$5.1M for Park View work

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

A $377,600 engineering contract will launch an estimated $5.1 million in storm water drainage work in Park View.

Scott County supervisors hired MSA Professional Services to design solutions for four problem areas identified in the firm's $110,000 study of Park View roads and storm sewers.

MSA's new contract also covers easement plans to access ditches and pipes on private ground, or property owned by Park View Owners' Association.

Supervisors have earmarked up to $5.1 million from the county's $33.2 federal pandemic aid to address drainage problems that are damaging roads in the 50-year-old subdivision.

"This represents presumably the worst of it," supervisor Tony Knobbe said. "How much more down the road are we looking at? Give me some perspective what else lies ahead of us."

County engineer Angie Kersten said the work addresses four of 19 problem areas found in the earlier study.

"I'd say we're tackling a big chunk of the problem areas. Down the road, there could be three or four more, but then I'd say we're in pretty good shape. That's just for storm water problems, not necessarily where there is road faulting, or other issues with the road," she said.

One problem area dubbed Section A, between Cherokee and South Park View Drive, would need more than 700 feet of

Eldridge crew off to help restore power in Florida

Eldridge utility crew members raced to Florida last week and helped restore power to new Smyrna Beach and other areas. Tate Olson, right, and Gabriel Stricker, volunteered after the Iowa Association of Municipal Utilities shared Florida's call for help. "Tate and Gabriel departed Wednesday, Sept. 28, along with a crew from Muscatine Power & Water, and arrived in New Smyrna Beach on Friday afternoon. On Friday New Smyrna Beach had 27,000 customers without power. They have 450 customers without power as of Monday," Eldridge utilities line superintendent Jacob Rowe said.

Tie tops Football Contest

Two wrong was the number to beat, as Bill Bates of Donahue and Robin Porter of Long Grove topped this week's Football Contest. Their shared tiebreaker of 73 (closest to the total number of points in Alabama's 49-26 win over Arkansas) will net them each $37.50.

Page Mossage of Omaha, Neb., took third, missing two with a tiebreaker of 66. She will receive $10. Other contestants missing two, and their tiebreakers, include: Richard Clark (62), Mike Clark (61), Brooklyn Easter (54), and Karen McConnaha (42).

Forty of the 133 contestants missed four, and 32 missed five. Making the honor roll this week by missing three were: Maxwell Huntley, Paxton Porter, Vicki Kearney, Troy Harmel, Mike Panther, Dale Bergert, Brody Hargens, Rylee Eckermann, Keith Curry, Ken Siebke, Charlotte Claussen, Mike Mossage, Liv Mossage, Nolan Mossage, Jen Kress, and Darlene Reinert.

Games missed the most frequently were Davenport West over Dubuque Senior, Illinois over Wisconsin, Oklahoma State over Baylor, Kansas over Iowa State, and TCU over Oklahoma.

Other winners were North Scott over Burlington, Fort Madison over Clinton, Iowa City Liberty over Mount Pleasant, Pleasant Valley over Bettendorf, Alabama over Arkansas, Michigan over Iowa, Ole Miss over Kentucky, Clemson over North Carolina State, Northern Iowa over Indiana State, Ohio State over Rutgers, LSU over Auburn, and Air Force over Navy.

Seven weeks remain in this year's Football Contest, with $595 yet to be awarded. Game pairings appear each week in the ads on the contest page, with an entry form that must be delivered in person by Friday at 5 p.m. to The North Scott Press office at 214 N. 2nd Street in Eldridge, or mailed to: North Scott Press, P.O. Box 200, Eldridge, IA 52748. Mailed entry forms must be received by Saturday.

Official forms are also available from the sponsors whose ads appear on the contest page. Only one entry per person is allowed. There is no cost to enter.

Low flow leaves Wapsi River treacherous

By Delaney Farwell
NSP reporter

The Wapsipinicon River, a tributary of the Mississippi River, is known as a great spot for fishing, kayaking and recreation. It also is known for unpredictability, depending on the rainfall and seasons. A dry summer left the Wapsi low, exposing tree tangles that can endanger kayakers and tubers.

Dan Howard, Clinton County's Emergency Management Agency operations officer, said once the water starts moving around, downed trees and different things in the water create stronger currents that can strand a kayaker, or worse, "flip them over, which then creates a whole new danger."

The most dangerous part of the river is right off U.S. 67 where the Wapsi splits off from the main tributary into a smaller stretch before connecting to the main body again. Over the years, this once highly trafficked area has slowed down. People are realizing it's dangerous, he said.

Large warning signs have helped reduce kayak rescues. "It has been common quite a few times every year. Up until this last year. Things have slowed way down for kayak rescue or any kind of rescue on that part of the Wapsi. I'm kind of giving credit to the signs warning boaters not to go that way," he said.

Earlier this year, a kayaker had a GPS tracker and accidentally set off the beacon alerting authorities that the kayaker was in danger. "We got a call from the United States Air Force that we have a distress signal from a kayaker at this location. And we put our team out to search for him and he was found, quite a ways down river already because he was actually paddling. He was OK, but if he would have been in distress, it would have gone through that beacon locator," Howard said.

The director of the Wapsi Environmental Education center, Dave Murcia, references rescues from different forms of recreation, particularly tubing.

"We typically will see rescues regarding tubing and tubes you can't really direct very easily; you don't really paddle around with them. So, from what I recall, there was actually a woman who got stuck in the crotch of a tree somehow in the water and was there at least one night," he said.

Murcia speaks of how the Wapsi, like any river, is continually changing. Erosion, trees, precipitation, and seasonal changes all play a role in the state of the river. A changing river makes it so those using it recreationally should be aware of a multitude of factors before engaging with it.

Howard advised kayakers to know their equipment and feel comfortable before attempting the Wapsi.

The Wapsi Environmental Education Center offers paddling programs that run from May through September. "We truly go through that we recommend to people going down rivers in particular, to make a float plan, which is a basic sheet that tells people where they're going, where they're putting in, how long they think they'll be on the river, where they're going to get off the river, that kind of thing," he said.

KAY PENCE FOR IOWA HOUSE

Hi, I'm Kay Pence. I grew up in a large family in Donahue, IA. Just like large families, small communities require people to work together to get things done. That attitude has served me well in life and that's why I'm running for Iowa House District 70.

As your state representative, I will prioritize:

- Rural infrastructure
- Pre-K, public education, and adult learning
- Our workforce crisis and living wage jobs
- Clean water and a healthy environment

COUNTY: Eldridge's Bruce Builders get $22.57M detention center contract

new, 15-inch buried drain pipe, and new outlet that would triple capacity, up to 83 cubic feet per second.

The study identifies areas inundated by five- and 100-year storm projections.

Eldridge firm will build detention center

Bruce Builders, of Eldridge, will construct Scott County's juvenile detention center for $22.57 million, including a second floor storage area on the site of the demolished county warehouse at 4715 Tremont Ave., Davenport.

Supervisors dismissed two other material options, but remain open to an exterior brick upgrade once design work begins.

Supervisors also approved a $2.59 million heating and air conditioning contract for the Youth Justice and Rehabilitation Center. Facilities director Tammy Speidel said the county expects a $92,780 discount for paying in advance.

That brings the full center to more than $25 million, or 11 percent over initial estimates.

"That's not too bad for this climate right now," county board chairman Ken Beck said. "Obviously, it is over what we were expecting. But considering the climate ... I think it's a reasonable consideration."

Supervisor John Maxwell commended the winning bidder. "In my school board life, I've been able to meet the folks at Bruce Builders. It may be a new company, but they are veterans in their business. I think they'll do a fantastic job. I love it that they're local and they use local."

Supervisors Ken Croken and Brinson Kinzer asked Bruce to provide subcontractor lists as soon as possible.

Supervisors also hired MultiVista for $26,300 to document construction of the center.

Drone and ground photographs allow the county "to have photographic material based on specific GPS locations and at specific times during a large project. This has proved invaluable to use as a reference for the construction project."

The images will help the county document progress and provide a record if needed to settle claims.

Davenport and county swap federal aid

Davenport and Scott County are exchanging $1.6 million in federal pandemic relief aid for projects county supervisors and city council members support.

Supervisors on Sept. 29 dedicated $1.6 million for Davenport's West Locust sewer extension project. Davenport council on Sept. 28 provided $1.6 million for a portion of the county's Youth Justice and Rehabilitation Center.

The Davenport contribution is "specifically for the assessment area and programming area of the building," county budget director David Farmer told supervisors.

The city's sewer project will encourage development of land west of Interstate 280, outside of city limits.

Wells Ferry patching pushed to 2024

Patching work on Wells Ferry Road will be moved back to 2024.

County administrator Mahesh Sharma said the county contracted with Manatts Inc., for two projects this year:

- 4.1 miles of Bluff Road, or county road F33 from 240th Avenue to U.S. 67;
- 2.8 miles of Wells Ferry Road, or Z30, from Valley Drive to 205th Street.

Manatts finished the Bluff Road work Sept. 20, but asked to delay Wells Ferry work until spring.

Sharma said the May 12 contract required work to begin within 17 days. Supervisors earlier this year gave staff authority to amend contracts without a public vote. Sharma said Secondary Roads staff granted Manatt's request.

Sharma said the work will be done at the same unit prices. "No extra claims for compensation will be allowed," he told supervisors.

Durant to Walcott road will get new surface

Scott County will resurface six miles of F58, or 200th Avenue, from Durant to 60th Avenue.

Supervisors on Sept. 29 passed a resolution to seek bids for a hot-mix asphalt surfacing F58 east from Durant's 14th Avenue.

Scott County is the lead agency on the project with Muscatine County. County engineer Angie Kersten expects bidding in December through the Iowa Department of Transportation, for work to be done in 2023.

Donors support child injured in homecoming parade

Donors have given more than $1,500 to help the family of a North Scott boy injured in the Sept. 29 homecoming parade.

Sara Green, of DeWitt, launched a GoFundMe page for the 10-year-old who fell from a parade float, then was struck by the float trailer. Green said family members ask that the boy not be identified.

"He was life-flighted to Iowa City and had internal bleeding, broken ribs, spleen lacerations," she wrote on the fundraising page. Green set a $5,000 goal for the family, "to help relieve some financial stress for them so they can continue to be their with their son in Iowa City."

Police and bystanders responded about 7 p.m. Sept. 29 to South Sixth Street and West LeClaire Road when the boy fell from the float. To learn more, or donate, search gofundme.com for Green's page, titled, "10 year old fell off homecoming float in Eldridge."

LEGAL NOTICES

Public Notices are democracy insurance, protecting your right to know.

ney is Emily Bartekoske, of SouthLaw, P.C.; whose address is 1401 50th Street, Suite 100, West Des Moines, IA 50266.

NOTICE

The plaintiff has elected foreclosure without redemption. This means that the sale of the mortgaged property will occur promptly after entry of judgment unless you file a written demand with the court to delay the sale. If you file a written demand, the sale will be delayed until twelve months (or six months if the petition includes a waiver of deficiency judgment) from the entry of judgment if the mortgaged property is your residence and is a one-family or two-family dwelling or until two months from entry of judgment if the mortgaged property is not your residence or is your residence but not a one-family or two-family dwelling. You will have no right of redemption after the sale. The purchaser at the sale will be entitled to immediate possession of the mortgaged property. You may purchase at the sale.

You must serve a motion or answer on or before 15th day of November, 2022, and within a reasonable time thereafter, you must file your motion or answer with the Clerk of Court for Scott County, at the county courthouse in Davenport, Iowa. If you fail to respond, judgment by default may be rendered against you for the relief demanded in the petition.

If you require the assistance of auxiliary aids or services to participate in a court action because of a disability, immediately call your District ADA Coordinator at 563-326-8783. If you are hearing impaired, call Relay Iowa TTY at 1-800-735-2942.

This case has been filed in a county that utilizes electronic filing. You may find more information and general rules governing electronic filing in Iowa Court Rules Chapter 16. You may find information concerning protection of personal information in court filings in Iowa Court Rules Chapter 16, Division VI.

