Princeton hires former Albany chief

McCausland contracts with county to replace retired chief

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

Princeton council members hired a former Albany Ill., police chief, and McCausland council members contracted with Scott County to continue patrols since the retirement of Brian Carstens, who was chief for both towns.

Princeton council on June 29 amended a town ordinance to honor new chief Wyatt Heyvaert's request to continue living in Illinois while his kids are in school.

The Princeton council unanimously voted to hire Heyvaert full-time, at $30 per hour with benefits. Council member Karen Woomert said she was impressed with his 20-year law enforcement career, and his candor with the council.

"He seemed a level-headed person, open and transparent about everything," Woomert said.

She said he discussed his resignation as Albany chief after having conflict with the council and his misdemeanor plea this year for leaving the scene of Eldridge Summer Festival returns July 8-9, kicking off Friday with a live band downtown, and filling Saturday with a 2 p.m. parade, street fest and Moonlight Chase.

The Eldridge North-Scott Chamber of Commerce is the organizer of this year's Summer Festival, along with the annual Moonlight Chase. This is the first time the Chamber has organized both events.

"We've seen some challenges," chamber director Tabbitha Kramer said. "But we work well together and have a lot of fun," said Heather Khoury, membership coordinator for the chamber.

Together, they have spent the last six months putting together family and youth events.

Volunteer assistance and help from sponsors make the world of difference in planning for the festival.

"An event this big requires a lot of volunteers, and none of this would be possible without our sponsors. We love to see local businesses hosting events for kids, and chamber members have stepped up to pull everything off," Khoury said.

Kramer and Khoury are still looking for volunteers for both the race and fes-

County workers get bonuses, and 12th holiday

About 450 workers will get checks totaling $400,000 as incentives

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

Supervisors allocated $400,000 to award 1-percent bonuses to all county full-time and most part-time workers, and added a floating holiday they hope will compensate for financial pressures on staff.
County administrator Mahesh Sharma recommended the changes at the June 21 committee meeting in response to COVID and inflation effects on employees.

The bonuses will go to about 425 full-time and 24 part-time workers, county human resources director Mary Thee said.

The county already pays 10 holidays plus one floating holiday. Supervisors granted a second floating holiday.

“One-time bonuses may not be common in government agencies. But the trend I’m watching, maybe we’re starting this, but other organizations are considering this and reviewing it, and if they can afford it, will give more than the 1 percent we have. It will be more common going forward,” Sharma said.

“Some of you may ask the question, it may not be enough,” he said. “You may be right.”

Supervisor Brinson Kinzer responded: “I’m going to be the one who says it’s not enough.” He said a “double whammy” of COVID and inflation hit employees hard.

Supervisors unanimously supported the bonuses.

“We’ll continue to watch. Our job is to make sure we’re competitive in the marketplace,” Tony Knobbe said.

Board chairman Ken Beck noted those factors hit taxpayers, too. “We’ll make sure we’re both efficient and competitive. It’s a fine balance. We’re kind of getting pressure from both ends. Our taxpayers are experiencing the same woes our employees are. This is a good start.”

Supervisors will adjust part-time workers’ bonuses based on hours worked. The minimum bonus will be $150. Elected department heads and deputies are not eligible, Thee said.

The bonuses follow 3-percent pay raises supervisors awarded to union, and most non-union staff.

Thee said most county salaries were below recommendations in a 2019 study commissioned by supervisors. Sharma recommended the bonuses to improve retention and recruitment.

“Two things concern me: COVID, which has not gone yet, and number two is inflation. We thought both would be short-term, but short-term has yet to be defined,” Sharma said.

Mount Joy rail crossing

Supervisors backed Canadian Pacific’s request to apply for federal funds to cover an estimated $400,000 tab for putting gates on a rail crossing on 210th Street, just west of U.S. 61.

CP asked supervisors to partner with the railroad for a Highway-Railroad Crossing Safety Program grant that would cover 90 percent of the cost. CP would pick up 5 percent, and Scott County taxpayers would cover 5 percent, or about $20,000, county engineer Angela Kersten said.

The upgrade adds gates and improves the crossing grade in an area that draws 7,000 vehicles a day, she said.

“With recent commercial development adjacent to this railroad track, there is potential for higher frequency and speed of train traffic at this crossing. Upgrading the crossing warning system and installing gates would greatly improve safety,” Kersten wrote to supervisors.

“The rail lines feed the industrial park. Hopefully they’ll see more traffic,” Beck said.

The work would not improve 210th Street. “It’s a pretty rough one,” Knobbe said.

Kersten said the county could consider using federal pandemic aid to smooth the county’s portion of 210th Street between Holden Drive and the rail crossing. “From Holden to the airport is the city of Davenport. We’ve talked a little bit about improvements there, but they would be lead agency for that.”

Ford tacks $1,250 onto squad costs

Supervisors agreed to Ford motor company’s request to add $250 to the price of each of five vehicles supervisors contracted for six months ago.

Kersten said Courtesy Ford alerted the county June 8 to the increases, and she advised supervisors to pay.

“I think we’re all aware we’re seeing this widespread across vehicle and equipment manufacturers. I would not expect to receive any better prices for these vehicles if we were to not pay this and cancel our order,” Kersten said.

In November, supervisors accepted Courtesy’s bid for four Ford Explorer police interceptors for $34,216 each, or $136,864.

In December, supervisors took Courtesy’s bid for one more Explorer interceptor for $34,216.

Gravel prices rise up to 10 percent

Supervisors stuck with three Scott County quarries to supply gravel and other materials for roads.

Kersten reported price changes – mostly increases – from last year’s contracts.

“We are blessed to have several quarries in our counties. Some of our counties out west struggle to get quality rock,” Kersten said.

The county will buy materials as needed, and Secondary Roads staff chooses the closest quarry. The contract covers rock and sand of various grades and sizes.

Riverstone Group Inc., bid $9.25 a ton for rock, up 2.8 percent.

Linwood Mining in Buffalo bid $11.15 a ton for rock, up 9.9 percent.

Wendling Quarries bid $10.05 for rock, up 8.6 percent.

MEDIC contract extended a year

Supervisors extended the county’s contract with MEDIC ambulance service for a year. The contract allows supervisors to allocate up to a $200,000 subsidy for the county-wide, non-profit ambulance service.

MEDIC officials approached supervisors earlier this year about becoming a county-affiliated agency with its own tax rate, and become eligible for higher federal Medicaid reimbursement.

Beck said the contract extension, “is to get us through this year. How we proceed is still under discussion.”

In a memo to supervisors, county health department director Amy Thoreson said, “Those discussions have resumed ... Amending the current agreement will allow the continuation of operations until those discussions conclude.”

Insurance premiums rise 18 percent

Scott County insurance premiums jumped 18 percent this year for coverage that remains mostly the same, except for a boost in cyber security.

Supervisors approved contracts totaling $688,858 in premiums for coverage brokered by Arthur J. Gallagher firm of Davenport. Gallagher representative Jeff Young commended the county for liability and workers compensation management that kept premiums from going even higher.

“It’s reflective of the superior claim-handling the county does. You don’t have a lot of claims. That goes to the department head level and the employee level,” Young said about the workers’ compensation coverage.

Liability: Coverage from Travelers increased 5 percent for up to $1 million for each occurrence, and $300,000 from the county’s self insurance fund. “They feel Scott County is very well run. They like everything they see from Scott County,” Young said.

Workers’ compensation: $99,972, a 37-percent increase, from Midwest Employers Casualty Co. The county signed a two-year contract, with premiums rising 3.5 percent in 2023-24. Supervisors agreed to Young’s recommendation for the county to cover up to $750,000 for claims from law enforcement staff through self-insurance retention, and $500,000 for all others.

Property: Premiums rose 12 percent to $168,063 for coverage by Chubb insurance. That includes a $100,000 deductible, with a $5 million limit on mobile equipment and a $2.5 million limit on vehicles damaged while parked. Young said raising deductibles would provide negligible premium discounts.

Vehicle: Premiums for regular vehicles increased 5.2 percent to $40,677. Coverage for Emergency Management Agency vehicles is up 10.2 percent. Combined, premiums will total $44,942.

Cyber/internet liability: Premium doubled with an expansion of coverage to $1 million, with a $100,000 deductible for coverage offered by Cowbell Cyber Insurance, of California.

“It’s hard to get more than $1 million,” in coverage, Young said. “Money is better spent to fortify existing cyber systems.”

Medical professional: Premiums are up 25 percent to $106,316 for coverage from Coverys, of Boston. That covers select health department staff and jail nurses with a $1 million liability limit per incident, and $3 million aggregate limit. The county has a $25,000 deductible.

Young said the increases reflect a nationwide “propensity of a lot of frivolous or nuisance claims when it comes to inmate medical-type claims. I don’t see that lessening in the future.”

Drug enforcement grant

Supervisors accepted a $59,000 state grant to help fund undercover drug trafficking enforcement by the Scott County Special Operations Task.

The task force, formerly knows at the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, or MEG, has two Scott County deputies and a Bettendorf office. Davenport no longer participates.

The annual grant from Iowa’s Office of Drug Control Policy, “is a very miniscule amount of money for what it takes

$808K contract resurfaces county roads near Buffalo

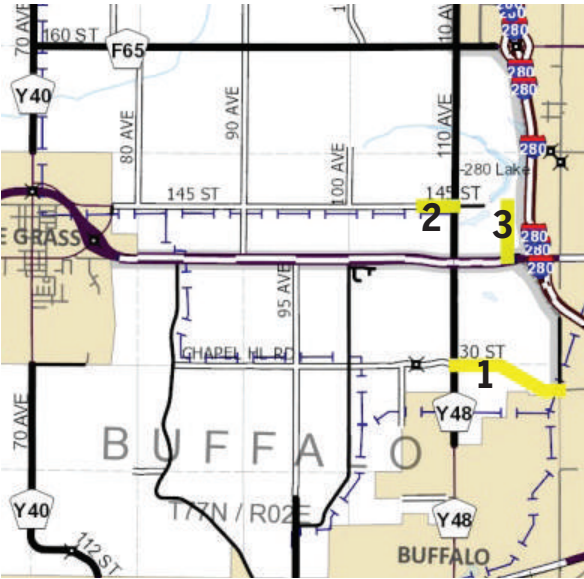

Manatt’s Inc., of Camanche, won Scott County’s contract to resurface just over a mile on three county roads near Buffalo for $808,268.24.

