Editor:

Partners of Scott County Watersheds would like to thank the 35 volunteers who came out on a very hot Saturday morning to assist with the first annual Summer Snapshot on July 20 at the Eldridge Community Center. Because of their efforts, we were able to sample 48 stream sites for water quality parameters and assess 10 sites for biological health. We couldn't have done it without help from the public.

The results will be posted soon on our website (www.partnersofscottcounty-watersheds.org) and discussed at our monthly forum for October.

Insurance drives up healthcare costs

Editor:

The health care problem faced by the people of our land is that we are not getting our money’s worth out of spending far more on health care than any other nation in the world. And the fault does not lie within our scientific and technological medical community that is second to none.

The shortchanging comes of the private health insurance scam that does not deliver any care at all and only skims huge amounts of resources from the payment stream for the care that with no thanks to them needs to get timelier, persistently and economically delivered. Private health insurance complicates, impedes and ups the cost of needed health care.

It is long past time for our nation to provide all our people with top rate universal health care entrusted directly into the hands of the dedicated professionals of our medical and health community – this in replace of the paymasters of private health insurance that garner too much weal from what is woe for others.

As for private health insurance, if someone is foolish enough to waste their money on having others take chunks out of their health needs, so be it – they’ll soon wise up. And foolish be any business that wants to add the big cost of private health insurance onto the price of goods and services they competitively market.

The Iowa model for election security

Election cybersecurity is a race without a finish line. There are new and constantly evolving threats out there every day from foreign

by Paul Pate

governments, and from bad actors across the globe. We must remain vigilant in protecting our elections. I want you to know that here in Iowa, that is our number one priority. During the National Association of Secretaries of State’s recent summer conference, some of my bipartisan colleagues mentioned they plan to follow the “Iowa model” for election cybersecurity. What is the Iowa model? We built partnerships between all 99 county election offices and I.T. professionals at the county and state levels to ensure statewide security. Sturdy technological and human firewalls are vital, and we make sure the counties have the resources and training they need to protect the sanctity of the vote.

I’m proud to report that all 99 counties are receiving at least one cyber-service from the state, and more than 90 are using three or more services. This includes 24/7 monitoring, intrusion detection and malware prevention.

Additionally, our state’s voter registration database, I-Voters, is in a secure, off-site facility with top level security. There are several layers of protections on the system, and a multitude of channels someone must go through to gain access.

You might have recently read that I-Voters will not be replaced before the 2020 elections. Replacing the system is a multi-year, multi-million-dollar project and remains on schedule. It is not something that can or should be rushed into blindly. We owe it to the voters of Iowa to build the system responsibly with the future of elections and security in mind.

My office receives funding for this project in yearly installments, which will continue to come in over the next few years. In the meantime, we are ensuring the current system has all the necessary upgrades and protections in place.

Two additional protections Iowa has in place are paper ballots and post-election audits. A paper ballot cannot be hacked, and we implemented post-election audits in every county to ensure the vote counts match.

This is a team effort, and I consider the thousands of poll workers, all 99 county auditors, and all our local, state and federal partners part of this team. We are dedicated to protecting your vote. Nothing is more important.

Confidential ICE memorandum

From: ICE New York Office

To: ICE Headquarters, Washington, D.C.

Re: Deportation of Ms. Liberty

The purpose of this memo is to inform you of an upcoming raid to arrest a woman living in New York City who we plan to send back to her country of origin, France.

She entered our country in 1886 without a visa and has stayed here ever since. She never applied for citizenship and does not have a green card. She does not speak one word of English.

She flaunts her presence to the public, making no effort to hide. Images of her have been circulated throughout the country. This is very demoralizing for ICE officers whose obligation is to enforce our immigration laws.

She has never contributed anything to our economy. In all these years, she has never held a job. She never paid taxes. In fact, she is homeless and has never had a roof over her head. U.S. citizens have spent hundreds of millions of dollars for her upkeep.

She is unmarried and doesn’t go to church. With a name like “Liberty,” she is obviously a woman of loose morals.

Although she refuses to join a political party, she is a troublemaker.

Since at least 1903, she has been encouraging the huddled masses, the homeless, the poor, the wretched refuse of the world to come to our country. Despite our best efforts, we were not able to keep out these undesirables, and our country has been flooded with Irish, Poles, Italians, Catholics and Jews.

And although many of the descendants of these immigrants have now joined our efforts to keep new people out, Ms. Liberty has never stopped advocating for open borders.

This is intolerable. It must stop before more of these wretched masses enter our country. She must be silenced and sent home.

She is not only a troublemaker and a drain on our economy, she is also dangerous. She is always seen carrying a torch just a short distance from Wall Street.

She is clearly a threat to our way of life.

While we are grateful that she is under police guard, these officers are only lightly armed. The SWAT team sent to apprehend this dangerous criminal will need to be heavily armed because she is currently in a well-fortified location surrounded by water. We may need military assistance.

Sale Of School Bonds Scheduled

NORTH SCOTT -- Sale of $1.5 million in school bonds was set for August 26 by the North Scott District Board of Education at their meeting Tuesday evening, July 21. Bids will be opened at 8 p.m. Sale of the bonds will provide funds for additions to the four elementary schools and the junior-senior high school.

A letter from Howard W. Voss Jr. Associates, Inc., Davenport, indicated that the market for sale of the bonds has improved somewhat.