SCOTT COUNTY SUPERVISOR CANDIDATE SURVEYS

Scott County supervisor candidates answered seven questions from the NSP. Find each candidate's complete survey at northscottpress.com.

Q: Assess the county's policy of allowing rural county development mainly in annexable areas near city limits. Does it contain sprawl, or speed it up?

Ross Paustian: I support current policy. There is plenty of room within city limits for new housing.

John Maxwell: The county has had a long-standing stance of preserving the agriculture land (AP) for the use of agriculture. Along with this standard is to designate land for planned development. This development is usually within city limits, drives economic development within designated areas and preserves agricultural land. I believe this philosophy contains urban sprawl.

Jean Dickson: We want our residents to stay in Scott County. Allowing rural county development in annexable areas does not result in sprawl, but offers alternatives to our residents who want to stay here. Once annexed, opportunities for commercial and industrial development can also grow and develop. Once annexed, the county is no longer involved in land use or zoning. The city decides. Because Scott County has a comprehensive plan, a land use map, and proactive planning and zoning, the county has stayed consistent with its mission of controlled and planned growth.

Brinson Kinzer: If a landowner wishes to create a development, the long-standing policy is to encourage voluntary annexation to that community nearest. I don't view this as sprawl. It saddens me when some of this land is in AG Preservation, and prime farm ground is taken out of production. Once a city annexes property AG Preservation is now up to that local community.

Joseph Miller: I'm in favor of the policy. What you don't want is uncontrolled, renegade growth. Allowing for future growth through the scope of annexation was exactly the game plan of some of the biggest success stories in urban development in North America in the last 50 years.

Jazmin Newton: The current land-use policy contains areas next to city boundaries that are designated for future annexation should development be proposed. Annexation is not automatically recommended by the policy and if there is no proposed development, annexation does not occur. While such policy may have been intended to contain urban sprawl, it hasn't contained the growth in urban development. The county needs to continue to collaborate with the respective municipalities in reference to the continued growth of urban areas.

Q: What should the county do with the Eldridge warehouse purchased this year?

Joseph Miller: Admittedly, I don't know much about the property. I will say that I appreciate this question, since it allows me, a citizen of this county, an opportunity to offer my thoughts on what should be done with a county property, partially supported with my tax dollars. For future large county purchases like warehouses, I think that this is the correct tact moving forward for Scott County.

Brinson Kinzer: With population growing, demands of more services requiring new staff to meet this demand, the county recognized there was a need for storage. I supported the purchase. This is fully funded with no other capital project or purchase being set aside. One example of use is elections. This equipment needs to be stored safely and properly. This could also be used for election training. Another example would be evidence storage for the Scott County Sheriff's Department. There are many more examples, and all will fit nicely in this climate-controlled, secure facility.

Jazmin Newton: I am open to hearing suggestions from residents for an appropriate use of this building. One idea for the county to utilize the warehouse would be for storage of county property and equipment, such as voting machines. The warehouse is located in a central location in the county that would allow for convenient access.

Jean Dickson: The site selected for the YJRC was the Tremont warehouse, which provided secure storage and training space. As a result, the board needed to replace that warehouse with new space. The Eldridge warehouse should be used to address this need.

Ross Paustian: Seems like an expensive purchase to store voting machines. I need to study this more.

John Maxwell: The warehouse and storage building on Tremont was originally built as a cabinet shop many decades ago. It served many purposes including sheriff's patrol and warehouse/storage for the county. The building was inefficient and in need of millions of dollars in repair. It made sense to me to relocate the Youth Juvenile and Rehabilitation Center (YJRC) to this location and relocate the county's warehouse and storage building.

The MOLO building came available at a reasonable price, and it fit the county's needs. Like many used purchases, the county had to do a few modifications to fit our needs. Currently, roughly half of the building is leased back to MOLO for up to 3 years. The other half is used to warehouse/storage for the county. Those using it today are; health department, attorney's office, treasurer's office, facility support, clerk of court, auditor's office, sheriff's department, training, and the sheriff's bicycle program. There is also talk of moving Planning and Development and other departments to the facility. The purchase has exceeded our expectations.

broke marketing professor, said he has spoken to students about this.

"Young people have a natural tendency to want to move away, but it's more dynamic now," he said. "We need walkable streets, bikable roads and a community more bonded to each other."

Democrat Jazmin Newton advised "place-making" efforts to "increase workforce and talent pipeline." The county can't do it alone. "We need to look at our area as a region and embrace our friends across the river in Rock Island County," she said.

Republican Ross Paustian said the focus should be on government basics. "We need to set a good example for young people by passing good, conservative budgets that keep taxes low. Young people don't look at that until they get a job and buy their first home."

Republican Jean Dickson advised working with other regional non-profit groups. "We need to continue involvement in the 2030 initiative (by the Quad Cities Chamber of Commerce) and Visit Quad-Cities.

"What was it that attracted us?" asked Dickson. "Family oriented, single-oriented activities."

Democrat incumbent supervisor Brinson Kinzer advised more job development, "so these kids have a decent place to work at a living wage." He advised pursuing "amenities that other places have, that would be nice to bring here. But also preserve primary farm ground so these FFA students can practice their trade, too.

Republican incumbent John Maxwell emphasized public safety. "June 1, 2020, the day of the riots in Davenport, changed my world view. That opened my eyes," he said, noting supervisors added 25 full-time positions to the jail and deputy staff.

Q: How should the county proceed on the Youth Justice and Rehabilitation Center that already has been designed and bid?

Jean Dickson: Second chances are good. The county should proceed upward and onward. The YRJC is an exciting project not just to prevent crime, but to offer rehabilitation and a second chance to the youth it will serve. The board oversees the management of the project. This includes not only the physical construction of the building but also ensuring that the personnel and staffing is supported, trained, and ready to go when the building is.

Ross Paustian: I support the new youth center and the use of ARPA funds. However, I don't support building the second floor on this building. This seems like a waste of taxpayer dollars. This building looks like a done deal so we won't have much to say about it after the election.

John Maxwell: The YJRC should proceed as planned. The size, which was approved by our many community leaders, is very necessary for separation (female-male, Covid-non covid, severity of crime committed etc.) and for programming essential for their reentry into society. We are planning on using NO ARPA funds for the YJRC.

Brinson Kinzer: The simple answer from me: proceed. The existing facility began taking youth in 1980 with an occupancy of five. In fiscal year 1986-87 this was expanded to six. In 1994, it expanded to 10. Currently, the facility has 16 beds.

This is not to "lock kids up" but to keep our kids, deemed to be detained, here in Scott County and safe where they can receive the needed support, services, and be close to their families. The new facility will have a capacity of 40 beds with a license for 36. It will present a holistic, natural light, trauma-informed, calming and restorative environment, and be very safe. The construction of the new facility will be 100 percent paid for with dollars on hand.

Joseph Miller: I'm on record for having been quite dubious of the need for the increased size of the Youth Justice and Rehabilitation Center, as well as our use of American Rescue Plan Act funds in order to build it. But as we now have designed and are to commence building it on the site of the Tremont facility, I think that the best we can do going forward is to make sure that the county actually sticks to its ideals of restorative justice that the project pledged at the onset - that we consider not only the accountability of the offenders to victims, but also the accountability to the larger community as well.

Jazmin Newton: The Youth Rehabilitation and Justice Center has drawn attention from many critics as the county moves forward with plans to build a new and larger facility. A major outcry from the public was the board's intended use of American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds towards this project. I was happy to see the board directed the budget manager not to use ARPA funds for the project.

I fully support a new detention center being built as the facility we currently have is outdated and not adequate for the needs of the juveniles being housed there. I personally believe that we should invest in prevention, as much as we are investing in detention. Research shows that early intervention is key to reducing crime. Scott County should further invest in crime prevention.

Reproductive rights rallies in the Q-C on Saturday

The Quad Cities Chapter of the National Organization for Women and the Scott County Democrats are hosting back-to-back rallies for women's reproductive freedom on Saturday, Oct. 8. Rallies and marches are scheduled:

Noon Saturday in Schwiebert Riverfront Park, at 101 17th St., Rock Island.

2 p.m. Saturday, at VanderVeer Botanical Park, Main Street and West Central Park in Davenport.

Those events are part of a national day of action against Republican abortion bans enacted in 14 states.

Organizers of the Rock Island gathering have dubbed the event "Roe, Roe, Roe Your Vote."

Area pro-choice candidates, party officials and local activists will speak, including Iowa congressional candidate Christina Bohannon, Illinois congressional candidate Eric Sorenson.

Granary owner speaks out for food trucks

Eldridge food truck host Sal Castaneda asked council members to go easy on a proposed food truck ordinance.

Castaneda and family own The Granary, 219 N. First St., and has invited food trucks on special nights.

Council members asked city administrator Tony Rupe to draft an ordinance that mirrors those in Davenport and Bettendorf. Maloney's restaurant owner Bob Livingston raised the concern at least two years ago.

"It's not a good reason to put an ordinance or policy in because a business owner doesn't want competition from other business owners," Castaneda told council members meeting Monday.

Members Brian Dockery and Bruce Cheek were absent. The meeting was delayed 20 minutes while council members Adrian Blackwell and Dan Collins waited on Bernie Peeters so they would have a quorum.

Mayor Frank King said the ordinance is intended to protect customers, food truck vendors and their hosts.

"It won't be intended to be a revenue-generating ordinance for the city," King said. "The fees won't be that high at all."

Rupe said he expects to bring a draft to the council by year's end.

Townsend Farms delay again

For the sixth time, Eldridge council members extended the preliminary plat for Townsend Farms Phase III, a 167-home subdivision planned for the northeast corner of Buttermilk and West Lincoln roads.

Eldridge code allows preliminary plats for up to one year before a developer seeks a final plat to market home sites. Mel Foster has asked for one-year extensions each year since the preliminary plat was approved in 2016.

Council members also:

- Approved the last of three readings of an ordinance banning parking on North and South First Street from Franklin Street south to Sheridan Drive. They also extended LeClaire Road's parking ban one block west to Second Street. The new ordinance also eliminates street parking on the first block of West LeClaire Road through the post office at Second Street.

- Approved the second of three readings of an ordinance making property owners responsible for mowing, shoveling and tree-trimming from their lot to city property lines, typically between the sidewalk and the curb. Council members approved a new ordinance that city administrator Tony Rupe recommended to clear up any confusion about responsibility. The current ordinance did not address mowing.

- Adopted a resolution affirming agreement with federal nondiscrimination rules that is required to continue eligibility for federal and state road funds.

- Met in closed sessions as allowed by Iowa law to discuss assistant city administrator candidates, and consider real estate transactions.

New insurance firm in town

Kari DeCastecker recently launched KLD Insurance Consultants in Eldridge and asked council members to consider her firm for city medical, disability, life and dental coverage.

Miller-Meeks, Bohannan feud over abortion

By Robin Opsahl

Iowa Capital Dispatch

U.S. Rep. Mariannette Miller-Meeks and Democratic challenger Christina Bohannan exchanged heated comments during a debate Sept. 26 about what actions Congress should take on abortion and contraception.

The candidates also disagreed about energy policy and its role in inflation. Abortion and inflation have risen to top issues in the national general election campaign.

Miller-Meeks, a Republican seeking her second term in Congress, and Bohannan, a law professor and state representative from Iowa City, participated in an hour-long debate on Iowa PBS.

On abortion, Miller-Meeks said she maintains her position that the procedure should be illegal with exceptions for rape, incest and when the mother's life is at risk. She co-sponsored a bill introduced earlier in September which would ban abortions nationally after 15 weeks, with some exceptions. She said that she saw the 15-week cutoff as a "reasonable" time period, as she said a fetus would be pain-capable at that point in development.

Whilesome Republican elected officials like U.S. Sen. Chuck Grassley say that abortion should be a state issue, Miller-Meeks said she believes the U.S. Supreme Court decision to overturn Roe v. Wade puts the decision back in the hands of legislators at all levels.