The project will resurface:

1. 130th Street from Y48 to Utah Avenue;
2. 145th Street from Y48 west 0.3 miles;

Rolling Meadows Event Center digs in at new Eldridge site

10,000-square-foot center hosts receptions

By Heather Hulscher
For The NSP

Collin and Stephanie Telsrow are adding a new “sister” business to their existing Rolling Hills business. The couple are moving Rolling Hills from Davenport to Eldridge’s South 16th Avenue and will add an events center. The couple plans a 10,000-square-foot building just south of Aberrant Crossfit and across 16th Street from Play Station trampoline park. The Telsrows bought the lot from Jared Hamilton, who will continue to operate Aberrant Crossfit. The new building will offer event rental supplies and a center for parties, receptions and meetings. The Telsrows have operated Rolling Hills rentals in Davenport while working other jobs. The couple will make their Eldridge store a full-time commitment and expect to add staff. The company helps clients plan, and present social and business gatherings, and provide the tables, chairs, decorations and everything needed. The building of Rolling Meadows is slated to completed in January, 2023 and they are planning to begin accepting reservations in early spring.

Iowa ag secretary candidates chart different courses

By Jared Strong
Iowa Capital Dispatch

The candidates for Iowa secretary of agriculture offer sharp contrasts in terms of their priorities and assessments of the greatest challenges facing farmers.

The state's incumbent secretary of agriculture — Mike Naig, a Republican — touts his administration's work in the past four years to expand markets for farmers to sustain the industry's status quo, and he's satisfied with the slow but steady progress they've made in protecting topsoil and the state's streams.

His challenger in this fall's election — John Norwood, a Democrat — said Iowa needs a better-coordinated plan to accelerate conservation and water-quality improvements, which includes taking a substantial amount of cropland out of production.

Norwood: New vision for sustainability

Norwood, 57, is a West Des Moines business consultant and county soil and water commissioner who wants to alter the course of agriculture in the state.

"I think we need a new vision for where we want to go," Norwood told Iowa Capital Dispatch, "particularly if we're concerned about sustainability, resiliency, inclusiveness, diversity. Those are all themes that I'm going to be talking about that are super important to the state."

Norwood's view of the big picture: Iowa has not done enough to prevent soil erosion and to keep its waterways clean of fertilizers.

He faces Naig, 44, who was elected secretary in 2018 after being appointed to the post earlier that year when his predecessor Bill Northey took a leadership job at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We have incredibly strong agriculture," Naig said. "We do have large commodity production of corn and soybeans, but it's what we do with that that adds value. The value-added agriculture comes in the form of livestock production, renewable fuels, renewable materials, renewable chemicals. Those are things that can be an incredibly strong economic impact for our state, and when it comes to those things, we are leaders."

Naig lives in Urbandale but was raised on a farm near Cylinder in northwest Iowa. He is a Buena Vista University graduate who worked as Monsanto's manager of government affairs before the Iowa Department of Agriculture and Land Stewardship hired him to be Northey's deputy in 2013.

Naig said the biggest concerns for farmers will be higher costs of supplies and workforce shortages.

Norwood grew up in suburban Massachusetts, graduated from Yale University — with a master's degree in environmental management — and moved to Iowa in 2002 with his then-wife, who was hired as a professor at Drake University.

Norwood's view of the big picture: Iowa has not done enough to prevent soil erosion and to keep its waterways clean of fertilizers, he said. There are more than 2 million acres of cropland — about 10 percent of the state's total — that probably shouldn't be farmed because they lie in floodplains or are highly erodible, and farmers should diversify their operations by growing oats, cover crops and others, he said.

"Sometimes the current secretary thinks he's the secretary of corn, beans and hogs," Norwood said of Naig.

Naig: Focus on expanding markets

Naig said he has focused on expanding markets for farmers, increasing the demand for biofuels and improving water quality — especially by establishing wetlands that can contain nitrogen fertilizer. The state helped build six of them in the past year, he said, and farmers now plant cover crops on a little more than 3 million acres, which reduces erosion.

Those are components of the state's Nutrient Reduction Strategy, a voluntary framework to reduce fertilizer runoff. It's often derided by environmentalists as ineffective.

"It's a strategy in name only," Norwood said. "It's not a strategy. We need to narrow the solutions and figure out how to scale up. It's not doing these things one at a time. ... To ask each landowner to find their own contractor for these projects, it's just insane."

Naig said the biggest concerns for farmers in the coming years will be higher costs of supplies and workforce shortages. He supports a federal guest worker program that would allow people from other countries to work agriculture-related jobs, and he hopes to increase the demand for Iowa ag products with a renewed push by the Choose Iowa program, which encourages people to buy food, fuel and other products of the state's agriculture.

COUNTY: Board authorizes 14 new positions for 2022-2023 fiscal year

to employ three people," Scott County Sheriff Tim Lane told supervisors. The grant requires a $19,667 county match, that Lane said is in the budget and just a fraction of the county's drug enforcement expenses.

Juvenile diversion grant

Supervisors accepted a $125,000 state grant to increase diversion programs for juvenile offenders.

The Iowa Department of Human Rights Juvenile Justice Planning Division grant is one of seven awarded to Iowa communities, county juvenile detention center director Jeremy Kaiser told supervisors.

The grant would cover about two and a half years of services, and can be extended another two and a half years, he said.

The money will expand services, but not staff, for about 50-60 youth each year already going through state-funded diversion programs in Scott County.

"Basically what we'll do is send our youth advocates ... out into the community to meet with the family and the youth, gain an understanding of why the crime occurred and what that youth needs in order to not commit a crime again," Kaiser said.

14 new positions authorized

Supervisors authorized 14 new, full-time equivalency positions for the fiscal year that began July 1, including 11 in the sheriff's department.

All of the positions were part of the county budget unanimously approved in March. The June 23 vote sought by budget director David Farmer formally authorizes these staffing increases and new levels:

- Administration: 0.25 new FTE to reach 5.75;
- Health: 1.1 FTE to reach 51.11;
- Human resources: One FTE to reach 4.50;
- Sheriff: 11 FTE to reach 183.80;
- Treasurer: One FTE to reach 31.0.

The new positions leave the county with 532.96 FTEs.

$684K for alcohol counseling services

Supervisors renewed a $648,331 addiction counseling contract with the Center for Alcohol and Drugs Services, a Unity-point provider, at rates unchanged from this year. County community services director Lori Elam said she expects to present supervisors with a new contract by Jan. 1 that will change services and costs.

The contract now calls for:

- $295,432 for detoxification, evaluation and treatment;
- $198,000 for inmate substance abuse treatment and case management;
- $154,899 for jail-based assessment and treatment.

Supervisors also:

- Hired Austin Schoeck as assistant county attorney. Schoeck has worked as judicial law clerk and prosecuting intern for Dallas County with four-to-five years experience, county human resources director Mary Thee said. Schoeck was hired at step 5 pay rate and given two weeks paid vacation.
- Hired Brittany Wall as correctional health nurse at entry-level rates.
- Replaced the customary portfolio gifts to employees celebrating service anniversaries, and stopped awarding service pins. Thee said a survey found employees prefer the cards.
- Abated taxes totaling $2,994 on five homes purchased by the city of Davenport.
- Reappointed supervisor John Maxwell to a three-year term on Fire District #5 board.

CHIEF: Heyvaert brings 20 years experience to Princeton

an Albany property damage accident in August 2021.

Shaw News reported that Heyvaert pleaded in March this year and remains on court supervision. The report said Heyvaert was off-duty when driving a vehicle that struck a parked car on Route 84 in Albany at 3 a.m. on Aug. 27, his birthday. He alerted authorities immediately, and surrendered three days later.

Princeton mayor Kevin Kernan owns a bar in Albany and said he’s known Heyvaert, for “four or five years.”

“He left due to council issues,” Kernan said. “He’s been policing a very long time, and is good with the community.”

In a resignation memo to the Albany council, Heyvaert wrote: “I have been in law enforcement for 20+ years and this has by far been the most difficult position I have held,” according to Shaw News. “In the end, my position affects more than just me, and when it starts taking a toll on my family, it is time for a change.”

He elaborated in an interview with the NSP. “For first seven years as chief, it was outstanding. But last few months, we had new mayor and five out of six new council members. They came in with an agenda. Myself and others were not part of the agenda,”

He worked two months filling in for Fulton police after leaving Albany. He’s working now for CDMI Concrete Contractors in Moline.

Heyvaert was a Moline police officer 2004-2010, and in Colona 2010-2012.

Heyvaert might be more widely known for fronting the Dirt Road Rockers band for 11 years. He was in Algona for a July 4 weekend show.

Princeton mayor Kernan commended Heyvaert’s social media outreach. “He has Tik Tok videos that went viral,” Kernan said.

Heyvaert was Albany chief when he posted a Tik Tok video championing local law enforcement.

“I put one out to keep encouraging law enforcement officers to be community caretakers to serve the communities with pride and mostly my main point of it was to honor those who have served before us that have made the ultimate sacrifice,” he told Ourquadcities.com last year.

In the video, Heyvaert recites the poem, “A Sign Along The Road,” by retired Ohio state patrol captain.

