County allows private parks on 'case-by-case' basis

Supervisors establish 13 public park areas, and limit others

NSP Assistant Editor

A proposed recreational zoning ordinance accepts 13 county, state or federal parks in the county, establishes new zoning requirements for any new public parks, and allows special-permitted private parks "on a case-by-case basis."

Supervisors on Dec. 20 approved the last of three readings needed to make the new law. According to the law: "New public parks shall be identified and added to this section upon rezoning approval. No new private parks shall be added to this section.' "It would create a pathway for initiating private park uses (parks owned by a private entity) ... private parks, campgrounds, boat docks, sports fields or off-road vehicle courses," county planning director Chris Mathias wrote to supervisors.

New trails

 Supervisors OK paved loops in Scott County, and West Lake parks.

Anyone wishing to operate a private park or recreation area would need a special-use permit. The ordinance provides no lot size or setback provisions.

It says county zoning administrator will recommend lot area, building and structure setbacks and heights of buildings, structures, or other infrastructure.

Those rules would require public debate and approval by the planning and zoning commission, board mentorship to help him or her earn their pilot certificate.

EAA's Air Academy is a week-long youth summer camp held at EAA's home in Oshkosh, Wis. There are several sessions of this aviation-themed camp held each summer.

The camp includes a variety of handson activities that teach young people about the world of aviation. Activities include aeromodeling, aircraft construction, airplane wing construction, airplanes, flight planning, flight simulators, ground school, maintenance skills, restoration skills and tech workshops.

The camp is structured into three age groups: Young Eagles ages 12-13, basic camp ages 14-15, and advanced camp ages 16-18.

Each year, EAA Chapter 75, in conjunction with the High Flight Education Fund, provides scholarships for several kids to attend the EAA Air Academy.

The finished plane will look like this.

The chapter covers 100 percent of the camp tuition. Parents will provide transportation to and from the camp.

County to pave 2 miles of new park trails

Federal pandemic aid runs a loop around Pride Lake

By Mark Ridolfi

NSP Assistant Editor

Federal pandemic aid can help Scott County build mile-long, paved loop trails in West Lake and Scott County

County conservation director Roger Kean asked supervisors Dec. 6 to expand the parks' master plan by launching the trail plan. It includes:

· A mile-long trail around Scott County Park's Pride Lake;

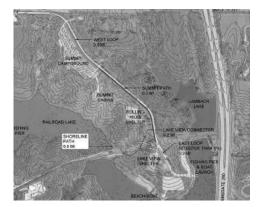

· A trail from the West Lake Park parking area to the beach, and another around Railroad Lake.

Kean plans an 8-foot-wide paved trail to make more of the park accessible to all.

The first priority is Pride Lake.

County crews dredged the lake, which is drawing more canoeists, kayakers and fishers, Kean said.

"Our first priority is to build a walking trail around that lake, and try to get it as close to the shore as possible so people can fish from that. We'll also have bump-outs, concrete jetties out, so someone in a wheelchair could be next to the shoreline and be able to fish," he

West Lake Park A mile-long paved loop will connect Railroad Lake to the beach.

The loop would connect to the nearby Whispering Pines shelter, the county's most popular. Kean also envisions a canoe and kayak launch on Pride Lake.

At West Lake, the priority is connecting the main lake fishing pier to the beach area. He also advised a paved trail to improve access to all around Railroad Lake, but said the terrain will leave some areas unreachable for some.

"With all the lakes here, it's been a real challenge to figure out how to tie a trail system together," he said.

Shive Hattery Engineering firm mapped out trail options at both parks. Kean recommended about $1 million to cover the top priorities at the two parks. The plan covers options if supervisors allocate more

Kean said trails are a great use of ARPA funds. "That was the biggest thing we noticed with the impact of COVID, more and more people using the parks, and more people walking the parks. Originally, this was not in our capital improvement plan. To be clear, this ARPA funding is allowing us to do infrastructure projects, and this is being done in addition to our regular capital plans," Kean said.

of adjustment and board of supervisors. At the supervisors' Dec. 6 discussion.

supervisor Brinson Kinzer suggested those special use permits be reviewed annually.

The ordinance recognizes these public parks: Allens Grove public use area, Buena Vista public use area, Buffalo Bill Cody Homestead, Cameron Timber Preserve, Crow Creek wildlife management area, Gambril public access area, Glynns Creek Golf Course, Lost Grove Lake wildlife management area, Princeton wildlife management area, Scott County Park, Walnut Grove Pioneer Village, Wapsi River Environmental Education Center, and West Lake Park.

Any proposed private park development would require approval of the planning and zoning commission, zoning board of adjustment, and the board of supervisors.

Eldridge fine-tunes food truck regulations

Council has yet to set fee

By Mark Ridolfi

NSP Assistant Edito

Eldridge council members tweaked a food truck ordinance on the second of three required readings.

At the council's Dec. 19 meeting, assistant city administrator Jeff Martens said some council members asked to remove a section that allows some specific exceptions. Instead, a revision will allow the city administrator to allow exceptions for non-profits.

Park View Lions Club members had asked if their one-day stand at Eldridge summer festival would be subject to the license, Cheek said.

Enforcement will be by the administrator or a designee, not the police or fire chief.

Martens said food trucks operating without a license would be subject to a municipal infraction fine of $50 the first time, $200 the second and $500 the third.

Council members held off on setting a fee. Martens said four vendors he talked to were OK with a $50-$75 fee.

Council member Dan Collins said a suggested $50 fee is too low. "They can operate maybe eight months a year. That's just $6.25 a month," he said.

He suggested $100-$150.

Council members Adrian Blackwell and Brian Dockery said the aim should be resident safety, not revenue. Dockery said North Scott Chamber of Commerce representatives had concerns.

'Let's not look at this as trying to make money. I'm OK bringing them in at $50," Blackwell said.

Cheek said a $100 fee would discourage the food truck he brings to his summer car show at Sheridan Meadows that is a fundraiser for the police department. "If they have to give it to the city, they'll be taking it from whatever they earn for the police," Cheek said.

The ordinance, with revisions, is up for a third and final reading at the Januarv meeting. The council will set the fee separately by resolution.

Callahan Construction sewer fee

Callahan Construction will pay higher residential sewer hook-up fees at its new townhouse and apartment projects, even though both are in a commerciallyzoned area.

Callahan owns and operates Grandhaven Retirement Center and is adding two buildings of rental units. Council members last year rezoned the property as commercial as part of property tax incentives being paid to Callahan.

Callahan representatives asked for the commercial sewer hook-up fee of $70 per 1,000 square feet. City staff and attorney said the fee reflects actual use, not zoning. The company had already paid a residential hook-up fee of $200 per bedroom in each unit.

putting the fee at $18,000.

Davenport appears to be on board with Scott County's plan to make MEDIC ambulance service a county department.

Fourth Ave. is a 33-unit building with 57 bedrooms. The building at 251 N 4th Ave.

Beck updated Eldridge council members on the changes agreed to by the MEDIC board and the supervisors. He said supervisors are hiring one consultant to plan the transition, and another to develop a MEDIC director's job description to succeed Linda Fredericksen, who Beck said hopes to retire.

Beck has visited all the cities that have

MEDIC ambulance stations, including Eldridge.

Council member Bruce Cheek asked about Davenport's involvement.

Beck told council members that Davenport mayor Mike Matson said that city's council is awaiting the consultants' reports. Some Davenport council members had said they prefer the concept of a city-based ambulance service.

'On Friday, Mayor Matson said he's putting that concept on hold and see how the county moves ahead. If it moves ahead as they think it will, they'll go along with the county," Beck said.

As a county department, MEDIC would be eligible for more federal and grant funding, higher Medicaid reimbursement rates, and sales tax waivers. Beck said the county would hold a referendum before imposing any new property tax for MEDIC.

BOYS' BASKETBALL: BETTENDORF 74, NORTH SCOTT 50

'They punched us in the nose'

Bulldogs rout Lancers in pre-Christmas finale

By Ross Shinberg

NŠP Sports Editor

It's said that basketball is a makeor-miss game, and that's exactly what transpired last Tuesday (Dec. 20) in Bettendorf's gym.

The Bulldogs made, the Lancers missed, and it resulted in a 74-50 blowout loss in the final game before winter break.

"Bettendorf has struggled to shoot it all year, and we knew there would be a night when they're going to come and shoot it well," Lancer coach Dave McLaughlin said after the game. "They punched us in the nose, and this is the first time all year we haven't responded to that."

'They punched us in the nose, and this is the first time all year we haven't responded to that.'

Lancer coach Dave McLaughlin

It certainly didn't start out that way. North Scott did the punching in the first three and a half minutes of the game, and they landed a nasty right hook when junior forward Brennan Reid hit a three-pointer on which he was fouled. He converted the four-point play to give the Lancers a quick 9-0 lead.

After that, it was one-way traffic. The Bulldogs scored 2.6 points per minute the rest of the way and shot the Lancers out of the gym.