"The Dobbs decision has turned the decision for abortion back to the elected representatives, and elected representatives can be state officials, but they could also be federal officials," she said. "And I think that's a position that is held by many within the United States and I think a majority, and it's not an extreme position."

'Not telling the truth'

But Bohannan said Miller-Meeks was not telling the truth that she supports exceptions to a national abortion ban.

Mariannette Miller-Meeks

Christina Bohannan

She pointed to the Life at Conception Act, a piece of legislation the representative cosponsored in 2021, which would criminalize abortion entirely but would not allow the woman having the procedure to be prosecuted.

Miller-Meeks did not specifically address her co-sponsorship of an act that would not allow for exceptions. But she criticized Democrats, who she said voted for a bill that would legalize abortion "up until the time of birth and even after birth."

Bohannan said the Republican's claim was "flatly untrue." Bohannan said she would support a return to the former precedent set by Roe v. Wade, but would not support the legislation that Miller-Meeks was describing.

"This whole thing about abortion on demand until the day of birth or after birth, I don't even know what that means," Bohannan said. You know, the fact is that I don't support that and I don't know anyone who does."

Contraceptives

The candidates also sparred on Miller-Meeks' votes on contraceptives. She and fellow Iowa U.S. Rep. Ashley Hinson introduced legislation in July to make U.S. Food and Drug Administration-approved oral contraceptives available over the counter. That same week, she voted against a bill which passed the House guaranteeing people the right to access birth control.

Bohannan said the bill Miller-Meeks voted against would give women the right to choose their own contraception.

Miller-Meeks said she voted against the Democrat-backed contraception legislation because it would authorize the use of non-FDA approved drugs and devices, and would violate the religious freedoms of physicians or providers who do not want to prescribe birth control.

Energy

The candidates also differed on the best way to address rising costs and demands for energy in Iowa, in light of this summer's high gas prices and the Inflation Reduction Act's focus on renewable energy. Miller-Meeks said she supported reopening the Keystone pipeline as well as opening more options for oil and gas leasing on federal land.

But Bohannan said if elected, she would focus on addressing corporate price gouging in the oil and gas industries. She said Miller-Meeks has received campaign contributions from these industries, and voted against a measure to hold companies accountable. Miller-Meeks said her opponent was misrepresenting the issue, citing a KCRG fact-checker article which rated a Bohannan ad on campaign contributions from oil and drug companies as a "D."

Addressing price gouging was not what brought down soaring gas prices, Miller-Meeks said, it was changes in supply and demand.

"So are gas prices down because the gas companies are no longer price gouging? And why wouldn't they price gouge now if they were price gouging earlier?" Miller-Meeks said. "So gasoline prices have come down a little bit because gasoline was released from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, and because demand is down."

Carbon pipelines

The candidates differed on support of carbon capture pipelines, which Miller-

Meeks supported, and Bohannan said were "concerning." The Democrat said she's heard conflicting reports on whether carbon capture pipelines are a viable answer to climate change, but she sees a bigger problem in eminent domain.

"This is a project where the government would be seizing property and exercising eminent domain for a large corporate project," Bohannan said. "And you know, I do not think that that is what should happen with property rights in a free country like the United States."

Miller-Meeks said she does not think property should be taken by eminent domain, but she supports exploring carbon capture pipelines to aid the ethanol industry.

Scott County GOP welcomes Wyoming victor Hageman

Scott County Republicans will feature Wyoming congressional candidate Harriet Hageman as keynote speaker for the 14th Annual Ronald Reagan Dinner, Oct. 11, at the Quad Cities Waterfront Center.

Hageman defeated incumbent Rep. Liz Cheney in the Wyoming GOP primary after winning former President Donald Trump's endorsement.

"She is an inspiration as a fighter for the American people who does not give up," said Scott County GOP Chairwoman Jeanita McNulty. "Iowans are eager to give an audience to Harriet's message of pushing back against the Washington machine."

Rep. Mariannette Miller-Meeks, and other elected officials and candidates will be honored as well, McNulty said.

Doors open at 5 p.m. for silent auction and social time, with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Life lessons benefit community

Local 4-H club grows fresh produce for Park View residents

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

Another year of education has started in the North Scott School District, but members of the Lincoln Sheridan 4-H Club have been learning all summer.

Along with sharpening their gardening skills, the club's 14 members have also provided food for Park View residents with their Community Garden.

"We wanted to do a garden because the Blessing Boxes in the community, which are frequently used, don't have fresh produce," said club leader Jennifer Rathe. "We wanted everyone to have fresh produce for free, especially people who don't have easy access to it."

Club members initially reached out to the Park View Home Owners' Association, but they couldn't come up with a location that had nearby parking. Next up was a visit with Neil Armstrong principal Tim Green.

"He loved the idea, and was happy to help the kids out," said Rathe. "He worked with them to find an area at the school that would work well."

The group held several planning meetings, spent a day constructing a fence and laying down landscaping paper, and then planted zucchini, sweet corn, watermelon, green beans cucumbers, green peppers, celery and tomatoes in late May.

Club members and community volunteers took care of watering throughout the summer.

The tomato and green pepper plants were donated by the North Scott FFA. The fencing was paid for by a $250 Moonlight Chase grant, and the club also received a $250 grant from Pioneer. The club also dipped into its treasury for other needs.

"Anyone from the community is allowed to pick from the garden," said Rathe. "We, with help from our community volunteers, post on our Park View Community Garden page when produce is ready, and sometimes we pick it and have it ready for people to grab at the garden."

Currently, the garden is still producing green peppers, sweet corn, tomatoes and zucchini. The only downside to the summer was discovering that someone had pilfered the watermelons and smashed them in the grass.

"We were afraid that may happen, and it did," said Rathe.

It was truly a learning experience for club members.

"I learned how to plan watermelon," said Beau Tooley, one of the club's newest members.

"Doing this helped the group to learn how to help and work together," added Madison Warner.

Several club members said they learned how to space out different plants in a large garden, and others learned what it takes to grow a garden.

"I learned how hard a garden is to put together, but in the end it paid off," said Shannon Moeller.

"I learned that zucchini grows wild and taking care of a garden is really hard work," said Keara Shaw.

The garden produced plenty of fresh produce for the community this summer.

"I learned to work together for the community," said Ava Mae Waldron, and Brylee Rathe agreed that the project brought the community together.

Club members include: Katie Moeller, Shannon Moeller, Brylee Rathe, Beau Tooley, Lexie Tooley, Madison Warner, Ava Mae Waldron, Wesley Waldron, Keara Shaw, Jax Martin, Adrianna Blackwell and Amira Blackwell.

"I'm proud of the kids for continuing to show up and make this happen," said Rathe, "even when it gets frustrating."

Brylee Rathe and Shannon Moeller lay down weed preventer material.

U.S. AND THE HOLOCAUST

Human nature doesn't change; we should not be shocked

"The fragility of civilized behavior is one thing you really learn. These people we see in these photographs are no different – no different – from us. You look at your neighbors, the people at the dry cleaners, the waiters in the restaurant – that's who these people were. Don't kid yourself."

Daniel Mendelsohn
Episode 3, Ken Burns documentary
"U.S. and the Holocaust"

This statement by the author, Daniel Mendelsohn, brought a chilling, "in your face" conclusion to Ken Burns' latest documentary, the three-part "U.S. and the Holocaust," which aired last week on Iowa PBS.

"These people," pictured in the screen shot at right, beneath a Nazi flag, were the German citizens who were either mesmerized by Hitler's calls for racial purity, or turned a blind eye when atrocities occurred.

The result was two thirds of Europe's Jews – six million – dead in concentration camps, mass shootings, and gas chambers.

Heinrich Himmler, who implemented Hitler's plan, sought moral absolution in a speech to his lieutenants who commanded the death squads, in 1943 when 4.5 million Jews had already been uprooted and slaughtered, referencing trenches filled with the dead:

"Most of you know what it means when 100 bodies lie together, when 500 lie there, or if 1,000 lie there. We have carried out this most difficult task out of love for our people. And we have suffered no harm to our inner self, our soul, our character, in so doing. This is a chapter of glory to our history, which has never been written and which never shall be written."

Deepest prejudices

"Love for our people," playing to their deepest prejudices, indeed, but he was wrong about history. The tragedy of the Holocaust has been well recorded. This is not new, but the greater point of Burns' documentary was to answer the question, Why didn't the U.S. do more?

"The U.S. was a xenophobic, anti-immigrant, antisemitic country in the 1930s when the Nazis rose to power," said Daniel Greene, who curated an exhibit for the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C., that inspired the documentary.

In the documentary, Burns named names of leaders like Breckenridge Long, Assistant Secretary in FDR's State Department, who led the effort to stop Congress from passing legislation that would've allowed Jews who were trapped in Europe to seek asylum in the United States. Boats with refugees were turned away from our shores, and Jews were sent back to Europe to their deaths.

FDR, for his part, was more focused on winning the war than opening our borders to refugees.

Americans didn't believe what was happening

As news of the gas chambers reached the U.S., as it inevitably would, most Americans didn't believe what was actually happening. When asked if their country should allow more Jews to enter than before the war, only 5 percent said Yes – and more than a third said the number should be fewer.

It wasn't until 1961, the documentary says, that Americans more fully understood the extent of the Holocaust. That's when Hitler's henchman, Adolf Eichmann, was extricated from hiding in Argentina, put on trial in Israel and sentenced to death by hanging.

In his defense, Eichmann didn't deny the Holocaust, but said he was simply following orders. That's where Burns skillfully connected the dots:

Over and over in American history, there have been streams of white supremacy and anti-semitism. It's always there and sometimes it bubbles up and shocks us. It gets slapped down, but the stream is always there – and we should not be shocked.

Recent events

The PBS documentary followed that statement with images of:

White supremacist and neo-Nazi Dylann Roof, who killed worshippers at Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church in Charleston, S.C., in June 2015.

The "Unite the Right" rally in Charlottesville, Va., in August 2017 where skinheads with tiki torches shouted menacingly, "Jews will not replace us!"

The mass shooting at Tree of Life – Or L'Simcha synagogue in Pittsburgh in November 2018 in which 11 Jewish worshippers were killed.

Hooligans storming the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021, at the urging of the President of the United States, seeking to stop the peaceful transfer of power; some of them wearing "Auschwitz" shirts, commemorating the extermination camps operated by Nazi Germany in occupied Poland during World War II and the Holocaust.

People no different from us

Thus far, 260 of the hooligans have been convicted of crimes. Two who answered the call of their president to "stop the steal" were ordinary Iowans:

Doug Jensen, a 41-year-old bricklayer from Des Moines, who was wearing a QAnon T-shirt. He was found guilty of seven charges and is awaiting sentencing.

Kyle Young, a 38-year-old heating and air conditioning technician from Redfield, who was sentenced last week to 86 months in federal prison.

It was Young who repeatedly assaulted police officer Michael Fanone, who was defending the Capitol. Fanone, who nearly died, testified in court, "The assault on me by Mr. Young cost me my career. It cost me my faith in law enforcement and many of the institutions I dedicated two decades of my life to serving."

From this, it is clear: Actions don't match the words of these people who say, "Back the Blue!"

Judge Amy Berman Jackson said Young's actions "were some of the darkest acts committed on one of our nation's darkest days."

Following orders

In his defense, The Des Moines Register reported that Young said he deeply regrets that his four children have to go to school surrounded by people who know what their father did, and that he hasn't been there for them in the nearly 18 months he has been jailed pending trial.

"I am not honored by what I did," he said. "I feel very ashamed."

Like Eichmann, Young felt he was doing what his leader wanted. In his case, however, Trump, the one whose voice Young heard, has thus far gone scot-free. And Liz Cheney (R-Wyoming), the congressman of his own party who dared speak truth to power during the Jan. 6 hearings, instead of being rewarded, was defeated in the primary.

Now the local connection: The woman who defeated Cheney, Harriet Hageman, has been invited by Scott County Republicans to give the keynote speech at the 14th Annual Ronald Reagan Dinner, Oct. 11 at the Quad Cities Waterfront Center.