“The road signs along the highways and the interstates that have the name of a fallen trooper or a fallen police officer to signify that that piece of roadway was dedicated in their honor,” he reads in the video that got nearly 400,000 views.

Since then, he’s posted dozens of videos, many with his daughter.

Others take light digs at President Biden, and are labeled “let’s go Brandon.”

“Taco Bell; ever since Biden became president, this is the cheapest gas in town,” he posted in January.

Princeton council members amended city ordinances to allow police and fire staff to live in Rock Island or Whiteside counties. Mayor Kernan said previous ordinance limited police and fire to Princeton addresses.

Heyvaert said he’s willing to continue previous chief Brian Carsten salvage inspection work throughout Scott County, which netted the city $30,000 to $50,000 annually.

McCausland contracts with deputies

McCausland will join Long Grove and Dixon as cities contracting with Scott County Sheriff’s deputies for $65 per hour, a rate that some supervisors worry does not cover the county’s costs.

Supervisors signed an agreement setting the rate for the year and asked Sheriff Tim Lane to reassess those contracts and propose rate changes.

Lane said his department pays overtime to deputies who volunteer for the town patrols. The patrols average four or five days per month on dates requested by the town councils.

Supervisor Ken Croken supported the agreement, but had concerns since supervisors added seven deputies in 2020, and the department still relies on overtime to fill vacations, illnesses and other vacancies.

“We’re banking on overtime already. We’re meeting obligations of these special contractual relationships using overtime. This appears to be rabbits coming out of hats for me. I don’t understand how many rabbits are in there,” Croken said.

Lane said he has enough deputies, and a budget that covers the overtime.

“We have been able to cover that as overtime. So it doesn’t concern me. The need for more deputy sheriffs to cover that does not concern me,” Lane said.

McCausland requested the coverage following retirement of Brian Carsten, who served as police chief for McCausland and Princeton.

Princeton council decided to look for a new chief. McCausland opted for county coverage.

Lane said the county still provides “regular patrols of these towns throughout our shift. That is based on a deputy having time to do that, and part of normal covering of their towns. That is not charged to the city.

“But these cities have had their own police department at some time or another ... What they have chosen to do is not buy the patrol car; not buy the uniforms; not to hire the employee; just have a contract with us,” Lane said.

Croken suggested the county should cover the extra patrols.

“Why we don’t have a sheriff’s department adequately funded and staffed to provide all the essential services that are needed throughout the county is not clear to me. I don’t understand why McCausland is paying to get the services its taxpayers already are paying for. This doesn’t make sense to me. Sorry,” Croken said.

A large crowd of runners is captured at the starting line of a night marathon. The scene is filled with people of various ages and athletic builds, many wearing race bibs. In the foreground, a shirtless man in dark shorts, a man in a white tank top with bib number 902, and a man in a grey t-shirt with bib number 267 are prominent. The background is a dense sea of runners stretching into the distance, all illuminated by bright, warm-toned lights that create a high-contrast, energetic atmosphere. The ground appears to be a paved road, and some orange traffic cones are visible on the left side of the frame.

A photograph of two people, a woman on the left and a man on the right, standing under a white canopy. They are both smiling and holding a white banner. The woman is wearing a light blue shirt and a grey hairnet. The man is wearing a blue shirt, a brown hat, and glasses. The banner has a black border and contains the text "FRIENDS OF WALNUT GROVE" and "PIONEER VILLAGE" in a stylized font. Below the text is a black and white illustration of a pioneer family (a man, a woman, and a child) standing next to a horse-drawn wagon, with a small house in the background.

Activities galore

The festival kicks off Friday with a performance from the popular Quad City band “Soul Storm,” downtown on Second Street from 7-9 p.m.

This year’s event maintains the traditional small-town festival, and Kramer and Khoury want the 2022 festival to have its own spin.

For example, festival-goers can enjoy the Lion’s Club pancake breakfast at a new location, The Granary, 219 N. First St., 7-10 a.m., Saturday. The twist? A pancake art competition will accompany this year’s gourmet pancake breakfast.

Eldridge volunteer fire department water fights begin at noon, with food vendors from the area arriving simultaneously.

This year’s summer festival will offer a “Taste of Summerfest,” where folks may travel to each food vendor for a taste-size item priced at $2 or less.

Craft lovers can browse the North

Scott Maker’s Market also beginning at noon. A variety of craft art will be available for purchase.

Parents can bring their children for kiddie activities 3-7 p.m., Saturday. Face painting at Artist’s Vault, a chalk fest in front of The North Scott Press, a bean bag toss, a petting zoo and more will be open in the afternoon.

Children may register and line up for the kiddie parade at 3:30 p.m. Costumes are encouraged. The kiddie tractor pull begins at 5 p.m.

For the adults, the city of Eldridge beer tent is open noon to 9 p.m. Live music from “Code 415” begins at 5 p.m.

Moonlight Chase

The 37th Annual Moonlight Chase will be back on the streets of Eldridge on July 9. The area’s only after-dark race begins at 9 p.m. Racers follow an illuminated course and enjoy music, disco lights and plenty of spectators during the run.

The quarter-mile kids’ race begins at 7:30 p.m. and the one-mile youth race begins at 8 p.m.

WXLP 97x will broadcast the race, and The Play Station QC will host a “Glow Up” costume contest for racers.

Participants are encouraged to wear bright colors, light-up gear and any other items that shines. Awards will be given to the best adult, best duo/group and the top two children’s costumes. Best adult and duo will receive $100, and the top two kids will each earn a $50 gift card to the Play Station.

Contestants must stop by the Play Station QC and 97x booth to have pictures taken.

Participants can register online at moonlightchase.com, or drop off a registration form at the Chamber of Commerce office. Late registration will also be available up to start time.

Teens take on Eldridge Tropical Sno stand

Look for a few familiar smiles at Eldridge Tropical Sno.

Teenagers Evie and Brandt Kammerer are operating a summer treat stand staffed with North Scott high schoolers.

Staff includes Paityn Leigh, Janelle Lankford, Anna Ruth, Brynn Westhoff, Ava Urbain, Jayda Neiber, and Cadence Strom.

“Evie handles all the marketing and social media; Brandt does the scheduling and ordering,” their mom, Kara Kemmerer said. “We’re just the investors.”

Tropical Sno is at 112 E. LeClaire Road, in a parking lot shared by Ri-sus Veterinary, Premier Pest Control, and Quality Vac.

It also locates in the Merschman Hardware and Building Supply lot at 650 E. LeClaire Road. All of the hosting businesses have been very accommodating, Kara Kemmerer said.

Jim and Kara Kemmerer were looking for summer jobs, and life experiences for their kids when they bought and equipped the shaved ice trailer.

In addition to 31 flavors, Tropical Sno mixes custom concoctions; Pink Flamingo, Midnight City, Tidal Wave, and Silver Fox.

This week, look for Firecracker.

OPINION: Ours, yours, theirs

Postage rates go up July 10, but this is just the beginning

Over the years, I've been the biggest supporter – and most severe critic – of the U.S. Postal Service. My appreciation of the enormity of its task is born from more than a half century of first-hand experience as a customer whose business model relies on timely delivery.

The average person, I think, doesn't understand the complexity of the U.S. Postal Service's task – delivering 425 million pieces of mail daily, through 31,247 post offices, to customers at 163 million addresses in locations as remote as Fort Yukon, Alaska.

Impressions
by Bill Tubbs

Fort Yukon? I've been there. It's a 495-population outpost in the Arctic Circle, reached only by bush pilot or slow boat up the Yukon River. The U.S. Postal Service has a presence there, and in remote crossroads everywhere. It's part of their mandate, and the presence of the U.S. government everywhere.

So yes, delivering the mail is a BIG job. But that doesn't excuse the fact that the USPS cannot guarantee one-day delivery of my First Class letter from Eldridge to the Business Mail Entry Unit near the Quad Cities airport in Milan, Ill. That's the processing center through which all local mail goes, and I have an account there to mail a district-wide newsletter for Rotary three times a year.

But last week, Eldridge couldn't guarantee that my check for payment of postage would be there the next day for the price of a 58-cent First Class stamp. If I wanted a guarantee, that would cost $26-plus. So I decided to drive there and deliver it myself, in person.

I'm not making this up!
Fifty-eight cents? A First Class letter was 3 cents when I was a kid, but 58 cents is still not bad. "A Global Bargain," boasts the USPS website, comparing to $3.12 in Italy, $1.85 in France, $1.14 in the United Kingdom, 95 cents in Germany, 84 cents in Canada, 77 cents in Australia and 73 cents in Japan.

But as of July 10, that will be the OLD price. We'll be catching up. The new price will be 60 cents, and that's just the beginning.

In the column on the opposite page, former Congressman Kevin Yoder (R-Kansas), says within a decade, Americans could be paying well over $1 to mail a single letter. That's because the postal service, under the leadership of Postmaster Louis DeJoy, appears willing to hike rates every six months at "uncomfortable" levels.

All other classes, including newspapers, will go up, too!
Congressman Yoder's column, which was distributed by the National Newspaper Association, makes many good points. I urge your thoughtful reading.

Good things happening here

There was positive news in the local community last week. Just before deadline, Mark Ridolfi was able to get the full story about Heath Christians' new ownership of Rustic Ridge Golf Course. The story was widely read in print, and made a HUGE impact on social media where comments were almost unanimously favorable.

Indeed, it's wonderful that this crown jewel will continue with just its fourth private owner in 46 years; that the city of Eldridge was not needed to keep the property as a golf course.

The same week, YMCA CEO Brad Martell led a tour of the North Scott YMCA where construction is moving certainly toward an Oct. 3 opening. A dedication is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 29 at 5:30 with a public open house on Saturday, Oct. 1 from 10-4.