"We got off to the good start and kind of thought everything was easy," McLaughlin said. "Then we started struggling shooting, and that's when you have to dig in on the defensive end. I didn't think we did a great job of that. We don't have a huge margin for error, so we have to be tough. It was like another 26 minutes where they were the tougher team."

Bettendorf slowly closed the gap on the Lancers in the first quarter and tied the game up at 15 with a buzzer-beating

The tide started to turn early in the second quarter after junior forward Kavon Phillips was called for the team's second technical foul in as many MAC games. Bettendorf went on a 10-2 run over the next two minutes to open a double-digit lead.

North Scott closed the gap to 39-31 at halftime, but the Lancers were fully engulfed by the Bulldog wave in the third quarter.

The Lancers only mustered five points in the next eight minutes as Betten-dorf blew the game wide open. Coach McLaughlin called a quick timeout to stop the bleeding at 6:20 after the Bulldogs extended their lead to 46-31, but the hits kept coming.

Bettendorf's Caden Wilkins, who leads the MAC in scoring, predictably did most of the damage. He scored a game-high 27 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. He was supported by Jaden Tyler's season-high 20 points, including five of nine makes from deep.

"We knew that if [Wilkins] got his and we could limit the other guys, we would be OK," McLaughin said. "But there were some other guys that got away from us. We got beat off the dribble too much from those guys."

The third quarter ended with the Lancers down by 19, and they were outscored 19-14 in the fourth quarter.

Entering Tuesday's game, the Bulldogs were shooting 25.9 percent from downtown. That night, they upped it by 19 percentage points to 45.4 percent. On the contrary, the Lancers shot 42.0 percent through six games and made only 28.6 percent in this game.

But that's not to say the Lancers didn't have other ways to win. They had plans B, C and D, but were not able to execute those either.

"There are going to be nights when the shots don't fall, and tonight the shots didn't fall. You have to go rebound, you have to play defense, you have to take good shots," McLaughlin said. Juniors Kyler Gerardy and Kavon

Phillips each had 11 points to lead the Lancers. Reid added seven, as well as senior forward Drew Sacia, who got an extended run off the bench.

"Drew gave us good minutes; he went in there and competed," McLaughlin said. "He got a quick five points for us. I liked his energy and his toughness.'

Tuesday's game was a tough pill to swallow for a Lancer team that had played great basketball up until this point and was pinned as the ninthranked team in the most recent Class 4A rankings.

After starting the regular season 4-0, the Lancers have dropped consecutive conference games. They sit at 3-2 in the MAC, tied with five other teams for third place, but behind Pleasant Valley and Davenport West, which are 4-1.

Junior Colin Albrecht has earned more playing time lately, starting each of the Lancers' last three games. NSP Photo by Ross Shinberg

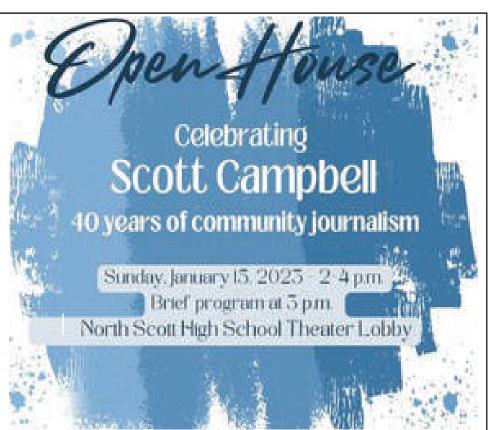

There is still a lot to be excited about as there is more than enough time to improve in January and February. Additionally, the Lancers are through the toughest part of their schedule in which they played only one home game over the last four weeks.

Eight of their 11 remaining games will take place in The Pit.

"I'm very happy going into the break," McLaughlin said. "This is kind of a tarnish because we had played so well through the first six games. We'll get back after it and clean up the stuff that we need to. I think we'll be OK.'

Christmas comes early for Lancers

Golinghorst, O'Neill pace short-handed Lancers

By Ross Shinberg

If there is one thing this season has proven, it is that you can't keep these Lancers down for long.

After a lopsided loss four days prior against Pleasant Valley, North Scott's girls' basketball team responded valiantly last Tuesday (Dec. 20) with a hardfought 33-31 home win over MAC rival Bettendorf.

It certainly wasn't pretty, but they all count the same in the standings.

"A 'W' is a 'W.' We needed that one," Lancer coach Devvin Davis said. "We had some careless turnovers, and we didn't shoot it extremely well. We missed some free throws towards the end. But they gutted it out. They stuck together. I'm proud of how it ended."

As one might expect with that final score, it was a tightly contested game the entire way and came down to the final possessions.

Having led without interruption since the second quarter, and leading by as many as nine points, the Lancers took a four-point lead into the final three and a half minutes of the game.

But an and-one conversion and twopoint shot from the Bulldogs gave them their first lead of the second half.

It was short-lived as senior forward

Lauren Golinghorst took over, scoring a bucket and hitting two free throws over the next 30 seconds to retake the lead,

The Lancers had opportunities to put the game away, up by three with 45 seconds remaining, as the Bulldogs began to foul on sight.

But North Scott went two for six at the line in the final 30 seconds of the game. It gave the Bulldogs life after Faith Furness drained a three to cut the deficit to one with 4.9 seconds remaining.

Senior guard Lexi Ward made one of two free throws to put the Lancers up by two, setting the stage for last-second drama.

Unfortunately for Bettendorf, any excitement was quickly extinguished when their attempt to move the ball upcourt off the inbounds play bounced into the hands of senior forward Cora O'Neill.

33-31. And, exhale.

Golinghorst and O'Neill led the offense, scoring 26 of the team's 33 points. The senior leaders stepped up with the team shorthanded again — junior KK Farnum and two freshmen, McKenzie Moeller and Isabella Mohr, were all out sick with the illness that has infiltrated the school this month.

Others stepped up to fill in gaps, including junior guard McKinley Toohey, who gave the team a big energy spark with a catch-and-shoot halftime buzzerbeating three. A replay showed that it left her fingertips with one-tenth of a second on the clock.

'Toohey is a kid that you always know what you're going to get. She's going to play her role to a 'T'," Davis said. "She defends who she can no matter what. She's going to give you great effort on both ends. To see her have success is great because she's a great kid and deserves it."

The Lancers clamped down on defense, holding the Bulldogs to a seasonlow 31 points. They held leading scorers Lillie Petersen to 12 points and Kayla Fountain, who played for North Scott the last two seasons, to five points.

"I think it's a fun matchup for us," Davis said. "I thought we defended really well. We held them to single-digit quarters in three of the four quarters. I think that's a testament to us just doing what we're good at, which is our defense.'

One big theme of the first half of this season for the Lancers has been resilience. Each time the Lancers get pushed down, they jump up and shove back.

When the Lancers suffered two key injuries right before conference play started, they responded with a no-nonsense thrashing of Davenport Went in the MAC opener.

Then after a gut-punch loss against Davenport North, they responded with a 17-point win over Assumption.

And after a game against Pleasant Valley when nothing seemed to go right, the Lancers focused in again and knocked off Bettendorf.

"I think we've handled a lot early, and it's been hard to get into a flow," Davis said. "You win, you lose, you win, you lose, but that's how our conference is designed this season. It's exciting every game."

The Lancers, even after all the turmoil this season, still sit in the top half of the MAC standings at 4-3. They are tied for fourth with Bettendorf but behind undefeated Pleasant Valley and 6-1 Davenport North and Central DeWitt.

"Our focus moving forward," Davis says, "is to make sure that we're taking care of the basketball, we're rebounding better and shooting better, whether that's just getting more reps in practice or running similar rotations so they can get into a flow.

"I think we needed to get into this Christmas break. And ending the way we just did, I think that will give us some momentum to get back to work when we come back."

GIRLS' WRESTLING

Seniors lead Lancers at Iowa City

Wainwright finishes second, Hanenburg takes third in final 2022

By Ross Shinberg NSP Sports Editor

In the final tournament before the holiday break, the North Scott girls' wrestling team placed ninth last Monday (Dec. 19) at the Iowa City Liberty Girls Invitational.

The girls ended with 89 team points, but not terribly far behind the top finishers. Southeast Polk (149), Pleasant Valley (124), Iowa Valley Marengo (114), Mid-Prairie (111) and Vinton-Shellsburg (106) make up the top five.

North Scott still had a number of podium placements, highlighted by senior Khylie Wainwright's runner-up spot at 120. Seeded at No. 2, she used three firstperiod pins to propel herself into the championship match, but suffered the same fate in her final bout against Pleasant Valley's Abigail Meyrer.

Fellow No. 2 seed senior Jorie Hanenburg earned a third-place finish at 155 to continue her excellent season. Her first two matches ended in falls, including the second one ending in nine seconds. But she got pinned herself in the semi-final match, but rebounded with another first-period fall to take third.

Senior Marin Smith (115) and sophomore Madison Andrews (190) took home fourth-place finishes. Freshman Bryn Stephens (135) and Vivian Peterson (140) collected sixth-place honors.