Judge Jackson, in sentencing Young, said: "It is not patriotism, it is not standing up for America to stand up for one man who knows full well that he lost, instead of the Constitution he was trying to subvert."

I am disappointed, but not shocked. As Mendelsohn said, the fragility of civilized behavior doesn't change.

Pray for our nation – and world – that our better angels guide us.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

How do your values inform your vote?

Editor:

We all have a set of personal values that define who we are. They inform our decisions through life and guide how we treat each other. These values could have been taught by our parents, teachers, our religion, coaches, or personal heroes. Perhaps they were hard-earned from trials and hardships.

Our values help us navigate complex situations. Everyone makes mistakes; our values get us back on track.

People often think of political parties as collections of people with similar values, and it's easy to fall into the shortcut of, "If this is what my party believes, then it must be what I believe."

But political parties are designed to achieve goals, often with wildly differing opinions on how to accomplish this. You are not your political party. It does not define you. When your political party abandons your values, it abandons you.

When your political party tells you it's OK to mock the handicapped, and hate refugees, minorities, and people of different religions, remember your values.

When your political party tells you to demonize reporters, teachers, and your neighbors who don't agree with their ideology, remember your values.

When your political party makes excuses for the violent attack on our Capitol in an attempt to overturn a democratic election, remember your values.

We all want to be part of something, but don't let belonging to a political party separate you from your values. Let your values lead you back to who you are.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Iowa Republicans: Choose someone else

Editor:

To my Republican friends and former neighbors, the circus is coming next summer in the form of candidates for the Republican nomination. Please consider anyone but Ron DeSantis.

He's my governor. Here are a few things he's done:

DeSantis removed the twice-elected Hillsborough County (Tampa) state attorney from office for saying that he would not prosecute anyone for abortion. No cases were presented to him to prosecute. The controversial law is in the court and may never go into effect because of the Florida constitution's right of privacy. Essentially, he was removed for disagreeing.

DeSantis removed a majority of the elected Broward County School Board (Ft. Lauderdale) a few days after this year's non-partisan school election. He said he did this because of the Parkland shooting. We have had three school board elections since that tragedy. Some of the board members have been elected twice since then; some, once.

DeSantis removed the elected supervisor of elections in Broward County.

In each case, he appointed Republicans to replace the elected Democrats he removed.

When the state's chief number-cruncher on Covid, a civil servant, said there were problems with the data, he fired her and changed from daily reporting to weekly.

When several school districts disobeyed his emergency order that they not mandate mask use in schools, he threatened to withhold their board members' pay.

When Disney disagreed with his "don't say gay" policy, he called the legislature into special session to change Disney's charter. When this eventually goes into effect, the local governments will need to take over zoning, fire and police within the Disney complex. No funding came with this.

Here's what the "don't say gay" bill says: "Classroom instruction by school personnel or third parties on sexual orientation or gender identity may not occur in kindergarten through grade 3 or in a manner that is not age appropriate or developmentally appropriate for students in accordance with state standards."

By the plain language of the act, no third-grade teacher can talk about any gender identity. "Tommy is a boy" – verboten. "Gina has a mother and father" – verboten. Apparently, this is intended to mean that the teacher can't say "Heather has two mommies," but that isn't the language of the act he pushed through.

DeSantis is a dictator. He fires people who disagree with him, even if they've been elected multiple times. He punishes corporations who disagree with him. Please, choose someone else.

Treasonous behavior ignored by leaders

Editor:

None of Iowa's Republican leaders has condemned the don of Mar-A-Lago for overt support of QAnon and all its conspiracy theories. Behavior that is egregious, often illegal, and arguably treasonous has been ignored and tacitly supported by the likes of Grassley, Ernst, Miller-Meeks, and Reynolds.

Even the theft of classified documents has not been sufficient for them to reject this corrupt and dangerous man.

The Republican Party's drift toward full blown Fascism has transformed its ideology into an empty vessel uninterested in governing, only gaining and maintaining power. It no longer has a platform of ideas other than allegiance to one man. No plans other than rejection of any legislation proposed by Democrats.

If you prefer authoritarian government (like Russia, which seems to be going well), the Republican party is your choice. Fascism will be your savior – although it didn't work out too well for Mussolini.

If you prefer democracy (as messy as it can be), I urge you to vote for Democrats.

Michael Franken has broad experience working with administrations of both parties and will be an advocate for all of us. Contrast with Mr. Grassley who always finds reason to object on the big issues (i.e. two impeachments and investigation of the January 6 insurrection).

Christina Bohannon will bring constructive ideas to the table while Miller-Meeks will "work hard" (despite evidence to the contrary).

Reynolds is – well, Reynolds. I'm sure she could find another line of work. Perhaps as a campaign manager for DeSantis.

What universe did the letter writer create?

Editor:

John Pischke's Sept. 14 letter to the editor, "Have Sodom and Gomorrah re-emerged?" posits a requisite response.

While I agree on general terms that his statement, "change is not always for the best," he seems to haphazardly segue into discrediting the Justice Department, presumably because Mr. Pischke believes that former president Trump DIDN'T steal top secret documents (many relating to nuclear weapons).

It seems quite clear at this point that DJT exhibited gross negligence and malfeasance in handling classified documents.

Then Mr. Pischke purports to state our schools are showcasing "drag queens" and "deviant and sexual influences" to young children. I wonder what universe he has created in his mind to think that such issues really exist. I'm making an inference that he is discussing people that happen to be gay, in which case our schools that already teach sex ed ought to include discussions on an issue that can include ALL students, not just most.

Teenagers already have to deal with a multitude of feelings (including sexual), attitudes and beliefs that could lead them to become confused. If they had open discussions in school, perhaps they could feel more comfortable with themselves.

While it is true that many Europeans came to this country to seek religious freedom, many more sought freedom FROM religion and felt religion in Europe was forced upon them by their respective governments.

Mr. Pischke needs to re-read his own post and realize the gospels of Mark and Matthew in the bible essentially state to "love your (neighbor) the same as you love yourself" and to his own remarks about "common sense" he should "walk a mile in another man's shoes" before he decides to judge others.

Finally, Mr. Pischke speaks of a moral compass, DJT and his cult have certainly made a laughingstock out of the morality issue.

Election will decide which party writes abortion laws for state of Iowa

Editor:

In these final weeks of the 2022 election, candidates, including me, are receiving questionnaires from media outlets. I am struck that the majority of these surveys avoid one of the most critical issues facing us today: the reversal of Roe v. Wade by the U.S. Supreme Court.

This is anything but a back burner issue. The outcome of this election will determine if the Republican Party maintains its trifecta of control over the Iowa government, and therefore will be able to pass a total ban on abortions without needing any consensus from anyone outside their party.

Voters have the right to know where candidates stand on abortion and reproductive rights. It will inform their voting decisions. The Dobbs decision has erased a fundamental right. If we elect the wrong people, women will no longer have bodily autonomy. We will lose our right to decide when, if, and how many children we want to have.

I ask that the media do their job. Ask the question, inform your readers, put every candidate on the record. And if someone refuses to answer, it will speak to the lack of transparency we can expect from the candidate as a legislator and leader.

Deb VanderGaast, RN, BSN

118 Parkview Court, Tipton

Deb VanderGaast is the Democratic Party candidate for Iowa Senate in District 41 which includes central, northern and western Davenport, the townships of Blue Grass, Hickory Grove, Cleona and Liberty in Scott County, all of Cedar County, and the townships in Muscatine County with West Liberty, Moscow, Stockton and Montpelier.

Keep Big Brother out of classrooms

Editor:

Representative Norlin Mommsen introduced a bill in the last legislative session that would require video cameras in nearly every K-12 public school classroom in Iowa. The bill died in committee; but if re-elected, he is likely to re-introduce it.

What is the motivation behind this bill? Mommsen said it is to "increase the involvement of parents in their children's education." There are already countless ways for parents to be involved, to communicate with teachers, to view curriculum and lesson plans.

Mommsen said the livestream could take place over Zoom and be secured so only parents could access it. Doesn't Mommsen know strangers, predators, and internet trolls can hack into Zoom sessions, severely jeopardizing students' safety and privacy?

Mommsen claims the cameras will showcase the great work teachers do. But his bill would fine teachers who fail to keep the cameras active or obstruct the camera's view.

Perhaps the real motivation behind this bill is to censor classrooms, intimidate teachers, and erode public education. Interestingly, Mommsen's bill doesn't mention cameras in private or charter schools.

Mommsen's own party shelved the bill, but it won't end there. Republican subcommittee chair Sorensen said, "Killing the bill and allowing discussion to continue until next year I think is the right thing."

Republicans appear to have replaced their mantra of "less government" with "more government." Surveillance cameras watching our kids would set a dangerous precedent of Big Brother is Watching.

Let's keep the government, and Mommsen out of our classrooms. Elect Kay Pence for Iowa HD 70.

Congressman says one thing, does other

Editor:

An oxymoron is defined as a phrase or figure of speech with a combination of self-contradicting words. A few examples include some awfully good jumbo shrimp or the bittersweetness of being alone together. An example much closer to home is Iowa's Congressional representative, Dr. Mariannette Miller-Meeks.

What else can one call a physician who spreads medical advice with no basis in fact or research, as Dr. Miller-Meeks did when she advocated for the use of hydroxychloroquine as a treatment for COVID-19.

Or her insistence that children do not transmit COVID-19, despite multiple studies and actual cases showing the opposite? Or Miller-Meeks cosigning abortion ban legislation that does not include exceptions for the life of the mother?

What else can one call a representative whose first act was fighting to exclude the ballots of her constituents? Or a representative who voted against infrastructure investments and federal community funding, yet claims credit for delivering the funding at events in her district?

Or a representative who voted against the historic investment in green energy, but calls herself a champion of clean energy?

Or a representative who voted against Medicare negotiating for lower prescription drug prices, yet claims responsibility for lower prices to AARP?

What else can one call a veteran who votes against healthcare for American veterans exposed to toxic burn pits? Or a veteran who spread disinformation about veterans losing benefits on her social media?

Rep. Miller-Meeks' record is pretty ugly, but one oxymoron fits her even better: early retirement.

A "spirit rally" would replace the traditional bonfire during North Scott's Homecoming activities. The rally would include a snake dance by students and area children through the streets of Eldridge. The top five candidates for Homecoming queen were Tammie Frye, Debbie Giebelstein, Lisa Litscher, Sue Roukey and Sue Whisler.

Our Past

From the files of The North Scott Press compiled by Erin Gentz

A flag dedication ceremony would be held at the Historic Pioneer Cemetery near New Liberty. U.S. congressman Fred Schwengel would dedicate a flag that flew over the U.S. Capitol and an Iowa flag as a memorial to the pioneer settlers who founded and settled the Parker and Poston Grove areas in Scott, Clinton and Cedar counties.

- The North Scott School Board approved a request to include golf as a program at the high school.
- Nearly 100 people participated in a historical tour sponsored by the Scott County Historical Society, including 93-year-old William Thompson of Walcott, who shared information regarding coal mining and button factories located in Buffalo.
- Randy Willers of Davenport, Gary Fick of New Liberty, and Arlan Engelbrecht of rural Davenport won spots to be among the 28 Iowa delegates to the 1972 National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Oct. 7, 1982

- Jennifer Collins was named North Scott Homecoming queen. Other members of the court: Krista Anderson, Ann Hamann, Connie Holst and Tracy Thumann.
- A group of "concerned citizens" delivered a letter to the Eldridge city hall with a list of questions regarding the firing of police chief Bill Welty. According to the group, the purpose was for citizens to have confidence in their government, although they recognized the mayor and council had been put in a "difficult situation" at the meeting.
- The Park View United Methodist Church planned to hold its charter service and constituting conference to become an official local church of the Iowa Methodist Conference.
- Classified workers for the North Scott School District (teacher's aides, secretaries, lunchroom workers, and grounds and maintenance workers) were seeking a 15-percent wage increase for the 1983-84 contract, as well as changes on holiday and overtime pay.
- The North Scott football team beat Clinton, 21-18. It was the Lancers' first ever victory over a River Kings varsity football team.