The proof of the pudding will begin Monday, Oct. 3 and beyond, when the facility opens at 4:30 a.m. That's when membership signups get underway in earnest.

On March 2, 2020, a week before Covid shut everything down, voters approved the Y with a 78.2-percent majority. That's fantastic, but the real test for both the YMCA and the Rustic Ridge Golf Course will be the memberships.

Will citizens step up and support these local amenities?
I believe we will.
Onward, upward!

53 years later, still an abundance of love

Fifty-three years ago. The date was Aug. 16, 1969.

That's when the former Sherry Hirl and I married.

Though we were only 20 years old and short on cash, we had an abundance of love.

Some people tried to talk us out of it, saying that it would be easier if we waited a year or two. Of course, we realized they were right.

We were full-time college students with part-time jobs. But we were determined – some might say stubborn – so on Dec. 24, 1968, during the singing of "Silent Night" at a Christmas Eve church service, I asked Sherry to marry me, and she said yes.

The year or two that followed were, indeed, difficult. Items like noodles and macaroni took the place of meat at most suppers. Visualize Hamburger Helper without the hamburger.

Much of our furniture and appliances came from a resale store, our vehicles were often worn-out backlot specials and we lived in a $75-per-month apartment minus $25 per month for my shoveling snow in the winter and mowing grass in the summer.

Meals out were few and far between unless my parents invited us to join them at a restaurant on Sundays after church or Sherry's parents, who were farmers, gave us some meat when they butchered.

Things eventually got better. College graduation made full-time employment possible. We appreciated the improved conditions and still do.

For sticking it out, we are blessed with four grown children, 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

At age 73, we're still in love and still determined people. It's been a good marriage so far as I'm concerned. I am fond of telling people, "I married up," meaning I got a better wife than I deserved. I hope my wife agrees, but I'm reminded of the sign she saw at a craft fair and purchased some years back. It says, "We've been through a lot together, and most of it was your fault."

Happy 53rd anniversary, Sherry.

Congress just delivered major postal reform legislation; so why is the U.S. Postal Service ignoring it?

After the massive mail slowdowns and postage hikes of 2021, Congress took action to financially stabilize the U.S. Postal Service by passing a historic, bipartisan postal reform bill. The bill freed the Postal Service from an unreasonable 2006 law demanding that it pre-fund retiree health benefits 75 years in advance – a requirement that put billions of dollars on the Postal Service’s balance sheet each year and motivated it to keep hiking postage rates while reducing services.

Guest Opinion
by Kevin Yoder

Congress passed the 2022 postal reform legislation with the intent to strengthen this critical service and help the Postal Service avoid additional large rate increases and service cutbacks. However, Postal Service leadership has seemingly decided to stamp Congress’s message “return to sender.”

Massive rate hikes

The very same day President Biden signed the monumental postal reform legislation, Postmaster General Louis DeJoy announced his plans to increase postage prices at an “uncomfortable rate” for some time to come. Specifically, DeJoy and the Postal Board of Governors intend to increase stamp prices again in July, again next January, and as often as twice each year after that.

And they can, thanks to a recent Postal Regulatory Commission ruling giving DeJoy the power to initiate postage rates that outpace inflation.

In just a decade, Americans could be paying well over $1 to mail a single letter. Unless Congress takes action again to hold the Postal Service accountable, let’s just say we should all be buying “Forever Stamps” while they are still somewhat affordable.

As a businessman and a fellow Republican, DeJoy should know that raising prices generates fewer customers and can lead to less revenue. The same holds true for unnecessary postage increases. They will not only deter individuals from using the mail, but will also drive away businesses, newspapers, nonprofits, and charities – all of which generate more than half of all postal revenues.

The Postal Service already anticipates losing 42 percent of mail volume over the next decade, driven partly by massive rate increases. Additional unnecessary postage hikes could lead to a huge loss in revenue that will jeopardize the survival of the Postal Service itself and its workforce of 650,000 Americans, many of whom are veterans.

USPS: Tangibly linking Americans

Whether it brings something as special as a handwritten card or something as necessary as medication, the U.S. Postal Service is the only institution capable of going the last mile to reach, serve, and tangibly link every American. Some claim that private couriers like FedEx and UPS could replace the U.S. Postal Service, but that’s simply not true.

The Postal Service is unique in that it’s obligated to serve every American. It processes more than 425 million pieces of mail (not including packages) each day, delivering them to and from a staggering 163 million delivery points in all of the country’s more than 41,000 ZIP codes. The Postal Service goes the last mile, no matter how rural or remote the address – and that’s something no private courier could, or would, do.

What can be done to right the ship? First and foremost, the recently passed postal reform legislation can’t be ignored by Postal Service leaders. There are new members of the Board of Governors who should push to challenge DeJoy’s plans. At the same time, the Postal Regulatory Commission needs to review the freedom it gave to the Postal Service to raise rates.

But if none of these things happen, Congress needs to step in and take action.

Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat will stop the Postal Service, but excessive rates and reduced service just might.

Voice your concern now about more trains coming through Princeton

Editor:

Your voice is needed against CP rail expansion. We are sure you have heard on the radio, read in the paper, or heard others talking about the Canadian Pacific and Santa Fe railroad merger and its plan to run 14 more trains down our tracks. These trains will be filled with crude oil, which Canada is sending to Mexico.

This is not 14 more cars, but 14 more trains in addition to what we now have.

The average CP train is just over a mile-and-a-half long but can regularly reach up to over two-and-a-quarter miles long.

The concern is derailment, which in Princeton could definitely result in human injury or death, as stated by our fire chief, because of the number of homes next to the track. In addition, there is danger of the inability of emergency workers to get across the tracks, or get the rescue boat into the river during the summer. About three weeks ago, a train derailed up near Lansing and dumped a rail car of coal into the Mississippi. And we are aware of the deaths and property damage here and in LeClaire.

The noise from the trains has increased over the last few years, and the decibel level of the horns has been raised. It is a medical fact that excessive noise is not good for people. The track noise and the blasting of horns create disruption of daily activities and can wake people at night.

An Old Dominion University study found that consistent exposure to 65 decibels or greater of railroad noise pollution could reduce property values by up to 18 percent, a mark well below the 85-decibel average of most freight trains.

The mayors from Clinton (where the trains cross the river from Illinois) to Muscatine (where the trains leave the riverfront to go west) are working as a group to try to stop this merger, or get it off the Mississippi River. Illinois has a website opposed to this route. The economic impact on city development and devaluing of homes is not to be ignored.

The Surface Transportation Board (STB) will make a decision in the next few months. It is getting information from the elected officials, local governments and businesses, but they have asked for individuals to contact them with concerns on the effects of the existing trains and the effect another 14 trains will have.

God bless Mike Mohr, a man of faith

Editor:

Re: "Joy and goodness left us all too soon" (Impressions, June 22):

I want to thank Bill Tubbs for his kind words regarding Mike Mohr's passing. While Mike was a gifted athlete, I believe he'd want to be remembered first and foremost as a follower of Jesus Christ.

Mike had trusted Jesus Christ as his Lord and Savior, and by doing so, he was freed from the penalty of sin and death, given discernment to know truth, and guaranteed everlasting life in heaven with Jesus.

I write this because I, too, ran into Mike a couple weeks before his passing, and our brief discussion was about matters of faith and the condition of our world, which by the way has turned its back on God.

Mike asked me if I listened to the radio station that promoted Judeo-Christian world view and honored God. Later that day, I got a text from Mike with the radio station's call numbers.

God bless you, Mike. Thanks for your faith and witness. I'll remember you as a man who loved Jesus Christ.

Time to stop drinking the KoolAid®

Editor:
It is time to stop drinking the KoolAid®, pick up our pitch forks and torches, and head over to the castle where the people who have lied to and manipulated us reside. The "News" we listen to is in it for ratings and profit, not accuracy. "Entertainment news" is not about reporting facts or the truth, because it trains its viewers to not want the truth.
There were channels like that in Germany from 1933 to 1945. So when lies are repeated repeatedly, we tend to reject any evidence they are lies. We're no longer interested in finding out the truth. It's simply too painful to acknowledge that we've been taken in. It's time to recognize our ignorance is not as good as knowledge.
Donald Trump is the perfect example of privilege; born into obscene wealth, bailed out repeatedly, and allowed to fall upwards forever, he consistently complains about how unfair everyone is to him. He cheated to get into college, to get out of Vietnam, and on his taxes, his wives, students at his scam university, donors to his scam charities, and now – cheating those of us who sent money to his election fund scam. Donald cheated on wife No. 1. He then cheated on wife No. 2 with wife No. 3 when she was pregnant and then cheated on her with a porn star. Yet, he enjoys the complete and unwavering support of Conservative Evangelicals and the Party of Family Values.
President Trump lost 60-plus legal challenges to the election he lost. Next, he lost his efforts to get Republican state legislatures to undo the results. And then,

Donald lost his attempt to get Pence to overturn the results. Next, he lost three separate counts in Georgia and failed an audit conducted by his allies in Arizona. Finally, he lost multiple efforts to get the Supreme Court to intervene.
He autographed bibles, saluted a murderous North Korean general, used a Sharpie to change the course of a hurricane, stared at the sun twice, and tweeted a quote from Mussolini. And you think Biden's sanity is in question?
When Trump came into office, the economy was roaring. Yet, in four years, he lost 5 million jobs, added 9 trillion dollars to the deficit, lost the Senate, failed to regain the White House, attempted a coup, got banned from social media, and was impeached twice.
Isn't investigating charges of treason, sedition, and insurrection at least as necessary as the years and tax dollars spent exploring Hillary's emails? Nothing incriminating was found there. Benghazi was another dead-end "investigation."
An often-used political ploy applied since the day the first con man met the first voter: First, you frighten him. Then, you make him angry. Lastly, you give him someone to focus that anger on. In 2022, con men, chasing power and profit, are stripping people of reproductive rights and voting rights, fighting to make child marriage legal, banning books, and banning teaching the truth in school.
It is time to stop drinking the KoolAid®.