This concludes a brutal stretch of travel for the Lancers as they competed in tournaments in Wapello, Council Bluffs, Waterloo and this one in Iowa City over the past three weeks.

They will be rewarded with some home cooking in the new year as 18 schools descend on Eldridge for the Lancer Wrestling Invitational on Saturday, January 7.

The Lancers will also host a MAC dual on Thursday, January 5 when the Bettendorf Bulldogs come to town.

OPINION: Ours, yours, theirs

NORTH SCOTT PRESS

Salute to letter writers, and a change ahead for 2023

pinions have been an important part of The NSP since the first issue in 1968, but putting together the first regular weekly Opinion Page was one of many tasks upon my arrival here as editor in 1971 fresh from college and National Guard Army Basic Training.

That was my role then, editor, but also advertising manager, circulation manager, photographer, sports writer,

Impressions by Bill Tubbs

courier, janitor and HR director although with a tiny rented office, a staff of three and help from the founders that was minimal.

The one regular feature of the Opinion Page (usually just one) was "Impressions," because it was explained to me by the founders, that readers generally ARE interested in what the editor is thinking on the issues of the day.

Ours, yours, theirs

Step by step over the years the opinion pages, now sometimes four or more, have evolved to award-winning status with the contributions of talented columnists and cartoonists but most importantly, YOU. The header atop these pages for decades has read, 'OPINION: Ours, yours, theirs."

The focus of this column is YOURS. Again in 2022, it was the engagement and participation of READERS which drew eyes to the Opinion Pages week after week.

In 2022, The NSP published 374 opinion articles from 173 contributors – in addition to columns by staff members Scott Campbell, Mark Ridolfi, Erin Gentz and yours truly.

These covered a range of topics, some controversial, but many not. Seven years ago, Linda suggested a "Rose" section, and that has been a popular choice for many.

The names, including many firsttimers, are below in our annual Salute to Letter Writers.

A right to know who is writing

Reader participation is especially appreciated because The NSP requires a physical (street) address of the author. That's because we believe you have a right to know WHO is writing. This underscores what you told us in our 2018 Pulse Research study when you gave The NSP high marks for trust, and three fourths agreed that our opinion pages allow all sides to be represented. It has been my mission, as custodian of these pages, to treat all people with respect, including (especially) those with whom I disagree.

All opinions are protected by the First Amendment, but there are limits on length, good taste, reprinting articles from other sources, letters of a commercial nature, letters that ridicule, poetry, extensive biblical citations. falsehoods, petitions, and letters or emails that are mass produced.

We do not publish letters to arbitrate disputes between private parties except where a broader public policy is at issue. We also seek to ensure that letters do not cross legal boundaries for libel. This is for the protection of everyone. A person who believes he or she has been defamed may seek to file a lawsuit against both the letter writer and The NSP if false or malicious statements are published, including accusations of criminal acts.

This is how we have strived to ensure a believable and family-friendly forum for our communities. From that first Opinion Page which I put together in 1971 to the present, I have been the prinicpal one who has edited this part of the paper, working with columnists, receiving letters to the editor, verifying addresses and designing the pages.

Change ahead

Going forward, that will change. You will still see "Impressions" most weeks, but Mark Ridolfi, in his new role as managing editor, will be in charge of The NSP Opinion Pages. He says the policies for letters to the editor (above), which have guided our decision making these many years, will continue.

Art Cullen, the Pulitzer prizewinning editor of the Storm Lake Times (p. 17A), whom Mark and I visited with in October at the River Action annual meeting in Moline, where Art was the keynote speaker, wrote a letter to his son, Tom, upon Tom's becoming editor.

The letter is published in Art's book "Storm Lake" (an excellent read!), and includes sage advice:

"A pretty good rule is that an Iowa town will be about as strong as its newspaper and its banks. The best journalism is that which builds communities. You build your community by publishing good deeds done, by reporting on the cheats and scoundrels and other politicians, by urging yourself and those around you to do better, by allowing dissenting voices to be heard, and by making sure that your town's issues are heard in Des Moines and Washington."

Whether we have succeeded or not – and I believe we have – that has been our aim for 55 years. The heart of any newspaper is the editorial page, and the heart of the editorial pages are the contributions from readers. It's been my honor to be part of that process in this community. I would like to take this opportunity to THANK everyone who joined the conversation, not just in 2022, but throughout the years.

Farm Bill: Singing a different tune on ag conservation

utting in corporate America on climate policy appears to be clearing a path for a rational farm bill discussion as the new Congress

House Republican leaders are making sympathetic comments about a strong conservation title in the five-year farm bill that is supposed to be written next year. Incoming House

Ag Committee chair

Rep. G.T. Thompson,

Guest opinion by Art Cullen

R-Pa., said he has "been leaning into the climate discussion." Senate Ag Committee chair Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich., has been steering talks on "climate-friendly" agriculture and renewable energy for two years that has Republicans like Sen. John Thune of South Dakota on board.

The Senate Agriculture Committee is one of the last bipartisan institutions in the Capitol. Republican House members have received word from farmers pressed by higher fertilizer and chemical costs that talk of paying them for environmental services is not so crazy. They're eager for alternatives endorsed by the supply chain. And, Ag Committee corporate funders have become vested in the Biden administration's "climate-smart" ag initiative that promises billions in subsidies for carbon trading, soil health, pipelines and sequestration, biogas and manure digesters, and more.

Water quality and quantity

Republican members told Politico they're especially interested in water quality and quantity as a mega drought grips the Great Plains and West.

They're not so interested in talking about climate change as they are extreme weather, resiliency and reduced chemical costs through less tillage and integrated management. It's all about carrots and not sticks, and you have to be careful with your terminology - steer clear of "climate change."

Agriculture and food security can be a place where something gets done in gridlocked government. And, these are areas where the public would like to see something get done that benefits

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has proven adept at navigating the corporate corridors. It was no accident he was called in to help fend off a preelection railroad strike, considering his connections to Warren Buffett, Berkshire Hathaway, the Union Pacific Railroad and MidAmerican Energy. Renewable energy will be at the center of the $500 billion farm bill discussion (not to mention whatever happens on major energy bills).

Incentives

Meat companies will run pilot programs on methane. Grain traders will receive incentive to get farmers to grow cover crops in winter. Crop insurance will sweeten cover crop subsidies. Corn ethanol will be protected. Hog houses will go solar with a spiff from Uncle Sam.

In return, Democrats in control of the Senate will insist that Republicans lay off food programs. It's sausage, not steak.

At least the Freedom Caucus might be restrained from holding up the farm bill for two years over conservation and food security funding, as happened before. We might see enhancement of the Conservation Stewardship Program (which is way over-subscribed) and the Conservation Reserve Program. That was a real battle in the last farm bill.

Corporations also are sensitive to talk on left and right about antitrust. This is an area where Sen. Amy Klobuchar and Sen. John Tester, Democrats, can find common cause with Sen. Chuck Grassley and Rep. Randy Feenstra on the Republican side. Pharmaceutical maker Bayer is more likely to take an active role in helping farmers with "regenerative" agriculture if it avoids hearings on consolidated power over food.

Public investments

A lot of good, and a lot of waste, can come from it. Some cover crops certainly are better than none. If it takes crop insurance to subsidize it, that's a small price. We need more flexibility with CRP. Helping farmers build soil over time, without an immediate return, is worth the public investment in cleaner and more abundant water. That's what Rep. Dusty Johnson, R-S.D., thinks. And that is an entirely different tone than the last farm bill talks five years ago. The conversation actually has changed. Corporations still control the terms of the discussion. That's a dictate of American politics. It's also true that MidAmerican Energy is enthusiastic about renewable energy and Cargill is encouraging cover

That's a point where some progress can be made in the next farm bill. This is fairly easy stuff so long as you can keep everyone on board. Sure, it's greenwashing. Sure, we'll burn bushels of cash on ill-thought schemes. It's also a real step forward if we're planting more grass along the river and between the rows. You go, Dusty.

• The Eldridge City Council learned there were problems in the 1981-82 city audit. The accounting firm responsible for the audit and city clerk Jean Schilling said they had not been able to replicate the cash and accrued audit done by former city manager Bill Mortensen. This did not mean there was a discrepancy in funds, but rather indicated a bookkeeping problem. The firm of Reiser Jennings & Co. C.P.A.'s in Eldridge offered assistance in locating the issue.

• Eastern Iowa Light & Power Cooperative filed suit against Park View Utilities, Iowa Electric Light & Power, and F.M. Olds, president and chief stockholder of Park View Utilities. Eastern Iowa claimed it had entered into an agreement with Olds to purchase Park View Utilities. However, it was later learned that a service area boundary dispute existed between Park View and Iowa Electric. While the dispute was being negotiated, Olds reportedly withdrew the offer to Eastern Iowa and accepted an offer to sell Park View assets to Iowa Electric.