The board approved schedule "A" - a 15 year program for repayment of the bonds, and interest amounting to $1,069,200 computed at 6 per cent. Interest payments start on May 1, 1970 and will be due semiannually on May 1 and November 1.

An alternate plan, schedule "B", provided for a 19 year repayment period with interest totaling $1,271,700.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of James Suiter as bus driver, and approved a motion to hire David McLaughlin to replace Mr. Suiter for the 1969-70 school year, at a salary of $10.25 per day. Mr. Suiter will serve as a substitute bus driver and will run the activity bus.

WHAT A RIDE!

North Scott's 'Comeback Kids' finish second at State

Junior Sam Lee delivered two game-winning blows, and she couldn't contain her excitement after her ninth-inning single in the 3-2 semifinal victory over Charles City .

Miraculous state tourney run ends with 1-0 loss to Carlisle in title tilt

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

You can call them Lady Lancers, Diamond Darlings, Comeback Kids, or Walk-Off Wonders, but for now, the only name that matters is State Champion Runners-up.

For the first time since 2003, North Scott took its rightful place among the Class 4A elite, and brought home the school's seventh top-two finish, proving itself a state power program that has withstood the test of time and spanned generations.

With a loosey-goosey, uber-exuberant, second-year coach patrolling the third base coaching box, and a dugout full of like-minded protégés following her every whim and word, North Scott took Fort Dodge by storm last week.

Following in the footsteps of the Lancer basketball team that brought home a state title in March, North Scott's darlings of the diamond made a seismic splash at the Class 4A state tournament, and their second-place hardware was just as glitzy, sparkling and sensational as the gold-plated championship trophy brought home four months ago.

Yes, it's time to make room in the trophy case.

With an unforgettable, unfathomable and nothing-short-of-phenomenal three-game run, coach Holly Hoelting's girls stunned the softball world with a pair of classic, come-from-behind, walk-off wins to advance to Friday night's state championship contest.

Once there, they then gave top-seeded and No. 1 ranked Carlisle all it could handle before suffering a gut-wrenching 1-0 defeat at Harlan Rogers Softball Complex.

The setback was tough to stomach, but only because the Lancers had come oh-so-close to the ultimate glory.

Still, the loss did nothing to dampen the excitement surrounding the unparalleled three-day run at the Mecca of high school softball.

Hoelting's girls traversed a path that only six other Lancer teams have traveled, and a journey that ended with a spot in the state title game.

Snubbing their noses at deficits and laughing in the face of drama on the diamond, the Lancers were one of two Class 4A teams still standing after a week in Fort Dodge.

Oh, the memories and thrills they produced.

Three bang-bang plays at the plate.

Two unbelievable, back-to-back, seventh-inning errors by an opposing team that allowed them to rip victory from the jaws of defeat.

Abby Moeller and Ashlynn Shannon, the only seniors on North Scott's team, were all smiles while accepting the state runner-up trophy.

Hasta la vista, Oskaloosa

Hayes provides late-inning heroics; Lewis shines in relief inside the circle

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

Wow, that was certainly something to behold.

Shoot, if you're going to go to the trouble of making the pilgrimage all the way across Iowa to the state softball tournament, why not make the most of it and go for the whole enchilada?

Making their first state tournament appearance since 2010, and playing like nerves-of-steel veterans, North Scott's never-say-die Lancers ripped victory from the jaws of defeat and made their 2019 Class 4A debut a memorable one.

A late-game comeback morphed into an electrifying extra-inning win, and Tuesday's 3-2, eight-inning squeaker over Oskaloosa vaulted the Lancers into Wednesday afternoon's semifinals, and solidified them as a Class 4A power.

With heroes positioned all over the diamond, none stood taller than the law firm-sounding Hayes, Anderson, Lewis and Lee, and it was sophomore Kate Hayes' eighth-inning heroics that elevated her to senior partner status in this one.

Drew Lewis was ready. Rachel Anderson was never worried. Sam Lee knew she could get the job done, but it was Hayes who ignited, and then slam-dunked the eighth-inning uprising.

If you wanted excitement, Fort Dodge's Harlan Rogers Softball Complex was the place to be.

With Lewis pitching seven innings of phenomenal no-hit ball in relief, and with Anderson, Lee and Hayes providing the offensive fireworks, the second-seeded Lancers kept their state title hopes alive.

In the end, it was Hayes who scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth. She sparked the rally with a surprise leadoff bunt, advanced to second on Taylor Robertson's sacrifice and took third when Oskaloosa pitcher Hayle Hacker couldn't handle Brooke Kilburg's bouncer back to the mound.

Hacker intentionally walked Anderson to load the bases with one out, and that set the stage for Lee, who delivered a fly ball to Indian centerfielder Maleah Walker. Walker played the ball perfectly and fired a strike to catcher Meghan Moorman.

The ball and Hayes arrived at the plate simultaneously. It was a bang-bang play that could have gone either way, but when home plate umpire Mike Bell emphatically spread his arms wide, with palms to the ground, it touched off a celebration extraordinaire in the Lancer dugout, while Oskaloosa fans were left to hurl insults and strongly voice their displeasure with Bell's call.

Just like that, it was hasta la vista, Oskaloosa.

"Seeing that run score was instant relief," said Robertson, who contributed two hits to the six-hit Lancer attack. "If you lose, you're pretty much done, and you can't win state if you lose."