It is up to us to save our republic

Editor:
Just as the miller grinds wheat into flour into bread as a staple of life, so too are the noteworthy steps on man; for what he sows, he also reaps. In the mortal and imperfect mind of the human race, one may contemplate as to the causes and origin of civil decline. Perhaps the answer lies in the teachings of Christ. Plain and simple are his words of reality, and can be found in the Book of John 14:6, “I am the way ...”
Any layman can attest to the fact that the Lord Almighty is exceedingly more mighty and powerful than any evil deed and influence of Satan, but when man turns his back on the will and teachings of our Creator, he is perhaps given a taste of what he deserves. As the Lord steps aside to accommodate the misguided desires of the spiritually lost and forlorn, one must consider the fact that God did not put us on the face of this earth to make us happy. He put us here to make HIM happy. Do I need ask just how we are doing thus far?
The wisdom of our Christian founders knows no bounds, and, as Samuel Adams so eloquently stated, “A general dissolution of principles and manners will more surely overthrow the liberties of America than the whole force of the common enemy. While the people are virtuous, they cannot be subdued; but when once they lose their virtue, they will be ready to surrender their liberties to the first external or internal invader ... if virtue and knowledge are diffused among the people, they will never be enslaved. This will be their great security.”
Powerful words and extremely apropos for a time and nation in peril – both then and now. The evils of cultural Marxism have a firm, violent and turbulent grip of the soul of our nation. The U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the ideals of our Judeo-Christian beliefs and values is our only true shield and defense, but only if we possess the desire to do battle. Any blame to be case is on us alone for allowing such a vile external force to encroach upon our lives and erode our foundation of freedom.
To the gullible, naïve, and uninformed, the counter-revolution to our nation's founding as penetrated the very lifeblood of our society and is prevalent in all aspects of life. Its stated desire is to engage in the destruction and total collapse of the American economic system, including the dismemberment of our traditional family unit, its security, freedom, and the blessed innocence of our children.

Marxist revolutionaries conceal themselves as progressives or Democratic Socialists, and operate under the cover of “Black Lives Matter, Antifa, and The Squad.” They claim that our capitalistic free market system is racist and unjust. They defame and slander our freedom-seeking Founders, ridicule our rich history of liberating the oppressed, and trash our documents and founding principles. Their purpose is to dispirit and demoralize the masses, weaken our nation from within, destroy confidence in our institutions, customs and traditions, and empower themselves by eradicating rules and emboldening the rise of crime.
Karl Marx preached that exiting society must be abolished and cleansed of all norms, and replaced by the Marxist paradise of simplicity, basic income, sharing, and co-housing for all. As Barack Hussein Obama proclaimed in October 2008, “We are five days away from fundamentally transforming the United States of America.” In essence, radical dreamers harbor a vicious hatred for the ideals of American culture, our loving God, and the inalienable rights guaranteed to us all.
Common tactics are persistent propaganda, schooled indoctrination, mandated compliance, and total conformity to the tyrannical ideology of Marx, whose historic worldview is responsible for the torture, impoverishment, enslavement and death of untold millions ...
In the end, it is up to each individual as to how we choose to save our republic, but serious questions must be addressed. Just how much can America withstand? What is its breaking point and when will American have had enough? We now live in troubling times and an unbelievable war has been declared on America by its own radical government. Even though our way of life is under assault like never before, we still live in the most gifted and exceptional nation in the history of mankind. Is it not worth the struggle? Remember: What we sow is what we reap. May God protect and guide us all.
For Freedom, God and Country,

BEGINNING JULY 1

New laws affect garbage, schools, businesses, women, taxes

By Robin Opsahl
Iowa Capital Dispatch

Schools are no longer able to mandate vaccines, unemployment benefits last 10 fewer weeks, and Iowans can be charged with elder abuse starting Friday, July 1, as many of laws from the Iowa Legislature’s 2022 session take effect.

These may be the final changes to Iowa law coming in 2022, as the governor has said she does not plan to hold a special legislative session following court rulings on abortion. But there are more than 150 new laws which Gov. Kim Reynolds signed from this session that took effect July 1.

Here’s your guide to changes going into law across Iowa:

LEGAL CHANGES

Appeals court nominees: A judicial nominating commission will send five finalists to the governor instead of three when filling a vacancy on the Iowa Court of Appeals. The law also allows judge candidates to apply to serve in a judicial district they do not live in, if they live in a contiguous county.

Elder abuse: Iowans older than 60 have more legal protections. The new law created criminal penalties for “elder abuse” in state law, as well as a new criminal charge for financial exploitation of people in this category. People charged with assaulting or stealing from Iowans over 60 years old also now face higher minimum penalties.

Garbage searches: Law enforcement officials can search an individual’s garbage without having to obtain a search warrant under Iowa law. The measure states there is “no reasonable expectation to privacy” for trash that is placed outside a person’s residence in a public area. The new law overturns an Iowa Supreme Court decision in 2021, which banned police from searching a person’s uncollected trash without a warrant.

Reproductive fraud: Using human reproductive material that the patient did not consent to in writing is now illegal in Iowa. Nonconsensual insemination will be considered sexual abuse in the fourth degree, an aggravated misdemeanor. It also changes current law to allow any woman over 18 to consent to their own hysterectomy. Current law states a doctor can require spousal consent.

WORKFORCE CHANGES

Child care workers: Know a 16- or 17-year-old looking for a job? Starting Friday, the age limit for workers supervising school-age children without adult supervision dropped from 18 to 16. The law also increased the number of toddlers a child care staff member can care for: seven 2-year-olds per staff member, and up to 10 children who are 3 years old.

Unemployment benefits: Starting July 1, Iowans will only have 16 weeks of maximum unemployment benefits, lowered from the previous 26-week limit. The law also adds new rules for eligibility, including a one-week waiting period, and the requirement that workers to accept lower-paying jobs sooner or risk losing their benefits.

NEW SCHOOL LAWS

Asthma medication: Students with respiratory ailments can now keep and use an inhaler or other medication in school, with written parental permission and a doctor’s statement. Schools are now allowed also to stock the medications and appropriate personnel may administer it to students reasonably believed to be in respiratory distress.

Child care payments: Families who use state aid to pay for child care can make additional, private payments to their child care providers. The current system reimburses providers with 50% to 75% the market rate for care. But now, child care centers can charge the difference between the state assistance and the private pay rate.

Teacher licensing: Teachers no longer must take a standardized test to obtain a teaching license in Iowa. Under previous law, Iowa teachers pass a series of standardized tests, which are also used to certify teachers in states like Nebraska and Kansas.

Vaccine mandates: Child care centers, public K-12 schools and Regents universities can no longer require students to receive a COVID-19 vaccine in order to attend school. The law, which stands until 2029, builds on Iowa’s existing guidelines that government buildings – including public schools – cannot require vaccine status disclosure.

BUSINESS REGULATIONS

Aircraft taxation: Under new law, aircraft owners in Iowa don’t have to pay sales tax on parts and labor. Aircraft owners could save up to $700,000 a year, according to legislative fiscal analysts.

Food delivery: Food delivery apps like

Grubhub, DoorDash and Uber Eats are required to enter a formal agreement with restaurants they deliver food from. Before advertising a restaurant’s menu, apps must reach an agreement with the restaurant owner for the food to be available on the delivery platform. The new law also sets new standards for delivery vehicles, which include requirements that food is kept at a safe temperature and in a clean space in the car, and that drivers could not work for a rideshare app and pick up passengers while delivering food.

NEW PROTECTIONS, SERVICES

Abortion alternatives: This new law establishes a statewide program to advocate against abortion by providing pregnancy support services. The program, which has $500,000 in funding, will support organizations that help mothers and families navigate pregnancy, including adoption education services, funds for food, housing and counseling, as well as child care assistance.

Mobile home costs: Landlords must provide an extra month notice for rent increase or lease cancellation to mobile home owners starting Friday. While Democrats criticized the law for not going far enough, it’s a step toward the protections mobile home owners have long sought against unfair or predatory practices by park owners.

WHICH LAWS TAKE EFFECT LATER?

Bottle recycling: Iowa grocery and convenience stores will not have to accept customers’ empty beverage containers, when sweeping changes to the state’s “bottle bill” take effect in January. Retailers will not have to accept bottles if they are licensed to prepare ready-to-eat food. They can also not accept containers if they are located within 10 miles of a redemption center or mobile redemption center in more populace counties, or 15 miles in smaller counties.

Republican lawmakers said the new law means many grocery stores will likely stop taking bottles, passing the labor onto redemption centers. Centers will collect 3 cents per container, up from 1 cent.

E15: Gas stations will largely be required to sell gas with 15% ethanol, known as E15, starting in 2023. Retailers can apply for waivers if they do not own equipment compatible with the blend, or if they are a small enough company. The law also requires any new gas equipment installed to be compatible with 85% ethanol gas, and 20% biodiesel gas.

Tax cuts: Tax reductions will phase in gradually under the law Reynolds signed in March. In 2023, Iowa will no longer tax retirement income, which includes 401(k)s, pensions and IRAs. Farmers will also be eligible for new exemptions. The larger change is to Iowa’s income tax. All income will be taxed at a 3.9-percent rate by 2026, with the state gradually eliminating higher tax brackets starting in 2023. Corporate taxes will also decrease over time, cutting the top rate from 9.8 percent to 5.5 percent.

NNA Better Newspaper Contest

Award-winning Newspaper

FIRST PLACE, Best Local News Coverage, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. 3,000-5,999. Eldridge (IA) North Scott Press, STAFF. Judge's comments: "I thought this was the most complete package of local news. Especially good considering conditions today!" (The NSP has placed FIRST three times!)