 The Dixon Independent Telephone company announced it had purchased toll equipment from Northwestern Bell, which would extend to Walcott. Company manager Howard Hunt said the new equipment would be able to handle toll calls, proposed Extended Area Service to Davenport, and future growth to the Dixon exchange.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

New date for kindergarten roundup

This year our annual Kindergarten Round-Up will be held on Friday, Feb. 17. This is two weeks earlier than our traditional date of the first Friday in March.

For those of you who might be curious, we made this change for a couple of reasons. We wanted to have it on a day that avoids an early dismissal and also wanted to avoid getting too close to spring break and elementary parent-teacher conferences. This limited our options, and we ultimately decided that earlier was better than later.

As a district, moving Kindergarten Round-Up to February could be a good thing for determining student numbers and classroom sections for each elementary school. Knowing how many students will attend each building allows us to get a head start in hiring and/or moving staff based on enrollment numbers.

Our ultimate goal for Kindergarten Round-Up is to welcome new families and students to the building and get them excited about being part of our community.

We look forward to meeting our soonto-be kindergarteners and their families on Friday, Feb. 17 at 9 a.m. or 1 p.m. Please register your child, so we may begin to gather information about our incoming

Thank you,

Vivian Peterson raises a hand in victory at the first round of girls' wrestling tournament in January.

January

New Eldridge mayor Frank King was sworn in and presided over his first meeting on Jan. 3. Newly elected council member Dan Collins and re-elected council member Brian Dockery also recited ceremonial oaths. Collins was named mayor pro tem.

Mayor Frank King and city administrator Tony Rupe recite the pledge at the mayor's first meeting.

John Glenn and Virgil Grissom students were enjoying their new school libraries. Superintendent Joe Stutting recommended both libraries receive makeovers after his annual school walk-through in January of 2021. The district spent $8,000 on new flooring (replacing carpet with tile) and $30,000 for new shelving.

Scott County was looking for a new site for a juvenile detention center after county staff advised withdrawing a $1.75 million offer for property four blocks west of the courthouse. The site plan drew complaints from potential neighbors, as well as Davenport city officials. County supervisors were now considering 11 commercial sites elsewhere in the city.

The Eldridge-North Scott Chamber of Commerce relocated from its home in the old US Bank building to 210 N. Franklin St.

• Bill and Linda Tubbs made a $100,000 donation to launch a fund drive for the new North Scott YMCA, led by Marty O'Boyle and Donn Wilmott. The Y was hoping to raise $1 million to equip the center.

The North Scott School Board approved a plan to install Halo security detectors in high school and junior high bathrooms to detect vaping and loud noises, including cries for help. The detectors had the capability to alert school staff of problems and in some cases, call 911.

The North Scott girls' wrestling team made history when it hosted the first ever Mississippi Athletic Conference dual meet. While the Lancers lost 24-18 to Bettendorf, the girls said they had a lot of fun. "I liked the atmosphere of having the boys' teams there cheering you on," said junior Marin Smith.

Damien "Buzz" Koehn resigned after serving 12 years as mayor of McCausland, due to a move outside of city limits. McCausland residents lauded his tenure. Council member Brian Holland was appointed to replace him.

The Eldridge Lions Club was recognized as a Model Club by the International Association of Lions Clubs, one of only 10 in Iowa.

Eldridge police chief Joe Sisler presented a wish list to the Eldridge City Council that included five new officers, a new police station, and tougher sanctions on landlords. Meanwhile, fire chief Keith Schneckloth asked the council to consider hiring a full-time firefighter.

Lancer Productions presented "Frozen Jr." as its Children's Theatre production. The cast included Kaitlyn Wood, Elly Carlson, Thomas McCarthy, Riley McCoy and Ava Hagedorn, and featured Olaf and Sven puppets specially created by Quad Cities puppeteer Seth Chappell.

Scott County supervisors were considering using American Rescue Plan Act funds to construct the proposed juvenile detention center using a loophole that would allow the use of ARPA funds if the county claimed it under revenue loss provisions.

Funeral services were held for Dean Bassett of Eldridge. Bassett had owned an International Harvester business before working for the North Scott School District as an administrator. He had also served on the school board.

Junior Khylie Wainwright became the first Lancer girl to place at a state wrestling tournament. She finished sixth at the Iowa Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association State Tournament in Coralville. At the event, the Iowa Girls' High School Athletic Union announced girls' wrestling would become a sanctioned sport.

Eldridge volunteer firefighter Dave Engler poses with a 1905 Eldridge fire helmet donated to the department by Paula Mohr.

February

The Eldridge Fire Department received the gift of a 1905 department fire helmet. It was donated by Paula Mohr, daughter of Betty Mohr and Eldridge native Wendell Mohr. Her mother was an antiques dealer who acquired the helmet, and Mohr donated it back to the department.

Kevin and Paulette Stutting purchased the old Princeton Ale House building, which had served as Kernan's restaurant for 50 years. The Stuttings were hoping to start a boat club.

The North Scott Athletic Boosters raised more than $16,000 as the Cake Auction returned after a Covidinduced hiatus. The 2002 boys' basketball team was honored at the 20th anniversary of the team claiming North Scott's first ever boys' basketball MAC championship.

The North Scott boys' wrestling team placed second at the MAC meet. Trace Gephart (113), Peyton Westlin (152) and Seth Madden (170) claimed individual titles.

North Scott High School officials reported students having seizures. At the same time, they also reported an increase in the number of students caught vaping. Meanwhile, students at the junior high attended an assembly to learn about the dangers of vaping, including negative health effects.

A federal grant would help cover engineering costs for a Princeton extension of the Mississippi River Trail. Members of Princeton Recreation Trails Inc. cheered the news and said they were hoping for additional grants in the future.

The Donahue Sportsman's Club was recruiting volunteers. Since 1938, the club had cared for the grounds at the ballpark and managed leagues, and was considered a tradition in Donahue.

The North Scott archery team won its home tournament. The high school team had already shot the minimum score required for qualifying for the state tournament, with 12 high school archers and four from the junior high also qualifying.

Students from North Scott and Pleasant Valley were working with members of Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 75 to build an airplane in the North Scott bus garage.

Former Blue Grass police chief Garrett Jahns joined the Eldridge Police Department.

It was a good news/bad news week for the North Scott boys' wrestling team. While the Lancers failed to qualify as a team after coming up short against Bettendorf, they qualified a record 11 individuals at the district meet: Trace Gephart (120), Peyton Westlin (152), Cael Straley (132), Seth Madden (170), AJ Petersen (195), Ryan Campbell (192), Ayden Golden (113), Aydan Cary (145), David Borchers (285), Hayden Ulloa (106) and Dylan Marti (160).

Scott County supervisors were looking at guidelines to restrict solar farms to only the least productive farm ground. State legislators were considering similar measures.

North Scott Junior High students presented "There's a Monster in my Closet" as their annual musical.

Volunteers joined Iowa DNR officers and Partners of Scott County Watersheds members to improve the fish habitat at Crow Creek Lake near Eldridge.

The North Scott girls' basketball season came to an end in the substate semifinals, with a 46-39 loss to Clear Creek-Amana.

Lancer wrestlers medaling at the state meet included AJ Petersen (fourth at 195), Trace Gephart (fifth at 113), Peyton Westlin (fifth at 152), and Seth Madden (seventh at 170).

The North Scott boys' bowling team qualified for the state tournament in Waterloo. Nik Davis and Lex Adkisson also qualified as individuals.

March

Shamus Budde announced he was stepping down as head boys' basketball coach, citing a desire to spend more time with his family. He had served as coach for 16 seasons, and was the winningest coach in the program's history, with a 259-108 record.

The Scott County Board of Supervisors elected to demolish the county warehouse on Tremont Avenue in Davenport to make way for a new juvenile detention center. The county put in a $4.7 million bid for warehouse space at 1400 Lancer Court in Eldridge.

Eldridge Democrat Kay Pence filed paperwork to run for the Iowa 70 House district, taking on incumbent Norlin Mommsen, a Republican.

Funeral services were held for W. Norman "Norm" Harvey, who had been employed at Central Scott Telephone in Eldridge for 50 years, retiring as CEO in 2007.

North Scott junior Lauren Golinghorst was named first-team all-MAC for girls' basketball. She was also a third-team selection for the Iowa Print Sports Writers Association Class 4A all-state team.

The North Scott School Board began discussions about a series of capital projects, which would include expanding Alan Shepard, Virgil Grissom, the junior high, and the welding building at the high school, creating a new softball complex, renovating Lancer Stadium, and building a regional vocational center in partnership with Eastern Iowa Community College. All told, the projects could cost the district at least $25 million.

Rep. Ross Paustian announced that he would not seek reelection to the Iowa legislature, and instead would pursue a campaign for the Scott County Board of Supervisors.

North Scott alums and current University of Northern Iowa girls' basketball players Karli Rucker and Grace Boffeli returned to the Quad Cities for the Missouri Valley Conference tournament, Hoops in the Heartland, at the TaxSlayer Center in Moline.