Oct. 8, 1997

- Countryside Community Theatre was celebrating its 15th anniversary and would mark the occasion with a production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" in the summer.
- The Eldridge Police Department reported an uptick in complaints about young bicyclists and skateboarders. Chief Martin Stolmeier said some citizens had approached him about establishing an ordinance banning skateboarding on city streets, but he wanted to see more parental involvement first.
- Area farmers reported bean crops looked good, but corn yields would be "all over the board," according to Steve Kieweit, a crop specialist at S-M Service Company in Eldridge.

- Members of the Deer Valley Collectors met at the Ken Tank farm west of Maysville for the group's annual fall tillage day.
- The congregation of Our Savior Presbyterian Church in Argo planned to conclude its 25th anniversary year with a program and dessert buffet and a special service and catered lunch.

Oct. 10, 2007

- John Glenn Elementary School was selected as a No Child Left Behind Blue Ribbon School. The award honored schools for either outstanding academic achievement or showing dramatic gains in student performance when a large segment of the population came from disadvantaged backgrounds. The school had a special celebration, and principal C.J. Albertson and teacher Cindy Irwin were also set to travel to Washington, D.C., to receive the award.
- Wheatland-based First Trust and Savings Bank announced plans to open a branch in Donahue.
- Scott County judge Marlita Greve issued a temporary injunction against Terror in the Woods, a Halloween attraction based near Donahue. County officials argued it was a danger to patrons, and violated building code violations and zoning regulations prohibiting businesses in a rural area.
- Members of Cornerstone Baptist Church spent a Sunday doing community service projects instead of in church pews during Serve Fest '07. After a shortened worship service, congregants chose from projects such as painting fire hydrants, weeding flowerbeds, and stocking the shelves at the North Scott Food Pantry.

Oct. 4, 2017

- Eldridge police officer Matt Stombaugh was cleared of wrongdoing after discharging his service weapon during a traffic stop. Dash camera footage showed the driver of the vehicle drove away from the traffic stop and through a cul-de-sac before driving straight at Stombaugh, who fired a single shot that struck the passenger side windshield.
- Park View residents gathered at the Water Tower Park pavilion to discuss public safety measures and crime prevention. They planned to use a combination of new technology (including security cameras) and neighborhood activism.
- A fundraiser was scheduled for 14-month-old Lambert Lyon, son of Emily (Martz) and Logan Lyon of Blue Grass. Lambert was born with Skeletal Displasia, a rare form of dwarfism, and proceeds would be used to help defray the cost of his medical treatments.
- Eldridge public works director Dean Glunz planned to retire after 40 years of service to the community.
- Kara and Jim Kemmerer and Natalie and Troy Kruse, all of Eldridge, escaped uninjured after a gunman opened fire on the crowd at the Route 91 Harvest Fest concert at Mandalay Bay casino in Las Vegas.

Thanks for sticking up for all humans

Editor:

Re: "Twenty years after 'risky' column, gay is more widely accepted," Impressions, Sept. 28: I just finished reading Bill Tubbs' column this morning regarding Julie Scott, and your prior column, "To

Plumber, dreamer, innovator: Bobby Petersen never met a stranger

Plumber. Mechanic. Racer. Inventor. Restorer. Founder.

Those are just some of the words used to describe the late Bobby Petersen of rural Maysville. Bobby died Sept. 27 at the age of 84.

The word I would use for him is friend. Bobby was a friend to me and

Everyday People

by Phil Roberts

many others. On the page of memories dedicated to him on the Weerts Funeral Home webpage, a former neighbor of his, Loretta Siebke, said he never met a stranger. How true!

Bobby worked in the family plumbing business that his father started after World War II. But he did so much more. Bobby loved racing. When younger, he raced a Soapbox Derby car and later boats, then open wheel midget cars.

Midwest Oldtimers

He owned a go-kart his son, Paul, raced, and his business sponsored race cars. Bobby founded Midwest Oldtimers, a group formed to preserve the history of local racing, and its annual Midwest Oldtime Days.

Bobby restored antique cars to their original beauty. He built new race cars to look like their antique ancestors.

Bobby was a dreamer, innovator and inventor. He developed Krimp-A-Fix, a product for stopping leaks in pipes without turning off the water, as I recall, and he developed sewer vision, where a small camera was fed inside a blocked or leaking pipe to determine the nature and location of a problem before digging.

Mississippi Valley Fair

Bobby and I served together on the Mississippi Valley Fair Board of Directors. He was instrumental in getting me appointed to the board. He enjoyed being on the fair board and the annual trip to Las Vegas for a fair convention.

Some of his happiest times I suspect, however, were holding court behind the bar in his basement, planning his latest project or serving drinks and telling stories to invited guests or those who happened to stop by. You never felt unwelcome.

Bobby was an easy-going guy who had a great sense of humor. He didn't keep what was on his mind a secret.

Unintentional laughs

He often unintentionally provided laughs for others. As we sat in an airplane, waiting to take off, he checked his airsick bag. He noted the inside of the bag appeared to be coated with wax and stuck his hand inside only to find out it wasn't wax but some stomach contents from a prior passenger. That unleashed some colorful comments that got everyone's attention.

Bobby had a funny experience in an airport restroom. His glasses fell into the toilet but when he bent over to pick them up, he discovered it was one of those self-flushing toilets.

Luckily the glasses were too large to be swept away. There, again, soon everyone knew what had happened.

There will never be another Bobby Petersen, and that makes me sad.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Support the Respect for Marriage Act

Editor:

Twenty years ago, (Sept. 25, 2002) my friend, Bill Tubbs, Editorial Page editor of The North Scott Press, published an editorial bemoaning the fact that his daughter was not welcome in Iowa. She wasn't a criminal; she wasn't a fascist or even a tree hugger. She was gay. She chose to move to a state where being gay was neither forbidden nor hidden. She moved to a state where she could live the life all humans expect to live: working, playing, building and nurturing relationships.

Fortunately, her home state eventually realized that all people should be welcome to live in Iowa, and the laws changed so that Aimee could some day live the parts of the American dream she learned about in North Scott schools, including, if she chose, marrying someone she loved and who loved her in return.

Twenty years later, in the Sept. 28, 2022 issue of The NSP, Mr. Tubbs reflected on that editorial and how it provided hope and comfort to community members who also had gay children, brothers, sisters and friends.

On April 3, 2009, the Iowa Supreme Court overturned a law that had banned same-sex marriage. By then, Aimee was happily established in another state, far from her parents.

Radical right-wing Republicans, now that they have been successful in their agenda to limit women's medical autonomy, are "looking at" same-sex marriage. Justice Clarence Thomas wrote in his concurring opinion on the abortion ruling that the court should also reconsider the 2015 ruling that legalized same-sex marriage.

The Respect for Marriage Act was passed by the U.S. Congress on July 19, 2022. It is heartening to know that U.S. Reps. Hinson (R-IA) and Miller-Meeks (R-IA) voted with Axne (D-IA) for the act; Feenstra (R-IA) voted Nay; however, 157 Republican congressmen voted against the bill. Interestingly, this bill also supports inter-racial marriage—just in case?

The U.S. Senate, at this writing, has not voted on S.4556.

While there is reason to fear another loss of freedom at the hands of the radical right, there is also hope. That hope depends on you, dear reader, and how you vote on Nov. 8. A vote for a Democrat will be a vote for equality for all. A vote for Republicans, however well-intentioned, means a vote that will be ruled by an America that is the antithesis of our forefathers' dream of freedom for all.

Heartfelt sentiment fixes cornfield glitch

Pride of the Wapsi maze saved with simple, mowed message

By Mark Ridolfi
NSP Assistant Editor

The corn was a foot high when Lora Dierickx suspected a glitch.

Her Pride of the Wapsi corn maze near Long Grove emerged as a pixelated mess. Since 2018, the Dierickxes used GPS and special software to guide their planter, dropping seed to create computer-drawn patterns.

This year, the field looked like scramble of dots and dashes. They suspected a faulty antenna, replaced the equipment and tried again.

“Three weeks later, it was a mess,” Lora said.

She considered scrapping the maze this year and letting the full field grow.

But it's such a treasured tradition among dozens of autumn activities at Pride of the Wapsi, 14600 305th St., Long Grove.

Lora and Pat Dierickx

Grove.

Drone footage of the stubby field reminded her of lined stationary she used to learn cursive in grade school.

Pumpkin picking is just one of dozens of family activities at Pride of the Wapsi.

She impulsively sketched a short message : Lora HEART Pat 4 ever.

Lora and Pat Dierickx celebrate 34 years of marriage this year on the farm they've run as a family operation for 19 years.

“I visualized the field in my mind and used the shorter corn as a guide to write in cursive. The heart was hard to make,” she said.

Then she got on the mower to sculpt her message into a cornfield maze. She said Pat winced at seeing good corn mowed down. But the family loves the sentimental solution.

“It's not the most difficult maze. But it's a nice walk with the family,” Lora said.

Later, she learned the antenna was fine. They'd missed an “enable” setting on the software that would have fixed the glitch.

Pride of the Wapsi pumpkin patch and corn maze offer 30 games and activities including hayrack rides, human foosball and pumpkin picking. It is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday through Sunday, until Oct. 31.

Admission is $15 for those 3 and older. Seniors 65 and older are $10. Kids under 3 are free.

OBITUARIES

Robert Petersen

Father. Loving Husband. Friend to many. Active community member – and character.

Robert “Bob” E. Petersen, 84, of Walcott, passed away on Tuesday, Sept. 27, 2022, at his home.

Visitation will be from 4-8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 6, at Weerts Funeral Home in Davenport.

Funeral services will be held 10 a.m. Friday, Oct. 7, at Weerts Funeral Home. Burial will take place at Maysville Cemetery. Following the burial, a Celebration of Life will be held at the Starlight Hall on the Mississippi Fair Grounds at 1 p.m. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be left to the Maysville Fire Department and Genesis Hospice.

Bob was born on April 17, 1938, in Davenport to Howard and Eleanor (Colbert) Petersen. He graduated from Davenport High School in 1957. Bob completed his apprenticeship in the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union Local 25 in 1961. Following his apprenticeship, he joined the family business, Petersen Plumbing and Heating, which was started by his father in 1947 after returning from his service in war. Bob was united in marriage to Donna Miller on May 7, 1961, in Davenport. They recently celebrated their 61st year of love and dedication to each other and their family.

Bob served for decades as a member of the Mississippi Valley Fair Board, including acting as former board president. He was also deeply involved in the Midwest Oldtimers Club, Plumbers and Pipefitters Local 25, Masonic Brubaker Lodge 675, Model T Ford Club of America, and the North Scott Rotary. He also always found time to care for his employees, many of which were like family to him.

Bob was a self-taught mechanical engineer. He held three U.S. patents and one Canadian patent. He spent his life producing his own prototypes and inventions to meet a variety of needs and uses. From metal fabrication to the restoration of vintage race cars and classic cars from all over the world, Bob spent most of his “off” hours in his garage surrounding by family and friends. His cars were featured in various magazines, exhibited at the Ford Museum, and his talents and personality were showcased on the popular TV show “American Pickers.”

Despite his commitment to their thriving family business, his unique skills to bring old cars back to life, and his involvement in so many community organizations, it was Bob’s family that he cherished most of all.

Bob is survived by his loving wife of 61 years, Donna; children Tami (David) Schiltz, Barb (Curtis) Hagen, Paul (Abby) Petersen; grandchildren Nick Schiltz, Luke Schiltz, Carter (Lisa) Hagen, Chloe Hagen, Ryann Petersen, Alexx Petersen, Erynn Petersen; sister Janet (Ron) Shewman; and two beloved dogs, Max and Maggie.

He was preceded in death by both parents, his daughter Deborah, and brother Norman.

Bob Petersen lived his life to its fullest. He lived life, just as he left it, feet first, on his own terms, full of vigor, compassion and a deep love for family, country and the ingenuity that helps build a better world.

Gregg Mohr

Gregg A. Mohr, 60, of Eldridge, passed away unexpectedly on Monday, Sept. 26, 2022. Private burial was at Davenport Memorial Park.