FIRST PLACE, Best Serious Column, Daily & Non-Daily Division, Circ. 3,000-5,999. BILL TUBBS, "Our oath must be to principles, not personalities. Judge's comments: "A good reminder of the basic principles to which most of us have sworn our timeless allegiance—and to which we all owe our renewed faith and fervent attention. Bet this column had your readers nodding and saying amen as they remembered the promises they, too, had made, and kept."

FIRST PLACE: Best Sports Feature Story or Series, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. 3000-9000, SCOTT CAMPBELL, "A second comeback" (Deven Strief, wrestling). Judge's comments: "Such a fantastic story that told, in great detail, both of the hardships this young man faced. Well done capturing everything that needed to be told."

FIRST PLACE, Best Front Page Design, Non-daily Division, circ. 4,000-5,999, Mark Ridolfi, Best Front Page (July 14, 2021). Judge's comments: "A balanced mix of stories; photos and layout convey excitement well."

SECOND PLACE, General Excellence, Non-daily Division, circ. 3,000-5,999, NSP STAFF, Judge's comments: "Very close between 1st Place Sheldon N'West Iowa Review and North Scott Press. Best writing in the group."

SECOND PLACE, Best Editorial Page(s), Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. less than 6,000. BILL TUBBS, Judge's comments: "Layout was clean and one of the easiest to read. Variety of content was good and prompts letters to the editor, which is better. Enjoyed the 'Impressions' commentary."

SECOND PLACE: Best Education/Literacy Story, Non-daily Division, circ. less than 6,000. MARK RIDOLFI, "Divided by Diversity." Judge's comments: "Not all exchanges end in better understanding between divergent points of view. But this story exposes the divide and reflects the difficulties of a nation divided and its affect for one school district. Nice work."

SECOND PLACE: Best Sports Story, Non-daily Division, circ. 4,000-5,999, SCOTT CAMPBELL, "This is heartbreaking" (Lancer football). Judge's comments: "This entry gets bonus points for a tremendous lede that perfectly conveys the emotion of the game's outcome, the unexpected early playoff loss for the top-ranked team in the state. I would love to see this broken into two parts, with some tighter-edited postgame reactions as a sidebar to the main game recap, so that the 2,000 words aren't slogging for the casual reader."

SECOND PLACE, Best Sports Column, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. over 3,000. SCOTT CAMPBELL, "Adversity drives former Lancer, Wyatt Wriedt" Judge's comments: "Great interview. The writer really got his subject to open up, which made for an excellent piece."

SECOND PLACE: Best Profile Feature Story, Non-daily Division, circ. 4,000-5,999, SCOTT CAMPBELL, "Gene Newell: Still planting at 90." Judge's comments: "This long-time farmer should be a true inspiration to everyone. The writer has great storytelling skills in sharing the 90-year-old farmer's love for what he does. Nice job with using quotes throughout to provide a great human angle to this remarkable man."

SECOND PLACE: Best Health Story, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. less than 6,000, SCOTT CAMPBELL, "Compassionate Course" (North Scott nurses' CNA classes). Judge's comments: "What a powerful package! This story has great visuals, a great sidebar, great quotes, and a great story to tell overall. Readers not only will be excited about this educational opportunity for local students but also will be likely to gain a deeper understanding of and respect for the important work of CNAs."

THIRD PLACE: Best Photo Essay, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. 3,000-5,999, MARK RIDOLFI, "On Pointe for the holidays (ballet)." Judge's comments: "Just a beautiful layout and presentation that does these lovely photos justice. Conveys the magic perfectly."

THIRD PLACE: Best Review, Daily & Non-daily Division (all circulation sizes), Erin M. Gentz, "Newsies." Judge's comments: "Erin Gentz's exuberant review of a community theatre production of Disney's "Newsies!" does more than highlight the singing, dancing, and acting chops of the local, mostly high-school and college-age cast. Gentz contextualizes the story, based on actual early 20th century events, and makes it relevant to today's audiences while also spotlighting the behind-the-scenes work of the set designer, lighting designer, costumer, choreographer, and director. Vibrantly voiced and snappily paced, Gentz's review commands attention."

THIRD PLACE: Best Sports Section/Page, Daily & Non-daily Division circ. more than 3000, Eldridge North Scott Press, Scott Campbell, Judge's comments: (none). First Place was the Sheldon (IA) N'West Iowa Review. The Sioux City (IA) Journal won Honorable Mention.

HONORABLE MENTION: Best Sports Feature Story or Series, Daily & Non-daily Division, circ. 3000-9000, SCOTT CAMPBELL, "Lancers have girl power" (North Scott girls' wrestlers). Judge's comments: Such a wonderful story! The first few introductory paragraphs could have been stronger, and less scattered.

Baseball teams from North Scott and Clinton honored 35 area veterans prior to their non-conference game Friday night, as the Lancers continued their tradition of holding Veterans Appreciation Night at the Ballpark.

Lancers will host Davenport North in Friday night substate opener

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

The hay’s in the barn and the stage is set. The regular season is over and the summer-long goal is within reach. Yes, it’s substate time for North Scott’s baseball team.

After taking a 22-15 record into last night’s (Tuesday) non-conference game with Solon, all eyes are now focused on Friday when the Lancers open Class 4A substate action by hosting MAC rival Davenport North.

First pitch is set for 7 p.m., and will be played as the nightcap of a doubleheader that will feature Davenport Assumption and Washington in a 3A matchup at 5 p.m.

North Scott is entering as the No. 2 seed, which earned the Lancers home field advantage. In other first-round action No. 1 Iowa City High will host No. 6 Muscatine, with No. 3 Burlington entertaining No. 4 Bettendorf.

The highest remaining seed after Friday’s games will automatically advance to Wednesday’s (July 13) substate final, with the other two winners duking it out in a Monday night semifinal, with the higher of the two seeds having home field advantage.

string last week. Pitching-wise, North Scott should have plenty of arms available, with senior aces Sam Skarich and Cody Sunny topping a long list of capable hurlers.

“I’ve said this for years, that pitching is really going to carry you through the postseason,” said Ralfs. “I think we’ve got pretty a pretty good staff. We’ve got some closers that can help us out, and we definitely have options, depending on how far we go.”

Juniors Drew Sacia and Ian Dittmer are also expected to play key roles on the mound, and Ralfs also likes the way that freshman Kye Smith, senior Joe Knepper and junior Landon Kearney have been trending.

“I feel confident with any of those guys,” said Ralfs.

“They each have roles where we know exactly where they are going to be successful. They are all in good spots to help us one way or the other.”

The Lancer offense is also solid. “I think our hitting is going well,” said Ralfs. “A couple weeks ago we changed up the batting order and moved Noah (Young) down a little bit, and I think we have better continuity going with our top five.

“However, even our six hole, down to our nine hole, have been providing some pretty big hits for us, and getting the job done. When you look at a batting order where you don’t find a lot of holes, that’s a pretty tough team to compete with.”

The Lancers have won six of their last 10 games, and are coming off an up-and-down week that started by getting swept at Clinton (5-4, 11-1) on Monday (June 27), followed by a 6-3 Senior Night win over Cedar Rapids Jefferson on Wednesday.

North Scott regained a little bit of momentum by playing the role of spoiler in the Mississippi Athletic Conference title chase by splitting a Thursday night doubleheader with Davenport Assumption, and ended the week with an exciting 10-9, eight-inning revenge win over Clinton on Veterans Appreciation Night.

“Losing two to Clinton was pretty disappointing, to be honest,” said Ralfs. “We were coming off a big win against Ankeny two days earlier, and we thought that was a good turning point for us.

“We thought, ‘Alright, here we go,’ but then we came back and slid back down the mountain against Clinton. Clinton’s a good team, but we just did not play well up there. It was pretty disappointing.”

Skarich allowed just two hits over six innings in the opener, and fanned 11, but gave up four earned runs. North Scott had tied the game with a four-run fifth, all with two outs. Skarich’s two-out double started the rally, but the Lancers took full advantage of four walks, a hit batter, wild pitch and balk to knot the count.

Clinton won the game on a bases-loaded walk in the seventh.

The Lancers just didn’t play well in the nightcap, committing four errors, with Sunny and Knepper combining to give up 13 hits. Sunny led the five-hit Lancer attack with a pair of singles.

Seniors power Lancers to win

With the exception of junior Drew Sacia on the mound, the Lancers went with an all-senior lineup on Senior Night against Cedar Rapids Jefferson, and they claimed a 6-3 non-conference win.

Sacia scattered eight hits over six innings, and Skarich led the 10-hit North Scott attack with a three-for-four night.

“Our goal was to start all seniors,” said Ralfs. “Baseball is a long season, and we wanted to get guys out there because it’s pretty impressive to play four years of baseball, and to be out there as a senior.

“We have 10 seniors, and only one didn’t get to play. Carter Bush caught a baseball on his left hand while umpiring some youth games, and he wasn’t cleared to play.”

A sweet split with Assumption

Any victory over Davenport Assumption is special, but it was extra sweet for the Lancers as Thursday’s split knocked the visiting Knights out of a first-place tie for the MAC crown.

“That split was huge,” said Ralfs. “We kind of had that one circled. We wanted to be a spoiler and put our best foot forward.”

North Scott scored six runs in the sixth inning, and then withstood a Knight three-spot in the seventh to claim a 6-5 win in the opener.

Junior Landon Kearney picked up the win in relief, with senior Joe Knepper nailing down the save. Ryan Sanders had two of North Scott’s five hits, as the Lancers took full advantage of 11 walks. Senior Cody Sunny had the big hit in the sixth with a two-run single.

Assumption came back to claim the nightcap with an 11-5 victory, as the two teams combined to score 11 runs in the seventh inning. The Knights took a 4-1 lead into the final frame, but broke the game open on Michael Ray’s grand slam.

