Hardest part about being in cheer?

The hardest part about being in cheer would be time. You're constantly busy.

Being busy.

Consistency.

Separating cheer and my personal life.

You are constantly busy and always doing something.

Favorite part?

The best part is getting to encourage others.

Being a role model for kids. When we went

Being in front of the crowd and seeing them happy.

Being an inspiration to younger girls.

Being a part of everything in our community.

Favorite memory?

Cheering the Borger game this year.

to playoffs and stayed in hotel.

Football games and getting hyped with Harvey.

Seeing my name on the list my first year.

Going to the playoffs my JV year and staying in the hotel.

Advice for younger cheerleaders or those interested?

Never give up no matter how stressful it is despite the attitudes of others.

No matter what happens, stay positive and see the good in everything. Everything happens for a reason.

Be confident and go all out, all the time.

Never give up, no matter what people say or how hard it gets.

Keep going, never give up, always smile.

Favorite dessert?

The best sugar cookies with icing.

Chocolate-chip cookies.

Ice cream, chocolate cake and cheesecake.

Rocky Road Ice Cream.

Cookies or ice cream.

Hardest part about being in cheer?

The most difficult part of being in cheer is the communication.

Staying positive when everyone around you is being negative.

Teacing and learning the dances.

Not being able to see my family as much as I'd like.

Favorite part?

When we get along.

Getting the whole crowd to start cheering really loud before scoring a touchdown.

Being there to support our Harvesters and being a favorite cheerleader for Jr. Cheerleaders.

Getting hyped with the girls.

Favorite memory?

Cheering with Kia.

First playoff game as a JV cheerleader and marching with the band at halftime all in the same night.

Playing Borger in boys basketball and having to go into overtime twice until Pampa won.

The talks I had with Mariah.

Advice for younger cheerleaders or those interested?

Be kind and take your own advice.

Stay positive and always be kind, work hard all of the time, even when it's hard.

Always remember to smile and live every moment to the fullest with love and respect.

Never EVER give up.

Favorite dessert?

Cheesecake.

Pineapple upside-down cake.

Ice cream.

My Momma's buttercake.

Meet the drum majors for Pride of Pampa Band: Korbin Cole and Kate Smith

By JOHN LEE

Korbin Cole and Kate Smith are the 2021-22 Pride of Pampa band drum majors, and are both juniors.

Since they are the first junior drum majors in a number of years, neither of the two were expecting to get the call to be drum majors. “It was kind of cool,” Smith said. “We weren’t really expecting it to be us two as juniors. But we both have a huge passion for music, love it and want to do something with the band program to help it grow a lot. For me personally, I really wanted to do something with the band program and was excited to be behind the scenes.”

Cole added there is a lot that goes into band production and he enjoys the leadership that goes into it.

“Not a lot of people see how much hard work goes into the band,” Cole said. “So when you’re able to get everyone’s feelings up front about how you can make everything better, it’s pretty nice. Knowing that we are trying to prolong a legacy is pretty amazing.

They both started at Pampa Junior High in sixth grade, and stuck with the band program. Smith plays clarinet, but she started playing piano at a young age.

“That (piano) was when I was introduced into music,” Smith said. “Ultimately, voice is kind of my passion. I love singing, music theater and it’s what I’m good at. That’s kind of my thing, but I do love band.”

Cole plays trombone, but started playing guitar and bass in fourth/fifth grade. Now, he is learning euphonium.

Smith’s favorite memories have been going on the All-Region trips.

“Doing game nights with other people who make All-Region is very fun,” Smith said. “I have older brothers who have been on band trips, so I’ve gotten to go. They are super-fun. Band trips and all-region is fun.”

Cole’s favorite memory came from a specific trip to All-State.

“Concert etiquette states that you just sit there and be quiet,” Cole said. “But my friend had a banana and we all just passed the banana across the section. We ended up putting it on trumpet heads and on stands. We signed the banana and called it the ‘All-State Banana.’ By the end of the trip it was all black and gross. It was pretty funny.”

Smith’s parents are Lisa and Paul Smith. She has lived in Pampa her entire life and enjoys reading and music.

“I like to read a lot,” Smith said. “I sing and listen to music. I feel like I have music on all of the time. I love music theater and am always watching Broadway musicals and reading plays.”

Cole is the son of Amy Cole and has lived in Pampa since he was four years old. He enjoys arranging music.

“I don’t have a lot (of things I like) besides music,” Cole said. “I do a lot of arranging music (changing it’s format for band). Right now I’m working on an arrangement of ‘Can’t take my eyes off you’ by Frankie Valli, as a stand tune for the band.”