"Watching that winning run score was amazing," said Anderson. "I was freaking out, and I didn't know what he was going to call. It was really nerve-wracking, but Kate was safe, for sure. I just wanted to go celebrate with my teammates."

"Heck yeah! Wow!" said Hoelting. "Eighth inning, first time at the state tournament, runner on third base, sac fly, that's state tournament stuff! For these girls to experience that in their first game, that's awesome."

Give credit to Hoelting for making all the right calls in this one, especially after the Indians jumped to a 2-0 first-inning lead.

When Hayes stepped to the plate to lead off the bottom of the eighth, the strategy was already set. Lancer legend Dennis Johnson would have been proud, as Hoelting took a page out of the former coach's tried-and-true playbook and determined that "small ball" would decide North Scott's fate.

Johnson, who built the vaunted Lancer program with equal doses of hits, bunts and aggressive base running, had to have been smiling at what played out on his old stomping grounds.

The game-winner was produced with vintage North Scott softball.

"I called the bunt right away," said Hoelting. "I made that decision when we were on defense in the top of the inning,

HOELTING: 'To have that first win, it's an amazing feeling' and then when I saw their first and third basemen playing behind the bag, that just reassured my decision.

"Kate's one of our best bunters. I had confidence she was going to get it down, and surprising them really helped getting her on base."

"She told me the bunt was coming," said Hayes. "She called it. I was ready for it. I knew I had to place it down."

The play at first wasn't really close, and it was no secret that Robertson was going to follow with another bunt. It was a bonus when Kilburg reached on the error, and after Anderson walked that put the game in Lee's hands.

"All I said to Sam is, 'Hit a sac fly,'" said Hoelting. "'Hit it in the air really, really far.' That's that I told her. She was like, 'OK, I'm going to do it,' and she did."

"I was ready. I was so excited," said Lee. "Once I seen them walk Rachel, I was like, 'Alright, bring it on. Let's go.' I was ready. Coach said sac fly wins the game, and that's exactly what ended up happening."

Relief pitcher Drew Lewis, making a throw to first, didn't give up a hit in seven innings of work.

"I was looking for the thigh high, and I had to lay off the high one. I got a pitch I liked. I knew right away that it was deep enough, but then the girl ended up making a really good throw and that made it close."

When Lee's drive left the bat, it looked to be plenty deep, but then Hoelting had second thoughts.

"Right away, I was like, 'Yeah,'" she said. "Then all of a sudden it was, 'Oh, that's not as deep as I thought.' Then I saw the girl coming in on the ball, and I was like, 'Kate, we're still going.'"

The play was too close for comfort, but Hayes barely beat the sweeping tag.

"It worked out in our favor," said Hoelting. "Those long legs helped us out. I think she was safe, but I'm always going to think so. I obviously don't have the greatest angle in the world, and that's why they're the umpires. That's a hard call."

The Oskaloosa fans were livid, and Meghan Mooreman stared incredulously at Bell. It didn't matter.

"I was safe," said Hayes.

Sixth-inning comeback

Hayes' heroics wouldn't have been possible without the two-out, sixth-inning rally that saw the Lancers sandwich a pair of hits around a rare Hacker walk to knot the game at two.

After Hacker retired the first two Lancers, Robertson kept the inning alive with a sharp single to right, and Kilburg wrangled that base on balls. That left it up to Anderson to get the job done.

"I was just looking, and I had seen that they moved the right fielder over a little bit, and they were trying to cheat her because I hit up the middle before that," said Anderson. "I was just trying to hit something hard on the ground. It ended up going in the air a little bit, but she had to come a long way to get it."

"It worked out in my favor."

That it did. Anderson blooped a sinking Texas leaguer to right, and it bounced off diving sophomore Sophia Dykstra's glove for a two-run double. Robertson scored easily from second, and Kilburg, who was off with the hit, was right behind her.

The momentum had shifted. The Indians were a beaten bunch.

Lewis set the Indians down in order in both the seventh and eighth innings, and North Scott did have a chance to win it in the seventh after Moeller's two-out double, but Hacker enticed pinch-hitter Kaylee Gerardy into a well-earned strikeout to end the threat.

That left it up to Hayes in the eighth, and the conclusion was a far cry from the beginning of the game, when the Indians had the Lancers on the ropes from the get-go.

For certain, it was a tough start for senior Ashlynn Shannon, and props to Hoelting for wasting no time in giving the ball to Lewis, as the Indians plated two runs before the Lancers even knew what hit them.

Moorman opened the game with a sharp single to center, and after a sacrifice bunt and fly to Kilburg in center, Abby Braundmeier delivered a run-scoring double to the left-center field fence. Maddie Haines followed with a hard-hit RBI single to Moeller in right, and the Indians had a two-run lead that loomed large for nearly six innings.

Olivia Gordon's screamer to Moeller ended the opening frame, but after Taylor Wills opened the second with an infield hit to short, Shannon's day was done.

"That definitely wasn't the start I wanted," said Shannon, who faced just seven batters and allowed four hits. "I'm not sure what happened. My pitches weren't moving as much as I wanted them to, but I knew that I had other pitchers behind me. I knew they could get the job done."

Hoelting felt the same way.

"I don't think Ashlynn seemed nervous," said Hoelting. "It just wasn't the day. But the best part about our pitching staff is that it's OK to have a bad day. We have three good pitchers, and Ashlynn knows that."