North Scott countered with Sunny’s three-run ding-er in the bottom half of the inning, but it was a case of too little, too late.

Sunny and Skarich each had two hits, and Sunny drove in four runs.

Lancers win a thriller

Make no mistake about it, Friday night’s non-conference battle with Clinton was all about honoring 35 area veterans, and the fact the Lancers claimed a thrilling come-from-behind, eight-inning 10-9 victory was simply icing on the cake.

“Honestly, that game was more about our veterans, and what we did for those guys that night,” said Ralfs. “That night was definitely more about the veterans than baseball, and we made sure the kids understood that.

“We’re fortunate enough to play a game, but there are much bigger things in life that they will have to endure, and those veterans out there definitely endured some big things that allow us to play a baseball game. That’s the way we approached it.”

Ralfs was quick to give plenty of credit to co-coach Brad Ward.

“Brad puts a lot of work and effort into getting those veterans there, and putting that all together,” said Ralfs. “He does a lot to make that night pretty darn special. But, at the end of the day we still had to play a game, and we definitely wanted to play good baseball. It was good that we came out on the right end of it.”

It was a great night for baseball, and both the River Kings, coached by Eldridge resident and former Lancer assistant Kevin Cunningham, and Lancers delivered.

Clinton scored five in the top of the first, but the Lancers countered with four in their half, as Sam Skarich opened with a leadoff home run and Drew Sacia delivered a two-run double.

Clinton took a 7-4 lead in the fifth, but the Lancers took an 8-7 advantage in the bottom half on singles by Noah Young, Ryan Sanders, Max Huntley, Skarich and Cody Sunny, along with Kaden Kelley’s two-run double.

The River Kings were down to their last out, and last

Hoelting's girls will open regional tourney action at home on Saturday

By Scott Campbell

It's crunch time, and there's no way to sugarcoat the importance of the week. The long bus rides are in the rearview mirror, and the hot summer sweat from days and nights on the diamond both lingers, and fuels what could be a promising run for North Scott's softball team.

While the Lancers were still hoping to claim an impressive top-three finish in the Mississippi Athletic Conference standings, with last night's (Tuesday) doubleheader with No. 4 (5A) Muscatine being a determining factor, there's no doubt there are bigger fish to fry.

Yes, it's tournament time for the Lancers, and their tourney trek will begin Saturday, with a 7 p.m. Class 4A regional semifinal tilt against either Central DeWitt (12-23) or Clinton (0-29).

The Lancers have swept both teams, while Central DeWitt owns a pair of wins (16-3, 11-3) over the winless River Queens.

'We have one guaranteed week of play ahead. I feel good. I think we're to the point where we've got as much practice in as we can, and we're just trying to make sure we execute this late in the season.'

Holly Hoelting

There is no doubt coach Holly Hoelting's girls are ready for the road ahead. "We have one guaranteed week of play ahead," she said, after watching her team win three of four games at Iowa City West's Rick Doran Classic last weekend. "I feel good. I think we're to the point where we've got as much practice in as we can, and we're just trying to make sure we execute this late in the season."

North Scott has certainly primed the postseason pump with a schedule that exudes toughness. The Lancers have won six of their last 10 games, and their 25-9 record is deceiving.

All nine losses were to ranked teams, including the No. 1 teams in 1A and 4A. Hoelting's girls have defeated six ranked squads, with Saturday's 10-2 victory over 5A No. 1 Waukee Northwest being the crowning touch.

The Lancers will be looking to book their 15th trip to the big show in Fort Dodge, and first since finishing fourth in 2020, following a runner-up finish the year before.

However, there's no doubt they will need to bring their A game if they want to return to the state's grandest stage, Maddy McDermott had a big weekend in Iowa City, clubbing two home runs and driving in 11 runs.

and most likely standing in their way in next Tuesday's regional finals will be No. 10 Western Dubuque (22-16).

The Bobcats are the defending Class 4A champions, and they most certainly won't want to give up their title without a fight. In addition, there could be a heavy dose of revenge in the air as the last time the two teams met was in the 2020 regional finals, where North Scott rolled to a 10-0, five-inning win.

Like the Lancers, Western Dubuque's record is deceiving, as the Bobcats also play a predominantly 5A schedule. However, they have been struggling of late, having lost five of their last 10 games, and they will take on the winner of Maquoketa and Decorah in their Saturday night regional semifinal.

Assuming both the Lancers and Bobcats are victorious on Saturday, North Scott will host Tuesday's regional final, with the first pitch scheduled for 7 p.m.

Hoelting is trying to keep things in perspective. She acknowledged that last night's twinbill with Muscatine was important, because a top-three finish in what could be the state's toughest conference would be quite an accomplishment.

However, the postseason has always been a focal point for the Lancers, and that finally begins this week.

"Saturday is where we're really focusing," said Hoelting. "Obviously, we want to win Tuesday, but we're taking it as a chance for us to get better, and a chance for somebody else to challenge us before we go into postseason, and see what we can do.

"We know that we have to get past Central DeWitt or Clinton, but we also know that Western Dubuque is a possible matchup in the regional finals. They are a good ballclub, and they won't be a pushover.

"We're making sure that we're preparing every day," she continued. "Yes, we play Muscatine, but we're also talking about some of the things Western Dubuque or Central DeWitt will do. We're preparing for the long haul."

Hoelting likes the way her team is trending. While junior Maddy McDermott might be considered the team's ace in the circle, junior Shelby Spears and eighth-grader Chevelle Kingsley have pitched well of late.

"I feel good with Maddy, and we're really trying to figure out how the other two fit in with a relief role," said Hoelting. "Honestly, the last week or so, all three of them have been doing a really good job. It's nice going into the postseason with a solid and actual pitching staff. We have more than just Maddy."

The same is true for what's playing out in the batter's box. While McDermott has also been a terror there — she clubbed two home runs and drove in 11 runs over the weekend — the Lancer offense has proved to be potent.

"I feel good about our hitting," said Hoelting. "The girls seem relaxed, and I tell you all the time, one through 14 can figure it out, and I'm really excited with where we're at.

"Maddy has been really swinging the bat lately. She had a slow start to the season, but now she's hitting above .400. She's really stepped up and is hitting the ball hard."

The Lancer navigated a tough week to put themselves in position for a strong postseason run.

Yes, Thursday's double-dip loss to Pleasant Valley knocked them out of MAC championship contention, but sometime it just isn't your night. The visiting Spartans eked out a 2-0 win in the opener, pushing across two runs in the second, and then rolled to a 10-0 win in the nightcap.

"I wasn't very happy with our performance against Pleasant Valley, but only because we didn't perform well at all on offense," said Hoelting. "We didn't scratch a run across. When you don't score, it doesn't matter how many they score, because you're never going to win. That was upsetting."

McDermott scattered nine hits in the opener, and struck out four, but the Lancers could only manage two hits of their own.

The nightcap wasn't much better, although North Scott did manage seven hits, with McDermott and Adalynn Johnson leading the way with two apiece. Kingsley took the loss, although she only gave up five earned runs.

What a weekend

While getting swept by Pleasant Valley wasn't a pleasant experience, the Lancers flushed it quickly and had a solid weekend in Iowa City.

First up was No. 14 (4A) Benton Community, and the Lancers got a solid pitching performance from Shelby Spears, while also banging out 13 hits en route to a 9-7 win over the Bobcats.

Spears scattered six hits and allowed five earned runs to pick up the win, while Maddy McDermott led the offensive onslaught with a three-for-four day in the batter's box, that included a home run, double and five RBIs.

Spears and junior Carley Bedar also had two hits, and every single Lancer starter had at least one.

The only blemish on the weekend came later Friday afternoon, as the Lancers dropped a 6-4 decision to No. 11 (4A) Bondurant-Farrar.

North Scott pushed across a single run in the second, but the Bluejays put four on the board in the third to take a 4-1 lead. The Lancers knotted the count with one in the fourth and two in the fifth, but Bondurant-Farrar added two in its half of the fifth on four singles and a sacrifice bunt.

The Lancers managed just four hits, with sophomore Sydney Skarich collecting half of them. McDermott took the loss, giving up five earned runs despite fanning seven.

Any win over a top-ranked team is something to celebrate, and even though neither team threw its ace pitcher, North Scott's 10-2 win over Waukee Northwest was something to celebrate on Saturday.

North Scott took a 2-0 lead in the first on RBI singles by Skarich and Rylie Robertson, and Waukee's lone runs came in the bottom half of the frame.

The Lancers added single runs in the fourth and fifth innings, and put the game away with a two-run sixth and four more tallies in the seventh.

It was another big offensive game for McDermott, as she delivered an RBI single in the fourth and a grand slam to seal the deal in the seventh.

Carley Bedar and Skarich were both four-for-five at the plate, while Robertson, Chevelle Kingsley and Teagan Kelley each had two hits to lead the 19-hit Lancer attack, Kingsley also got the win, and allowed just six hits.

The Lancers wrapped up the weekend with a 9-0 win over Independence. McKinley Toohey had three hits to pace North Scott's offense, while Kingsley added a pair. Spears got the win in the circle while twirling a nifty three-hitter.

"We had four games this weekend," said Hoelting. "Waukee Northwest is a really good team, and it was great to see our offense come through. We know we can do it. We just need to execute when it comes time."

WORK IS OUR WORK.

OBITUARIES

Jeri Moore

Jeri Moore, 74, of DeWitt, passed away Wednesday, June 29, 2022, at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Min.

