After the wind storm last Friday, followed by rain, it was a wonderful Saturday and Sunday with blue skies, bright, warm sunshine and spring flowers. After no trimming or fertilizing my old yellow forsythia and red hawthorne bushes have burst out in color as I walked along my construction littered yard, there was the 55 year old redbud tree with the bright pink blooms shining in the spring-like sunshine. Old maple trees waiting to be cut withstood the strong winds and will be removed as soon as the wet ground allows. My friend, Mary Jo Johnson, called to tell me her son and wife, Tommy and Vickie Johnson, were her guests on Saturday. Tommy and Vickie live in Martin, Tenn. and were at his mother's to celebrate his birthday. Other guests of Mary Jo were her sisters Betty Miller of Savannah, and Wanda and Mike Calvert of Jackson. The group enjoyed a bountiful lunch at Twin Oaks restaurant before returning to Mary Jo's home on Central Street. Awaiting them there was a beautiful and tasty homemade strawberry cake served with fresh strawberries by Mary Jo in honor of her son's birthday. This family reminisced about growing up in Hardin County and the blessings of family gatherings, present and past. Gaye Gibbs accompanied members of the bell choir of First United Methodist Church to Memphis Friday and Saturday for a workshop on bell ringing. Bob Brown leads this group and arranged this learning experience for the choir. I am anxious to hear this group perform. My neighbors Ricky and Terrie Wilkerson visited me on my porch Sunday afternoon for a pleasant chat. Rick was able to get my cell phone working again. I am blessed with great neighbors all around me. Eureka Church is happy to have new people attend our Sunday worship. After a good sermon and the communion service, we gathered in the fellowship hall for a time of fellowship and food. Guests are always invited to attend our services. Sympathy to Alton and Vivian Browder and all the family of Will Browder, who passed away last week. May God bless and comfort this family. Happy 2nd birthday to my great granddaughter, Hanna Burns, of Chattanooga, on March 6. I am expecting Hanna and her sister, Mila, to visit Savannah next week with their mom, Emily and aunt Anna Nicholson. Dad Chris and uncle, Chandler plan to stay home to pet sit while the girls are here. I was blessed Friday with the overnight guests at my house. My grandson, Tyler Stanfill, and great grandsons, Owen and Mason Stanfill, spent their first night in my new-old remodeled house. Friday night the boys left video games long enough to play hide and seek in my closets. Saturday dawned sunny and dry as I insisted hide and seek be played outside. The boys were well behaved and a real joy to have visit. Jeff Gibbs, Shawn Davidson and several of their friends were in Greenville, S.C. last week to attend SEC Women's basketball tournament. Their favorite UT team won against LSU in the semi finals by 1 point. On Sunday, UT was defeated by University of South Carolina. I watched on TV and felt proud of our UT runner-up team in the SEC tournament. A quote from my Sunday