"She wasn't down in the dugout. She was still in the game. For me as a coach, to have three pitchers that are solid, it's easy to pull that trigger because I know the next person in is going to do the job, and if they don't, we'll move on."

Lewis picked right up where she left off in the regional final against Fairfield, where she entered a bases-loaded jam and turned in an epic 11-pitch battle to end the threat.

However, a second-inning appearance isn't exactly what she was expecting.

"I was a little nervous because I usually don't come in that early, so I had a lot of game to do," she said. "It was a bigger and deeper field, and Coach told us at the beginning to just focus in on between the lines, and nothing else outside of it."

"I was ready, but I knew that if I struggled a little bit that Ryann (Cheek) was there to help."

Hoelting had all the confidence in the world in her junior stopper.

"Drew was on, heck yeah," said Hoelting. "I asked her if she was ready to go if I put her in right now, and she was like, 'Oh yeah, Coach.' That's all she said, and I was OK with that."

A stolen base and wild pitch almost immediately advanced Willis to third, but Lewis fanned the first two batters she faced and enticed Moorman to fly out to Kilburg.

From there, the hard-throwing righty was firing on all cylinders as she retired the first 13 batters she faced, and didn't allow a base runner until Ava Vande Wall coaxed a one-out walk in the sixth.

All told, Lewis faced just 22 batters — one over the minimum — in her seven innings of work.

"I'm so proud of Drew," said Shannon. "She has always been this great relief pitcher the whole season, but she has so much talent, and she is a really good pitcher. There is so much she can do."

While Lewis was in a league of her own inside the circle, the Lancer D was just as stellar, handling everything and anything that came its way.

Hayes was a human vacuum at second base with three flawless assists, and the outfield trio of Lee, Kilburg and Moeller ran down every shot hit their way.

In particular, Lee avoided a collision with Kilburg and made a diving grab in the fourth, and Kilburg chased down Moorman's liner to deep right-center in the second, leaving a runner stranded at third.

As for Moeller, she had a hand in five putouts from her spot in the right field grass, but the biggest play of the game may have been turning Abby Braundmeier's would-be sixth-inning single into a fielder's choice by forcing Vande Wall at second.

'I am so proud of Drew. She has always been this great relief pitcher the whole season. She has so much talent.'

While Lewis was brilliant, Hacker was just as impressive for the Indians. Robertson opened the Lancer first with a double down the left field line, and took third when Kaylee Johnson misplayed the ball.

Hoelting, never one to shy away from tough calls, called for the suicide squeeze, but Kilburg's bunt settled in third baseman Ashley Kindley's glove, and Robertson was a dead duck trying to get back to third.

Hacker set the Lancers down in order in the second, third and fifth frames, and allowed Anderson's single to center in the fourth.

"This was a huge win," said Hoelting. "Now you can get fourth through first. For them, being the first time they've been here, to be able to have that first win, it's just an amazing feeling, and I experienced that twice as a player."

"I don't want them to experience the one where you lose the first one, because I don't know what that's like, and I don't know how to coach through that. We'll have to figure that out, and worry about that another day."

Walk-off Wonders do it again

Lee caps improbable comeback with yet another game-winning blow

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

Seriously? Two nights in a row? Who would have thought? You can't make this stuff up. This is what dreams are made of.

Hollywood couldn't have scripted it any better. Move over "Hoosiers," there's a new classic sports movie in the making, and it's called "The Walk-off Wonders."

With a double dose of déjà vu and late inning drama, North Scott's diamond darlings went back-to-back with another comeback for the ages as they scored their second straight walk-off victory with a 3-2, come-from-behind, nine-inning semifinal win over Charles City Wednesday night.

Down to their last out and trailing by two runs in the seventh, the Lancers took advantage of two Comet errors to plate the tying runs, and then turned to the familiar faces of Kate Hayes and Sam Lee to secure their second straight extra-inning walk-off win in the bottom of the ninth.

After this one, absolutely no one will be counting out the Lancers, and if you're a betting man or woman, you might want to put a few bucks down on coach Holly Hoelting's girls.

Are they a team of destiny? Don't bet against them.

"I was never worried about not winning," said Hoelting, who was appearing in her third state semifinal, but her first as a coach. "I always believe that we're going to win, and especially with that déjà vu of being down 2-0 again.

"I was like, 'We're going to do this.' But again, it's about instilling that confidence in the girls. I know it, but they need to know it. I can't do anything for them. I can only cheer them on and tell them what to do."

Hoelting was doing plenty of cheering during this one.

The storylines are endless, and again, the list of heroes goes on and on. But first, let's talk ninth-inning drama — where Hayes and Lee delivered an encore of epic proportions — and then circle back.

Just like 24 hours earlier, when the Lancers and Oskaloosa were knotted at 2 in the bottom of the eighth, it was Hayes who would again step up to the plate to leadoff the Lancer half of the ninth.

Hayes, who delivered a bunt single and later score on Lee's sacrifice fly to secure the 3-2 win over the Indians, was in the hole of a 1-2 count when Charles City pitcher Samantha Heyer hit her in the foot.

Sophomore Taylor Robertson attempted to bunt Hayes to second, but instead popped up to the catcher, but junior Brooke Kilburg reached on an error by the Comet third baseman, moving Hayes into scoring position.