Jeri Jean Moore was born Feb. 4, 1948, to Warren and Arlene (Swain) Darland of McCausland. She graduated with one of the first classes of North Scott High School in 1966. Jeri met the love of her life, Al Moore, during her high school years. She attended Missouri State Teachers College. On Christmas Day of 1966, Al proposed and she accepted, and the couple were married March 6, 1967, the beginning of a marriage that lasted over 55 years. They were blessed with two children, Tracy and Jason. Jeri worked at Edward White Elementary School in Eldridge, Caterpillar, and Scott Co. Secondary Roads Department, both in Mt. Joy. The couple raised their family in McCausland, and retired to DeWitt in 2016. Jeri was a lifelong member of the McCausland Methodist Church.

Her family meant everything to her. She was an adoring grandmother to nine grandchildren, one who is with her in heaven. She unashamedly spoiled them as much as possible.

Jeri loved floating the river on the pontoon, listening to music and catching the rays. She had a running text thread of streaming recommendations that she was always sharing with friends and family. Jeri had a wonderful bubbling personality that made the people close to her feel good.

Jeri was the loving wife of Al, mother of Tracy (Matt) Lindaman of Eldridge, and Jason (Jen) Moore of Plainfield, Ill., grandmother of Shelby (fiancé Matt), Hannah, Nick, Ceci, Jack, Logan, Will, Teagan, and Finn, and sister to “the 5 J’s.”

She was preceded in death by her parents, and grandson, Jack.

Visitation will be from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 6 (today), at Schultz Funeral Home, DeWitt. A Graveside Service will be held at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, July 7, at Elmwood Cemetery, DeWitt. Please bring a lawn chair.

Arrangements are in the care of Schultz Funeral Home, DeWitt. Condolences may be expressed at www.schultzfuneralhomes.com.

OBITUARIES

Darrell Pidgeon

April 21, 1939 – June 24, 2022
A 61-year romance ended when Darrell Wilson Pidgeon, 83, of Parker, Colo., passed away June 24, at The Denver Hospice. Darrell was the husband of North Scott graduate Ann Lage. The couple met in a cattle barn when both were showing at the 1961 National Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, when Ann was a senior at North Scott.

Darrell was born to Leonard Wilson Pidgeon and Thelma Gumley Pidgeon in Wilmington, Ohio.

Darrell parlayed the purchase of two Guernsey heifers when he was a 10-year-old 4-H boy into a lifetime career in the dairy cattle industry. After graduating from Wilmington High School, where he played baritone horn in the marching band, he received his BS in dairy science from The Ohio State University. Darrell paid his way through OSU traveling across the country — often by boxcar — working a fitter and showman.

Darrell gained a keen eye for good cattle, which translated to his winning the national collegiate dairy judging contest as a member of the OSU dairy judging team in 1964 and receiving the Dairy Shrine Kildee Scholarship for graduate study. He used the scholarship to obtain a master's degree in dairy genetics from the University of Missouri, and joined American Breeder's Service as a young sire analyst.

Darrell and Ann were married Sept. 27, 1969, at First Presbyterian Church, in Davenport, and spent part of their honeymoon riding in a boxcar with nine Holstein heifers from Wisconsin to the Western National Holstein Show in San Francisco. The couple moved to Colorado in 1973 — never expecting to still be there 50 years later -- when Darrell became a partner and herd manager at Paclamar Farms, Louisville.

Darrell was introduced to the cattle export business when the Paclamar herd was sold to an Italian businessman, and he rode in the plane with the cows when they were flown from Denver to Rome. For the next 25 years, Darrell pioneered a global movement of dairy animals to countries with great need to improve their dairy herds and milk production. Working with Dave Bachman, Sheyboygan Falls, Wis., he arranged the export of U.S. Holstein heifers to Eastern Europe when trade was just opening with those Communist countries. Darrell vividly recalled armed soldiers always met the cattle planes when they landed in Budapest, Hungary, and intently watched him and the plane until the American cattle were unloaded.

Darrell had a groundbreaking opportunity with the Inter-American Development Bank in 1977, when the bank launched Prodel, an ambitious project to provide a more wholesome and stable milk supply to Mexico City. Darrell traveled with Prodel officials and Mexican dairymen to select 24,000 bred heifers from the U.S. and Canada, opening new markets for high-quality grade North American heifers. Darrell and Ann returned to Colorado in 1980 and formed their own export entity, Pidgeon Cattle Co., focusing on exportation of live Registered Holsteins to the Asian market.

In September 2021, Darrell was recognized by the National Dairy Shrine as a Dairy Pioneer for his entrepreneurial work in the dairy cattle export business that helped open and develop markets for U.S. Holstein cattle around the world. The Missouri Hall of Dairy Honors recognized Darrell for his Meritorious Service to the dairy industry in January 2022.

Darrell is survived by his wife, daughter Marla and her partner Amy Hagerman, Denver; son Andrew and his wife Kelly and their two sons Graham, 10, and Brady, 7, McLean, Va.; his sisters-in-law and brothers-in-law Richard and Jane McCurdy, Goodyear, Ariz.; Dean and Karen Potratz, Pewaukee, Wis.; and Janie Pidgeon, Wilmington; nephews John Potratz, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Daniel Potratz, Waukesha, Wis.; and Kyle Pidgeon, Wilmington, Ohio.

He was preceded in death by his parents and a brother Phillip Pidgeon, all of Wilmington.

In lieu of flowers memorials can be made to National Dairy Shrine, Ft. Atkinson, Wis.; United Church of Christ, Parker Hilltop, Parker, Colo.; The Denver Hospice, Denver, Colo.; or the Junior Dairy Show at the Colorado State Fair, Pueblo, Colo.

Governor names Miami grad to Iowa Board of Regents

By Kate Kealey
Iowa Capital Dispatch

Gov. Kim Reynolds has appointed Des Moines area businessman James “JC” Risewick to the Iowa Board of Regents.

Risewick is the president and chief operating officer of his family business, Seneca Companies, which specializes in petroleum dispensing and design solutions for gas stations.

“I’m thankful that the governor has appointed me to this position, and I look forward to serving the citizens of Iowa,” Risewick said in a press release. “I will work diligently with the fellow board members to keep upper education at Iowa’s public universities on the forefront and leading edge of the 21st century.”

Risewick has been a significant donor to Reynolds’ campaign, with more than $65,500 in cash and in-kind donations since 2020. Except for a direct, $15,000 donation last year, Risewick has contributed in-kind contributions for air travel. One of those flights, valued at $21,600, was dated March 3.

Seneca Cos. was founded by Risewick’s father, Chris Risewick, who contributed cash and flights totaling over $36,000 to Reynolds’ campaign in 2020.

JC Risewick’s appointment fills a vacancy created by the death of Regent

Risewick

Milt Dakovich in February. Risewick will begin serving immediately on the nine-member board and go to the Iowa Senate for a confirmation vote in its next session.

Risewick graduated from Miami University with a degree in business and completed the Minnesota Management Institute at the University of Minnesota.

Valley Construction submits lowest Tremont demolition bid

Valley Construction submitted a low bid of $134,900 to demolish Scott County’s warehouse at 4715 Tremont Ave., Davenport.

The Valley bid was $100,000 below three competitors.

The demolition will make way for a two-story juvenile detention center that includes storage and meeting space.

Supervisors met Tuesday morning to discuss bids and are scheduled to vote at their 5 p.m., Thursday meeting at the county administration building.

The Valley bid beat three others:

Dore and Associates, $259,600, Miller Trucking and Excavating, $238,230 and Schrader Excavating, $247,300

County facilities director Tammy Speidel recommended Valley get the job. She said demolition would begin this month.

DR. SONYA WILLIAMS

New EICC chancellor hired from Chicago suburbs

Air Force veteran succeeds Doucette

The Eastern Iowa Community College District Board of Trustees hired Sonya Williams as the district's next chancellor.

The board hired the Air Force veteran, who holds a PhD in anatomical sciences, after a year-long search that was extended last month to draw more applicants.

Williams currently serves as vice president of education and chief academic officer at the College of Lake County in Grayslake, Ill., where she oversees all instructional operations.

She will begin her duties on Aug. 8, replacing Don Doucette, who is retiring.

The appointment follows an extensive national search.

"Although we've encountered a few bumps in the road along the way, we are very happy to be here today, ready to introduce an outstanding community college leader who we are confident can lead our colleges into the future with vision, intelligence and heart," said Robert Gallagher, EICCD Board of Trustees president.

"With a proven commitment to student success and more than 25 years of progressive leadership roles in higher education, we believe she is especially suited to lead Eastern Iowa Community Colleges. We are excited to have Dr. Williams agree to join us here at THE Community's College and look forward to facing the challenges of the future with her at the helm."

As chancellor, Williams will oversee the operations of the entire EICCD including Clinton, Muscatine and Scott community colleges. The colleges also deliver services through satellite sites in Maquoketa, Wilton and various locations in Davenport, as well as many area high schools.

The College of Lake County is a comprehensive community college system including three campuses and more than 15,000 students. Williams' responsibilities included leadership of the college's academic departments.

Her major accomplishments at College of Lake County include successfully managing a budget of well over $50 million, creating a visionary plan for program and product expansion to enhance CTE and transfer offerings, collaborating and supporting the college's Achieving the Dream teaching and learning excellence initiatives, promoting diversity and inclusion practices, developing a culture of inquiry and evidence in decision-making, and fostering strong shared governance practices.

"My goals for education, my professional and personal values, and my commitment to advance the mission of community colleges aligns with those shared by EICCD," Williams said.

"We will stand firm in our commitment to students and stakeholders by strengthening our stance to cultivate an encouraging, innovative and collaborative culture. As chancellor, I am excited for the opportunity to model the way and join a statewide system that provides life-changing opportunities to the communities we serve."

Previously, Williams served in leadership, teaching and research roles for Joliet Junior College, Joliet, Ill.; Oklahoma City Community College, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Langston University, Langston, Okla.; and Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, Conn. A captain in the U.S. Air Force, she also served as section commander and information management officer.