High winds caused some of our area to have downed trees and loss of electricity for a bit. Luckily, I haven't heard of anyone hurt or any major damage, so that's a blessing. As I type this column, I am waiting for the show "The Voice" to come on because former Counce resident Katie Beth Tennison Forakis is supposed to audition for it tonight. Good luck Katie Beth! We are still taking donations at Country Charm Florist for Hardin County Animal Services. They need dog and cat food, bleach, Dawn dish washing liquid, and laundry detergent. We had some wonderful people drop off things last week. Thank y'all so much. There aren't a lot of events going on right now, but as soon as I hear of anything y'all will be the first I tell. Prayer requests this week: the Will Browder family, Jan Parson, Danny Edwards, Neta Hardin, Billy Harbin, Johnny McAfee, Danny Roberts, Chris Lee, Beverly Dohogne, Juanita King, Jimmie Daniels and Johnny Odum. Winter was staging a blow-out last week. On Friday high winds and rain caused a lot of trees to fall on properties along the lakefront on Bruton Branch Road. I did not hear of any homes damaged, but on Sunday there looked like a lot of cleaning up was going on. Friday, before noon the storm winds were raging, and trees fell on power lines along Holiday Hills Lane in Counce. Many were without electricity for five hours. Pickwick Electric Cooperative crews showed up immediately and worked through the day until everyone's power was back on. We have a lot of trees on our property, as do the properties around us. Several pine trees fell on our property from the adjacent land. We scheduled the cleanup and are taking assessments of our own trees. Better safe than sorry, we may have a few taken out to avoid problems later. I love trees and nature, so we will be cautious about those we choose to take out. The lake is up to 415 feet and the dam is pumping at full speed. I saw large piles of logs and brush being pushed along by the waves on Pickwick Lake. Boaters need to be very cautious on the water this time of year. Being good to our environment is on the minds of many I have talked with over the last few years. Many I know use recyclable shopping bags. When I was traveling in Europe recently, one thing I encountered was no bags were used at the places I shopped. The store would calculate your purchase and ask if you wanted a bag. If I said yes, they charged me for a reusable bag. Aldi is the one place I shop regularly that requires buyers to bring or purchase their bags. When I shop in stores that bag my purchase in those plastic bags I choose not to use them. Using reusable bags is important. The average American shopper takes home an average of 1,500 plastic disposable shopping bags a year. No matter how crafty you are, you cannot come up with a use for that many bags. I read that the amount of energy to produce 12 bags would drive your car for 1 mile. What a waste. There are plastic bags that I use for my compost that degrade very quickly. They are also good to use for pet refuse when at the dog parks. Jan Mansel told me she purchased some small trash bags for the little trash cans around her home, like the bathroom and bedrooms. These would be much more environmentally friendly. It is time to clean out those birdbaths that have been sitting out in the winter weather. Mine was full of mold, so I used bleach to clean it up. I followed that up with a 1/4 cup sugar and a sponge to scrub it clean. Rinsed it with water until it was clear. The sugar is a good scrub, environmentally friendly, and neutralizes the chlorine. decided to attempt the record-breaking flight is because he believes it can be done. "The brainchild of trying to land in 48 states in 48 hours was actually another pilot's, who attempted the feat in 2021, but failed. When I heard about this, I wondered if this was actually feasible? So, I break out a flight planning app and start creating routes, and was like, damn, this can be done. After learning that it's not mission impossible, I was like, OK, let's do this, so, I started planning and created the nonprofit, 48N48, which morphed into promoting aviation for future pilots. "Additionally, any proceeds from funds raised through 48N48 will benefit Veterans Airlift Command, which gives veterans and their families free flights for medical care," explained Behnfeldt. There will also be another pilot to assist in flying the plane over the course of two days. "My co-pilot is Aaron Wilson. He is an Air Force veteran and he also has experience flying Saratoga planes, so it was easy to get him insured," Behnfeldt said with a chuckle. The current world record for flying and stopping in all 48 contiguous states is 16 days, while the National Aeronautic Association record is slightly over four days. "I am confident that we can do it in half the time of the current National Aeronautic Association record as long as the airplane keeps on chugging," Behnfeldt confidently stated. He also ensured that he and co-pilot Wilson will get adequate rest during the trip. "There are two pilots and one will be resting while the other one flies. In fact, I got permission from the FAA to remove two seats from the plane and build a platform for a mattress so everyone on the flight can get sleep when needed," Behnfeldt noted. He also said planning for the flight involves a lot of coordination with mostly smaller airports they need to stop at to complete the trip. "Sometimes we will be stopping at these airports when they are not normally open, but all of the airports we contacted were on board to accommodate us, and are almost as excited as we are for the trip. In fact, there is one guy in Minnesota who will have to drive four hours from his house to open the airport for us and he is happy to do it. He said he will bring us coffee and food because he is excited to be a part of this event." The flight plan for the cross-country journey is to depart on Sunday, June 4, at 11:20 p.m., from Andrews University Airpark in Berrien Springs, Michigan. They will be heading west to avoid flying over the western U.S. mountains at night. If everything goes as planned, the flight crew will travel through Texas and Oklahoma and the flatter great plain states when the sun sets on June 5. The flight will continue through the southern U.S. and along the East Coast to its final destination of Sanford Seacoast Regional Airport in Sanford, Maine, seven minutes after 3 p.m., on June 6. Barring any mechanical or weather issues, Behnfeldt estimates the trip will actually take almost 40 hours to complete. The estimate accounts for 10-minute stops at each airport, and five fuel stops, which will each take 20 minutes. "So, we have a bit of a cushion in terms of time, but I am not risking any unnecessary delays. I plan to idle at each stop, - not turning off the engine - as that can cut into our flight time. In fact, we will also have someone on board who will be responsible for opening the door, getting the affidavits we need signed for the record agencies, take some pictures and whatever else that may need to be done at a stop. I'm calling them our customer service and social media representative," said Behnfeldt. He added, "We picked early June for the flight as there should be less of a chance for bad weather. We also have contingency plans in case we cannot take off on the date and time planned. The latest we can leave from our take-off spot is 2 a.m. Any later, then we would be flying over mountains after sunset, and we do not want to be flying over the mountains in the dark. I also coordinated with all the airports to be prepared for us to take off a day or two later than planned, but we would absolutely need to start the trip on Wednesday, June 7, for this to work." Twiddy said he is excited for the spring trip. "I can't wait. It's going to be a lot of fun and I am really looking forward to it," he said. Behnfeldt echoed that sentiment. "I wish we could go tomorrow. I am ready and confident that when we do take off it is going to be a fun and record-breaking trip." The entire flight will be viewable online at FlightAware.com, a major flight-tracking platform. There will be two coordinators throughout the trip at Henry Airport in Ohio to help navigate the flight's route. Visit 48N48.org or the organization's Facebook page to keep up to date on the mission to break a world record.

I am glad to report our good attendance at church Sunday. We were glad to have our visitors and hope they will come again soon. Everyone enjoyed Annslee's special, she sang "How Great Thou Art." She did a great job. Alice Whitlow and Gayle Williams were in Columbia last week to visit their brother Neal Jeter who is in Maury Regional Hospital. We send him our prayers and get well wishes. Alice Whitlow, Aliza and Pat Franks attended the pancake breakfast at the Sheltering Tree one morning last week.

Colton, Ashley, Witt Franks, and Cory and Hooper Franks were in Tupelo on Saturday to attend the monster truck event. They all had a great time. Lucille Lard enjoyed her birthday last week on Thursday. Janice Reid, Evelyn Blankenship, and Dorothy Kyle took food and balloons and surprised her at her house. They had a great time. Then on Sunday, her family prepared a meal for her, she didn't have to do anything. T hose present were Doctor Jan Comwell, Kim Collins, Chris and Jill Vinson, Graylee and Willa Jane, they all had a great time and enjoyed the good food. Ron and Kaye Cozart from Murfreesboro, Tenn. visited with me on Friday. They stopped in Savannah and got some sandwiches, we had lunch together and enjoyed their visit very much. They were in town for the funeral of Jimmy Earl Robinson, we send our prayers, love, and sympathy to all the family. Don't forget to run your clocks up this weekend. They say daylight savings time starts Saturday. I don't like it changing all the time, I wish they would let it stay one way.