Rachel Anderson flew out to second for the second out, and that brought Lee, Tuesday's night hero, up to the plate in the now familiar role of being able to deliver the game winner yet again.

Deliver she did. "I told Sam, 'Please hit the ball really hard,'" said Hoelting, "and she said, 'OK, Coach.' I really didn't have to say anything else. For her, it's about having a good mentality, and she thrives on situations like that. She gets all hyped up on her own."

"I was ready," said Lee. "Rachel flew out, and I wanted to pick her up and get the job done. I wanted to do it for my teammates. I was 100 percent confident."

Lee wasted no time igniting another exuberant celebration, smacking Heyer's second pitch into left field, which allowed Hayes to score easily.

"I was looking for a thigh-high pitch, right in my zone, and that's what she gave me," said Lewis. "I saw it go through the infield, and I knew Kate was going to score. Just like last night, me and Kate. I was hitting and she's on the bases, and we ended up walking it off."

"That is crazy. I mean, two nights in a row? You can't dream this. It's unbelievable."

There was no doubt in Hayes' mind that the Lancers were going to win, and that she'd be touching home plate with the winning run.

"I guess I was glad to get hit with that pitch, because it got us on base," she said. "I was feeling pretty confident with Sam up. She's come through a lot, and I was ready to run. When I saw the ball go through the hole, I figured I was going to score. Scoring the winning run two games in a row is a great feeling."

Kilburg, who was trailing Hayes around the bases, had the pleasure of watching the play unfold.

"It feels amazing to be in the state championship game, I just can't believe it happened," she said. "We knew we could come back. Seeing Sam's hit go through, and watching Kate score, it's nothing but pure joy."

Hayes and Lee stole the show, and handed the Comets their fourth loss of the season, but this victory, as is becoming the norm for this Lancer team, was a true team effort.

The dynamic duo may have ended the game, but it was sophomore Ryann Cheek who started things off in style.

Cheek was somewhat of a surprise starter in the circle, and it just goes to show you never know what trick Hoelting has up her sleeve. The flame-throwing lefty hadn't started a game since giving up seven earns runs in three-plus innings of a 9-2 loss to Muscatine more than two weeks ago.

Since that time she recorded a combined two outs in post-season relief appearances against Burlington and Fairfield, while senior Ashlynn Shannon and junior Drew Lewis did the majority of work on the rubber.

Wednesday was Cheek's date with destiny.

"I found out last night that I was going to pitch," said Cheek, who also doubles as North Scott's starting first baseman. "I was so ready.

"I haven't started a game in weeks because I haven't needed to, and there was no point for me to come in because Ashlynn and Drew were pitching so well and getting the job done.

"Ashlynn's the one that got us here, and Drew has been spectacular once we got here. Today was my time to come in and shine, and that's what I did."

For five innings, no one shined brighter.

Cheek was absolutely untouchable, fanning the first five batters she faced. Over the first five innings she struck out 11 and allowed only a swinging bunt to lead off the fourth. She made Hoelting look like a genius.

"We decided to go with Ryann yesterday," said Hoelting. "Drew is really good in relief situations, and Ashlynn threw the first game. We just decided to try Ryann, with Drew in first relief and Ashlynn second."

When the two teams met on the last weekend of the regular season, it was Shannon who scattered eight hits over eight innings, helping lead the Lancers to a 6-5 win, and handing Charles City its first loss of the season.

It was probably beneficial to give the Comets something different to look at.

"Ryann pitched well," said Hoelting. "I think for her, she hasn't pitched that many innings in a while, and as a pitching coach, I'm not sure I should have left her in so long. But she was on fire."

While Cheek cruised through the first five innings, the sixth proved almost catastrophic for the Lancers. However, it ended up setting the stage for another unbelievable, improbable comeback.

Lydia Staudt opened the Comet sixth with a bunt single right in front of the plate, and took second on a sacrifice. Ashlyn Hoeft then delivered the shot heard around the Rogers Sports Complex with her 11th home run of the season, a line round-tripper over the left field fence.

"It was a good curve ball, that did work, actually," said Cheek, "but she just got her hands on it. I did my job and the hitter did hers. The game is to score, and that's what she did. Hats off to her."

Hoelting had seen enough and immediately turned to Lewis, North Scott's dedicated closer. Lewis retired the first batter she faced, but the Comets then loaded the bases on a walk, passed ball on a strikeout, and a hit batter on an 0-2 count. Lewis fanned Sadie Gebel to end the threat, and she was stellar the rest of the way.

In the Lancer dugout, there was no cause for alarm.

"Even after being down 2-0, I was still confident," said Cheek. "This is the same thing we did yesterday. It was awesome."

"We knew we could come back," said Lewis. "We've done it before. We just had to have confidence that we could do it, and we did."

The Lancers gave a valiant effort in the sixth, loading the bases on back-to-back infield singles by Anderson and Lee, and a two-out walk to Abby Moeller. Hoelting went to her bench and sent sophomore Paige Westlin to the plate, who flied out to deep center to thwart the rally.

The Lancer seventh was unbelievable, and talk about snatching victory from the jaws of defeat.

Robertson, who was celebrating her 16th birthday, brought the tying run to the plate with a one-out single, but she was forced out at second on Kilburg's grounder to short.

That's when things got interesting. With Kilburg on first and the Lancers down to their last out, Anderson lofted a fly to right-center that popped out of Staudt's glove. Kilburg raced home on the miscue, and Anderson ended up on second.