There was a Celebration of Life at Al & Gerry’s Tap, Eldridge, from 3-6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 30. Memorials may be made to the Scott County Humane Society and condolences can be shared at www.rungemortuary.com.

Gregg was born Feb. 26, 1962, in Davenport, to Norman and Inez (Roehlk) Mohr. He had been the owner/operator of Mohr Lawn Services for the last 15 years. Gregg was always friendly, willing to help, and eager to share a joke. He had a great love for his animals. Gregg had a photographic memory and was full of facts, which made trivia nights one of his favorite past times. He also enjoyed talking weather, politics, and was a Chicago Cubs fan.

Survivors include two sisters, Linda (Raymond) Dykstra and Diane (Bob) Oster; one brother, Brian (Tiffin) Mohr; sister-in-law Kristina Mohr; nephews and nieces Troy (Tami) Oster, Natalie (Kevin) Collins, Nicole (Chad) Brandmeyer, Jon (Rachel) Mohr, and Joe Mohr; and seven great nieces and nephews.

Gregg was preceded in death by his parents and a brother, Michael.

Lyle Littrel

Lyle B. Littrel, age 76, of Deer Park, Wash., passed away on Sept. 22, 2022, in Spokane, Wash.

Lyle was born on Nov. 3, 1945, in Davenport, the son of Arthur and Ruth Littrel. He graduated from North Scott High School in Eldridge in 1965 and served in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam Era, both active duty and in the Army Reserve.

Lyle married Charlene Rathjen on March 11, 1967. They have four children: Michael, Scot, Krista (Hartley) and Kari (Pintler).

Lyle and Charlene moved from Iowa to Washington in 1984. Upon retirement, Lyle and Charlene enjoyed traveling in an RV around the west seeing new sights and meeting new friends. Lyle loved spending time with family, woodworking, and he seemed to always have a project in the works.

In addition to their children, Lyle and Charlene have 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He is survived by two brothers, Alvin and Walter; and two sisters, Lora and Alma. His sister Nancy passed away in 2016. Lyle will be greatly missed by his family and his numerous friends.

A memorial service for Lyle will be scheduled at a future date in Deer Park.

Susan Boeding

Susan Elaine Boeding, 63, of Oconomowoc, Wis., passed away on Sept. 27, 2022, following a hard fought battle with cancer.

Susan was born Oct. 25, 1958, to Raymond and Joan (Fitzgerald) Boeding in Rock Island. Susan graduated from North Scott High School in 1977. In addition to being an honor roll student, she was active in 4-H, home economics and the performing arts. She went on to study business administration at the University of Iowa, where she graduated with a bachelor’s degree and CPA designation in 1981. She later earned an MBA from the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee in 1997.

Susan was an incredibly strong woman who made a name for herself throughout her career. Starting at KPMG as a senior manager, she then continued her career at Aunt Nellies, Seneca Foods, Metavante and finally, Charter Automotive, where she was president. As part of her distinguished career, she was able to travel and experience the culture of China, South Korea, Japan, Western Europe, Brazil, Mexico, and the Caribbean Islands.

In the early 1990s, Susan met Mike Metzinger at a block party and they were immediately drawn to each other. They were married in 1994 and kicked off 21 beautiful years of marriage with a first dance to “She’s No Lady” by Lyle Lovett. Very apropos for those who had the privilege to know and love Susan and Mike. Through their marriage, she became stepmother to his two children, Sarah and Jeff. She was so proud of her grandchildren, Meghan and Michael, and loved watching them play lacrosse and baseball.

Susan was an incredibly talented woman – a lifelong learner whose interests spanned from sewing, to golf, and cycling. Though she was an accomplished seamstress, she continued to be a student, taking sewing classes up until her passing. Through everything, Susan was a deeply generous and caring person. She connected on a personal level with everyone she encountered, providing career advice and mentorship, sharing her favorite music (and asking for recommendations in return), and always being there to listen and provide encouragement.

She is survived by her father, Raymond Boeding; her sister and brothers, JoEllen Peace, Michael Boeding (Lynn), and Donald Boeding (Lisa); her stepchildren and grandchildren, Jeff Metzinger, Sarah Carroll (Mike), and her two kids, Meghan and Michael; her many nieces and nephews, Alexandra Peace, Eric Boeding (Sarah), Sara Boeding, Anna Boeding, Alex Boeding (Meghan), Marissa Boeding and Madeline Boeding; and of course, her cats, Tyler and Tipp.

She is preceded in death by her mother, Joan Boeding; her husband, Michael Metzinger; and her cats, Indy, George, Gracie and Dylan.

Visitation will be held from 9 a.m. until the time of Celebration of Life at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 15, at Schmidt and Bartelt Funeral Home, 121 S. Cross St., Oconomowoc. Donations can be made to Pro-Health AngelsGrace Hospice or HAWS of Waukesha County.

OBITUARIES

Ruth Arp

Ruth Arp, 92, was born Jan. 19, 1930, in Eldridge, to Harold and Mildred (Zimmerman) Wiggers. She died peacefully in her home, with family members present.

Ruth, the only daughter, with four brothers, grew up on a farm in Eldridge, during the Depression. This life experience instilled a strong work ethic, intrinsic family values and a lot of grit and perseverance. The bond Ruth and her brothers demonstrated was a beautiful example of family, trust and friendship. Her mother engrained a very strong intellectual spirit and thirst for knowledge, all of the siblings went on to be college educated, world travelers and lifelong learners. Those same values were passed on to the next generations also.

Ruth was previously married to Aaron Arp, and together raised three children. She worked on the farm, milking cows along with driving school bus, making wedding cakes, and was also quite a seamstress.

At age 45, she started a new journey and enrolled at Marycrest College, Davenport. Her brothers were a huge inspiration and help in going back to school, they graciously took turns tutoring. Ruth completed her BSN in nursing, started working at Trinity Hospital and also attended classes at Northern Illinois (DeKalb) to get her master's in oncology. At some point, she was asked if she was interested in "teaching," and made a slight career shift to become an instructor at Trinity College of Nursing. Her greatest joy was teaching clinical. Even after retirement, she continued teaching part-time at both Trinity and Blackhawk College until age 79-1/2. She has many fond memories of students, and the family has enjoyed all the great memories that her students and co-workers have of Ruth. We could never go to a medical appointment without having a student or staff that "knew" her.

In November 1986, she married Kyle Pollock and his three children. In 1994, they built a home on the Wiggers homestead. They hosted many family reunions there, with as many as 60 people actually staying for a week at their home. Kyle passed away in 2015, but she was able to maintain her independence and live there the rest of her life. She even held the "fast mowing" record. At age 88, she did full-time daycare for her youngest gr-grandchild, Johnnie, for two years – keeping them both alive and well. Ruth was always looking forward at "life", and not looking backward.

By age 92, she had a wonderful life and was truly blessed to be able to stay at home with her beautiful view, and worry about the geese on the pond, feeding the fish, and those darn squirrels and raccoons. She started the day well before 6 a.m., with her paper and cup of coffee. Thanks to Dan, the paper was there every morning, and she provided the coffee. Ruth was tech savvy enough to enjoy daily text messages, pictures and videos from her two sons and grandchildren. She was surrounded by almost a wallpaper of family pictures.

Please come join her family on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 841 S. Buttermilk Road, for a celebration of her life, and all the memories she leaves us. We'll start at 1 p.m. and continue into the evening with a bonfire; bring your lawn chairs to sit, relax, laugh, reminisce and enjoy all the crazy memories.

Survivors include her brothers: Ralph (Virginia) Wiggers (Collierville, Tenn.); Ken Wiggers (Kelley, Iowa); Keith (Jan) Wiggers (Burlington, Wash.); children: Dennis (Judy) Arp, Flagstaff Ariz.; Gary (Laura) Arp, Andover, Minn.; Becky (Dan) Esbaum, Eldridge; grand and gr-grands: Leah Arp-Romero (Phoenix, Ariz.) (Vanessa and Solana); Adam (Monique) Arp, Flagstaff, (Porter and Weston); Amber (Art) (Dallas, Ga.) (Noah, Nolan, Lucille); Paula (Rene) del-Fabro (Davenport) (Johnnie); Tammy Woodcock (Minneapolis, Minn.); Victoria Johnson (Phoenix, Ariz.); Elizabeth (Scott) Morschhauser (Davenport); Mike Pollock, Colorado; Todd Pollock / Corinna Hammersley, Erie, Colo. (Isabelle and Oliver), Kristen (Mark) Witman, Chicago, Ill. (Campbell and Bennett). Plus a multitude of nieces and nephews

Preceded in death by her husband, Kyle Pollock and her eldest brother and sister-in-law Harold and Doreen Wiggers (Bellevue, Wash.).

Memorials can be made to Trinity College of Nursing, Rock Island. Online condolences can be made at www.McGinnis-Chambers.com.

Phyllis Marken

It is with both sorrow and gratitude to announce that on Sept. 26, 2022, Phyllis J. Marken, 81, of Eldridge, formerly of Savanna, Ill., completed her journey through life. We feel sorrow because we lost the strength of our family, and gratitude for all the love, support and memories she gave us over the years. Thankfully, the gratitude is far greater than the sorrow. Several words could describe Phyllis, yet only one is needed: UNCONDITIONAL, because she loved wholeheartedly and asked for nothing in return. She simply wanted nothing more than happiness for her family and friends.

Phyllis's life journey started in Savanna on Dec. 6, 1940. She attended Savanna High School, graduating with the class of 1958. Not long after graduation, she met her husband, James Marken, on a blind date. She had no idea that this blind date would turn into 61 years of marriage. She remained committed to her wedding vows of better or worse, richer or poorer, in sickness and in health until her last breath. Besides her marriage, Phyllis had many accomplishments in her lifetime. She is a 50-year survivor of breast cancer, and her proudest accomplishment was raising four kids.

Phyllis will be dearly missed by all whose life she touched. Those left to honor her memory include her husband James (J.D.), her children Steven (Sue Assmus) of Savanna, and Michael of Savanna, Jacquelyn (Kurt) Massie, of Eldridge, Ronald Marken, of Denver Colo., nine grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren. Our family has changed forever but our memories will hold us together.

She was preceded in death by a granddaughter, Lindsey Rachele Marken, in 2003 and her parents.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to a local animal shelter in her honor. There will be a small family and friend gathering on Oct. 8, from 3-5, at Manny's Too in Fulton, Ill.

Bonnie Esbaum

Bonnie Esbaum, age 89, of Wheatland, passed away on Saturday, Oct. 1, 2022. Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 5 (today), at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Wheatland with Pastor Tessa Cavey officiating. Visitation will be from 9 a.m. until service time at the church. Burial will follow in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Bonnie was born Nov. 1, 1932, to Silvin and Mathilda (Schmidt) Klahn at home near Wheatland. She was married to Everett Esbaum on Aug. 12, 1951, at Zion United Church of Christ in Lowden. They had celebrated 67 years together before his passing on Oct. 21, 2018. They had farmed until 1976 in Clinton County, moving to Wheatland in November of 1975.

Bonnie is survived by daughter Gail (Donovon) Riedesel of Tomah, Wis.; sons Dan (Becky) of Eldridge, Randy (Debbie) of Cedar Rapids, and Steve (Lori) of Olin; 13 grandchildren; 30 great-grandchildren; and two step-great-great-grandsons.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husband; son Terry; and brother Richard Klahn.

Bonnie was baptized and confirmed at Zion UCC in Lowden and attended school in Clinton County, graduating from Wheatland High School in 1950. She had worked in the Wheatland school system driving a school bus for eight years and working in the food service for 22 years, many years as a manager. She helped design the new kitchen at the high school which she really enjoyed working in, always enjoying the students and staff. Bonnie also loved traveling and playing cards with her friends and family.

She dearly loved her family and enjoyed time with her grandchildren, spoiling them all with her chocolate chip cookies.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be directed to Camp Courageous.

Chapman Funeral Home has Bonnie and her family in their care. Memories and condolences may be left at www.chapmanfh.com.