Former U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo stumped for Scott County Republicans during an event at Cinnamon Ridge Dairy in Donahue.

Scott County supervisor John Maxwell, left, hosted former U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, March 11, at Cinmamon Ridge Dairy Farms in Donahue.

The new water tower in Princeton was up and running. The council also ordered the replacement of water meters in town that were no longer providing accurate readings.

The Alan Shepard team of Kallen Rohlf, Sawyer Lentz and Korbin Braack won the North Scott elementary schools' Battle of the Books.

Ted and Grace Merschman became the proprietors of Merschman's Hardware & Building Supply at 650 E. LeClaire Road in Eldridge.

Community volunteers and North Scott High School students read to students are Neil Armstrong Elementary School for the annual Read Across America event.

Scott County's inspection of Park View storm sewers identified 19 trouble areas and at least 30 buried pipes with structural issues. Supervisors planned to allocate some of the county's $33 million in American Rescue Plan Act funding for repairs.

A 138-year-old house at 219 W. Davenport St. in Eldridge was demolished to make way for two attached villas. Diamond Builders owner Collin Woods had purchased the home, but said repairs would have been extremely costly.

April

Patrick and Jodi Reid opened the Thrive Professional Building at 220 W. Davenport St. in Eldridge. The former home of US Bank would offer eight office spaces, as well as The Vault coffee shop.

North Scott school board members scheduled a September referendum to launch the first half of a $40 million construction plan for the district. Glynns Creek Golf Course pro John Valliere retired after 30 years with the course.

Sam Skarich set a new school record, clearing 6'8" in the high jump. He had shared the previous record of 6'6" with Corey Willie (1994).

John Glenn third-grader Elena Skadal self-published her first book. "Squirrel Trouble" was available on Amazon in paperback and on the Kindle app. Skadal's book also inspired her fellow students in their own creative writing endeavors.

Wolf Carbon Solutions was hired by ADM to construct a carbon waste pipeline, part of which would cut through Scott County. The company said it would negotiate with landowners and not rely on the Iowa Utilities Board for eminent domain.

Lancer Productions presented "Matilda" as its spring musical. Cast members included Hannah Noonan, Ethan Windt, Rachel Sorensen, Eliot Morrow, Grace Hamann, Chloe Schwab, Thomas McCarthy, Riley Greenwood, Caleb Strom and Padriac Bozik.

Lynn Schmidt-Dolan, Tom Luedke, Kathi Washam, Bill Erps, Ron Tuftee and Dallas Cawiezell were inducted into the North Scott Athletic Hall of Fame. Washam, Luedke and Schmidt-Dolan had been scheduled to be inducted in 2021, but that ceremony was cancelled due to Covid.

Longtime sophomore basketball coach Dave McLaughlin was hired as the new varsity boys' coach.

Students participating at the state History Day competition included: Kenzie Bohr and Maddie McNealy, Calla Brunkan and Peyton Wenck, Mallory Deutmeyer, Lillian Farro, Grady Kirst and Katelyn Peck, Trey Feist and Parker Hamly, Madilynn Hillman and Cora and Morgan Vannorsdel. Wenck, Bohr, McNealey and Brunkan advanced to the national competition.

The North Scott boys' and girls' track teams captured the team titles at the Bettendorf ABC Meet.

North Scott High School nurse Emily Dimmer joined a panel of health care professionals who shared their experiences with the Covid-19 pandemic. Dimmer reported seeing more students experiencing anxiety.

The North Scott Press received 11 awards at the Iowa Newspaper Association banquet in Des Moines. Bill and Linda Tubbs were inducted into the 50-Year Club.

The Quad City Symphony and Marc Zyla (instrumental music); Dr. Nathan Windt (vocal music); Sue Boedeker, Becky Esbaum and Kelly Morrow (drama), and Erin Gentz (creative writing) were honored with North Scott Fine Arts Awards. The awards were sponsored by the Rotary Club of North Scott and The North Scott Press.

A group of volunteers constructed new playground equipment at Neil Armstrong Elementary School.

Chad Jones

Chad Jones was hired as the new North Scott Junior High principal, replacing John Hawley, who was set to retire in Iowa at the end of the school year. Hawley was hired as principal at the Rock Island School District's Center for Math and Science.

Durant firefighter Matt Fisher was seriously injured when the fire truck he was in collided with a commercial field sprayer. The Durant community rallied around the Fisher family, organizing fundraisers and sending well wishes.

Alan Shepard students raised $14,000 for the American Heart Association. Teachers volunteered to take a pie in the face, and principal Chad Ruth promised to kiss a pig if the students for every $1,000 raised. Ruth duly puckered up 14 times.

Long Grove city clerk Rosina Guyer was promoted, adding the title of finance director to her duties.

Professional saxophonist Tia Fuller joined the North Scott jazz bands at the annual Jazz Showcase. Fuller had toured with Beyoncé and played saxophone in the Pixar movie "Soul."

Work continued on the Eldridge Sanctuary Gardens. The city transformed the old Franklin Park after confirming the presence of unmarked graves at the site of a former church.

William Elijah, 81, of Clarence, was killed when a train collided with the Liqui-Grow truck he was driving. The accident occurred in Durant.

North Scott High School student Dylan Bergmann was raising awareness and funds for children in war-torn Ukraine. Dylan was adopted as a child from Ukraine by the Bergmann family.

The North Scott track teams qualified 17 girls in 13 events, and 16 boys in 11 events for the state track and field meet. Sam Skarich claimed the state title in the high jump, clearing 6'8", and became the first Lancer since Jared Rus in 2013 to claim an individual track state title. Sydney Skarich finished fifth, and Grace Graham placed sixth in the high jump on the girls' side.

Summa cum laude students for the North Scott Class of 2022 included: Adam Allen, Kate Andersen, Alyssa Atzen, Mackenzie Bohr, Calla Brunkan, Luke Bullock, Luke Crawford, Kendall Deutmeyer, Dylan Dufloth, Weston Eichmeier, Caelan Engelbrecht, Eli Engelkes, Ava Garrard, Maddie Gill, Blake Kilker, Joe Knepper, Ireland Laughlin, Austin Lee, Kylie McCabe, Ella McLaughlin, Madison McNealey, Matthew Mize, Eliot Morrow, Bailey Newberry, Nick Piazza, Caden Romero, Isabella Serrano, Isaac Simmons, and Kaitlyn Wood.

Veenstra and Kimm engineering firm unveiled a streetscaping project for Long Grove. The plan included decorative elements, and well as underground utilities improvements. A public forum was scheduled for August to discuss the ideas.

The First Street and LeClaire Road intersection-widening project got under way. Project engineer Greg Schaapveld said the plan was to close the intersection once school was dismissed for the summer. The project would also close the intersection at LeClaire Road and Second Street, though access would remain to businesses on this section of road. Schaapveld said Valley Construction told him the work would be done by late fall, with sidewalks and grass seed to be installed in the spring of 2023.

The North Scott boys' soccer team's season came to a somewhat controversial end with a 1-0 loss to Iowa City Liberty in the substate semifinal. The game was played with just two referees, instead of the standard three. Coach Troy Bendickson said after the game that many penalties had been missed. However, "My guys played incredible," he added.

The North Scott Educational Foundation awarded graduating seniors 90 scholarships totaling $127,000. New scholarships included the $1,000 Jim and Linda Tank Family Scholarship, the $1,000 Trudy K. Sleep-Schockey Memorial Scholarship, and the $500 Arnold Lindaman Memorial Scholarship.

Scott Carter poses on old U.S. 67, a road he patrolled 40 years ago when he began his Princeton police career. He retired this year as Scott County's longest serving lawman.

June

Brian Carsten retired after 35 years in law enforcement. He had been serving as police chief in Princeton and McCausland, and a resource officer at Virgil Grissom Elementary. Carsten said he planned to remain on the Scott County Sheriff's reserve and possibly seek work in security.

The North Scott Student Built Home project hosted an open house at its latest home, built on Tom and Joni Dittmer's Grandview Farms property near Donahue.

The North Scott girls' soccer team qualified for the state tournament with a 6-1 win over Mount Vernon. They would subsequently bow out in the first round with a 3-1 loss to Waverly-Shell Rock.

Lauren Schroeder was crowned Scott County Pork Queen, following in the footsteps of her mom, Katie (Jacobson) Schroeder (1996), and aunts Kelly (Jacobson) Mixon (2000) and Sarah (Jacobson) Lawlor (1993).

The Eldridge City Council rezoned 45 acres south of Sheridan Meadows that would be redeveloped as Ivy Acres.

Jim and Jane Varcho were named grand marshals of the Long Grove Strawberry Festival parade.

Former Eldridge police officer Bobby Flaherty was named police chief in Blue Grass.

Lex Adkisson and Kendall Deutmeyer were named to the All-State Jazz Band. Adkisson was chosen as the guitarist, and Deutmeyer was first alternate on alto sax.