Lee followed with a sinking liner to left that Alex Litterer couldn't handle, and the Lancers were back in the game after Anderson scored.

To be truthful, you had to feel a little sorry for the Comets, as two untimely errors proved to be their undoing.

Neither team threatened in the eighth, and the Comets tried to get something going in the ninth with a one-out single, stolen base and sacrifice bunt, only to have Lewis get No. 3 hitter Rachel Chambers, the team's leader in home runs (14) and RBIs (65) looking at a called third strike.

The rest is history.

"Going to the state championship game is unbelievable," said Lee. "It is so crazy. It's the best feeling in the world. We've been working for this our entire

Two more close plays at the plate are the difference as Carlisle hangs on

By Scott Campbell

Softball is a game of inches, and North Scott saw its miraculous state tournament run come up agonizingly short in Friday night's Class 4A state championship contest.

In a week where every close call seemed to go the way of the Lancers, and Lady Luck had taken up residence in the North Scott dugout, the coin flipped at the most inopportune time, and the Lancers came out on the wrong end of a classic 1-0 state championship loss to No. 1 Carlisle.

There was no miraculous comeback. The magic carpet ran out of gas. The softball gods finally frowned on Lancer Nation.

"It sucks. It really sucks," said junior

"I mean, we fought hard, but it just wasn't quite enough. We never gave up, but we just couldn't get the job done today. We had a few plays we should've made, but this just sucks."

"We didn't beat ourselves, and we played hard," said Lancer coach Holly Hoelting. "Softball is a game of inches, and the inches worked in our favor the first two games. The inch just didn't favor us this time.

"That's softball, and we have to deal with it. We didn't execute the way that we should have. We didn't get bunts down the way we should've. We had little coaching mistakes. But you know what? Second place isn't too bad."

Two bang-bang plays at the plate were the difference in this one, and both times home plate umpire Paul Bird found in favor of the victorious Wildcats.

The first came in the third inning, when Carlisle mounted a two-out uprising on an infield hit off Lancer sophomore Ryann Cheek, a stolen base, and Alyvia Dubois' RBI single to center, just past a diving Taylor Robertson at short.

The play at the plate was oh-so-close, with centerfielder Brooke Kilburg's near-perfect throw actually beating Delaney Schnathorst to the plate. It was just a little too close to catcher Rachel Anderson's body, and the junior struggled to corral it before applying the tag, just a fraction of a second late.

laced one-out singles off Wildcat ace Molly Hoekstra. With senior Ashlynn Shannon at the plate, Hoekstra dropped a pitch into the dirt, and it skidded toward the Carlisle dugout, with catcher Kennedy Preston in pursuit.

Lee, on second, and Hoelting, in the third-base coach's box, had the same thought. Lee was off and running as soon as the ball bounded away from the plate. Scoring was the only thing on her mind.

"I was going all the way," she said. "I hesitated just a bit coming around third, and that cost us. I thought I was right under the tag with my hand, but the call didn't go our way."

"Oh yeah, I was sending Sam all the way," said Hoelting. "As soon as I saw the ball, I was like 'Go! Let's go.' I think I would do it again."

Preston finally rounded up the ball and made a perfect toss to Hoekstra, who was covering the plate. Bird was right on top of the play, and his call didn't favor Lee or the Lancers.

"The girl made a perfect throw, and it was a perfect tag," said Hoelting. "It was a perfect play that got us."

The game was truly championship caliber, as both teams bent but really never broke.

Hoekstra had entered the game with a glitzy 32-1 record, and pitched as advertised, although North Scott nicked her for five hits.

The Lancers, who could have sent any one of their three aces into the circle, countered with Cheek and her 11-5 record, just two days after her 11-strikeout performance against Charles City.

"Ryann has been a good starter for us in general, and she had a good start on Wednesday," said Hoelting. "I thought about starting Drew (Lewis), but we know that she comes in better in relief. If she didn't have a solid start, I wasn't sure who I'd put in right away."

"I figured Ryann would start and have a short leash. They really only ended up getting that one solid hit off of her, and it wasn't like it was a home run or anything."

The Lancers were the visitors for the first time in the postseason, and got off to somewhat of an ominous start. Hoekstra sent them down in order in the opening frame, while the Wildcats made things interesting thanks to a pair of Cheek errors in their half of the first.

Preston led off with a hard shot that practically took Alexys Beadle's glove off at third, and she ended up on second when Cheek snagged Schnathorst's bunt attempt, but fired over Kinsey Newman's head at first.

Dubois then lofted a high fly that

Cheek immediately called, but the gusty wind played havoc with the ball and Cheek couldn't track it down.

Cheek then fanned Meredith Hoffman for the second out, but the Lancers caught a break when courtesy runner Isabelle Noring tried to score from third when a pitch got away from Anderson, but the Lancer junior was Johnny-on-the-spot and beat her to the plate.

The Lancers did load the bases in the second on Shannon's two-out single and a pair of walks, but Kate Hayes' fly to center on a 3-2 pitch ended the threat.

Carlisle plated their lone run in the third, and also had runners on first and third in the fourth before Hoelting brought in Lewis to stem the tide with a pop to Beadle and an inning-ending K.