Sandra Dick

Sandra Jeanne (Kluever) Dick, 82, of Long Grove, passed away on Thursday, Sept. 29, 2022, at her home.

Graveside services will be held at 12 p.m., Friday, Oct. 7, at Long Grove Christian Church Cemetery in Long Grove. Memorials may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital or the Disabled American Veterans. Chambers Funeral Home of Eldridge is assisting the family with arrangements.

Sandra was born Feb. 9, 1940, in Davenport, the daughter of Wilbur and Grace (Meyer) Kluever. She was a 1958 graduate of Davenport High School. Sandra was united in marriage to Richard Allan Dick on May 23, 1959. He preceded her in death on June 18, 2012.

She worked for the United States Post Office for over 30 years, retiring in 2004. Sandra enjoyed gardening, garage sales, shopping and spending time with her family. Sandra was well known for her kindness, with many children referring to her as Nana. Those left to honor her memory include her daughters, Cynthia Frisbee and Andrea Schneckloth; her grandchildren, Jessica Frisbee (Justin Sandberg), Amanda Broihier, Zachary (Thuy) Frisbee, Alynn Barr and Sarah Barr; her great-grandchildren, Drew Sandberg, Destiny Sandberg, Emmitt Broihier and Melania Broihier; her sisters, Judith Anderson and Donna (Terry) Muilenberg; and her very dear friend, Shanna Drinnon.

In addition to her husband, Sandra was preceded in death by her parents; her son, Daro Allan Dick; her siblings, Roger Kluever, Marlene Arp and Larry Kluever; and a granddaughter, Bethany Dick. Fond memories and expressions of sympathy may be left for the family by visiting Sandra's obituary at www.McGinnis-Chambers.com.

CLASS 4A DISTRICT GOLF

Dobbe does it!

North Scott senior qualifies for this week's state meet

Lancers finish fourth in team race; one spot away from advancing

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

John Dobbe had been struggling. After firmly entrenching himself as North Scott's No. 1 golfer over the past two years, the Lancer senior hadn't been happy with his scores of late, including an uncharacteristic 87 in the first round of the MAC tournament on Sept. 24.

Still, he had confidence in his game, and knew that it was just a few little mistakes that cost him good scores.

Consider those mistakes fixed.

On a gorgeous day for golf, and with perfect conditions on the just as perfectly manicured Glynn's Creek layout, Dobbe saved his best for last at Monday's Class 4A district meet, and broke a 10-year Lancer drought by qualifying for this weekend's state golf meet at Elmcrest Country Club in Cedar Rapids.

Although his Lancer mates came up just short in the team standings, coming home fourth, and one-spot back of a qualifying finish, Dobbe nabbed one of the two at-large individual berths that went to the highest finishers from non-qualifying teams.

With an even-par 72 on his home course, Dobbe was just one shot back of meet medalist Sam Johnson of Pleasant Valley, and became the first Lancer since Bobby Wolfe (2012) to qualify for the state tournament.

“Getting to state is a great accomplishment for John,” said Lancer coach Collin Ellis. “He’s earned it. He has worked for this his entire career, and to see it all come together at the perfect time is pretty special.”

“Now, he has two more days to leave it all out there. He’s a talented kid, and in golf, anything can happen. I know getting there is an accomplishment, but if I know John the way I think I do, then simply getting there isn’t good enough. I’m excited to see what he can do.” Dobbe was in the first group to finish Monday afternoon, so by posting his 72 he gave everybody else something to shoot at. No one came close. Assumption’s Keaton Thiessen nabbed the other individual spot with a closing 74.

The Lancer senior was dialed in all day, as he started and finished his round strong. Dobbe birdied the par-four first hole, and also birdied the par-five fifth and ninth holes for a one-under 35 on the front nine. He carded a one-over par 37 on the back nine with bogeys on both par threes, but a chip-in birdie from 25 yards out on the par-five 15th.

“You know, my short game was pretty good today,” he said. “I had a few miss hits into the greens, but I got away with them and was able to get up and down to save myself a little bit. I was confident the whole day. The driver was going, and I just made putts.”

“This is the kind of round I was hoping for, and all the hard work in practice with the team really paid off. My season has been up and down. I had a few bad rounds and a few good rounds. I just put myself in a good position today, and I think this is the best round I’ve ever shot.”

While Dobbe brought his “A” game, the rest of the Lancers were just a bit off, as they came up short in their bid for a state berth after firing a collective and very respectable 316 total.

Pleasant Valley captured the district title with a very impressive 293 total, followed by Southeast Polk (295) and Cedar Rapids Xavier (303). The Lancers came in as the No. 4 seed, and that’s just where they finished.

“We played a solid round today,” said Ellis. “It certainly wasn’t our best, but it was right on our average for the year. There were a little extra jitters and nerves, and of course that's a factor. We had to have our absolute best stuff, and it just wasn't there.

“I don't feel like we came up short. There were three teams in our district with a significantly lower average than ours, and they beat us. We had the fourth best average coming in, and we got fourth. There's nothing wrong with that.

“It's not disappointing to play average golf,” he continued. “That's why it's called an average. If I've learned anything about this game in 10 years, it's that

LANCER FOOTBALL: NORTH SCOTT 46, BURLINGTON 7

With his teammates on the sidelines cheering every step, Lancer senior Dylan Marti turns on the jets for a 79-yard touchdown run in North Scott's 46-7 homecoming win over Burlington. Marti scored four touchdowns and rushed for 156 yards in just six carries. NSP photo by Scott Campbell

Marti's big night leads North Scott to happy homecoming victory

Kevin Tippet was antsy, and 20 minutes before kickoff of Friday night's homecoming game, North Scott's football coach was pacing the turf at Lancer Stadium.

NS senior Carter Rheingans is hot on the trail of Grayhound quarterback Gabe Robinson on this play.

"I've been ready to play this game since Wednesday," he said, before sending his team into the shed for the pre-game talk.

Fifteen minutes later, as he fueled the Friday fire with a passionate speech, his message to the team was identical.

"I've been waiting all week to get this bad taste out of my mouth," he said, referring to the team's 20-16 loss a week earlier. "Let the scoreboard do the talking. Be disciplined, go out there, and have fun. Put those blinders on, focus for four quarters, and go lay it on the line."

Boy, don't you just love it when 16- and 17-year-old kids take every word to heart?

On a picture-perfect night for football, and with senior Dylan Marti living out a dream in front of a packed homecoming crowd, North Scott put its two-game losing streak in the rearview mirror with a dominating and entertaining 46-7 win over district rival Burlington.

Thanks to a quick-strike offense and a bend-but-don't-break defense, the Lancers sent a loud and clear message that they didn't appreciate being dropped from the Class 4A state rankings, and that they have every intention of running the regular season table to secure a postseason berth.

After back-to-back losses to Xavier and Iowa City Liberty, a pair of top-10 teams, the Lancers got back on track with a performance that returned the swagger they had after a 3-0 start to the season.

"We were hungry, and upset with ourselves with the way we've been playing," said senior Seth Madden, who had a crazy 24 hours after being crowned homecoming king on Thursday and then recording a team-high 10 tackles on Friday. "We have no one but ourselves to blame for being in this position, and finally we practiced and played the way we wanted.

"It's good when we can come out and dominate like this. We knew they were going to run it up the middle every time, and that we were going to stop them. I think we have our mojo back."

The key to North Scott's success started in practice, and senior AJ Petersen, who was in on seven tackles, including two for losses, gave credit to the coaching staff.

"Our coaches were the big-time difference this week," said Petersen. "They cracked down and didn't let anything slide. Our captains did the same, and again. We'll get the job done."

FOOTBALL: 'The key is the fact that we got better tonight'

The Lancers evened their district record at 1-1, with three games to play. They'll host Clinton (0-6) Friday night, and for all intents and purposes, their "get-to-state" game will be the Oct. 13 trip to ninth-ranked Fort Madison (6-0), as a victory in the season finale against Mount Pleasant (0-6) is a near certainty.

However, Tippet isn't taking anything for granted, and certainly doesn't think his team is anywhere near close to peaking.

"Are we back? No, we're not there yet," he said. "Four days doesn't change us from where we were last week, but, the key is that we got better tonight. We played clean, and that's the approach we need every week. We have to point that finger at ourselves, and ask what do I have to do to get better. If we do that every week, we'll get there eventually."

The Lancers certainly looked like a playoff contender against the Grayhounds, who only dressed 27 players. With Marti and his mates making the Lancer Stadium turf their own personal playground, the team scored quick and often, and eventually switched on the running clock with 6:26 left in the third quarter.

Marti was unstoppable, as he rushed for 156 yards in just six carries — if you're doing the math that's 25 yards a tote — and reached the endzone four times. He also caught one pass for 32 yards.

The speedy senior, who was also a member of the homecoming court, raced 49 yards untouched on North Scott's first play from scrimmage, and added scoring jaunts of eight, 79 and 18 yards.

"Our opening seven plays were scripted, and our offensive staff does a good job," said Tippet. "We honestly felt like this could be an offensive line and Dylan Marti night, because Burlington is a little lighter in the box. We thought we could get after them running the ball, and after the first play I had to wait until the second series to use the rest of

SCOTT'S TAKEAWAY

After a pair of disappointing and rare back-to-back losses, it was good to see the Lancers get back on track. However, we need to take the win with a grain of salt, as Burlington really wasn't a very good football team.

Although the Grayhounds entered with a 4-1 record, their lone loss was to 3A Washington in the season opener, and the combined records of their first five opponents was a non-impressive 8-17.

Still, a victory like this is just what the doctor ordered, and it just might be the Lancers' toughest test over the final four games. Knock on wood.

The Lancers are confident.

"We're back," said Dylan Marti. "After two straight weeks of losses, I feel this is a game we needed, and we have to keep the same intensity going in practice this week. We can win out."

"I thought we played clean," said Coach Tippet. "We had a good week of practice. We went back to our kids, and told them it needs to be about us. We had to get better and be more disciplined. I thought we were tonight. "We talked about being us. I thought, and knew, we were the better team, and we just had to go play like it. We did that, and now we have a little bit of that swagger back."

them."

Actually, it took three series, as the Lancers used just three plays to cover 37 yards before Marti's second score, and they finished the first-half scoring with junior Kyler Gerardy's three-yard run — that capped a seven-play, 65-yard drive — to make it 18-0 at the break.

If there was a downside to the night, it's that the Lancers struggled with their PATs. The first attempt was thwarted by a bad snap, and the second kick went wide. They tried a two-point conversion after the third score, and that, too, came up short.

Still, those missed points were inconsequential, as the Lancers put the Grayhounds out of their misery, and the game on ice, on their first possession of the second half.

In a bizarre turn of events, Gerardy's first-down pass was intercepted, but the defender fumbled the ball, and Gerardy recovered it. Marti then took the ensuing handoff and scampered around the right side for an electrifying 79-yard jaunt.

That PAT was good, and the rout was officially on.

"On the first touchdown, the hole was huge," said Marti. "Our line was making excellent blocks all night, and when I see that I just kind of like to hit them at full speed. On the long TD, AJ made a great block on the edge, and I just turned on the burners."

North Scott made it 32-0 on Gerardy's 16-yard pass to a wide-open Cole Jennings with 9:05 left in the third, and Marti's 18-yard burst, which was his final carry of the night, made it 39-0 with 6:40 on the clock.

The Lancers' final score came on Drew Kilburg's 18-yard strike to Hunter Fox with 4:13 remaining in third quarter.

How dominating was North Scott's performance? The Lancers never punted, and scored on every single possession, except for their last. Burlington's lone score came on its final drive, against the Lancer reserves.

The Lancers were nothing but efficient, taking just 26 plays to accumulate 393 yards of total offense, while Burlington finished with 224 yards, including 216 yards on 59 carries.