Scott County primary voters chose Democrats Jazmin Newton, Brinson Kinzer and Joseph Miller, and Republicans Ross Paustian, John Maxwell and Jean Dickson as candidates for Scott County Board of Supervisors in November's general election.

As of July 1, a new Iowa state law would allow all-terrain vehicles to travel on county gravel roads and the paved roads needed to get there. Scott County communities braced for an influx of ATVs, UTVs and golf carts on city streets.

The Eldridge City Council considered clarifying the speed limit near North Scott High School to 25 mph at all times, instead of the current "when children are present" guideline. Eldridge police chief Joe Sisler said the language was confusing to drivers, but council members argued for keeping the status quo.

Race director Scott Hoag reported a new record number of runners in the Strawberry Stampede, with 398 participants in the quarter- and one-mile runs. Zach Carney of Eldridge and Izzy Danler of Delmar won the mile, and Aviana Abdon of Long Grove and Will Danler of Eldridge took the quarter-mile. The youngest entrant ever, 27-day-old Madelyn McCubbin of Davenport, joined her family for the run.

Countryside Community Theatre presented "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat." Cast members included Tommy Ratkiewicz-Stierwalt, Kristin Sindelar, Hillary Erb, and a 29-member youth chorus with children from across the Quad Cities.

Fair Oaks Foods planned to build a 150,000-square-foot meat processing plant in the Eastern Iowa Industrial Center. The proposed plant would employ 247 workers.

Eldridge resident Heath Christians purchased Rustic Ridge Golf Course from Kevin and Sandy Wohlford, becoming just the fourth owner of the nine-hole course.

Sal and Jessica Castaneda opened The Granary coffee house and brewery on First Street in Eldridge.

Tony Sacco's restaurant in Eldridge closed after 18 months in business.

John and Dianna Romanick of rural Scott County were hard at work with their Bridgehouse Cider company, one of only six hard cider producers in the state. The Romanicks had expanded their orchard to nearly 1,000 trees.

Thirty-eight descendants of William "Buffalo Bill" Cody visited their ancestor's museum in LeClaire as part of the International Cody Family Association's biennial reunion.

Cody family descendants gather June 30 on the steps of Buffalo Bill's LeClaire homestead.

North Scott YMCA donors got a sneak peek of the fitness center under construction in Eldridge.

Scott County supervisors awarded 1-percent bonuses to 425 full-time and 24 part-time workers and added a floating holiday. The bonuses totaling $400,000 rewarded and retained staff for work during the pandemic. The extra holiday is the 12th paid holiday each year for county employees.

Supervisors approved 14 new county positions, including 11 in the sheriff's department. That brings county employment to 533 full-time equivalency posi-

Collin and Stephanie Telsrow broke ground on the Rolling Meadows Event Center 601 S. 16th Ave. The couple operated the rental business in Davenport, and plan a 10,000-square-foot event center.

The National Newspaper Association named The North Scott Press best nationwide for local news coverage among weekly papers. The NSP's Scott Campbell won best sports feature, and publisher emeritus Bill Tubbs won for best serious column.

Evie and Brandt Kammerer opened Tropical Sno treat trailer in Eldridge. They launched the business with their parents, Jim and Kara Kemmerer, as a summer job.

North Scott and Clinton baseball teams and fans stood to salute veterans July 1 at Lancer Field. Ceremonial first pitcher Vince Ehrecke hugged grandson Ryan Campbell at the mound.

Eastern Iowa Community College welcomed Dr. Sonya Williams as chancellor, succeeding Don Doucette, who retired.

Scott County Republican supervisors voted down Democratic supervisor Brinson Kinzer's request to pay prevailing, union-level wages for builders of the juvenile detention center.

"Field of Dreams" was the Walcott Day theme for the annual festival that included games, a cherry pie contest, bags, and the epic outhouse race. Chloe Devlin was named Walcott Day queen, and Teagan Bruns was princess. The pie contest drew 367 entries, which were auctioned to raise $17,600.

Eldridge residents were calling city hall about rising electric utility rates. Electric superintendent Jake Rowe said he expects more rate hikes.

Some Eldridge residents were using the bike trail to bypass detours around the First Street and LeClaire Road construction. Police chief Joe Sisler warns of reckless driving arrests if it keeps up.

Supervisors enacted the county's first lighting code, regulating the angle and intensity of commercial lighting outside of town limits.

The Walcott Truckers Jamboree returned for a 43rd year at the World's Largest Truck stop.

Organizers of Eldridge's veterans' car show presented a $1,500 check to Eldridge police. The funds were raised July 13 at the car show in Sheridan Meadows park.

Devin Allbaugh of Davenport was men's winner, and Rowan Boulter of Iowa City was best of the women in the Moonlight Chase. Kenzie Meyer and Connor Mullen won the one-miler.

An upset loss to Bettendorf ended North Scott baseball's state tournament hopes. The finish didn't fully reflect the boys' 24-16 season. "Baseball is an unfair game," co-coach Brad Ward said. Lancer football and wrestling standout Ryan Campbell made the Iowa baseball all-state first team. Senior Cody Sunny was a second-team selection, and senior Sam Skarich made third team.

North Scott school board members agreed to ask voters to borrow $45 million from future property and sales taxes for a new regional vocational center, stadium upgrades, and improvements to Shepard, Armstrong, the junior high and high school tennis

Eldridge's First Street speed limit dropped to 25 mph. 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. The council approved a change that removes the "when children are present" school warning, and replaces it with fixed hours.

Iowa land prices jumped 15 percent in six months, according to the Iowa Appraisal firm.

The Iowa Utilities Board scheduled the first public hearings on Wolf Carbon Solutions' plan to run a carbon waste pipeline across Iowa and through Scott County. A hearing was required before the company could negotiate with private landowners.

Lancer softball pitcher Maddy McDermott's onehit gem on July 12, lifted the team over Maquoketa 5-0 and into the state tournament. On July 18, the seventh-seeded Lancers upset No. 2, ADM. The girls finished third among 4A schools. McDermott and outfielder Carley Bredar were named first-team all conference, and earned second-team honors at state.

Scott County supporters sent $2,135 in contributions to North Scott class of 1986 alumnus Kari Lake, and her campaign for Arizona governor. Lake and most of her eight siblings attended North Scott, where her dad, Larry was a coach and teacher. Classmate Tim Lane, now Scott County sheriff, was among her contributors. Lake lost the November election.

Moonlight Chase winners Rowan Boulter, of Iowa City, and Devin Allbaugh, of Davenport.

NSP contributor Phil Roberts was inducted into the Jackson County Speedway Hall of Fame for his years covering and announcing local races.

Retired Princeton deputy clerk Patty Morgan led the town's annual parade July 23 as grand marshal.

August

Eldridge deputy police chief Andrew Lellig launched a fundraising campaign for a police dog. He estimated $34,252 start-up costs for the animal, training and equipment.

North Scott Chamber of Commerce's auction of hometown experiences, provided by local businesses, made young Henry Chase a police officer for a day. He suited up with Eldridge officers, who arranged a suspect chase and take down at Sheridan Meadows park.

Scott County law enforcement officers conducted active shooter training at the high school, July 26.

Jim and Nancy Gruber hosted the Oscar Mayer Wienermobile at their Eldridge home during the Moonlight Chase.

Seventeen kids ages 7 through 13 enjoyed Eldridge parks pickleball camp.

Lancer volleyballer Emma Schermerhorn spent her summer with the Iowa Select Volleyball Club Mizuno team that won the USA Volleyball national championship in Indianapolis.

Scott County's riverfront towns braced for a Canadian Pacific rail merger that would triple train traffic. Dana and Dave Nichols' Princeton home is within yards of the track. Their town's mayor and council formally objected to the merger. The railroad offered Davenport $10 million, Bettendorf $3 million and Muscatine $3 million not to oppose the merger.

Eldridge and North Scott school leaders moved the new YMCA opening from October to December. Material and labor shortages caused the delay.

Eldridge police filled Sheridan Meadows Park Aug. 2 for a Night Out celebration that chief Joe Sisler said will become an annual event. The event ended with fireworks unused from the city's 2021 sesquicentennial.

The NSP published its 50th annual Mississippi Valley Fair 4-H and FFA exhibitor results.

Eldridge council members backed a $175,000 settlement with fired city administrator Lisa Kotter. She agreed not to sue the city for wrongful termination.

The council promoted Tony Rupe to Eldridge city administrator. Rupe, of Long Grove, was sewer plant operator when Kotter promoted him to assistant city administrator earlier this year.

Tony and Joyce Singh were among rural LeClaire property owners who said herbicide drift is damaging their oak trees. Former Iowa State University researcher Jesse Randall said his research confirm widespread oak damage across Iowa.

North Scott High School hosted 60 regional educators and first responders Aug. 11 for a shooting response drill.

Shane Bostrom, 35, of Eldridge, pleaded guilty Aug. 11 to a reduced charged of second-degree murder for the June 10, 2021 shooting death of his wife, Jessica Bostrom at their West Davenport Street home. He received a 50-year prison term.