Neither team threatened until Lee and Cheek roughed up Hoekstra in the sixth, and after her wild pitch that ended up with Lee getting thrown out, the Wildcat senior's day was over, and she gave way to sophomore Lexxi Link.

With Cheek on third and two out, she coaxed Shannon into flying out to left, but the Lancers weren't quite done.

Down to their final two outs in the seventh, sophomore pinch-hitter Paige Westlin drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch, and Hoelting then sent sophomore Kaylee Gerardy to the plate to bat for Hayes.

A miscommunication between Hoelting and Westlin proved costly, as Westlin was thrown out trying to steal second, and then Gerardy battled hard at the plate before striking out to end the game.

"That stolen base wasn't the called play," said Hoelting, "and that was just a little miscommunication between me and Paige. She thought I gave her the steal sign. Those things happen."

"I thought Kaylee had a great at-bat, and it was just the third time she's been to the plate in a varsity game. She battled hard, and that shows she has great promise for next year."

Lee had two hits to pace the five-hit Lancer offensive attack, while Cheek and Lewis allowed a combined five hits to a Wildcat offense that entered the tournament with an unfathomable .402 team batting average.

North Scott's defense

also played well.

Beadle showed off her shotgun arm at third on a couple of occasions. Anderson threw out Schnathorst — who led the Wildcats with 32 stolen bases — trying to steal second in the fifth, and senior Abby Moeller turned in the game's defensive gem by tracking down Hoffman's rocket to right in the sixth with an amazing over the shoulder grab.

"I know we worked hard, and we gave it our all, and that's all you can ask for," said Moeller. "We just needed to get that energy a little higher. We were just kind of staying low and relaxed the whole time. I kept thinking we were going to come back, and it never happened."

Anderson was in total agreement with her cousin.

"The energy was different tonight," she said. "I think the butterflies got to us a little bit. I think we were so hungry for the win, that we weren't as focused as we were the past couple games."

"This is pretty tough to take, but we didn't beat ourselves," said Kilburg. "A few things didn't go our way, but you can't ask for a better game."

Lewis, who was stellar in relief the whole tournament, giving up just four hits and nary a run in 13.1 innings, agreed.

"It's really tough to take," she said, "because we knew we had a good chance. We just didn't come out hitting right away, and we just didn't get it done this time."

In the end, it all came down to timely hitting, and the Lancers just couldn't get the big hit when they needed it.

"We were fighting the whole way through, but our hits just weren't coming through at the right time," said Shannon, who went 1-for-3 in her final game as a Lancer. "So much stuff just didn't go our way tonight."

Lancer shortstop Taylor Robertson just missed snagging this shot up the middle off the bat of Alyvia Dubois, that ended up driving in the only run of the game.

STATE: Lancers already looking forward to next season

A coveted and well-earned spot in the championship game.

Yes, the softball gods were smiling on North Scott, and the Lancers made the most of their Fort Dodge date with destiny.

"Playing in the title game is indescribable," said junior Brooke Kilburg. "If you'd have told me at the beginning of the year that we'd end up here, I probably wouldn't have believed you."

"This is really special, and I'm ready to come back next year. Oh, we are so motivated, and we want to get to the next step."

"I never, ever thought I'd end my career in the state championship game," said senior Ashlynn Shannon, "but I always knew this team had so much talent, and that we had a chance to get here."

"As a goal, we have always wanted to make it to the state tournament, but once we got here, we just wanted to keep going. I'll always remember the last game. Even though we lost, and it didn't go our way, it's been such a fun experience and atmosphere, and being able to enjoy it with my team was very special."

Kilburg, Shannon and any number of Lancers might have been surprised by North Scott's state tournament run, and they probably weren't alone.

To be truthful, the Lancers somewhat limped into the post season, losing five of their six final regular season games, all of which were against state-ranked opponents.

Yes, North Scott's 24-14 regular season credentials were deceiving, as no other Class 4A team played the talent-laden schedule that the Lancers faced. Nine of their losses came at the hands of 5A opponents, and three were to schools that were ranked in 2A or 3A.

As a result, it was no surprise the Lancers remained a fixture in the 4A state rankings, and finished at No. 3

Sure, everybody dreams of making it to state, and yes, the Lancers had a favorable post-season draw, but there were a few doubters.

Shame on them.

The Lancers entered the Fort Dodge foray as the No. 2 seed, after 14th-ranked Oskaloosa upset second-ranked ADM in the regional finals. As luck would have it, the Lancers drew those same Indians in their opening round game.

The Lancers took Fort Dodge by storm, and quickly became the talk of the tournament, thanks to a pair of extra-inning, come-from-behind wins that solidified their place as the tournament's Comeback Kids.

Tuesday's 3-2, eight-inning victory over Oskaloosa was thrilling, and had all the ingredients of a classic.

Wednesday's 3-2 nine-inning win over Charles City, thanks to an improbable two-out, two-run seventh-inning rally, is what dreams are made of, and memories that will forever linger in Lancer lore.

State officials got it right when the tournament seeds were released, and Friday night it was No. 1 Carlisle and No. 2 North Scott that were still standing.

The Wildcats were a most formidable foe, sporting a glitzy 37-3 record, with their lone losses coming at the hands of state qualifiers Louisa-Muscatine and Fort Dodge, as well as ADM.

Their path to the state title tilt was just as exciting, as it took a two-out, two-run eighth-inning homer to secure a 7-6 win over West Delaware in the semifinals.