Give credit to that big Lancer O-line — seniors Nate Schneckloth, David Borchers and Mason Pike, along with juniors Jackson McCallister, Zach McMillan and Matthew Cunningham — for paving the way up front. Madden and senior Aydan Cary each had a hand in 10 tackles, while senior Adam Link was in on

"After last week, we knew we had to stay on task and focus on Burlington," said Link. "That was our mentality the whole week. We had a good game plan coming in. Got good looks on the scout team, and we just executed our game plan.

averages don't lie. Hats off to the three teams that qualified. They deserve to be there."

Still, that didn't soothe the sting for the rest of the Lancers, who were all disappointed with their efforts.

Freshman Vaughn Roseman carded a six-over par 78 (good for 18th place), followed by sophomores Evin Pieper (82) and Jack Gomez (84), and seniors Cal Behm (84) and Drew Sacia (86).

"I didn't feel good about my round at all," said Roseman. "My putting was awful. I missed a lot of short putts, especially three- and four-footers. That hurt a lot. I'm very disappointed with the way I played. I should play a lot better on my home course."

"It was not a good round," said Behm. "Nothing seemed to be going my way. Putts weren't falling and tee shots were all over the place. It was frustrating out there."

Sacia and Gomez were frustrated.

"I just didn't play good," said Gomez. "Nothing was on track, and I'm not happy. Hitting irons was tough, and my putting wasn't great. Basically, all of my game was less than ideal."

"I wasn't happy with my putting at all," said Sacia. "I just couldn't work my way around the greens. I had a lot of three putts, and missed a few easy ones. It sucks to not go as a team, because we knew we had a chance coming in, but I'm happy that John got in."

Dobbe will now carry the Lancer banner to Cedar Rapids on Friday, where he'll tee off at 10:30 a.m., followed by a 9 a.m. start on Saturday.

He is just the fourth Lancer to ever qualify as an individual for the state tournament, and joins the likes of Mike Schneckloth (1988), Eric Pohlman (2001) and Wolfe (2009 and 2012).

Heading into the district meet, Dobbe was confident.

"I am on the right track in terms of my game," he said after the MAC meet. "These last few meets showed that I've made little mistakes here and there that cost me. But, I am excited for the day where the putts start to drop and I am playing well."

The putts dropped on Monday, and Dobbe played well. Time will tell if he has another good round or two in him.

SCOTT'S TAKEAWAY

When I moved into my new neighborhood six years ago, I was amused at the number of kids who loved playing "golf" through the spacious back yards of our subdivision. It never bothered me, and I always laughed at the number of balls I found in the creek that meandered through our yards. One of those kids was my neighbor John Dobbe, and it was pretty darn cool to see him realize a dream come true on Monday. All that hard work paid off.

VOLLEYBALL

Lancers in thick of MAC title chase

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

It's go-time for North Scott's volleyball team, and the final two weeks of the regular season will definitely set the stage for how the postseason path will look.

Big games, a potential MAC title, and the release of the Class 4A regional pairings all have the Lancers and their fans sitting on pins and needles as the season winds down, and every goal the team set at the beginning of the year — from a MAC title to a state championship — are all still within reach.

Anything could have happened in last night's (Tuesday) showdown with fellow MAC and state power Pleasant Valley, and a Lancer victory would give North Scott an inside track to grab at least a share of the MAC crown, with two matches to play.

Even with a loss to the Spartans, the Lancers' title hopes are alive. PV and Assumption (ranked No. 2 in 3A) square off on Tuesday (Oct. 11), one night after North Scott hosts Davenport North. If the Knights were to pull off the upset, and the Lancers take care of business against the Wildcats, that means the Assumption-North Scott battle two nights later (Oct. 13) in the regular season finale would have all kinds of title implications.

"It's going to be fun," said Lancer assistant coach Sarah Graham, who coached her team to a sweep of Clinton on Tuesday (Sept. 27), while coach Taryn VanEarwage was home under the weather. "It's going to be electric, and it's going to come down to who's on that day. I am really excited for the next two weeks. I love good volleyball like that."

North Scott is definitely hoping to finish the regular season on a roll. The Lancers held serve at No. 2 in last week's Class 4A rankings, and they are set to finish the season against good competition.

Pleasant Valley was ranked No. 3 in 5A, and Saturday the Lancers will participate in the Clear Creek-Amana Invitational, where they will face No. 5 (3A) Union, No. 11 (3A) Mid-Prairie, and No. 12 (4A) Clear Creek-Amana, along with Central DeWitt and Iowa Valley.

The Lancers are already assured of home-court advantage when the regional pairings come out this week, and they'll most likely be the No. 2 seed overall, thanks to the 24-3 record they took into last night's match with PV.

They are also a confident bunch. "We have some tough competition coming up, and we're going to have to work hard in practice," said senior Madolyn Lewis. "We have a great team, and I'm very confident. I think this team can go far at state." "These next two weeks are definitely really big, and will be a little bit nerve-racking," said junior Kaci Johnson. "Up to this point, we have put in a lot of hard work, so I think we're pretty well prepared. We can be very good. Our chances of making it to state are pretty high, and our next few games in the MAC will really test us."

The Lancers have won 16 of their last 17 matches, with the lone blemish being a loss to No. 1 (4A) Cedar Rapids Xavier on Sept. 17. North Scott's only other losses were to No. 1 (3A) Des Moines Christian and No. 3 (3A) Mount Vernon back on Sept. 3.

They took a five-match winning streak into the Pleasant Valley matchup, including last week's (25-11, 25-16, 25-14) home win over Clinton.

Played in front of a sparse crowd, with a very small student section, the Lancers overcame a slightly sluggish performance as they upped their MAC record to a sparking 6-0.

"Our serve receive wasn't as good as it normally is, and then that affects our offense a little bit," said Graham. "That's something we'll definitely work on. It's Homecoming week, so you kind of expect that type of performance, just because it happens every year. Overall, they pulled through, and they kept fighting through it."

The victory was never in doubt. Three ace serves by junior Emma Schermerhorn sparked the Lancers to an early 11-5 lead in the opening set, while consecutive kills by sophomore Abbey Hayes, Lewis and Skarich (2) wrapped up the 25-11 win.

Johnson had the hot hand in the second set, as she delivered seven of her nine kills in the 25-16 win, and the Lancers held leads of 15-5 and 17-6 before claiming a 25-14 win in the third and final set.

Hayes finished with team-high 13 kills, while Johnson and Skarich each finished with nine. Senior Nora Ralfs dished out 18 assists, while Schermerhorn had 15 assists, a half dozen ace serves and nine digs. Senior Carley Bredar had 11 digs.

"The key for us was just terminating the ball," said Graham. "Normally, it's our defense that carries us, but tonight our offense really put the ball away when they needed to, and that helped out a lot."

SCOTT'S TAKEAWAY

After having interviewed all of her kids (Grant, Cole and Grace) over the course of their athletic careers, I finally had my first "official" post-game interview with Lancer assistant coach Sarah Graham.

As you would expect, it was a fun one.

Sarah said it's easy to be a head coach when you have talent like North Scott has, but she was quick to point out she'd leave the head coaching to Taryn VanEarwage, who missed the game because of illness.

I continue to agree with her on the fact the Lancers are loaded, and their arsenal just seems to get more formidable as the season rolls along.

It's hard to believe the end of the regular season is in sight. The Lancers have earned a No. 1 regional seed, and any path to the state tournament in Coralville will run through Eldridge. I've said it before, and it bears repeating. You don't want to miss an opportunity to watch this team. The Lancers are the real deal.

CROSS COUNTRY

Lancers ready to get on end of season roll

NS runners hold their own at Wartburg; will run at DeWitt on Thursday

By Scott Campbell
NSP Editor

The end-of-the-season push is starting North Scott's cross country teams straight in the face, and the Lancers prepped for what could be an impressive end-of-the-season run with their annual trip to Wartburg's Steve Johnson Invitational on Saturday.

One day after carrying the homecoming game ball from Burlington to Eldridge, the Lancers headed north, where the girls brought home a second-place finish in their division, while the boys came home ninth.

"I feel good about where we finished," said Lancer coach Amy Knoche. "I was a little nervous for this meet. The kids like to run at Wartburg, but with it being homecoming week, it was a busy week for our kids.

"As a teenager, it's tough to stay focused when your attention is being pulled in many directions. Also, our seniors were in a van for 12 hours the day before our meet with our traditional homecoming ball run from the opposing team's 50-yard line, and with the dance being the night of our meet, I was worried that they wouldn't be dialed in. I think they handled all the distractions and still competed well."

Holmen (Wisconsin) topped the 21-team girls' field with 85 points, followed by North Scott (118), Iowa Falls (124), Center Point-Urbana (145), Clear Lake (148) and Bettendorf (181).

Junior Peyton Madison led the Lancer effort with an 11th-place finish, followed by seniors Bailey Boddicker (15th), Kaitlyn Knoche (29th) and Hattie Hagedorn (37th), junior Ella Riniker (38th) and sophomore Kate Blodig (49th).

The race marked Hagedorn's first appearance in the varsity lineup since the first meet of the season.

"It's nice to see Hattie back, and definitely makes our line up stronger," said Knoche. "She had a career PR on Saturday and will only continue to get stronger in the next couple weeks as she gets back into race shape.

"Right now I think we are flying under the radar, and with her back in the lineup, I think we are going to surprise a few teams at the end of the season."

'Nik had an aggressive race plan. He was going to try and get through two miles in sub 10 minutes, and then give everything he had left in the last mile. He led for much of the race, but just ran out of gas at the end. Kudos to him for wanting to go after it. This was a good meet to try and test it out before we get into our end of the season meets.'

Lancer coach Amy Knoche

Senior Nik Davis led the Lancer charge in the boys' race, as he finished a solid third with a 16:32 clocking. Sophomore Yorty Hagedorn was 23rd, followed by seniors Braeden Bohannon (34th), Matthew Simmons (97th) and Alec Harris (110th).

The Lancers were running without freshman Carter Unwin, who was nursing a muscle strain in his leg.

"The boys ran pretty decent," said Knoche. "Running without Carter hurt our team score a little, but it's always nice to run against some schools that we don't normally see.

"Nik had an aggressive race plan. He was going to try and get through two miles in sub-10 minutes, and then give everything he had left in the last mile. He led for much of the race, but just ran out of gas at the end. Kudos to him for wanting to go after it. This was a good meet to try and test it out before we get into our end-of-the-season meets."

Bettendorf and Indianola topped the 27-team field with 111 points. North Scott finished with 252.

There are only three meets left in the season, with Thursday's DeWitt Invitational at Grace Lutheran Camp being next on the ledger. The Mississippi Athletic Conference meet is set for Thursday (Oct. 14), and the Class 4A district meet will be held Wednesday (Oct. 21).

"I think the girls have a good chance to win at DeWitt," said Knoche. "We always seem to race well there. If we perform well, I think it will be a shot of confidence going into MAC and Districts."

Additions to the agenda were that Brinson Kinzer was here from the Scott County Supervisors Board. He is running for a seat on the Supervisors Board. He talked about the Juvenile Detention Center that will go where the old headquarters was on Tremont. It will be the Youth Rehabilitation Justice Center. He also talked about the pipeline possibly coming through and EMS. We may need to seed and till the ditch on 7th Ave. where so culvert work was done earlier this summer.

Various correspondences were read and the utility report was given.

The City got the permit for the city building. Concrete will be poured inside and the drains will be in. Pads will need to be poured for the fuel barrels.

The Iowa Utility Board finished up with a neighboring city for the sale of their systems; and we are next up for discussion with them.

The Hazardous Mitigation Plan was updated and there was just couple of changes needed.

Frontier Days was discussed and there will be a recap meeting on September 20 at 7:00 at city hall. The bags tournament was a great turnout and Andy and Kim Cronkleton stepped in and got the kid tractor pull going again. The Rusty Rooster opened her ice cream shop and had a lot of business.

Halloween trick or treating was discussed and there will be parade from the school. Trick or Treating will be Monday October 31st from 5-7 pm. Please have porch light turned on. The city may have a pumpkin carving contest. More information later.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Ganzer, seconded by Kelley, to adjourn. All ayes, motion carried. Meeting adjourned at 8:10 p.m.