A $3.2 million overhaul of Walcott's East Lincoln Street, from Main Street to Blue Grass Road was under way. The project includes storm sewers and adds a sidewalk to Walcott Elementary.

Scott County board chairman Ken Beck urged supervisors to formally oppose the Canadian Pacific railroad merger that will increase the county's riverfront train traffic.

Scott County supervisors approved new regulations that block utility-scale solar generation that's cropping up across the state. Supervisors voted to allow it only on the least productive land, generally along the Wapsi River. Clinton, Cedar and other county board voted to welcome the utility investment.

Supervisors approved $5,000 signing bonuses for deputies, and double overtime for jailers required to work more than four overtime hours.

Retired Princeton deputy clerk Patty Morgan was grand marshal of the Princeton summerfest parade.

1986 North Scott High School graduate Kari Lake lost her bid for Arizona governor.

North Scott's returning students filled third-grade classrooms, limiting open enrollment from outside of the district.

On Aug. 25, Scott County sheriff Tim Lane swore in new deputies Clinton Law, Jeremy Johannes and Kobe Ahrens. Johannes' wife, Samantha, became a Scott County deputy last year.

September

A team from Carbon Wolf Solutions took questions from 19 at an Aug. 30 public hearing in Davenport that was required before the company could launch negotiations for pipeline easements. The lowa Utilities Board later required Carbon Wolf to hold a second hearing, Dec. 7, because not enough county residents had been notified.

All property owners who spoke asked about safety, and the use of Iowa law allowing the company to seek court orders to secure a route. Quad City Chamber of Commerce representative Olivia Warren, and Clinton ADM plant manager Eric Fasnacht spoke in support.

Long Grove residents asked council members to slim down a $3.87 million makeover of First Street. The council trimmed much of the decorative lighting, stamped concrete crosswalks, and a retaining wall. Bidding is set for early 2023 for new sewer, water, and underground electric lines, a paved trail and new payement.

North Scott Fire Explorers led a 2,200-step stair climb in Lancer Stadium as a 9/11 remembrance. The distance covers the steps to the top of the 110-story World Trade Center tower. Post 9343 members honored the 343 firefighters who died that day.

Ryan Windmiller's Ivy Acres added 193 new home lots to Eldridge. Council members approved a preliminary plat Sept. 6, and the company broke ground in October on 43 acres between East Franklin Street and Sheridan Meadows park. The project includes three apartment buildings with parking for 140 vehicles. Eldridge council approved more than 200 new home plats this year.

North Scott schools honored retiree Suzette Harper and 10 others at the start of the school year. Harper retired from the junior high after 45 years; John Hawley, junior high principal, 34 years; Dave Koranda, math teacher, 33 years; Chris Lee, White Elementary custodian, 29 years; Deb Heidgerken, bus driver, 27 years; Stephanie Dougherty, Shepard Elementary special ed teacher, 22 years; Rebecca Edmundson, high school health, 22 years; Rita Butlett, junior high reading specialist, 19 years; Susan Stephans, junior high special ed teacher, 17 years; Robin Bell, White Elementary custodian, 16 years; Gara Lee Hundley, White Elementary secretary/office aide, 15 years.

North Scott volleyball teams took a Sept. 10 win over No. 1 Cedar Rapids Xavier. The Lancers went five for five at their home tournament to upset the top 4A team.

Texan Daniel Reese experienced a warm welcome as successor to retiring Cornerstone Baptist Church pastor Scott Pearson, who plans to retire after 28 years. Reese said a calling his freshman year in college led him to ministry, launching churches in Texas and Ohio.

Scott County supervisors on Sept. 15 cast their final vote against utility-scale solar panels in most of the rural county. The new zoning ordinance forbids panel farms on private ground with a history of high corn and soybean yields. Land owners still may install enough panels to power their own homes and businesses

Walcott residents rallied in opposition to Davenport school district's consideration of closing the town's elementary school. In December, the Davenport school board closed three Davenport schools, and left Walcott open.

Seventy-percent of North Scott school district voters backed a $25 million building loan. Just over 1,700 voters participated in a referendum to fund about half of a $45 million building plan. The rest will be borrowed and repaid with future sales tax revenue.

No one was injured when Jerry Coussens crash landed his home-built, two-seat airplane Sept. 17 near 145th Avenue and West LeClaire Road. He and a passenger walked away from the field less than a mile from the Davenport Municipal Airport.

Scott County supervisors decided to use savings, not federal pandemic aid, to help pay for a new juvenile detention center. Most supervisors had considered the center to be eligible for funds, despite complaints from supervisor Ken Croken. On Sept. 15, chairman Ken Beck said pandemic funds would not be used.

Dan and Nancy Urmie were inducted into the Iowa 4-H Hall of Fame for their outstanding service and dedication to 4-H. The nomination letter commended their work in poultry competitions, and working with young people. "Dan and Nancy are the kind of volunteers every county wants to have."

Eldridge fire chief Keith Schneckloth was looking for the department's first full-time, paid firefighter. In an Aug. 15 pitch to council, he outlined a proposal for a paid administrator to handle duties he and other volunteers tackle on off hours, including training, inspections, and grant writing.

Claudia O'Connor and Alex Perez opened Park View Café at 10 Lincoln Ave., in Park View. The couple from central Illinois moved to Eldridge and transformed the old Dairy Queen into a homey, family restaurant.

Cidney Hoerner and her boxer, Cloee, turned heads on the Eldridge trail. Hoerner fashioned a two-wheeled scooter that keeps Cloee rolling despite two bad rear legs.

North Scott's Sept. 30, 2022 homecoming theme was "Bury Burlington," and the Lancers came through 46-7. The game capped a week of activities, parade and crowning of queen Natalie Knepper and king Seth Madden. Homecoming court included Natalie Naber, Paige Copp, Cora O'Neill, Cella Hanssen, Lex Adkisson, David Borchers, Nate Schneckloth, and Dylan Marti.

October

North Scott trades companies contributed $50,000 in materials and services to the student-built home project, coordinator James Simmons told school board members Oct. 10.

North Scott school board members formally opposed the Wolf Carbon Solutions pipeline. The board sent a letter of opposition to the Iowa Utilities Board, critical of the plan that runs a pipeline within two miles of four elementary schools.

M. Chance Berger was named director of the new North Scott YMCA. Berger was managing the North and West YMCAs in Davenport.

Eldridge's Bruce Builders won the $22.2 million bid to build Scott County's next juvenile detention center. It's the biggest project yet for the year-old firm founded by Bill Bruce.

Tavian Greenwood's first watermelon patch yielded melons as big as him. The son of Kent and Z Greenwood harvested 19 melons, including a 50-pounder from the family's Eldridge backyard.

Nineteen-year-old Maddie Russo's pancreatic cancer diagnosis rocked her world, launching a treatment regimen aided by Ohl Strong Foundation. In the Oct. 19 NSP, Russo, Tad Robison and Wayne Brimeyer shared stories of their treatments and support from the Ohl Foundation.

Long Grove council members joined elected leaders formally opposed to the Wolf Carbon Solutions pipeline.

Members of North Scott schools' new cycling club planned to extend an off-road trail parallel to Eldridge's paved trail along south First Street.

Eldridge council members voted Oct. 17 for a special state audit due to a confidential personnel matter. The audit followed four closed sessions in the past month.

Princeton council members turned down Canadian Pacific railroad's offer of $100,000 for the city's support of the railroad's planned merger. Area industry leaders, including SSAB, LyondellBasell chemicals in Clinton, and the National Grain and Feed Association, sent letters supporting the railroad merger.

Eldridge Lions Club presented a $1,000 check to the North Scott Community Enhancement Project. That group helped teenagers lead a renovation of the basketball courts at Centennial Park.

North Scott football's Oct. 14 win over Fort Madison guaranteed a 15th straight post-season appearance.

Eldridge council members on Oct. 24 suspended city clerk Denise Benson for misusing city credit cards. City administrator Tony Rupe asked for a state audit. County attorney Mike Walton requested a sheriff's investigation.

George and Patty McCord wrapped up 28 years of ministry at the Living Church of Jesus Christ, 208 S. Fifth St., Eldridge. North Scott schools bought the church and home directly west of White Elementary for $500,000. The district had no immediate plans for the property, which is just two blocks north of the junior high.

Lancer Productions opened its season with "The Play That Goes Wrong."

The World's Largest Truckstop in Walcott planned a 225,000-square-foot warehouse that will employ up to 250 people. The truck stop will use about 100,000 square feet, and lease the rest.

Nik Davis became the third Lancer cross country runner to make the state meet since 2005. He finished 85th. Peyton Madison placed 77th and Kaitlyn Knoche, 86th among the 4A competitors.

Adam and Andrea Baetke expanded their Baekte Custom Cuts meat processing operation in Long Grove. A federal grant helped expand their processing area, and get certification for interstate sales.