The championship game was everything it was cracked up to be, and more, as the Lancers were razor-thin close to pulling off another come-from-behind win.

In the end, there was nothing to be ashamed of, and when you look at the entire 40-team state tournament field, it's crystal clear just how good this Lancer team is.

Sure, their 28-15 season credentials will go down as less than stellar. However, take a closer look. Six of those losses came at the hands of teams that finished in the top three of their respective classes at state.

Included in that illustrious group are Davenport Assumption (No. 1 in 3A), West Liberty (No. 3 in 3A), West Des Moines Valley (No. 1 in 5A), Waukee (No. 2 in 5A), Iowa City High (No. 3 in 5A) and Carlisle (No. 1 in 4A).

Oh, and it should certainly be documented that the Lancers also beat Assumption and Louisa-Muscatine, the top two finishers in 3A, and own two wins over Charles City (3rd in 4A).

Yes, that's some pretty heady stuff.

"When you look back at it, we had a pretty good season," said sophomore Taylor Robertson. "The ending is not what we wanted, but we still have a lot of positives to take from it."

"You know, this is a new experience for all of us, and it's a really positive and encouraging atmosphere. Playing here makes you want to work to get back, and I'm absolutely motivated to make that happen."

Junior pitcher Drew Lewis is in total agreement.

"It feels really good getting second," she said. "We're happy, and we had a good run. However, I think we have another good chance next year. We'll be good. We're only losing two seniors, and I think we'll get it done."

To be certain, the Lancer cupboard is far from empty, as only Shannon and fellow senior Abby Moeller, who will take her game to Coe College, will be moving on. The Lancer lineup should be loaded.

"Oh yeah, I'm already excited for next year," said Hoelting, "and I can't wait. It's going to be a great ride. But, at the same time, I'm really sad to see Ashlynn and Abby go. Those two have been here through multiple coaches and changes, and have had the greatest attitude."

"I think they both excelled in their Moeller and Shannon couldn't have scripted a better senior season.

"I always felt that we had a chance to get to state, but this has turned out to be really exciting," said Moeller. "I wasn't sure we could do it, but I knew we were all working hard, so I figured we'd get really close."

"It's been an exciting senior year, and playing in the state championship game is a great way to end the season, and my Lancer career. But I'll always be a Lancer. I have so many great memories. This year is a dream come true."

Anderson, Lewis and Lee named to all-tourney team

North Scott was well-represented when the Class 4A all-tournament team was announced after Friday night's championship game.

Lancer juniors Rachel Anderson, Drew Lewis and Sam Lee were among the 11 players honored. Carlisle catcher Kennedy Preston was named captain.

Anderson was 3-for-11 at the plate and drove in two runs, while masterfully handling the Lancer pitching staff.

Lee had the game-winning blow in two games and was 4-for-11 with two

RBIs.

Lewis pitched spectacularly in three relief appearances, logging 13.1 innings of work inside the circle. She didn't allow a single run, gave up just four hits, and struck out 11.

Other members of the all-tourney team included: Alyvia Dubois, Molly Hoekstra and Delaney Schnathorst of Carlisle; Macey Kleitsch and Eve Wedewer of West Delaware; and Samantha Heyer and Ashlyn Hoelt of Charles City.

Communication

The North Scott School District Board of Directors adopts a yearly goal to communicate effectively with the public. Examples of activities to achieve this goal take many forms. School events are constantly being published in The North Scott Press, and frequent parent newsletters are sent home from each of the schools listing specific building activities.

Events and emergency school closings are broadcast over a variety of radio stations. Another vehicle to enhance public communication is the Superintendent's Advisory Committee. This committee consists of representatives from each building's parent-teacher organization, and the following district advisory groups: Title 1, Drug-Free Schools, Music Boosters, Vocational Agriculture, Athletic Boosters, Talented and Gifted, senior citizens, teachers, students, local business people and clergy. This group meets four times a year providing feedback and advice to the superintendent on current district issues.

A final example of a citizen's opportunity to express his/her thoughts and opinions is the bi-monthly school board meetings. A time is reserved on each meeting's agenda for citizens to address the Board on any matter which they feel is pertinent.

Communication with the public is a high priority for our school district.

EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHY

The educational philosophy of our school district serves as the basis for our educational programs. As stated in our policy manual, our educational philosophy is as follows:

The children of this district are one of the most important resources. It is the responsibility of parents and the schools, with the support of the community, to help these children develop into self-respecting, understanding, contributing members of society.

Central to this process is the teaching of basic academic skills and the development of an educational environment which develops self-esteem, offers equal access and opportunity, and offers enthusiasm for learning. In order to provide these educational opportunities, the district will employ qualified personnel who are student-centered, and provide appropriate materials and facilities.

The needs of the pupils are not the same. The school programs must offer varied approaches to education, so that the intellectual, emotional and physical development of students can be addressed. Intellectual development, including skills such as reading, communication skills, mathematical skills, and technological literacy, as well as the ability to apply critical thinking skills and the scientific method to problem solving is the primary responsibility of the school.

The schools should make contributions to the understanding of moral and ethical values, citizenship qualities, vocational competence, health, and the use of leisure time. Although the interests of students can and should be used as an aid to teaching, these interests should not be allowed to dictate the curriculum. Students must be exposed to many areas of knowledge outside the range of their individual interests.
