The storms that brought tornadoes to Hardin and surrounding counties Friday night will take time to recover from for many people.

It has been heartwarming to see folks coming together to provide food, shelter, and clothing for many who have been displaced. There is still a lot of love in the world with much of that close to home.

I went to Stantonville, Tennessee to visit the Amish farms and procure vegetable plants for my raised beds. I was able to get a variety of vegetable plants and enough good weather to get them all planted. Now for the fun part – watching them grow and produce.

The Savannah Farmers Market opens this week. It's a great opportunity to support our local growers. Mark it on your calendar to go weekly and enjoy buying locally grown fruit and vegetables, honey from local beekeepers, as well as other foods produced locally.

David Barnes and I sincerely enjoyed the quilt exhibit held at the Hardin County Library last week. The homemade quilts were beautifully displayed, and each bore a tag that explained the maker, history, and name of the quilt.

Some quilts were hand stitched, machine sewn, and even embroidered. While I wandered from table to table I was asked if I knew the other name for French knots.

One of the quilts was beautifully done with French knots embroidered on each fabric block. I did not know at the time, but have found from other sources that Colonial knots is another name for French knots. However, they are a little different.

Colonial knots are a bit smaller than French knots. French knots tend to topple over and look lopsided if you twist the embroidery floss around the needle too many times. Colonial knots tend to sit on the fabric more neatly and evenly. Congratulations to the winner of the drawing, Mary Merriman, who received a beautiful Dresden quilt.

I met a group of talented ladies at Espresso Yourself coffee shop in Counce.

Kandi Petersen, Jennifer Stermer and Danita Bell were sitting in a group, enjoying coffee concoctions, and crocheting on separate projects. Kandi is considered the guru of the group. They meet every Monday at 11 a.m. at the Well, we sure did have a bad weekend. With all the storms and Tornadoes, so many people were hit, homes torn up, and lives lost. We pray for them all, also the people helping them restore. I think it is so great these towns that have storm shelters to go to. I wish Savannah had one, if I was building a house, I would build a basement under it.

We had a good attendance at Church on Sunday. We were glad to have our visitors Sunday. This Sunday will be Easter Sunday, the children are planning a bell choir special, also Annslee Cooksey will be singing "Where the Roses Never Fade." They are also planning an egg hunt and there will be plenty of eggs for everyone, just come and be with us if you can.

Janet Franks, Karla Cossey, and Alice Whitlow attended the passion play 2023 at Florence First Assembly in Florence, Ala. last week. They enjoyed it very much.

Fred Webb, Janice and James Smith, Hunter, Autumn, and Harper Webb, and Cleathia Finley attended the 100th birthday celebration for, Bertha Webb, in Florence, Ala. on Saturday along with a crowd of family and friends. They had a wonderful time.

Alice Whitlow and Gayle Williams met Kimberly Williams at the Outpost on Friday and enjoyed lunch together.

My sister, Adeline Casteel, at Savannah Health enjoyed her 97th birthday last Tuesday, March 28. Her daughter, Brenda baked her a big strawberry cake, Brenda and her husband Larry were there. Adeline's granddaughter, Tanya Rich, came by and picked me up. She was so glad to get to see several other friends and employees who came by to wish her a happy birthday and enjoy a piece of cake. We all enjoyed it very much.

I had a few friends stop by last week to say hello. My neighbor, Helen Cope, she does so many things to help me, I can't thank her enough. Others were Sarah White, also Evelyn Blankship and Janice Reid came by, they showed me a beautiful quilt Evelyn had made and also brought me a piece of cake. It was as good as the quilt was pretty.

They went from here down to Lucille Lard's to show her the quilt and take her some cake. I know she enjoyed it just like I did.

I wish everyone a happy Easter, just remember the day when Christ arose.

God bless us all.

Directions

Mix and make the box cake as directed on package, making 2 round 8 inch layers.

After baking, wrap the layers separately in plastic wrap. I wrapped it with two layers of plastic wrap while warming. Put these in the freezer.

Next, create the margarita layer, mix cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Add Cool whip, tequila and lime juice and mix until smooth.

Pour this into a spring-form pan and smooth the top. Place in freezer overnight.

The following day, remove the cream cheese layer from the spring-form pan and place it in between the layers of frozen cake. Make sure you remove the wrapping.

Now make the frosting by creaming together the room temperature cream cheese and butter until smooth and add powdered sugar. Add strawberries, tequila, and lime juice while mixing until blended. I add the liquids a little at a time to make sure it does not get too thin. You can add more powdered sugar to thicken. Then spread liberally over the cake. I like frosting the cake while frozen.

Serve and watch for the smiles.