November

Jeff Martens was named Eldridge assistant city administrator. Martens served as NSP ad manager many years. He succeeded James Martin, who became Scott County deputy auditor in July 2021.

Princeton police officer Scott Carter retired after 40 years of part-time patrol duty at the riverfront community. That tenure made him the longest serving active-duty officer until his retirement.

Donahue resident Grant Polzin's theatrical work is part of a documentary, "I Am Able," that premiered Nov. 2 at the Putnam Museum. The film follows Grant and other participants in The Penguin Project, which provides stage play and musical experiences for special needs children and adults.

Central Scott Telephone Co., CEO Donn Wilmott announced his retirement. The 62-year-old led the company into the digital age, and launched fiber upgrades to every customer. He also served on the school board, where he led the North Scott YMCA effort.

Brendan Handley, of Eldridge, won his age group's Iowa State BMX championship. He's the son of Cassie Handley and Stuart Handley. Eldridge resident Dane Dimmer placed fifth in his age group.

Carlee Wolf, Leah Patton and Hannah Nelson were the last North Scott athletes competing for Pleasant Valley. The swimmers signed up for the final season before North Scott launches its own team at the YMCA pool in Eldridge.

Junior high student Ryan Squires became the first North Scott national FFA science fair winner. Squires' project on carbon sequestration was judged best among junior high competitors in Indianapolis.

Walcott American Legion members and supporters cheered the presentation of three new veteran statues on Veterans Day. The Legion launched a new squadron group for those who never served. That's the group that pushed the $25,000 fund drive for the statues that represent men and women who served, and another statue for "those who made sure no one was left behind."

An all-Eldridge team of therapists opened Rock Valley Physical Therapy's new office at 110 N. First St. Therapists Kerri Hurning and Katelyn Warner, and office manager Laura Tofanelli all live in Eldridge.

Lancer football advanced to the Class 4A final four with a Nov. 4 upset win over the Waverly-Shell Rock Go-Hawks. North Scott lost to unbeaten Cedar Rapids Xavier in the semi-finals, to finish 9-3 on the year.

Lancer volleyballers wrapped up 2022 with an agonizing 4A tournament loss Nov. 3 to Clear-Creek Amana.

Dixon volunteer firefighter Kevin Flynn spent the summer of 2022 fighting Alaskan wildfires. Flynn worked on a cutting crew, clearing fire lines at sites he reached by helicopter. He shared his story with NSP readers in the Nov. 8 Country Connection.

Scott County voters elected Republicans to almost every post on the Nov. 8 ballot. Republicans Ross Paustian and Jean Dickson won county supervisor seats, defeating a slate of Democrats, including two-term incumbent, Brinson Kinzer. Democrat Rita Vargas retained her county auditor spot, one of the few Democrats to prevail in the county.

The lowa Secretary of State ordered a recount of absentee ballots, and a recount of a Davenport precinct that reported election day problems.

Eldridge United Methodist Church members celebrated their 50th anniversary Nov. 20 with a community breakfast, special service and catered lunch.

North Scott fire explorers walk Lancer Stadium steps for a 9/11 memorial honoring firefighters who died climbing the World Trade Center steps.

TCC Materials opened its regional wholesale distribution center at 600 Slopertown Road. The Minnesotabased firm produces and distributes rock, gravel and cement mixes for commercial use, and retail sale at Menards and other big-box stores. The firm got special FFA clearance for their 148-foot tower north of Davenport municipal airport.

A school-record 25 Lancers earned all-state choir honors. Tenor Peter LaCorte, soprano Cora O'Neill and alto Anna Sophia Council returned for their third all-state appearances.

Credit a team of Eldridge kids for spearheading upgrades to the Centennial Park basketball courts. The kids, working through the North Scott Civic Group and park board, helped launch a $45,000 fund drive. The kids included Gage Wagner, Jacob Link, Ben Peters, Tristan Hoyt, Zane Rus, Tyler Hoyt and Jack Schermerhorn.

A Nov. 14 fire killed 2-year-old Cody Dilley Jr., at Walcott Estates mobile home park. Walcott police and firefighters found the boy in a back room. His parents and five siblings escaped.

North Scott FFA students harvested corn and beans on fields just west of Hillendale Road. The district bused hundreds of students to the site to watch the FFA demonstration.

FFA members Evelyn Bauer, Chloe Engelbrecht, Grace Bjustrom, Abbie Lafrenz, Cole Claussen and Ceandra Staub earned American FFA degrees, the highest honor bestowed by the national FFA.

Lancer cheerleaders finished third in Class 4A competition.

Grissom fifth-grader Kinley Albrecht was named national Children's Miracle Network 2023 champion. Kinley's five-year battle with leukemia made her familiar with the network, which supports families in treatment. Now her face will be on the network's promotional materials across Iowa.

Eldridge native Erin Gentz became The North Scott Press editor, succeeding Scott Campbell, who retires at year's end. Gentz is a 2001 Lancer alumna who has managed legal and public notices, ad design, family news and other NSP functions since 2013.

Ross Shinberg joined The NSP staff as sports reporter. The Virginia native earned his master's in journalism at Northwestern University.

John and Joan Maxwell, and Amy Nelson, of Donahue, launched a drive against the Wolf Carbon Solutions pipeline planned to run across Scott County. The trio hosted a meeting at North Scott High School auditorium urging about 100 residents to send letters opposing the pipeline to the Iowa Utilities Board.

St. Ann's Knights of Columbus shared $24,000 generated through a Tootsie Roll Drive and an annual golf outing. The golf outing raised $18,000 – the most ever – for the North Scott food pantry. The Tootsie Roll drive funds were given to the special needs programs at the high school, junior high, elementary schools, and East Area Special Olympics.

Republican Luana Stoltenberg won the third and last recount of Iowa House District 81, a Davenport district with Slopertown Road as a northern border. Democrat Craig Cooper was declared winner on election night, and again after an initial absentee recount. Stoltenberg requested a district-wide recount that gave here an 11-vote victory.

More supplier donations continued to cut costs for North Scott's student-built home in Eldridge. ABC Supply, Raynor Door and QC Cabinetry added discounts and donations to their contracts for the home. The students used a warm November day to join roofing contractor Peter Kipper on the roof.

Sophomore volleyball player Abbey Hayes was named to Iowa Girls Coaches Association Class 4A honor squad.

Dave McLaughlin began his first season as Lancer basketball coach, succeeding Shamus Budde, who resigned.

North Scott school board members voted Mark Pratt as board chairman, succeeding Joni Dittmer, who declined to seek the chairmanship.

Scott County mourned Phil Roberts, a journalist familiar to NSP readers, WOC listeners, and anyone who attended a eastern Iowa race track. Phil served on the Mississippi Valley Fair board of directors, and was admitted to the Iowa racing Hall of Fame as an announcer.

December

The North Scott YMCA opened Dec. 3, realizing a decade-old dream of having a competitive pool in Eldridge. Voters in North Scott school district and the city of Eldridge overwhelmingly backed referenda that allowed the school and city to borrow against future tax proceeds, and open the Y this year.

North Scott's Silver Shakers earned their second straight Pom championship at state 4A competition in Ames. Carolyn Keppy earned a class 9 championship with her individual routine.

Eldridge Recreation and Fitness Center closed after 40 years. Original members Jan Goettsch and Lori Rochau say they plan to join the new YMCA. Eldridge council members got an $800,000 appraisal on the center, and voted to sell it.

Shepard Elementary debuted a school-wide communications and camera system intended to improve education and safety. The $253,818 system includes monitors on lanyards that teachers can use to amplify their voices, alert the office, and activate classroom cameras. The district plans for similar systems across the district.

A $1 million state grant will help fund North Scott school district's agriculture and vocational center planned on south First Street. The Iowa Department of Education provided the grant through federal dollars aimed at vocational development.

Lancer Fellowship of Christian Athletes wrapped 150 boxes with gifts for children overseas.

An NSP analysis of three years of city credit card records totaled $17,773 in Amazon orders from fired clerk Denise Benson. The records released by the city under Freedom of Information requests, detail hundreds of personal clothes, tools, toys and other purchases made on various city credit cards. Most were delivered to Benson's Long Grove home. A state auditor and sheriff's criminal investigation continue.

Three Eldridge alleys had new, permeable asphalt surfaces that channel stormwater. The alleys were funded with about half of a $1 million state grant that is funded through Eldridge residents' repayment of a state sewer plant loan. The rest of the grant paid for Hickory Creek bank restoration, and a new program to help residents improve their lawns.

Eldridge Lions Club presented a $1,000 check to North Scott Food Pantry.

School district staff and parents congratulated Jodi Bemrich on her retirement after 23 years at the high school. The Grissom Elementary student graduated NSHS in 1979. Among her many duties was staffing the attendance desk, monitoring absences. "Do you know how many times I've told students to quit calling in trying to disguise their voice?"

North Scott Rotary Rallies for Youth auction raised

Walcott Historical Society published a history of Scott County's one-room schools. "Country Schools Remembered," is available through the Society's Facebook page.
